

Anderson's Intelligence
PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.
P. OLINGSOLES, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR.
WEDNESDAY SEPT. 7, 1892.
TERMS: ONE YEAR $1.50 SIX MONTHS .75
The practical certainty of Democratic success this fall has had a serious effect on the temper of the Republican press. The Democracy is having some hard things said about it, just now, but in view of the triumph that awaits it, it can stand it.

The week preceding the primary election South Carolina Brown consuls were notified at 10 to 11. Since the result of the primary was announced they have fallen to 20. The fall in State bonds since the election means a loss to the State of $150,000.

On the 1st inst. Secretary Hester, of the New Orleans cotton exchange, announced the total of the cotton crop for the year ending August 31, 1892. His figures show that the crop had increased to the amount of 5,015,579 bales, or 5,852,597 last year, and 7,211,372 the year before last.

The ceremonies attending the dedication of the new State buildings will take place Oct. 20, 21 and 22, 1892, at Chicago. The civic celebration occurs the first day; the 21st being "Dedication Day," and the military celebration takes place on the 22nd. These ceremonies will launch the Fair, and we hope the year will be a pleasant and prosperous one.

A peculiar legal interpretation has been placed upon the anti-secular liquor law by a Mississippi Judge. The code abolished bar scenes, and the umbrella is now being used as a substitute, but no judge charged the 31st Jury with the duty of making a man to screen himself by holding an open umbrella across his shoulder while taking a drink in a saloon.

Weaver, the Third Party candidate for President, said in a public speech a few years ago that the Southern people were guilty of treason, theft and murder, and instead of standing up boldly and asking for their national rights under this government they should come upon bandaged knees, begging forgiveness. No honest white man in the South can or will give his support to any such man.

It is believed that the Republicans of Arkansas will draw their gubernatorial candidates from the race and hurriedly instruct the Republican campaign managers throughout the State to vote their followers for the people's party candidate. Arkansas has not received such a thorough canvass from all political factions since the war as is now going on in the State. William M. Fishback, the Democratic standard bearer, will be elected by the usual majority of 25,000.

The Rev. J. P. Bolen, one of the most enterprising farmers of Orangeburg County, has made an experiment of tobacco culture this season which has proved a complete success. The first crop of tobacco was yielded about 500 pounds, which will bring from 20 to 50 cents per pound. He says the land was well adapted to cotton raising, and the fact that it will produce so large a quantity of the weed shows that good cotton land is the kind for tobacco culture.

The following are the total figures by which the State has gone for Prohibition, for the Convention of 1892. The vote of the voters that I am the best qualified man for the office is not true, and that I have refused to run on either ticket, preferring to make the race on my own terms for the office is not true. The leading men in the State are not true, and that I have refused to run on either ticket, preferring to make the race on my own terms for the office is not true.

The death of George William Curtis removes from political literature the ablest and most eloquent exponent of Civil Service Reform. He was a man of the broadest culture and a master of the English language. He was born in Rhode Island in 1824, but was from youth in New York. His eloquence stirred the Republican Convention in 1860. A few years later he became editor of Harper's Weekly, which he kept Republican until the Blaine-Cleveland campaign. He was a model type of "The Scholar in Politics."

While in Atlanta we had the pleasure and honor of meeting Hon. Hoke Smith, one of the most prominent and leading citizens of the Empire State. Col. Smith is the specimen of manhood, and is President of the Journal Publishing Company. He is a vigorous writer, and his paper-to-day ranks as one of the ablest, most progressive and influential in our whole country. Col. Smith is also President of the Board of Education of Atlanta, and by his wonderful energy and good judgment, has contrived to largely increase the income of the Board. He has an influence second to no man in Georgia, and that State should be and is proud of him.

The News and Courier's Annual Review of the Trade and Commerce of the State for the commercial year ending August 31, was published last Monday. The Review, as usual, contains full statistics of the movement of Charleston's trade in cotton, rice, naval stores, lumber, fertilizers and phosphates, and a complete summary of the wholesale and retail business of the grand old city in every department. Despite the general depression in business, the Commerce of the State makes a remarkable showing for Charleston. It takes big work to collect the statistics and other information contained in the Review and prepares them for publication, but the ever old reliable News and Courier is equal to any task it undertakes.

Section 3 of an Act to "Protect Primary Elections and Conventions of political parties," in this Legislature, passed at the session of the Legislature of 1888, reads as follows:

SUPPORT THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE.
The INTELLIGENCER does not regret that it opposed Gov. Tillman in the late campaign. The editors will know that in espousing the opposition to him and his methods that they were taking part with a minority against a strong and aggressive majority. In their opinion, however, it was not to the best interests of the people that Tillman should be re-elected, and therefore they did what they could to defeat him.

This opinion has not undergone a change, and we believe the great masses of the people will live to see that our views, the views of the Conservative party, were the safest and most liberal, and that it would have been best for the State if they could have triumphed at this time, as they surely will at some time in the future.

As to the result, however, we accept the result of the late primary in good faith, and will exert ourselves as vigorously to effect the election of the Democratic nominee in November as we did to defeat Gov. Tillman and his party within the last few months.

We have regarded the recent contest as a trial of strength between Democrats within the Democratic party, which was to be decided by a free ballot, and a fair count at a Democratic primary, and that the decision there reached was to be final. So believing, we yield to the wishes of the majority of the party as expressed by the ballots cast on the 20th.

Our opposition to Gov. Tillman and his cont-faction swingers has been construed by some as hostility to the interest of the farmers. To those who have read our paper without prejudice we need hardly say that such an assumption is unwarranted. For instance, Gov. Tillman advocates a $3.00 poll tax. We do not believe a majority of the farmers of the State are in favor of it, nor are they with him in desiring the repeal of the lien law and a property and educational qualification for voters.

THE THIRD PARTY SPECTRE.
With Remarks About the Purpose of the People's Party.
Hugh C. Middleton, in Augusta Chronicle, September 1.
Pass into South Carolina and talk and you will soon get a good understanding of the political situation there. Everybody talks politics in the State, and you go you will meet men of as many varied views and interests to know varied political tendencies—that is towards varied parties—almost as Joseph's coat and as many colors. Five years ago this was not the case. The Democratic party was as strong-footed then in South Carolina as the Blue Ridge mountains are at the State. To-day thousands of white South Carolinians are ready for any party.

Now let it be stated that a Third Party electoral ticket will be put in the field in South Carolina as soon as possible, within two weeks. This is not a bluff. I found this out yesterday in Columbia. This action is decided upon. The Republicans, chances are, will not vote for it. It is a ticket in an electoral ticket before November—indeed it is almost certain that they will do this. There is a large independent element in the State who are not attached to either of the above tickets. This comes from the Tillman opposition, a cut of which grew an independent movement and candidate for Governor in 1890. This movement is by no means dead. It is a ticket in an electoral ticket before November—indeed it is almost certain that they will do this. There is a large independent element in the State who are not attached to either of the above tickets.

—There are 3,000,000 marriageable young men in this country who seem to be in the very bloom of life, and there are about as many young women who are wondering what is the matter with the men.
