WEDNESDAY, AUG. 22, 1894. The question is being agitated as to whether a voter who votes for only a part of the ticket in the primary is in honor bound under the rule of the party to support all the nominees. We think he is under the oath and pledge bound to support all the nominees. Because he does not promise to support the man of his choice, but the nominees of the party. However, there is a difference of opinion of this point In our cpinion those who vote are bound to support the whole

The Reform Convention met last Thursday in Columbia and nominated John Gary Evans for Governor and Dr. W. H. Timmerman for Lieut. Governor. The question of nominating a full State ticket came indirectly before the Convention and was set down on promptly, both Tillman and Evans being opposed to putting out a full ticket. The Convention made the Alliance demands a part of the State Democratic platform. (Does this make them Democratic.) Tillman was endorsed for the Senate, and made a ech to the Convention. So did Evans and Ellerbe. The lalter pledged himself and friends to support Evans and to continue in the Reform ranks. W. R. Cooper, of Colleton, was elected chairman of the Convention. This Convention presented about 12,000 or 15,000 of the 000 white voters of the State, and considerably less than one-third of the Reformers. However, all the Reformers will fall into line and the good work will

The Greenville Mountaineer says: There are 200,000 voters in South Carolina, one-half being practically disfran bised under the election law, which is n great danger of destruction by the lourts. Of the one-half remaining, a bare majority belongs to the dominant faction, which refuses to allow its own plitical associates any voice in the selecion of nominess for the party. Fifty sand are in control of the rights and sterests of the whole people, or in other while actually less than one-tenth will ecide the issues of the present contest. Not more than 20,000 voters could be rallied in a free primary for the candidate who will be named this week to fill the lice of Governor. One-tenth of the voters are dictating the entire management of our public affairs. Does anyone colleve that this state of things will continge? The blind office-seekers are leadg their blinded and deluded followers o the precipice, and white supremacy in south Carolina will shortly become a thing of the past. It is the supremist folly not to recognize the existing facts."

Judge Aldrich has decided the Dispensary Act of 1893 to be unconstitutional. As a Circuit Judge he recognized that he was bound by the decision of the Suprems. Court, and as an intelligent, imartial Judge he acknowledged that the nw was to be found in the principle anprinciple, briefly stated, is that the Legounced by the Supreme Court. That re has no constitutional power to confer upon the State the exclusive right to carry on the liquor traffic.' The only question was whether the Act of 1893 was exions to this principle, and he held that in this respect the Act of 1893 was practically the same as the Act of 1892. Of this there was no room for doubt. He knew that upon a constitutional question the Legislature could not override the decision of the Supreme Court, even though it had enacted the Act of 1893 after the decision of that Court. Gov. Tillman, no doubt, knew all this, but perhaps he thought as Governor his conscience was not equally bound by the decision. Therefore, to use his own language, "he hid cut the Act in the bushes" until he thought all danger was past. But his smart trick has been exposed in its true character by Judge Aldrich's decision, end the people can now view the conduct of their reform Governor in its true light. 93 to be constitutional, but, unlike Judge Aldrich, he fails to give the reasons upon which he bases his judgment. The people can draw their own conclusions.

BAGGING AND TARE.

We referred the other day, says the Atlanta Constitution, to the complaints of cotton spinners and buyers in regard to excessive bagging, It appears that farmers have been covering their cotton with old sugar and grain sacks, and putting more on the bale than the tare established by the Liverpool association of The extra weight of bagging, over and above the tare, comes out of the spinners' pockets, and these gentlemen are much more careful about the nimble thrip than the cotton growers are.

The matter, however, is of importance to Southern farmers in more ways than one. In the first place, spinners have combined together to reject all cotton with an excess of covering. Naturally this agreement will have an effect on buyers, and during the present season such cotton will not be marketable. It is important, therefore, that the farmers conform to the requirements which originate in Liverpool.

An excess of bagging over and above the 6 per cent, that represents the reduction in weight made to cover the ties and bagging is a clear loss to the spinners, and it is no gain to the farmers to put on the bale a less amount of bagging than will, with the ties, weigh thirty pounds. The average weight of a bale of cotton is 480 pounds. The tare on this amounts to about $1.75. If the bagging and ties weigh less than twenty-nine pounds the loss comes out of the farmer's cotton.

The matter becomes very simple when we take into consideration the fact that thousands of bales como into market covered with six yards of 12 bagging. A deduction of 6 per cent, is made in the weight of the bale, and the farmer is thus son's wife was the former wife of Munweight of the bale, and the farmer is thus compelled to pay for twenty-two pounds of bagging, although he has used but ten and one-half. The price of eleven and and one-half. The price of eleven and one-half yards comes out of his cotton and goes into the spinners' pockets. The price of eleven and one-half yards of jute bagging, taken out of 5,000,000 bales amounts to the price of 57,000,000 yards amounts to the price of the p and more of bagging-a pretty round sum, when the calculation is made at 61 cents a pound for bagging.

So far as bagging is concerned, the jute trust seems to be doing business at the raw material with which to prepare American cotton for market. Raw cotton should be wrapped in cotton cloth, This would materially add to the demand for cotton and aid in keeping up the This whole question ought to give our

Several of the great Boulevards and fashionable at the city. and fashionable streets converge about it. This is the heart of pleasure seeking Paris. Now since we have time before the opera begins, I shall tell you about the building. This sump uous structure stands in an open space, detached from all others, letting its beauty show unobstructed. In its size and richness it is incomparably the greatest play house in existence. The ensemble is one of most pleasing harmony. The chief excellency of its architecture is that it excellency of its architecture is that it expresses at once its purpose. Besides the orchestra circle, parquet, etc., there are five galleries; the whole seating 2,700. In its seating capacity there are other operas that excell it. It is not the size of this part that most strikes the visitor. It is the richness most strikes the visitor. It is the richness of the finish; it is the marble columns, gilded ceiling and painted dome. The gilding itself cost in the neighborhood of $10,000. But all this is but the house; what about the tenante?

In all it takes 500 persons to give one of the great plays here. The orchestra consists of 100 pieces. The stage at times requires 200 persons. One is led to ask how can the institution exist with the charges for entrance. In fact it is supported very largely by the government, receiving a yearly allowance of $160,060 to supplement yearly allowance of allowed to supplement the other receipts. Dr. Pope Appeals to the Voters.

Dr. Sampson Pope is in the gubernatorial fight to the last. In accordance with the intention expressed in a recent interview he has issued an address to the democratic voters of the State calling democratic voters of the State calling apon them to vote generally at the primary and asking his friends to select and elect Pope delegates. The following is Dr. Pope's address:

To the Democratic Voters of South Carolina: At the primary which comes off on the 28th of August you are to vote for delegates to the converge who will vote for governor, lisu. _s. governor and other State officers. ?) time is Judge Watts, 'tis said, decided the Act of short for nominating in each county short for nominating in each sounty delegates to represent you in that convention. It is attempted to be held that these delegates must file a pledge on or before the 18th instant. You have but to refer to the rule on the subject made by the democratic executive committee to see that this is not to be done. Columbia State. August 18. Ten days from to-day, on Tuesday, the 28th inst., the next political event of note in South Carolina will take place. It will be the biennial Democratic primary election, and it is for the purpose of choosing delegates to the State Convention—Reform or Conservative, Evans or Pope, as the case may be—nominating all County officers in each County, from Senator on down through County Supervisor, and nominating men for Congress on the Democratic ticket. In view of the many factional primaries, conventions and what not, a large proportion of the voters seem to be all mix-ed up, and there is but a comparatively small number who seem to understand what it all means. Bad State of Affairs in the State of Nebraska. PLATTSMOUTH, NEB., Aug. 15 .- Long trains of canvas-covered wagons pass daily through this city eastward. They belong to the army of settlers who have been forced from their homes in western Nebraska and eastern Colorado by the unprecedented drouth of the present season. Many have no particular desti-nation in view.

Their sole object is to reach some locality east of the Mississippi where they can eke out an existence until another season has rolled around and escape the hardships of a winter on the prairie. Since this exodus begun it has been esti-mated that 10,000 have left the State. At mated that 10,000 have left the State. At Plattsmouth one day last week 300 wagons were awaiting to cross the bridge, One man who had driven from Holyoke, Colo., said that along one stretch of road he drove fifty miles, passing a farm every half section, and it was only at long intervals he found one occupied. Thousands of farm hands are idle, and there is no other work for them to turn there is no other work for them to turn their hands to. Every day of the drouth adds to the distress of Nebraska's already severely afflicted corn crop. It has been over a month since the State, or a majority of the counties in the State, have had a good rain; and while a few districts have been specially favored and reports from them are cheering, the prospects for the whole is dismal. Rain at this late date would do corn little good, except the very late planted, which is scarce. Its next beneficent effect would be to improve pastures now hadly burned up, and get stock in some sort of condition to begin the winter on short rations. Reports for the past week have been all of one tenor, receingistic in a high degree.

- Standing on a four-inch cornice 154 feet above the ground, Jerry Donoman, a house painter, carefully painted the gild-ed cross on the steeple of a church at Salem, Mass. He had his paint pot in one hand and a brush in the other and occasionally he turned to make faces at the crowd gathered below. The wretched man was drunk and it was with diffi-culty that he was lured down from his dangerous situation. When he grew so-ber enough to understand the risk he had run it crazed him and he has been sent to an insane asylum.

- The following interesting story is from Norwich, N. Y.: Miss Mary Baker, of this place, when only three years old, pulled a button from an old shoe with which she was playing and crowded it into her nose. On Monday, after twen-ty years, a physician removed the self-same button from its lodging place. Miss Baker, since childhood, has been greatly afflicted with what she believed to be extern. to be catarrh, and has been treated by many specialists. Patience, courage and many specialists. Fatience, courage and money were nearly exhausted, when the young lady resolved to visit a well known physician, who quickly made a diagnosis of her case and removed the cause of suffering. The length of time which the button had remained in the it had attained several times its natura size, so it had to be removed in sections. This was accomplished with out the slightest inconvenience to the pa
