

AFTER SEPT. 1st

We will be found in our...

NEW PLACE,

Next door above Ligon & Ledbetter.

Our Stock will be...

NEW, STYLISH,

And of Popular Fabrics and Colorings.

CUT PRICES

Still continue until we move.

B. O. Evans & Co.

BAGGING AND TIES.

Any kind you want. Don't fail to get our prices before buying.

We Have Bought a

TREMENDOUS STOCK GOODS

For the Fall Trade!

And will sell you as cheap, and more often a little cheaper, than you can buy them anywhere else, and will pay you the...

HIGHEST PRICES FOR COTTON.

We have exceptional facilities for handling the staple this year, and will make it to your interest to see us before selling.

McCULLY BROS.

Machinery & Implements.

Now the time to select your Mower and Rake.

THE JOHNSON MOWERS AND RAKES

Shipped in Car lots—the buyer gets the advantage in freight. We guarantee these Machines absolutely. Unequaled, the latest, the best.

THREE CAR LOADS STEAM ENGINES IN STOCK.

ATLAS, ECLIPSE, ERIE CITY.

And other standard makes. Our prices simply astonishing.

SMITH GINS, COTTON PRESSES, SAW MILLS, GANE MILLS.

And all kinds of Farm Machinery at figures to meet any honest competition.

Call on or address

Sullivan Hardware Co.

Shoes, Slippers.

Where can I get the very best fitting and most desirable as well as stylish Shoes?

Why, where have you been all this time? Come with me and just look at the most complete stock of Shoes, Slippers, and everything in the way of Footwear, at—

THE YATES SHOE CO.,

Under Masonic Temple, Anderson, S. C.,

For further information call on J. H. Skelton, Attorney at Law, Hartwell, Ga.

Our prices are low because we buy close, and for cash, and we can certainly give you bargains and enable you to save money.

DON'T FORGET

The Yates Shoe Co.

AFRICANA

Will cure RHEUMATISM.

Will cure SCROFULA.

Will cure OLD SORES.

Will cure SYPHILIS.

Will cure CONSTIPATION

Will cure Eczema, Ca arrh, and all BLOOD and SKIN DISEASES.

NEVER FAILS.

It is the true Remedy for all Blood Diseases.

For sale by Evans Pharmacy and Hill-Orr Drug Co.

THE WORLD LOVES MUSIC.

I had heard of other somewhat similar cases, and though a tyro in the profession, had had some experience among the insane. I knew, therefore, that resistance would be at the least, and that apparent acquiescence would be best. All this quickly flashed through my mind, and, accordingly, feigning the utmost indifference I could, I said:

"Ah, yes, Mr. A., to be sure. It won't take long, will it?"

"Oh, no," he said, "I'm only surgically, the knife he now held in his hand, 'Oh, no, the job is quite a light one.'"

Here he poured out a glass of wine, and begged me drink it. As I did so an idea struck me, and I said:

"By-the-by, Mr. A., your knife doesn't look very sharp; the least a little grinding will do no harm, so, if you don't mind wait, I will just run to the carpenter's shop."

This was exactly what I wanted, as feeling sure he would not lock the door after him, I thought my escape would be easy. What was my opportunity, and I was ready to have taken it, but I hesitated at finding that it was locked as securely as before.

I passed up and down in despair, tore at the door, flung open the port-hole window, and shouted with all my might, but without avail.

"Time was now passing by minute, and he could not be long now. In the frenzy of despair, I groped about, from corner to corner, in search of some weapon of defence, but no, not even the merest stick, not the smallest thing upon which to lay hands.

I felt my pulse quicken, my brow grow hot. Impulsively I flung open my coat, got to the farthest end of the room, and, standing as defensively as possible, resolved to fight to the last.

I remember then the door bursting open, and the entry of A., not alone, as I thought, but securely pinioned and attended by two of the ship's crew in charge of the second officer.

The relief of the moment was so great that I completely prostrated me, and my nervous system was much shaken for some time, while the intensity and reality of my situation often now make me feel something akin to what the condemned, about to be hanged, must experience.

I felt myself that the peculiar and excited manner of the maniac, the large knife in his possession, and his anxiety to sharpen it, drew suspicion on him, which, with the fact that I had been called to see him, induced the officer to secure him and come to his cabin.

For the remainder of the voyage he was kept securely confined, and watched day and night, and on arriving at New York was handed over to the proper authorities, who, on investigating the case, found that the man had been a private in a military asylum near Liverpool, and had by strategy and cunning eluded the vigilance of his keepers and taken passage on our vessel. He was, I believe, transferred to England again, though happily not under my care.—London Times.

Pleasure may be a shadow, but it uses a host of sustenance.

The Maldivian Islanders eat alone. Before a meal they retire to the most secluded spot they can find, and eat with drawn blinds or surrounded by a screen. The explanation of this precaution is more likely to be fear than modesty. In days gone by the savage no doubt concealed himself lest some man stronger than he should snatch the hard-earned food away.

The worst form of idolatry is self-shipness. The best form of Christianity is that which sacrifices self and lives for others.

It is not the place of business it is a stampede for gain; in the church it is a run for position; in politics, it is to get office at the sacrifice of both manhood and principle. There are some good men in this world, but they are not more than a few. They are not more than the rear of a rule. They have very little voice in the councils of the nation, and very little influence in the social or business world.

A pious, Christian man is dubbed a crank. If he is in Rome and don't do as Rome does, he is called a heretic. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank.

I believe the only hope for us all is a good case of old-fashioned religion for each individual—a revival of pure, genuine religion in the hearts of the people, for a man's life is never better than his heart. A man can never have religion until he becomes religious. It is one thing to profess; it is another thing to possess. It is one thing to sing and preach; it is another thing to practice.

It is not the place of business it is a stampede for gain; in the church it is a run for position; in politics, it is to get office at the sacrifice of both manhood and principle. There are some good men in this world, but they are not more than a few. They are not more than the rear of a rule. They have very little voice in the councils of the nation, and very little influence in the social or business world.

A pious, Christian man is dubbed a crank. If he is in Rome and don't do as Rome does, he is called a heretic. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank.

I believe the only hope for us all is a good case of old-fashioned religion for each individual—a revival of pure, genuine religion in the hearts of the people, for a man's life is never better than his heart. A man can never have religion until he becomes religious. It is one thing to profess; it is another thing to possess. It is one thing to sing and preach; it is another thing to practice.

It is not the place of business it is a stampede for gain; in the church it is a run for position; in politics, it is to get office at the sacrifice of both manhood and principle. There are some good men in this world, but they are not more than a few. They are not more than the rear of a rule. They have very little voice in the councils of the nation, and very little influence in the social or business world.

A pious, Christian man is dubbed a crank. If he is in Rome and don't do as Rome does, he is called a heretic. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank.

I believe the only hope for us all is a good case of old-fashioned religion for each individual—a revival of pure, genuine religion in the hearts of the people, for a man's life is never better than his heart. A man can never have religion until he becomes religious. It is one thing to profess; it is another thing to possess. It is one thing to sing and preach; it is another thing to practice.

It is not the place of business it is a stampede for gain; in the church it is a run for position; in politics, it is to get office at the sacrifice of both manhood and principle. There are some good men in this world, but they are not more than a few. They are not more than the rear of a rule. They have very little voice in the councils of the nation, and very little influence in the social or business world.

A pious, Christian man is dubbed a crank. If he is in Rome and don't do as Rome does, he is called a heretic. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank.

I believe the only hope for us all is a good case of old-fashioned religion for each individual—a revival of pure, genuine religion in the hearts of the people, for a man's life is never better than his heart. A man can never have religion until he becomes religious. It is one thing to profess; it is another thing to possess. It is one thing to sing and preach; it is another thing to practice.

It is not the place of business it is a stampede for gain; in the church it is a run for position; in politics, it is to get office at the sacrifice of both manhood and principle. There are some good men in this world, but they are not more than a few. They are not more than the rear of a rule. They have very little voice in the councils of the nation, and very little influence in the social or business world.

A pious, Christian man is dubbed a crank. If he is in Rome and don't do as Rome does, he is called a heretic. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank.

I believe the only hope for us all is a good case of old-fashioned religion for each individual—a revival of pure, genuine religion in the hearts of the people, for a man's life is never better than his heart. A man can never have religion until he becomes religious. It is one thing to profess; it is another thing to possess. It is one thing to sing and preach; it is another thing to practice.

It is not the place of business it is a stampede for gain; in the church it is a run for position; in politics, it is to get office at the sacrifice of both manhood and principle. There are some good men in this world, but they are not more than a few. They are not more than the rear of a rule. They have very little voice in the councils of the nation, and very little influence in the social or business world.

A pious, Christian man is dubbed a crank. If he is in Rome and don't do as Rome does, he is called a heretic. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank.

I believe the only hope for us all is a good case of old-fashioned religion for each individual—a revival of pure, genuine religion in the hearts of the people, for a man's life is never better than his heart. A man can never have religion until he becomes religious. It is one thing to profess; it is another thing to possess. It is one thing to sing and preach; it is another thing to practice.

It is not the place of business it is a stampede for gain; in the church it is a run for position; in politics, it is to get office at the sacrifice of both manhood and principle. There are some good men in this world, but they are not more than a few. They are not more than the rear of a rule. They have very little voice in the councils of the nation, and very little influence in the social or business world.

A pious, Christian man is dubbed a crank. If he is in Rome and don't do as Rome does, he is called a heretic. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank.

I believe the only hope for us all is a good case of old-fashioned religion for each individual—a revival of pure, genuine religion in the hearts of the people, for a man's life is never better than his heart. A man can never have religion until he becomes religious. It is one thing to profess; it is another thing to possess. It is one thing to sing and preach; it is another thing to practice.

It is not the place of business it is a stampede for gain; in the church it is a run for position; in politics, it is to get office at the sacrifice of both manhood and principle. There are some good men in this world, but they are not more than a few. They are not more than the rear of a rule. They have very little voice in the councils of the nation, and very little influence in the social or business world.

A pious, Christian man is dubbed a crank. If he is in Rome and don't do as Rome does, he is called a heretic. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank.

I believe the only hope for us all is a good case of old-fashioned religion for each individual—a revival of pure, genuine religion in the hearts of the people, for a man's life is never better than his heart. A man can never have religion until he becomes religious. It is one thing to profess; it is another thing to possess. It is one thing to sing and preach; it is another thing to practice.

It is not the place of business it is a stampede for gain; in the church it is a run for position; in politics, it is to get office at the sacrifice of both manhood and principle. There are some good men in this world, but they are not more than a few. They are not more than the rear of a rule. They have very little voice in the councils of the nation, and very little influence in the social or business world.

A pious, Christian man is dubbed a crank. If he is in Rome and don't do as Rome does, he is called a heretic. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank.

I believe the only hope for us all is a good case of old-fashioned religion for each individual—a revival of pure, genuine religion in the hearts of the people, for a man's life is never better than his heart. A man can never have religion until he becomes religious. It is one thing to profess; it is another thing to possess. It is one thing to sing and preach; it is another thing to practice.

It is not the place of business it is a stampede for gain; in the church it is a run for position; in politics, it is to get office at the sacrifice of both manhood and principle. There are some good men in this world, but they are not more than a few. They are not more than the rear of a rule. They have very little voice in the councils of the nation, and very little influence in the social or business world.

A pious, Christian man is dubbed a crank. If he is in Rome and don't do as Rome does, he is called a heretic. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank.

I believe the only hope for us all is a good case of old-fashioned religion for each individual—a revival of pure, genuine religion in the hearts of the people, for a man's life is never better than his heart. A man can never have religion until he becomes religious. It is one thing to profess; it is another thing to possess. It is one thing to sing and preach; it is another thing to practice.

It is not the place of business it is a stampede for gain; in the church it is a run for position; in politics, it is to get office at the sacrifice of both manhood and principle. There are some good men in this world, but they are not more than a few. They are not more than the rear of a rule. They have very little voice in the councils of the nation, and very little influence in the social or business world.

A pious, Christian man is dubbed a crank. If he is in Rome and don't do as Rome does, he is called a heretic. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank.

I believe the only hope for us all is a good case of old-fashioned religion for each individual—a revival of pure, genuine religion in the hearts of the people, for a man's life is never better than his heart. A man can never have religion until he becomes religious. It is one thing to profess; it is another thing to possess. It is one thing to sing and preach; it is another thing to practice.

It is not the place of business it is a stampede for gain; in the church it is a run for position; in politics, it is to get office at the sacrifice of both manhood and principle. There are some good men in this world, but they are not more than a few. They are not more than the rear of a rule. They have very little voice in the councils of the nation, and very little influence in the social or business world.

A pious, Christian man is dubbed a crank. If he is in Rome and don't do as Rome does, he is called a heretic. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank.

I believe the only hope for us all is a good case of old-fashioned religion for each individual—a revival of pure, genuine religion in the hearts of the people, for a man's life is never better than his heart. A man can never have religion until he becomes religious. It is one thing to profess; it is another thing to possess. It is one thing to sing and preach; it is another thing to practice.

It is not the place of business it is a stampede for gain; in the church it is a run for position; in politics, it is to get office at the sacrifice of both manhood and principle. There are some good men in this world, but they are not more than a few. They are not more than the rear of a rule. They have very little voice in the councils of the nation, and very little influence in the social or business world.

A pious, Christian man is dubbed a crank. If he is in Rome and don't do as Rome does, he is called a heretic. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank.

I believe the only hope for us all is a good case of old-fashioned religion for each individual—a revival of pure, genuine religion in the hearts of the people, for a man's life is never better than his heart. A man can never have religion until he becomes religious. It is one thing to profess; it is another thing to possess. It is one thing to sing and preach; it is another thing to practice.

It is not the place of business it is a stampede for gain; in the church it is a run for position; in politics, it is to get office at the sacrifice of both manhood and principle. There are some good men in this world, but they are not more than a few. They are not more than the rear of a rule. They have very little voice in the councils of the nation, and very little influence in the social or business world.

A pious, Christian man is dubbed a crank. If he is in Rome and don't do as Rome does, he is called a heretic. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank.

I believe the only hope for us all is a good case of old-fashioned religion for each individual—a revival of pure, genuine religion in the hearts of the people, for a man's life is never better than his heart. A man can never have religion until he becomes religious. It is one thing to profess; it is another thing to possess. It is one thing to sing and preach; it is another thing to practice.

It is not the place of business it is a stampede for gain; in the church it is a run for position; in politics, it is to get office at the sacrifice of both manhood and principle. There are some good men in this world, but they are not more than a few. They are not more than the rear of a rule. They have very little voice in the councils of the nation, and very little influence in the social or business world.

A pious, Christian man is dubbed a crank. If he is in Rome and don't do as Rome does, he is called a heretic. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank.

I believe the only hope for us all is a good case of old-fashioned religion for each individual—a revival of pure, genuine religion in the hearts of the people, for a man's life is never better than his heart. A man can never have religion until he becomes religious. It is one thing to profess; it is another thing to possess. It is one thing to sing and preach; it is another thing to practice.

It is not the place of business it is a stampede for gain; in the church it is a run for position; in politics, it is to get office at the sacrifice of both manhood and principle. There are some good men in this world, but they are not more than a few. They are not more than the rear of a rule. They have very little voice in the councils of the nation, and very little influence in the social or business world.

A pious, Christian man is dubbed a crank. If he is in Rome and don't do as Rome does, he is called a heretic. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank.

I believe the only hope for us all is a good case of old-fashioned religion for each individual—a revival of pure, genuine religion in the hearts of the people, for a man's life is never better than his heart. A man can never have religion until he becomes religious. It is one thing to profess; it is another thing to possess. It is one thing to sing and preach; it is another thing to practice.

It is not the place of business it is a stampede for gain; in the church it is a run for position; in politics, it is to get office at the sacrifice of both manhood and principle. There are some good men in this world, but they are not more than a few. They are not more than the rear of a rule. They have very little voice in the councils of the nation, and very little influence in the social or business world.

A pious, Christian man is dubbed a crank. If he is in Rome and don't do as Rome does, he is called a heretic. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank.

I believe the only hope for us all is a good case of old-fashioned religion for each individual—a revival of pure, genuine religion in the hearts of the people, for a man's life is never better than his heart. A man can never have religion until he becomes religious. It is one thing to profess; it is another thing to possess. It is one thing to sing and preach; it is another thing to practice.

It is not the place of business it is a stampede for gain; in the church it is a run for position; in politics, it is to get office at the sacrifice of both manhood and principle. There are some good men in this world, but they are not more than a few. They are not more than the rear of a rule. They have very little voice in the councils of the nation, and very little influence in the social or business world.

A pious, Christian man is dubbed a crank. If he is in Rome and don't do as Rome does, he is called a heretic. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank.

I believe the only hope for us all is a good case of old-fashioned religion for each individual—a revival of pure, genuine religion in the hearts of the people, for a man's life is never better than his heart. A man can never have religion until he becomes religious. It is one thing to profess; it is another thing to possess. It is one thing to sing and preach; it is another thing to practice.

It is not the place of business it is a stampede for gain; in the church it is a run for position; in politics, it is to get office at the sacrifice of both manhood and principle. There are some good men in this world, but they are not more than a few. They are not more than the rear of a rule. They have very little voice in the councils of the nation, and very little influence in the social or business world.

A pious, Christian man is dubbed a crank. If he is in Rome and don't do as Rome does, he is called a heretic. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank.

I believe the only hope for us all is a good case of old-fashioned religion for each individual—a revival of pure, genuine religion in the hearts of the people, for a man's life is never better than his heart. A man can never have religion until he becomes religious. It is one thing to profess; it is another thing to possess. It is one thing to sing and preach; it is another thing to practice.

It is not the place of business it is a stampede for gain; in the church it is a run for position; in politics, it is to get office at the sacrifice of both manhood and principle. There are some good men in this world, but they are not more than a few. They are not more than the rear of a rule. They have very little voice in the councils of the nation, and very little influence in the social or business world.

A pious, Christian man is dubbed a crank. If he is in Rome and don't do as Rome does, he is called a heretic. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank.

I believe the only hope for us all is a good case of old-fashioned religion for each individual—a revival of pure, genuine religion in the hearts of the people, for a man's life is never better than his heart. A man can never have religion until he becomes religious. It is one thing to profess; it is another thing to possess. It is one thing to sing and preach; it is another thing to practice.

It is not the place of business it is a stampede for gain; in the church it is a run for position; in politics, it is to get office at the sacrifice of both manhood and principle. There are some good men in this world, but they are not more than a few. They are not more than the rear of a rule. They have very little voice in the councils of the nation, and very little influence in the social or business world.

A pious, Christian man is dubbed a crank. If he is in Rome and don't do as Rome does, he is called a heretic. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank.

I believe the only hope for us all is a good case of old-fashioned religion for each individual—a revival of pure, genuine religion in the hearts of the people, for a man's life is never better than his heart. A man can never have religion until he becomes religious. It is one thing to profess; it is another thing to possess. It is one thing to sing and preach; it is another thing to practice.

It is not the place of business it is a stampede for gain; in the church it is a run for position; in politics, it is to get office at the sacrifice of both manhood and principle. There are some good men in this world, but they are not more than a few. They are not more than the rear of a rule. They have very little voice in the councils of the nation, and very little influence in the social or business world.

A pious, Christian man is dubbed a crank. If he is in Rome and don't do as Rome does, he is called a heretic. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank.

I believe the only hope for us all is a good case of old-fashioned religion for each individual—a revival of pure, genuine religion in the hearts of the people, for a man's life is never better than his heart. A man can never have religion until he becomes religious. It is one thing to profess; it is another thing to possess. It is one thing to sing and preach; it is another thing to practice.

It is not the place of business it is a stampede for gain; in the church it is a run for position; in politics, it is to get office at the sacrifice of both manhood and principle. There are some good men in this world, but they are not more than a few. They are not more than the rear of a rule. They have very little voice in the councils of the nation, and very little influence in the social or business world.

A pious, Christian man is dubbed a crank. If he is in Rome and don't do as Rome does, he is called a heretic. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank.

I believe the only hope for us all is a good case of old-fashioned religion for each individual—a revival of pure, genuine religion in the hearts of the people, for a man's life is never better than his heart. A man can never have religion until he becomes religious. It is one thing to profess; it is another thing to possess. It is one thing to sing and preach; it is another thing to practice.

It is not the place of business it is a stampede for gain; in the church it is a run for position; in politics, it is to get office at the sacrifice of both manhood and principle. There are some good men in this world, but they are not more than a few. They are not more than the rear of a rule. They have very little voice in the councils of the nation, and very little influence in the social or business world.

A pious, Christian man is dubbed a crank. If he is in Rome and don't do as Rome does, he is called a heretic. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank. If he is in the rear of a rule, he is called a crank.

I believe the only hope for us all is a good case of old-fashioned religion for each individual—a revival of pure, genuine religion in the hearts of the people, for a man's life is never better than his heart. A man can never have religion until he becomes religious. It is one thing to profess; it is another thing to possess. It is one thing to sing and preach; it is another thing to practice.

It is not the place of business it is a stampede for gain; in the church it is a run for position; in politics, it is to get office at the sacrifice of both manhood and principle. There are some good men in this world, but they are not more than a few. They are not more than the rear of a rule. They have very little voice in the councils of the nation, and very little influence in the social or business world.

Alone With a Maniac.

It was on the fifth day of my voyage, as we were amusing ourselves on deck, that a message was brought me to say that Mr. A. would like to see me in his cabin.

I had no difficulty in finding his room, and was met at the door by Mr. A. himself. He shook hands very cordially, and invited me to enter and take a chair. No sooner had I done so than he carefully looked the doctor. Thinking this rather strange, I inquired as to his illness. He did not reply for some time, and then said:

"I am not. I sent for you," laying his hand on a large knife, "to cut your throat."

He was a man I had not before particularly noticed, but now, as I looked at him, I fully made up my mind that he was a maniac.

I am not a coward, yet even how the thought of that moment makes me shudder. There I was, in a madman of twice my strength, without a chance to escape, or means to give an alarm, and, being unarmed, quite at his mercy.

I had heard of other somewhat similar cases, and though a tyro in the profession, had had some experience among the insane. I knew, therefore, that resistance would be at the least, and that apparent acquiescence would be best. All this quickly flashed through my mind, and, accordingly, feigning the utmost indifference I could,