Light Stables.

The importance of having stables ventilated in accordance with correct principles of hygiene is generally admitted. That the supply of fresh air should be ample is frequently insisted upon, but that the light should also be abundant is not so commonly recognized. Some stables are at midday in a state of semi-darkness-a condition, to say the least, anything but conducive to the well-being of the horse. No animal enjoys the light of day more than he. In his wild state he frequents the open plain or mountain side, in the full light of the day. Wild horses are never found to inhabit loomy forests or dark ravines. The horse is a child of light, and he should be treated accordingly in domestica-tion, if he is to be kept in perfect health and spirits, with the eyesight | people want them. unimpaired. ANDERSON, S. C., Aug. 26, 1895.
Mr. M. M. Mattison, Manager, Auderson, S. C.—Dear Sir: I cheerfully accede to your request to say a word for the old Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company. I will state that I carry $5,000, all the insurance I carry, in your Company, having cancelled $5,000 on the assessment and tontine plans in order to place all in the Mutual Benefit. I am in everyway satisfied with the manner in which the bustness of the Company is conducted, and regard it as one of the worthiest among the many Life Insurance Companies. I am favorably struck with your 30 per cent. loan plan for the reason that I get a dollar's worth of protection for 70 cents believe the Mutual Benefit to be one o the strongest, safest, and, by its large dividends to policy holders, the cheapest and therefore, one of the best Companies in the country for the insured.
