"Bryan and Schley" comes powerful handy.

Admiral Dewey's rallying song for his campaign should be the old refrain: "Needles and pins, needles and pins; when a man marries his trouble be gins.'

Wheat and corn farmers in the West are forming a trust to control prices of their products. Why not have a cotton trust of the cotton farmers to control the price of their products?

North Carolina Democrats have declared for a Senatorial primary to be held in November, One by one they're coming into the fold. Let the good work go on, it's death on corruptionists!

Many a poor lawyer has made his jack by claiming an advantage by a technicality, and many a rascal goes scot free by dodging behind this never failing bulwark. The bigger the rascal, the more numerous the technicalities is the usual rule. Senators Tillman and McLaurin have at last gotten together in a common version regarding Democratic policy. They are both on record as favoring bounties to protected interests. It is really sweet to see brethren dwell together in such perfect harmony.

The suggestion of our own Joe Wheeler for Vice-President on the ticket with Dewey is militarism gone to seed. Gen. Wheeler has lost much of his former prestige by accepting with such avidity the sop given by Me-Kinley and his imperial associates: and Dewey-well, nuf ced !

The Senate committee on Privileges and Elections, having recommended the expulsion of Clark, the purchaser of the Montana Legislature, cannot well do otherwise than purge itself of the usurper Quay, who could not buy the entire Pennsylvania Legislature but secured in some way an appointment from the Governor.

The Democratic primary election took place last Saturday in Alabama, and the race for the United States Morgan, who was re-elected by an County, and of the first settlers who ing. overwhelming vote. The Alabamians deserve the congratulations of the and greatness, has induced us to give last Saturday night, was much enjoyed whole country.

Secretary Gage, of the Treasury Department, in submitting a report of internal revenue receipts under the war stamp Act, has recommended the repeal of the stamp Act at once, inasmuch as the surplus of entire revenues collected over total expenditures are seventy million dollars, and under the same laws the coming year will produce an eighty million surplus. The country is also upon a professedly peace basis and there is clearly no need of collecting such an enormous surplus from the pockets of the people, when the finances of the government do not require it. The stamp Act, if not repealed at this session of Congress, will prove another large millstone around the neck of the dominant party.

Senator Tillman's successful fight for a 12 per cent, bounty to American cable manufacturers in the construction of the new Pacific cable will, it is thought, be sufficient nourishment for those struggling infant industries affected until they are able to stand alone. It is well to foster these weak and struggling institutions whenever we can and whenever we can't, in season and out of season; and if we can create one rich concern without a perceptible loss to the individual taxpayer, we are thereby building up the country and driving money from its hiding places to seek investment. This is one way to build up a country -but what do the "wool hat boys"

Our usually sensible and valued contemporary, the Columbia State, does credit to its conservatism in its comments on the operators' strike now on against the Southern Railroad. Its tone is conciliatory and is calculated to and R. A. Lewis, Mrs. Asbury Bigby, keep down the angry passions now at fever heat. The State says in part: fever heat. The State says in part: Strikes have been so rare—and for-tunately so—in the South that this one is something of a curiosity. We hope the experience will not soon be repeat-ed and that this section may be spared all forms of labor troubles. But these are to be expected as the natural conse-quences of more numerous industries and the results of the increased powers of corporations. The Southern rail-way, however, has always been so con-siderate of its employes that it seems a pity it should be the victim—or cause —of one of these unfortunate af-fairs. fairs.

Berry's boyhood was spent around Sandy Springs. In 1839 he moved to Stantonville and engaged in merchandising with James Lewis. They were highly successful, and in 1850, when the railroad came and Belton was founded, Berry, foreseeing the possibilities and advantages the road afforded, severed his connection at Stantonville and opened out the first store in Belton. In this move he was successful and accumulated a large property. He continued in business until 1880, when he sold out to Messrs A. J. Stringer and J. W. Poore. He retired to his farm, a mile and a half above Belton, and spent his remaining years in peace and contentment and in the enjoyment | fried chicken in abundance. of the fruits of his labors, and the pleasure of country life. He died in 1891.

In 1839 he met Miss May Gambrell, a grace and beauty, as well as for the qualities of mind and heart which make up the true lady. She was descended from the Royal family of England, and was the acknowledged belle of the section in which she lived.

A mutual attachment sprang up between them which soon ripened into love. But as Romeo had round his Juliet it was not until September, 1843, that Romeo claimed Juliet as his bride Senator Tillman has introduced an amendment to the sundry civil appropriation bill designed to bring about a settlement of the claim of this State against the Federal government. South Carolina has long had cortain claims against the government of which it has been unable to secure payment. The government, on the other hand, has a claim against the State, and it is Senator Tillman's hope that the counter claims may be adjudicated and a set-tlement finally reached.

* Science and invention have some new marvel for us almost every day. The time has passed when we are surprised at anything. Wireless telegraphy was on first reports considered a wild impracticality, but its success has been demonstrated. Now comes printing without ink. This art is in practical use in England. The printing is done by means of electricity the young people of his congregation which acts from the face of type upon damp paper containing chemical qualities which the electricity decomposes.

There are outrages and outrages, but the most outrageous ontrage ever perpetrated upon justice scems now to be the inexplicable verdict of that Chesterfield jury in the case of the Jacksons for the murder of Cassie Boan, a young white woman. How they could be deserving of the mercy of the Court and at the same time guilty of rape, butchery and murder by burning is past all finding out. Chesterfield's sense of justice is clearly at a very low ebb and her ideas of mercy seem to be even overflowing.

The overwhelming vote in the House in favor of the minority resolution recommending popular election of Senators, while very gratifying to the friends of that measure, is not at all surprising. The popular wave of sen-timent which has swept the country for the past four years has left a healthy sediment of wholesome thought indeed, quite a success. and logic, the quickening qualities of which have proven their potency by their prolific fruitage. To the sober meditative reasoning of the American voter, force has been added by the apt and timely illustrations of the base uses to which Legislatures are put to further the ambition of an unscrupulous politician. It is a lamentable fact of American history that several members of the upper chamber have actually bought their seats there as if they had been on sale at the box office. This in almeasure accounts for the presence there of mercenary tools of the trusts who could gain admittance in ny other way. If the Senate concurs in the House resolution, there is little doubt that the amendment will be ratified by the State Legislatures.

If there were more papers of the State's calibre there would be fewer fomentations and agitations in the industrial world. There would be no stirring of the live embers to excite the passions between labor and capital. These two forces must be taught and encouraged to work together in harmony, otherwise there are dark days ahead for both.

Zarline Happenings.

To-day Mother Nature seems alive; trees budding, flowers blooming, insects humming, birds singing and lovers wooing. Everything tells us that Spring is here again. The farmers have been hustling around for the last three weeks. Some are ready to plant cotton, many have already planted up-land corn. Rev. W. D. Moorer, our beloved pastor, preached an interesting sermon to

We visited the Septus section re-cently, Mr. Editor, and were surprised very much to see such a fine prospect the people have of getting a good wheat crop. # GOOD COTTON HOE.

A PERFECT HOE should have a straight, well-seaoned has dle, made of the best grade selected timber. The blade should be made of a high quality of steel, perfectly tempered and properly sharpened. The shanks should be of the same high quality of steel, and so fitted into the handles as to make their pulling out, from ordinary usage, impossible. All Hoes should be set to exactly suit the purpose for which they are intended. To find a Hoe that fully meets all of these requirements we invite you to come and inspect our line. Men, women and children will here find a Hoe to suit them. All weights and sizes are comprised in our mammoth stock.
