Death of Col. J. C. Haynie.

Col. J. Cunningham Haynie died at his home in Varennes Township last Monday evening at 7 o'clock. He had been in feeble health for a long time and had been confined to his room for several months. At times he was a great sufferer but he bore it with fortitude. For several days his death was hourly expected by his loved ones, who were watching his bedside closely, and the news of his death was received with sadness by his neighbors and a wide circle of friends. Yesterday afternoon his remains were laid to rest in the Flat Rock Churchyard, the funeral services being conducted by Rev. J. N. H. Summerell. The members of Hiram Lodge, No. 68, A. F. M., of which he was a devoted member, escorted the remains to the grave and interred them with the honors of that ancient fraternity. Col. Haynie was a son of the late Luke Haynie, and was born, reared and always lived in Anderson County. In early life he married a Miss Cooke, who, with six sons and four daughters, survives him. Before the civil war he was elected a Colonel of the Fourth Regiment of the State Militia. When the tocsin of war was sounded he offered his services to the State, but on account of physical disability was forced to return home before the surrender. Col. Haynie was truly a good man, and was most highly esteemed by every friend and acquaintance. He was genial and sociable and possessed a big heart, never turning a deaf ear to an appeal from his fellowman in distress. He had long been a devoted member of the Presbyterian Church, and has gone into eternity to reap the reward of a faithful steward. We tender our sympathy to the loved ones in their sore bereavement.

Death of Mrs. Wakefield.

Mrs. Jane E. Wakefield, relict of the late Conrad Wakefield, died at the home of her son, Mr. J. E. Wakefield, at Antreville, last Monday, aged 79 years. Yesterday afternoon her remains were interred at First Creek Baptist Church, the funeral services being conducted by Rev. M. McGee. Five sons and three daughters survive her. About four years ago Mrs. Wakefield was stricken with paralysis, and for the past two years had been an helpless invalid. She had been a devoted member of First Creek Church for more than fifty years. She was a most excellent woman, and her many friends and relatives will regret to hear of her death.

Reunion of Orr's Regiment.

The annual reunion of Orr's Regiment was held at Sandy Springs last Wednes-day, and in spite of the inclement weather the attendance reached about seven hundred. Col. G. McD. Miller, of Ninety dred. Col. G. McD. Miller, of Ninety Six, was master of ceremonies, and opened the exercises of the day by requesting the audience to sing the long metre doxology.

Dr. Francis Young Preston, of Due West, offered prayer, after which Col. Miller addressed his comrades, urging upon them the necessity of collecting and preserving the records of the men whose deeds of valor self-sacrifice natiotism.

deeds of valor, self-sacrifice, patriotism and devotion to duty are unsurpassed in the annals of the world

Col. Miller then introduced the State historian, Col. John P. Thomas, of Columbla, who found his inspiration in the pathos of the occasion. Familiar with the history of the great war, and familiar with the history of Orr's Regiment, the gifted orator held his audience spell-bound from his opening sentence to the close of his address.

After Col. Thomas had finished Dr

Francis Young Preston, of Erskine College, was introduced, and expressed the regrets of Dr. Greer, the orator of the occasion, that he would not be present, and also expressed his own gratification of being with them on this occasion.

Gen. M. L. Bonham was then introduced, and in his usual happy style spoke of the work of the Sons of Confederate Veterans.

The exercises were then adjourned for dinner after which the Veterans assembled in business meeting and re-elected

The protracted meeting which has been in progress for the past week, closed last Friday night. The meeting from the beginning was well attended and great in-terest was manifested throughout. There were twenty-one additions to the Church. Rev. J. F. Singleton conducted the meeting. He is certainly a good preacher. The Church has been greatly blessed spiritually. On Friday night the Church would not hold the people. After the services were over Mr. Singleton announced to the people that one good lady member of the Church had kindly offered five hundred dollars, provided the Church would add another five hundred tor remodeling and beautifying the building. This is certainly a generous offer. I hope the Church will appreciate it. The ordinance of baptism will be administered on the fourth Sunday morning at half-past 9 o'clock near the Church, and

A Card From Lieut. J. H. Grant.

To the Voters of Anderson County: Some time ago I was solicited by quite a number of my friends to permit them to use my name as a candidate for the House in the ensuing primary, but declined as there was no prospects of peace at that time and I felt that my first duty was to my country, inasmuch I had vol-unteered my services. Now that the war is over, I have decided to become a candidate; and, as it will be impossible for me to see the people in the communities where the campaign meetings have been held, I take this method of announcing my candidacy. If elected, I shall use my best efforts to promote your interests and will serve you faithfully to the very best of my ability. Hoping that you will give me your support, I am

Prohibition Does Not Prohibit.

Mr. Editor: Ir the INTELLIGENCER of August 3, we notice an article from the pen of one of those great Georgia prohibition apostles, Mr. W. D. Bewley, of Elberton. He thinks he has plainly shown to the people of South Carolina that a prohibition law can be enforced, and he tries to prove it by string us to the and he tries to prove it by citing us to the little town of Elberton. He says that prohibition is being enforced in that place. We have been informed that there are at least one-half dozen blind tigers with open eyes being operated at that place. We will just ask Bewley to examine into the success of prohibition in the State of Maine. There they have a so-called prohibition law and to-day the statistics at Washington show that there are over eleven hundred licensed barrooms in that State, licensed by the Federal Government. We have repeatedly said, and we still say, that it would be just as easy to draw the North Pole and South Pole together with a hamestring as it would to enforce a prohibition law in this or any other State I am as much opposed to the sale of liquor as W. D. Bewley, but the sale of it will never be stopped until the making of it is stopped. Then, and not before, we will have a prohibition law that can be enforced. We would like very much for Mr. Bowley to tell us why it is that every man who drinks liquor is going to vote for prohibition? Unless they know or think that it will bring liquor to their very doors, we cannot imagine why they will vote that way, for we know, and Bewley knows as well as any one else, that the liquor men are opposed to a prohibition law that will prohibit. We are in favor of a law that will stop the manufacture of alcoholic liquors, but we are certainly not in favor of a prohibition law that will open six blind tigers to where there is one dispensary.

C. F. JONES & CO'S.

IN order to accommodate the early purchasers of Dress Goods we have had an early shipment of Newest Sayles sent us-latest style Patterns suitable for Traveling Dresses, Tailor Made Suits and many Fancy Dress Suits.

This is done to meet a long felt want in the city. Many Ladies like to buy their Winter Suits early, and have them made up before the Dress Makers are rushed. The experiment, we believe, will prove satisfactory, both to ourselves and to our Lady friends and customers.

At this time there are many Ladies who find that their Summer Oxfords or Slippers are about worn out. Perhaps, you won't want to invest in another pair of Oxfords at this season, but need something a little better than the old ones. We can fill the bill. Have just received and opened up an early shipment of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Fine Dress Shoes for early purchasers. We study the wants of the people-our business is to please them. We can most heartily recommend our line of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Fine Shoes. They have established a reputation for themselves, and are daily sustaining it in the satisfaction to the wearer. It is interesting to watch the effect on our Shoe business of our plain statements of Shoe facts. Should you still want a pair of Oxfords-many of our customers buy them now, and later on add a pair of Over Gaiters, and thereby wear them until late in the
