Death of Rev. Dr. Adger.

Rev. John B. Adger, D. D., a distinguished and well known minister of the Presbyterian Church, died last Wednesday morning at his home at Pendleton, and by his death one of the oldest and most prominent divines in South Carolina passes away.

"Dr. Adger was 88 years of age and the greater part of his life was spent in active missionary and church work. For more than twenty years he was a missionary at Smyrna, and left there in 1855 on account of broken health."

"Dr. Adger was a remarkable man and had a wide and varied experience before he finally retired, from his pulpit at Pendleton. He was born on December 2, 1810, and in early life was married to Miss Elizabeth K. Shrewsbury. It was soon after his marriage that he went with his wife to Smyrna and graphic stories came to this country of his work there. Not long after his return to this country, Dr. Adger desired to return to Smyrna, but the Northern American board, which had charge of the appointment of missionaries, refused to return him because Mrs. Adger owned a slave. This created a considerable stir at the time."

"In Charleston, Dr. Adger had the mission on Anson street, between Calhoun and George streets, but his health was failing him and he retired. Later, he went to Pendleton and assumed the pastorate of the Presbyterian Church. Dr. Adger was also a professor in the Theological Seminary at Columbia before and after the war. Since the war he lived in Pendleton and gave his time and his talents to his church and his flock. Mainly through his efforts and aid the old church was abandoned some years ago and a new house of worship was erected."

"Dr. Adger was among the few survivors of the older generation of the Adger family in Charleston, and he left many relatives in this city to mourn his death. "Dr. Adger's remains will be brought here from Pendleton to-night, and the funeral services will be held to-morrow morning at 10:30 o'clock, at the Second Presbyterian Church."

Belton Items.

The holidays passed off very quietly around Belton, there having been no accidents worthy of note, and people have gone about their usual business affairs with a spirit that would indicate that the year of 1899 is destined to be a red letter year in their lives. May we all not forget our good resolutions we have made, but try to keep them to the very end!

Quite a number of visitors were here during the holidays and since. We note the following: Mr. J. D. Coker, of Furman University; Mr. and Mrs. Z. McKinney, of Georgia; Miss Bessie McCullough, of Williamston; Miss Irene Osborne, of Anderson, and many others.

Rev. Mr. Tate filled his first appointment at the Baptist Church on the 1st Sunday, and preached most excellent sermons both morning and evening.

Mr. R. W. Anderson's family, which has lived here for many years has moved to Pendleton. The family has a host of friends here who regret to have them leave.

Rev. Mr. Dowell has moved to Columbia, where he goes to take charge of two churches.

All of the boys and girls who came home for the holidays have returned to their respective schools.

Mr. Jas. W. Poore, one of our very best men, we are sorry to chronicle has been very ill for some time. He is, however, reported much better now, and we trust he will soon be out again.

Mrs. Lizzie Majors, who resided 4 miles below here, died last Thursday, and was buried at Neal's Creek on Saturday. She had been almost if not quite an invalid for some years, and death came as a great relief to what must have been intense suffering.

Married, Dec. 27, 1898, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Brown, Mr. P. L. Thompson and Miss Nannie Brown, Rev. C. L. Stewart officiating.

Mr. J. M. Mattison, who for some time has had rheumatism, is out again, but is quite feeble.

Hon. A. C. Latimer has returned to Washington to attend his Congressional duties. XXXX.

Mrs. Julia Webb, from Hopewell, visited Mr. S. C. George and family last week.

Mr. W. D. Giles, from Townville, S. C., made a flying visit in our burg last Sunday.

Mr. Jim Gooden is very sick with pneumonia.

Miss Lillie Stevenson, of Townville, S. C., is visiting her grandfather's family.

After a few days with the sore eyes we are again in the "ring."

We promised to give the readers of your paper an account of how Christmas went through these parts, but as it is now nearly two weeks after Christmas we will just say we all had the "jolliest of jolly times." We had a few extra dinners, and a party or so every night. Some of us went visiting, some had company, and so here we went, but we have heard nearly all the young people express themselves as having had the merriest time they ever did have on a Christmas. So you see we are not dead up here by half.

There were several visitors in our community Christmas week, but we will not take time to name them all, but will say that they all were welcome, and hope they will not wait until next Christmas to come again.

Mr. Sumpter Finley, one of our most industrious and popular young men, is no longer with us, but has gone down on the Midway side to attend to the farm of his cousin. We wish Sumpter much success, and feel sure he will prove a good manager, for he is a farmer.

Mr. Clinkscapes, the saw mill man, is in our community cutting up a few "slabs." He is an old hand at the business, and knows his "biz."

We had the pleasure of attending the singing school at Midway last week, and those gentlemen certainly know how to teach music. We think the whole class was well pleased with the work. The concert Saturday night was well arranged, and though the class had not been together but a week we think they sang splendidly. The solo and duet which was sung by Misses Minnie Anderson, Julia Lewis and Annie Hall, was most charming, while the gentleman's solo was good, but, of course, not as good as the ladies'.

If you want to know who gets supper on Sunday nights, when he goes calling, ask that boy who the young lady gave a buttered biscuit with "lasses" on it.

We did not get left but once, Mr. Editor, and that was during Christmas. So, of course, it did not kill us.

With all the best wishes of much joy to everybody, we are the same

Denver Items.

Mrs. Moorehead and son, from Flowery Branch, Ga., have been visiting friends and relatives in our community.

Mrs. L. O. Hammond visited the family of Mr. J. W. Rothrock last week.

The community of Sandy Springs is fortunate in securing as a teacher Miss Maggie Tribble there are showing their appreciation by sending a large number of scholars. She is a graduate of Winthrop College, and has taught successfully for the last four years.

Mrs. M. D. Mays, nee Blackman, died at her home near Townville on the 5th inst., with consumption. She leaves a husband and five small children to mourn her loss. From childhood she had been a faithful member of the Methodist Church. Her remains were brought back to old Sandy Springs and interred. Our sympathy goes out to those who are so deeply bereaved.

A little negro, the child of Tom Hamilton, was burned to death last week on Mr. R. W. Hammond's place. Its parents went off to pick cotton nearly a mile from the house leaving the child with another one about four years old in the house. When they came in at noon they found the child burnt to death, and the older one in the yard crying. They supposed its clothing was ignited by a spark from the fireplace, near which it was lying.

There was no preaching at Mount Zion Church last Sabbath, owing to the illness of the pastor, Rev. J. L. McLin.

The congregation at Sandy Springs are much pleased with their new preacher, Rev. A. B. Watson.

Mr. George Blasingame, formerly of this County, but now of Howe, Texas, has been visiting friends in Denver.

Some of our best farmers are talking of planting tobacco instead of all cotton this year. INCOG.

Pendleton Items.

Dr. J. B. Adger, D. D., died of catarrhal pneumonia, at 10 o'clock Tuesday night, Jan. 8th. His remains were carried to Charleston Jan. 5th, to be buried in the family burying ground in that city. The remains were accompanied by Mr. O. A. Bowen and Mr. Adger Smythe. In the death of Dr. Adger the Presbyterian Church loses one of its shining lights. We extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family.

Mrs. Neal, Dr. Adger's daughter, has been quite sick, but is better. Mrs. McLees, who was for a long time one of the household at Dr. Adger's, has been and is yet quite sick. Their sickness prevented them from attending the funeral.

Mr. W. H. Smith, who is located at Sandersville, Ga., as cotton buyer, has been home on a visit to his mother, Mrs. J. D. Smith.

Mrs. J. W. Simpson and little son have returned from their visit to Spartanburg.

Mr. Anderson, who is now section foreman of the Blue Ridge Railroad, has moved his family here.

Rev. J. F. Singleton, who is to supply the Baptist Church as pastor for the ensuing year, was here to hold his regular service on Sunday, but owing to the unfinished condition of the Church, he failed to hold his service. He was invited by the Rev. B. P. Reid to lecture to the Presbyterian Sunday School, and he delivered a fine lecture. Mr. Singleton is located at Mr. H. H. Mounce's. We extend Mr. Singleton a hearty welcome to our town.

Wishing all a happy New Year.

News From old Rocky River.

The merry Christmas is over, but we are not altogether over it yet. Yet we had a nice time, enjoyed ourselves the very best, mingling with the fine Rocky River girls and visiting handsome young ladies.

Miss Bessie Cowan, one of Mohawk's brightest and fairest and most promising young ladies, spent a few days in Christmas in this community. Come again, we are always glad to have you among us, especially some certain ones.

Mr. Ben Roe, one of the near-by mountain young gents, visited his brother, Mr. R. M. Roe, of this section, in the merry Christmas times. He may return back to his home, but some young lady will have his heart. Go it, Bennie.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hall and little daughter, of the Antreville section, spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Parker Alewine, of this flourishing fair view.

How strange, how sad and how disgusting above all it is to have deceitful people in your neighborhood. Some people can go to town and buy some old rotten, good-for-nothing whiskey and come home and cause hard feelings in your family and insult strangers, and above all, go to church with a book under their arm and be as good as Christ's disciples in their way.

There are a great many people changing homes in this section this week, some for the better and some for the worse—we suppose. We should be proud of our lives, no matter where we make our homes, but the most of us are grasping for the cents in the future, and are not studying about our lives.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Moore spent a few days last week with relatives in the Nation, and returned on Sunday evening.

By the way, two of our old bachelors went to the little village of Abbeville a few days before Christmas, and they met up with a negro who lives near them, and the negro not having any too much wit, they decided they would treat him by carrying him into a restaurant and giving him all he could eat. When he was through the bill was only fifty cents, and next to the dispensary, and the same as above. By that time he had more than would stay with him, and the police came to his side. The boys thought that would be too bad, and so they paid his bill—all amounting to two dollars and no fun. Say, boys, I wonder if you will want to treat a foolish negro again?

The most of the poor farmers are still expecting to sow a great quantity of oats yet. Let the good work go on.

Dewberry's Observations.

Once again, Mr. Editor, we come before you to give the many readers of the dear old INTELLIGENCER a few of the incidents and happenings of our rambles.

On last Wednesday afternoon we had the good luck to witness a pretty church wedding. On that day Mr. Robert Griffin led to the altar, to be united in hymen's bonds, Miss Madge Wardlaw, eldest daughter of Mr. Brown Wardlaw, of near Dorchester. Long before the appointed hour arrived, the Church was filled with the relatives and friends of the happy couple. The Church was beautifully and tastefully decorated with Flora's rarest productions. When the party reached the Church there was a large crowd assembled to witness the nuptials. Mrs. Annie Acker rendered a beautiful march on the organ as the party entered the building. The attendants came first and formed a semi-circle around the lovely arch that loving hands had erected for the occasion. Then came the happy pair, and taking their place under the arch. As the last strains of the music died away, Rev. W. B. Hawkins advanced and in an impressive and solemn manner pronounced them husband and wife. The attendants were in the following order: Mr. J. A. Dillingham and wife, Mr. A. T. Newell and Miss Lena Campbell, Mr. Clarence Rice and Miss Pannex Sutherland, Mr. Fred Griffin and Miss Lola Wardlaw, Messrs. Lige Griffin and Charley Poore acted as ushers. After the ceremony the party repaired to Belton to see the departure of the happy couple. The groom is a successful business man of Lockhart, while the bride is one of the most lovable young ladies of this section. They leave a host of friends who wish them all the happiness attainable in this world.

We spent part of the holidays at our old home at Piercetown. Last Thursday evening we had the pleasure of attending a most enjoyable sociable at the residence of Mr. Charlie Webb. Mr. Webb and his charming daughter certainly know how to make us bashful boys have a good time. There were only a few selected friends invited, and we certainly enjoyed ourselves.

The rain prevented many from attending the lecture at Cross Roads Saturday evening, but in spite of the weather the house was about filled.

By the way, we liked to have rained our Sunday shoes over the muddy road, but we don't care a cent if we did. What is any more pleasant than having one of Eve's fairest daughters by your side and conversing in her sweetest tones? "Oh, shoe fly!"

All day long we have been pulling Cupid's darts out of our heart, and we are not half through yet, but we hope ere another day has passed we will have them all eradicated.

Wishing all a happy New Year.

Old Stone Churchyard.

Editors Intelligencer: While looking over this cemetery it carries one back into the earliest days of the history of this section of the State. Among the dead here are natives of London, England, Ireland, France, Germany, Scotland, Belgium and Sweden. These were no doubt the pioneers, while mingled among them are the names and recollections of the heroes of the Indian, Revolutionary, Mexican, Florida and civil wars, and representatives of a great number, if not all, of the denominations of churches. The private soldier up to the greatest general, patriots great and small, rest here. The ancestral pride of many of South Carolina's noted families are here. Yet, when it comes down to tangible business in the way of contributions toward this cemetery fence, it is a burning shame to know that we are to-day getting as much money from Georgia as we are getting from South Carolina.

There are many whose ancestors, near and far back, lie here that have not yet given anything, while an ex-mayor of Charleston, S. C., who has no personal interest there, has contributed ten dollars. This is of a type of patriotism that does not fade out with age; this kind of patriotism is of the strongest type and will not degenerate like we fear has been the case of many of the descendants of heroes who to-day sleep in this historic cemetery at the Old Stone Church.

A poor widow, who has a very hard struggle for her daily bread, is now anxious to get up just one dollar to put into the fence that is to preserve the sacred spot where her husband sleeps, who died in the army defending his country, while several wealthy men who have made money to loan by the thousands (under the protection of the laws that this man died to defend) are not contributing one dime toward this patriotic enterprise.

These heroes and patriots have struggled years, fought days and nights defending and reclaiming and preserving our common country. They have made the laws, defended them, civilized and settled our country for us. We are now enjoying the benefits of their hard struggles and are living to-day in perhaps the most progressive part of our whole country. Are we thankful for these privileges and blessings? If so, write it down around their graves with an iron fence.

J. C. STRIBLING. Send in contributions for the fence to Rev. B. P. Reid, Pendleton, S. C.

Railroad News.

"Mr. Jesse Cleveland, the popular representative of the Louisville & Nashville railway, who has just returned from a business trip in the west, was seen by a reporter yesterday and asked what the news in railroad circles was. The recent changes, purchases and negotiations of other railway systems does not affect the L. & N., but we are getting our share of the business here and at all other points. As a soliciting agent of the Georgia Railroad, which is leased by the L. & N., I can say that our business has increased considerably and it is steadily growing. Being the representative of both these railroads, I am in a position to give a few interesting points in regard to the business."

"The report of the Louisville & Nashville's earnings for December shows an increase of $57,233 over the same month last year. Since July 1, last, the earnings were $1,819,769, an increase of $745,956 compared with the same period of 1897."—Spartanburg Herald, 5th inst.
