STATE LAWS AND DIVORCE. The Various Ground on which it is Grant

Anderson Intelligencer.

Chicago Herald Since it is impossible in many States to procure divorces except for very grave reasons, it becomes necessary for those who can no longer live together to seek some States where the least amount of time and the slightest causes will gain the desired decree. All the States and Territories except Georgia, Louisiana and Delaware specify the necessary length of time during which the plaintiff must have lived in the State in order to be able to bring an action for divorce. This period varies from ninety days for Datota to five years for Massachusetts. Time in these days often means a great deal of money, and that is why the Dakots divorces occupy so much attention at present, and it is solely for this reason that she has the advantage over a number of other States and Territories.

A six months' residence will entitle the plaintiff to sue for a divorce in Arizona, California. Idaho, Nebraska, Nevada. New Mexico, Texas and Wyoming. A large number of States fix the term at one year. The best of these are Colorado, Illinois, Kansas, Missouri, Montana, Oregon, Rhode Island, Washington and Wisconsin. Many of the States make the threat that the decree shall be invalid if the plaintiff removes there simply for the purpose of getting a divorce, but the State pays no further attention to him after the decree unless there is a vituperative defendant to follow him up. Even then it is difficult to get positive proof that he or she went to a certain State for the sole purpose of obtaining a divorce, since so many causes are constantly coming up - which lead to a change of mind. The successful plaintiff may move back because he could not dispose of his Eastern business; as he fancied, or the enterprise for which be left his native State may have failed to materialize; or parents may be sick and send for him to return. A fertile mind might be impelled to come back for a myriad of excellent reasons. When the plaintiff has selected the locality which suits him best he must not forget to take with him sufficient proof of his allega-the laws of that particular State.

deemed sufficient grounds. for divorce: martial infidelity, which will secure absolute divorce in every State and Territory except South Carolina, where divorce is not allowed for any reason; excessive cruelty, willful desertion and neglect and for habitual intemperance. The glorious climate of California is excellent alike for the body and for divorce. Absolute separation is granted there for one year's willful desertion, neglect, and for habitual intemperance. Extreme cruelty is also a cause. The Courts of Arizona grant a divorce for six month's intentional abandonment, for cruel treatment, habitual intemperance and neglect on the part of the husband to provide the necessaries of life for his wife. In Idaho a plaintiff may secure a divorce for extreme cruelty, desertion neglect and intemperance, continuing for one year. In Yebraska the sufficient causes for judicial separation are desertion for two years, habitual drunkenness, extreme cruelty and failure to provide for wife. Nevada severs the marriage tie for one year's desertion, for gross drunkenness, if contracted since marriage, for extreme cruelty and for a years neglect on the part of the husband to provide for his wife. New Mexico dissolves the mar riage partnership for cruel treatment. abandonment, habitual drunkenness, and husbands failure to provide. The Courts of Texas give a divorce for such ill treatment as renders married life unbearable and for three year's desertion. The laws of Wyoming declare a severance of the conjugal relation for one year's willful desertion, for extreme cruelty, habitual drunkenness, husband's neglect to provide for one year and for any treatment by the one which renders the life of the other intolerable. The above-mentioned States and Territories exhaust the list of those allowing a plaintiff to commence action after a six month's residence. Of course when plaintiffs remove to a distant State they always want an absolute divorce, not a imited one, which is a separation from bed and board only. It is well to note New Mexico, Texas and Wyoming never grant a limited divorce.

Among the States requiring one year's residence on the part of the plintiff are Washington, Colorado, Montana, Oregon, Illinois, Kansas, Missouri, Wisconsin and Rhode Island. Of these, Washington has been regarded as the banner State for the sensible view her Courts take of divorce. Sufficient causes are cruel treatment, personal iniquities, habitual drunkenness, refusal to provide, one year's abandonment, or any other cause seeming sufficient to the Court, and when the court is satisfied the parties can no longer live together. Colorado and Montana both grant divorces for one year's drunkennesss or desertion and extreme cruelty. The causes in Oregon are cruel and inhuman treatment, personal indignities rendering life a burden, and gross drunkenness contracted since marriage. In Illinois it is necessary for the plaintiff to show the existence of extreme and repeated cruelty, two year's desertion or habitual drunkenness for a like period of time. The laws of Kansas will give a divorce for habitual drunkenness, one year's abandonment, extreme cruelty, fraud in the marriage contract and gross neglect of agent for a fertilizer, and furnishes aristoduty. Missouri will grant separation for indignities rendering the life of the other intolerable, and for a year's desertion or drunkenness. Wisconsin has excellent laws, for they dissolve the bands of matrimony not only for a year's desertion or drunkenness and cruel and inhuman treatment, but also when the husband and wife have lived apart voluntarily for the space of five years. The statutes of Rhode Island call for five the mandening effect, the nauseating of the stomach, and the immediate intoxication that is always the result of the use of an inferior article. It is pleasant to the palate, has not that burning effect so common if other goods. It is strengthening, invigorating and mild, giving the bouyancy of youth to old age. It is stimulating to the overworked and feeble: in cases of consumption, heavy colds, weak lungs, debility and loss of appetite it is quickly recommended by the leading doctors and bospital physicians in the United States, and no sick room should be without it. All enfeebled weak old United States, and no sick room should be without it All enfeebled, weak, old and infirm should take it daily as directed, and thereby regain that bouance and strength that countless thousands stand so much in need of. This Celebrated Whiskey is sold as cheap as a very common article, and can be found for sale at brated bands of Wines from Germany, France, Italy, Spain and Portugal. Also, Scotch and Irish Whiskeys, Dublin and London Porter, Bass Ale, and all other Liquors that go to complete a First Class Saloon.
