WEDNESDAY, JULY 26, 1899.

It is surprising to us that some of the Southern editors could use their papers in saying mean things about Fighting Joe Wheeler, a man who has shown by every act of his life that he cares more for his country than he did for wealth

Secretary of War Russell A. Alger has tendered his resignation as a member of President McKinley's Cabinet, and it has been accepted. Elihu Root, of New York, has been appointed his successor. The resignation of Secretary Alger is believed to have been sought by the President.

The United States government has not yet restored the postoffice at Lake City, S. C., and the good people of that section are being deprived of the mail facilities. This is an outrage, and deserves the condemnation of every citizen of our whole country. If a mob of five or six men were to assassinate the postmester of Boston or some other Republican stronghold, would the government deprive the people of that city of mail facilities?

can exhibit at the Paris exposition will astonish Europe in the matter of machinery, whatever it may do in agriculture and other industrial matters. The showing of American skill in heavy mechanical ironworking will, it is said, be the most complete that America has ever made, either at home or abroad. There will be at least 17 American locomotives on exhibition, and the examples of other structural work, such as bridges, etc., will be equally extensive. The commissioners think that the mechanical department will, in its way, be quite as great a surprise to Europe as was the Spanish war.

Elberton, Ga., is going to have a cartry will be present.

Of all classes of people, ministers of dard. Let the ministry abandon wild, hysterical ravings and stick closely to the truth and the cause of the Master will be considerably advanced.

Many fathers and mothers do not rehome study for the children. The inon the play ground, in the church and in the recitation room. When a child is thoroughly trained at home in the principles above stated, its education is half completed.

How detestable is the slanderer! By the side of him the midnight assassin might almost be permitted to go unwhipt of justice; for this one aims the dagger only to take away human life, while that one hurls his poisonous shafts with the deliberate intent of ruining reputation and killing character. Wholly corrupt, he finds nothing good in others; blinded, he can not see in any life the beautiful flowers of virtue and innocence and loveliness, and therefore insists that these do not bloom. He is never happy except when impugning the motives of others and ascribing sinister purposes to all their efforts. Like the harpies in fabled story, his presence is nauseous, his touch polluting. Often indeed he succeeds in turning some innocent victim's cup of life, otherwise sweet, into a bitter draught: but there remains the comforting assurance that in the end his plans will go awry and his purposes fail of accomplishment. Commend us to the man of magnanimity, though he possess a thousand faults, rather than to the loathsome villifier of his kind. Pitiable, as well as detestable, is the narrow-minded and mean-spirited man who cannot recognize merit nor appreciate worth even in an enemy.

In the death of Col. Robert G. Ingersoll, fraud loses one of its most able advocates, nihilism its trusted apostle, and blasphemy its inspired silver tongue. He, among all modern infidels, has sown broadcast over the field more of the tares of unbelief and doubt than can be reckoned from the human point of view. He sowed a whirlwind, and he has reaped -. Ah! we can not peer beyond this "narrow vale between | Spring. the cold and barren peaks of two eternities. We strive in vain to look beyond the heights. We cry aloud, and the only answer is the echo of our the unreplying dead there comes no Maggie Erwin. word:" but from the depths of doubting hearts, shattered faiths and blasted hopes rises a mournful requiem for the end of the great unknowing soul. Let the harvest he has sown, for if the blood and sighs of every one from whom he struck the armor of Faith is placed on his now knowing head, he is sunken to-night beneath a raging, ever restless, turgid sea of blood with the wailing and the weeping and the remorseful sighing of every surging billow. He was a plausible reasoner, yet under analysis a sophist and a perverter, fond of mystification by specious arguments and magical phrases. He was an advocate of purity, domestic happiness, education, temperance and freedom; and the unrelenting foe of canting hypocrisy, for it was through these banes to the church's spirituality that his antagonism was directed to the whole. He was a man of master intellect and swayed his hearers like reeds in the wind. We are told that he died as he wished, suddenly; but we can but think think that his taking off was a complete disappointment to him. Had he lingered long before treading the sombrous shore of the Stygian flood, he intended giving the lie to all his fallacious doctrines a foolish world so eager drank, and proclaim the truth he now knows too well. The seed he sowed are still germinating. Who, then, can say what the fruitage will be? His doctrine, as pernicious as the loathed intemperance he so strongly denounced, to quote his own words, "Burns up men, consumes women, detests life, curses God and despises

TALK NO. 3.

A MISTAKE.

There is a popular opinion that glasses should never be worn so long as the eyes can possibly get along without them. There was never a greater mistake.
The very first symptoms of defective eye sight, the first indication of fatigue, ahould be recognized as nature's call for help To persist in forcing the eyes to perform work too great for their endur-ance, is simply an abuse of the most pre-cious sense we have The most eminent cious sense we have The most eminent authority says that the greater percentage of cataract and other diseases of the eye are brought about by this habit than from all other causes combined. If you have the slightest suspicion that your eyes are not perfectly correct, I want to look them over. A defect that may be easily remedied now may be difficult later, thus a little care at the proper time may save you untold misery and many years of sight.

HELP US MOVE!

WE beg of you for help to move. This is no joke. We are in cold earnest and will prove it to you. Listen while we talk, and then take your turn at speech-

We have again outgrown our pantaloon breeches, (as a Dutchman once said,) and we must make dem some more big. Or to make it clear to you, the house in which we do business has become too small to conveniently accommodate our large and growing trade. Hence we have secured a larger and more desirable house on Granite Row. Now, we have not forgotten what a job it was four years ago Farmers will complete their work to lug about nine thousand dollars of stuff up here from our little old place, though the back doors were almost touching. And how much more of a job will it be now for us to move over twenty-five thousand of Goods clear across the Public Square. We don't want to do it, and we ain't agoin' to do it. No, we are just going to make a grab-pile of it, and let our friends and enemies come in and carry it off for us. To give you an idea of our intentions in the matter-listen:

For every ten cents traded with us we will give you a help-move ticket. If you trade 50c. worth you get five help-move tickets, and so on. These tickets entitle the holders to free grabs at the pile, or 1c in trade for each ticket held. Nor is that all. Every little boy or girl who comes in and buys 25c. worth of Goods, or is with an older person who buys 25c. worth or more, we will give free one Hickory or Boxwood Top or a tiny Doll Baby—either black or white. Nor is this all. To the person trading the greatest number of bills, amounting to over one dollar. between now and August 28th, we will give first choice of two German Yokell Clocks—greatly prized as an ornament souvenir. To the person trading the most bills, amounting to over 25c, we will give another Clock like above. Only one bill can be recorded in one day.

But, Minor, says some one, you can't worth or more, we will give free one

But, Minor, says some one, you can't afford it. Well, we admit as much, but we do it, anyhow. Now listen for prices to frighten competition. Oh, yes, they'll have to use a camphor bottle to keep up spirits now:

The program embraces many attractive features and the affair is certain to prove a big success. Among the long list of attractions appears horse racing, bicycle contests, shooting tournaments, fire works display, balloon ascensions, military pageants, brass band tournaments, baseball and tennis games. An old-fashioned Georgia barbecue and a spell. big horseswappers' convention are also down on the program. Distinguished orators from all sections of the coun-

the gospel should be more cautious in and the strong and the blind and the seeing look for moderation as pointers of "the Way." The very immoderate declaration of Rev. Henry McDonald, of Atlenta, that "should Bob Ingersoll be arrested for preaching his doctrine on the streets of Atlanta, he would be the first to go on his bond," is not taken seriously by those who know this reverend gentleman, still it shows that the Church is constantly trying to condeseend to the world and its contaminations instead of trying to maintain a standard of her own and insisting on the world's recognition of that stan-
