Captain Dreyfus, of France, should beg his American sympathizers to cease finding analogies between his case and that of Captain Carter, of President McKinley's watchful care.

The Democrats of Ohio have nominated Editor McLean, of the Cincinnati Enquirer as their candidate for Governor. He is a brainy man and one of the most popular citizens of the State.

Kansas should be prosperous. According to one of the papers up there that State has two head of cattle, one hog, one-third of a horse, and four-fifths of a sheep for every man, woman, and child within its borders.

The New Orleans Picayune is so firmly convinced that there will presently be an upward movement and a stiffening of the cotton market that it is advising its farmer readers "not to be cajoled or induced to part with their cotton at a low price through fear of a heavy crop."

Despite parental objection, the beautiful and bewitching Donalds Township and Anderson County were united in the bonds of matrimony before the State Board of Canvassers in Columbia last Friday. Gen. M. L. Bonham, of this city, acted well the role of best man.

The national Democracy is in good shape just now for winning a great victory in 1904. Much to the dismay of the Republicans an unusual amount of harmony prevails in the Democratic ranks throughout the nation. The east is gradually coming back into line, the west and south are where they were in 1896, only stronger and better equipped for the fray.

The industrial spirit in South Carolina is more pronounced just now than at any other period in the State's history. There are comparatively few towns in the State that haven't an industry of some kind, and the town that has none is working with might and main to get one, while those that have one or two are seeking others. Let the good work go on.

Why should not harnessed lightning lend its useful aid to agricultural endeavor as well as to the transportation, light and news facilities of the times? Its possibilities in this direction are not overlooked entirely. The Philadelphia Record tells about an enterprising farmer near Johnsville, N. Y., who has an electric plant on his place. The motive power is furnished by two falls in a creek which courses through his land. With this invisible agent at work on the farm, the saving of labor will be enormous. Rural homes may be lighted brilliantly at small expense. Possibly the domestic economy of the household may be revolutionized.

W. A. Neal, ex-Superintendent of the State Penitentiary, who has been justly given the name of the "Mark Hanna" of the Reform party in South Carolina, has been arrested under three indictments and would have gone to jail had it not been for the kindness of two of Columbia's staunch citizens, Mr. W. B. Lowrance and Capt. Geo. A. Shields, who signed his bond, $3,500. These gentlemen belong to that "old rotten, aristocratic ring who ruled South Carolina" prior to 1890. Col. Neal has been courted by nearly every Reform office-seeker for years past, and yet when he needed their aid and assistance not one of them came to his rescue. Ingratitude is a very mild term to apply to such action.

Many people will be surprised to learn that the postal establishment of the United States is the greatest business concern in the world. Charles Emory Smith, the postmaster-general, writing in the Cosmopolitan, tells us that it handles more pieces, employs more men, spends more money, brings more revenues, uses more agencies, reaches more homes, involves more details and touches more interests than any other human organization, public or private, governmental or corporate. The postoffice department directs 73,570 postoffices, musters an army of 200,000 employees, spends this year $105,000,000 and counts receipts to nearly the same amount. It handled last year 6,204,447,000 pieces of mail matter, of which 2,825,767,000 were letters, so that every minute confides 12,000 new messages to its hands. It manufactured and delivered postage stamps to the number of 3,913,821,608, and the value of $71,788,333. It carried 2,069,742,000 newspapers.

Rev. William M. Grier, D. D., President of Erskine College, died at his home in Due West last Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. His death was sudden and unexpected. He preached at Bethlehem in the forenoon, reached home at 2 p. m., complained of being very sick, fell back in his chair, and never regained consciousness. Apoplexy was the cause. The deceased graduated at Erskine College in 1860. He enlisted in the Sixth South Carolina regiment and lost a leg at the battle of Williamsburg. He studied theology and was pastor of a church in Wilcox county, Alabama, and afterwards was elected president of Erskine College, at the age of 29, and held that position at the time of his death. He was one of the most distinguished educators of the south, and noted for his eloquence as a preacher. For many years he was editor of The Associate Reformed Presbyterian, and held that position until his death. Dr. Grier was 56 years of age, and by his death South Carolina loses one of her noblest men. A widow and seven children are left to cherish his memory.

Maj. Franz Melchers, editor of the Deutsche Zeitung, Charleston, S. C., died at his home in that city last Sunday night, aged 73 years. The deceased was a native of Germany, and came to Charleston in 1843, where he has made his home ever since, being engaged in journalism nearly all that time. He served his adopted State faithfully through the civil war as an officer of the German Artillery, and represented Charleston two terms in the State Legislature. The deceased was a charter member of the South Carolina State Press Association and for the past fifteen years served as its Treasurer, which he resigned only a few weeks ago at the annual meeting at Harris Springs on account of his ill health. The writer has been intimately acquainted with him for a number of years, and we can sincerely say that we never have known a better or more congenial Christian gentleman. We deeply sympathize with the two sons and three daughters who are left to cherish his memory.

There is not a man so depraved and hardened who can see, unmoved, barbarities and cruelties perpetrated on our faithful domestic animals by thoughtless keepers, drivers and others having them in charge. When a crippled, halting, suffering mule is goaded on by a cruel driver everyone is ready to say "that fellow ought to be taken up and whipped and his mule taken away from him," yet no one is willing in the interest of humanity to take the initiative and have the miscreant arrested and prosecuted under the laws. The city of Anderson is big enough and suffers enough from such flagrant violations of the law to justify the organization of a society of Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, whose duty it will be to report such cases and prosecute them. Within the past week we have seen such cruelty to animals as would not be tolerated a moment in many smaller towns, and it is now high time that Anderson should say to these brutal owners and drivers that they both must suffer the consequences of any cruelty to which their stock is subjected, certainly within the city limits. Let the good people formulate some plan of organization and proceed at once to business. There is no use to delay this matter for some one else to take the first step. It is too important a matter to delay, and we hope to publish in our next issue a call from some one who is willing to do a duty too often shifted upon some one else's shoulders.

On the first of September Supervisor Snelgrove's term of office expired by resignation. During his term many miles of dirt roads have been constructed, the finest Court House and Jail in the State have been built, and the County's poor made comfortable. Major Vandiver, the incoming Supervisor, is also a man of well poised parts, independent of all restraints, unhampered by any ring or clique, and a man who will administer the finances of the County as judiciously and as impartially as rests in his power. It must be remembered that he has not been schooled, as yet, in the intricacies of the office, and inasmuch as there has been much discussion regarding the state of the County's finances, we would recommend for his own and the people's satisfaction that he prepare at the earliest date possible for presentation to the Grand Jury at its next term of Court a clear, concise, detailed statement of the condition of the County, showing its enumerated assets and liabilities, and how the latter are secured. We have no hesitancy in saying that Supervisor Snelgrove's books are quite accurately and neatly kept, and will show very clearly what the people at large are anxious to know. If it is not proper that this exhibit should appear at the time mentioned, it is certainly incumbent upon the office to make the showing asked for in its annual report, as these reports seldom give out a satisfactory idea of the basis of taxation. Another suggestion: Let the Supervisor peruse the recommendations of the Grand Jury for the past three or four years that he may acquaint himself of the unfulfilled demands and suggestions of that body. We know that there are certain recommendations that have not been carried out owing to the finances of the County. The people want to know when these will be carried out without plunging the County into debt. One of these recommendations we recall is the one relating to the building of permanent roads similar to the Mecklenburg, N. C. roads. It is a fact demonstrated over and over again the past winter that the same expenditure of energy on macadam roads requisite to drag a heavy two-horse wagon through the endless and almost bottomless mire of dirt roads will produce more than double the amount of taxes required to build and maintain a macadam road. These suggestions are not made with any view to underrate the ability of the new incumbent to ascertain the will of the people but to assist him in that duty, as we know that he recognizes the fact that to be an acceptable servant of the people one must do the people's will.

The shortest honeymoon and the quickest application for divorce on record are reported in the Winfield (Kan.) Courier. On Monday of last week a resident of Pawnee, O. T., was married to a young woman of Winfield. It was noticed that the bridegroom was somewhat under the influence of liquor during the ceremony, and when he retired to the room of the bride he sat down in a chair and at once went to sleep. When he awakened two hours later his bride was still with him, but she had been transformed from an affectionate girl into an angry and disgusted woman. She turned a deaf ear to all his apologies and entreaties, and walked out of the room and straight to a lawyer's office, where she commenced action for divorce.

A story comes from Georgetown County of the eating alive of a young negro child by a wild hog, which ventured out of a swamp and seized upon its prey. The mother of the child came upon the scene just in time to save a few fragments of the child's body, upon which the animal was still munching. The swamps in that section were at one time filled with wild boars and animals of that class.

The business connections of a family in Kirwin, Kas., are rather suggestive. One son is doctor, another is an undertaker, a third makes tombstones, and the wife of the latter is a druggist.

A man never knows what he can do until he tries, and then he is often sorry that he found out.

A Tribute. Died, in this city, Aug. 23, 1899, Bertha, fifth daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence O. Burton, aged 11 years 11 months and 6 days. She had been ill four weeks with malarial fever. A few days before her death she told one of her sisters she was going over yonder, and asked her to meet her in heaven. She was very industrious and ever ready to do her duty. On Thursday morning her remains were carried down on the train to Cook's Station for burial. Rev. Elias Spearman conducting the funeral services at the M. E. Church. After the services her body was laid to rest in the cemetery. The newly-made grave was decorated from head to foot with beautiful wreaths and crosses, made by the hands of loving friends and schoolmates. The family has the sympathy of all their friends.

A FRIEND. Card of Thanks. MR. EDITOR: We desire to extend our thanks to the friends and neighbors who so kindly ministered to our venerable father, Nimrod T. Smith, during his illness. May the good Lord reward each and every one of them. S. W. SMITH, BROTHERS AND SISTERS.

American Pharmaceutical Association Will convene at Put-in-Bow, O., Sept. 4th-18th, 1899. The Southern Railway announces sale of tickets on the above occasion at rate one and one-third first class fare on the certificate plan, to delegates attending this meeting. J. C. HEYWARD, T. P. Machine men are mistaken if they think they can buy Belting, Steam Fittings or any kind of Machine Supplies anywhere in the U. S. cheaper than Sullivan Hardware Co. offer their goods. To please the hardest customer is our pride and purpose if he is worth pleasing. Any man who can't be pleased with Sullivan Hardware Co.'s Belting and prices is simply beyond hope. It is the particular customer, the investigating, well-informed buyer that we like to strike when he comes to town for his Hardware, Implements or Machinery. We, that is, Sullivan Hardware Co., know that all such will snap bargains when offered. Twenty-five Dollars will buy a fairly good square practice Piano at the C. A. Reed Music House. They are intrinsically worth double that amount.

E. M. RUCKER, Jr., ATTORNEY AT LAW, WEBB BUILDING, Anderson, S. C. The Williamston Bank. BIDS will be received for the building of the Williamston Bank until the 20th inst. The right is reserved to reject any or all bids. W. A. McKELVY, Chairman. Sept 6, 1899 11 2

The Alliance Store!

We sell Goods Cheap, but we do not sell Cheap Goods.

August must be kept busy irrespective of profit. Reduced prices at which we now sell apply not only to Goods of Fashion but to styles as well. "Staples" are Goods used the year round, not subject to change of style, and therefore seldom offered at a sacrifice. Our prices rule lower than present wholesale rates. Nevertheless, for the balance of this month as an extra inducement we will sell even lower, feeling that the money-saving opportunity will be so quickly recognized that our sales will be doubled.
