Cantion to Liquor Seizers.

A few days ago, at North Adams, Massachusetts, the chief constable seized a jar of rum and arrested the party in whose possession it was found, for selling intoxicating liquors. At the examination before the District Judge, he swore and testified that he had seized the liquor, and made a detailed statement of the facts. Hon. Shepard Thayer, the attorney for the prisoner, asked him if he knew it was He replied "Yes, it was He was then asked how he knew it was rum, and he replied, that he had drank some of it. The prisoner, who was a woman, was then called as a witness in her own behalf, when the following questions and

A. I kept it to wash the baby. Q. Had you ever washed the baby n this rum? A. O, yes, often! I used to turn some out in a dish, wash the baby in it, and then turn it back in the jar

Q. Do you mean to say that this was the same liquor of which the State constable drank? A. The very same.

There was great laughter in the court, and the State constable declared he would seize no more liquor that was kept in a jar. He is about the only man in North Adams that will occupied a small paddock, they always take offense if you ask him to take a drink.

The Beauty of Death.

If there is one thing especially of which many people possibly cannot believe that, under any circumstances, t would seem beautiful, I suppose it must mean death. That must always be dreadful. Men seldom see any misery in life so great as to outweigh the misery or leaving it. But yet it comes to all of us that He who made leath made it, like all things else, to be beautiful in His time. When a life has lived its days out in happiness, grown old with constantly accumulating joys, and then, at last, before decay has touched it, or the ground grows soft under its feet, the door opens, and it enters into the new youth of eternity; when a young man has tried his powers here and dedicated them to God, and then is called to the full use of their perfected strength in the very presence of the God whom he has loved; when a man has lived for his brethren, and the time comes that his life cannot help them any onger, but his death can put life into dead truths; and send enthusiasm into fainting hearts; when death comes as a rest to a man who is tried with a long fight, or as victory to a man who leaves his enemies baffled behind him on the shore of time-in all these thing in all his life became this man time utter a querulous cry. The Successful Advertizer! Is the man who writes something the people will read, and reading, believe. In this age of education and enlightenment, when men read and think for themselves, all that stuff about "selling goods cheaper than your competitors buy them," being the "only competent dealers in the line," "handling better stuff than anybody else," &c., is mere clap trap, and subjects the writer and the firm back of it to the contempt of all right-thinking people. The man who has something to offer, and then tells the folks about in a plain, business way, is the man who "gets there," and getting there, stands.

Lots of people handle Paint. Some man who loves you, or the man who can dress you? "Mamma, as an up-to-all realize, if they have any business sense handle one kind, some another, but they at all, that in order to make that business a permanent success it is absolutely necessary to give the people the very best material. This we have tried to do, and at a price that puts it in the reach of all.

In this connection we call attention to the fact that crops are about laid by, time is plentiful, and a little paint not only freshens and beautifies, but improves wonderfully the sanitary condition of the premises. If your house is all right maybe the fence needs a coat. A little Paint would keep that old buggy from falling down, and the wagon might last a year or two longer by spending seventy-five cents or a dollar in Paint on it. Remember this, the longer you put it off the more it takes and the less good it does. Remember another thing, it costs just as much, and takes just as much time, to have cheap paint put on as it does good Paint. Always buy the best, even if you pay more for it. HILL BROS., Druggists, ANDERSON, S. C.

It can be used only for rustic work or as a tanning sub nce. All the cork wood imported into America comes from Spain and Por ugal. There cork are groves in South America, but they have not been under cultivation as long as the European ones and the wood is consequently coarse and inferior in quality.
