King & Martin have bought the bankrupt stock of Keith & Co. They bought it very cheap and will dispose of it in the same way. It has been moved to their present store, but they are going to move to their new stand in a short while and they don't want to move these goods twice. A word to the wise is sufficient.

Last Wednesday afternoon during a heavy rain and thunder storm the lightning struck a tree in the yard of Mr. Fleetwood Clinkscales, near Belton, and, passing from the tree, it demolished the gate, scorched the piazza and broke out several window panes in the living house. Fortunately none of the family were injured.

Sanders Lodge, No. 152, Knights of the Mystic Chain, was organized in this city last Friday evening with the following officers: W. W. Crayton, Past Commander; Dr. W. W. Chisholm, Vice Commander; J. S. Crayton, Recorder; Dr. J. A. Crawford, Treasurer; C. B. Hall, Marshal; M. L. Burris, Guard; E. Henderson, Sentry; W. H. Nardin, Jr., Physician; T. A. Ratliffe, Jr., Chaplain; Trustees, J. H. Bass, R. A. Burris, N. B. Sharpe.

A little son of Mr. A. C. Cromer met with a sad and fatal accident at his home near Townville last Saturday. The little fellow was playing in the yard, where there was a barrel of water. He managed to climb to the top of it and fell in. His mother, missing him, searched for him and found him in the barrel. She pulled him out but he was beyond human aid, and after gasping a few times his soul took its flight. The body was interred at Double Springs Church on Sunday, a large concourse of sorrowing friends attending the funeral services.

J. A. Stevenson died at his home near Union last Wednesday night, aged 54 years. Mr. Stevenson had been a citizen of Belton about fifteen years and was engaged in merchandising until a few years ago, when he retired to his farm. He was a son of Robert Stevenson and was born and reared in this city. He was a most worthy, Christian gentleman, and most highly esteemed by a wide circle of friends and relatives. A wife and six children survive him. On Thursday the remains were interred in the Baptist Churchyard at Belton, Rev. W. I. Tate conducting the funeral services.

We are in receipt of the handsomely illustrated catalogue of Converse College, showing its elegant plant and high standard of work. This is an institution of which the whole State should be proud. It is a permanent gift to the cause of educating our young men, and is controlled by a non-denominational Board of trustees. It has a good endowment and is ranking in the South as the best college for women do in the North. Everything is up to the highest standard in its equipment and work. We call attention to the advertisement in this issue.

Two young people from Anderson County, Mr. Bolton and Miss Cox, ran away from home last Sunday and came to Greenwood and got married. The groom is 22 and the bride 15, not out of short dresses. The father of the bride, Mr. A. S. Cox, came down Tuesday and the young couple returned home with him Wednesday. The girl is very pretty and appears to be satisfied with the new relation, says that she is quite young to be married, but she has a good Christian for a husband and does not regret any repentance of the act, at leisure or otherwise.—Greenwood Journal, 14th inst.

The Piedmont correspondent of the Greenville Mountain writes last Saturday, says: "George W. Hale, of Anderson, met with quite a painful accident at the Piedmont Mill No. 2 on Wednesday morning. Mr. Hale was assisting in splicing the main driving belts, when he stepped on them and fell into a belt hole and fell to the floor. Fortunately no bones were broken, but the gentleman received a severe cut in the scalp, and was bruised about his right shoulder. George is no longer in the mill, and when he turns something 'draps' about twelve years ago Mr. Hale fell down an elevator well in much the same way in the same mill, and hurt himself pretty badly."

Mrs. Mary J. Clarke, widow of the late J. B. Clarke, died at her home in this city last Wednesday night, after an illness of several weeks, aged 73 years. Many of her friends knew of her illness but were not expecting her death, the announcement of which was a great shock to some of them. Mrs. Clarke was a daughter of the late Robert Neville, who was born and reared in this city. She was a devoted member of the Baptist Church. Hospitable and charitable, it was one of the delights of her life to extend kindness alike to neighbor and stranger, to comfort the distressed and assist the poor and needy, and was most highly esteemed by a wide circle of friends, who will long cherish her memory. Her loved ones mourn, but not as those who have no hope, for we feel that their loss is her eternal gain. Three sons and three daughters, together with many other relatives, survive her. The funeral services were held on Friday afternoon here and were interspersed with the usual band in the Baptist churchyard, the funeral services being conducted by Rev. A. A. Marshall.

Mrs. Lizzie J. Finley, widow of the late Wm. A. Finley, died at her home near this city last Monday night. She had been in feeble health for several months, but many of her friends did not think the end was so near, and the announcement of her death was a great shock to them. Mrs. Finley was a daughter of Mr. R. S. Bailey and about 50 years of age. She had long been a member of Midway Presbyterian Church, and by her many excellent virtues and genial disposition made a friend of every acquaintance. Five children survive her. The body was laid to rest in the Midway Churchyard yesterday afternoon, the funeral being conducted by the pastor, Rev. J. L. McLin.

The Pythians of Sumter felicitate themselves upon the thoroughly delightful occasion of their visit by Gen. M. L. Bonham, Grand Chancellor of the Domain of South Carolina, last Tuesday night. Gen. Bonham has often visited Sumter in other capacities in days gone by, and he is known by almost every one here. And once to know him is to hold him in kindly remembrance ever afterward. Aside from the high official position which he holds, and in the prosecution of the duties of which he came to Sumter, he is always a welcome visitor here. Gen. Bonham was elected Grand Chancellor at the last session of the Grand Lodge in Spartanburg, and has been very assiduous in performing the duties of the office since a unanimous vote of his brother Knights called him to it.—Sumter Herald.

Capt. J. C. Stribling, of Pendleton, spent Monday in the city and was a welcome visitor to our sanctum. He showed us a bound volume of the American Farmer, published in Baltimore in 1819, and in it we found many interesting articles and incidents of olden times. It contains an account of the organization of the South Carolina Agricultural Society, list of officers and the address delivered by the President of the society. Flour is quoted at $3.50 a barrel, corn 25 cents a bushel, oats 37 cents, pork 5 cents a pound and whiskey 29 to 40 cents a gallon. It mentions a farmer who had butchered a hog weighing 1,100 pounds and an ox weighing 2,002 pounds. Capt. Stribling has the first fifteen bound volumes of this publication, which are indeed very valuable and worth a place in any library.

In speaking of the gentlemen who delivered addresses at the Farmers' Institute at Clemson College a correspondent of the Greenville News says: "Col. Newman introduced Col. B. F. Crayton, of Anderson, as a man who has been working for agriculture for nearly 60 years. Col. Crayton received an ovation. He is a perfect type of the gentleman of the old school, and proved himself to be the most graceful speaker that has been on the platform. His speech was full of anecdote and reminiscences as well as good sound advice. Col. Crayton has a right to speak for he is a man who has made a success of life. This is Col. Crayton's distinction between an agriculturist and a farmer. An agriculturist is a man who lives in town and buys his supplies in the country, while in this day a farmer is a man who lives in the country and buys his supplies in town. The farmers caught the joke on themselves and laughed heartily."

Last Saturday while bathing in Whitewater river, Jocassee Valley, N. C., Victor C. Wilson, a son of President Elder J. B. Wilson, of this city, was drowned. Several friends were bathing in the river with him and before his companions realized his condition he was carried down the swift stream and sank before any one of the party could reach him. The body was not recovered until Sunday. On Monday it was brought to this city and interred in Silver Brook Cemetery, Rev. J. B. Campbell conducting the funeral services. His death is deeply regretted by his many friends in Anderson, who sympathize with the family in their sorrow bereavement. Mr. Wilson was about 21 years of age and graduated from Wofford College last June. He was a young man of many noble virtues of both heart and mind, and was most highly esteemed by his friends. He had chosen law as a profession and was studying in the office of Tribble & Prince. He was an exemplary member of the Methodist Church, and gave every evidence of being a useful, worthy citizen.

Mr. R. Gilmer Todd, of Rock Mills Township, is said to have had an exciting experience with a watermelon on last Saturday night. News of the occurrence is very meagre and unimpressive, but it appears that Mr. Todd, intending to put a stop to numerous deceptions on his favorite patch, stationed himself behind a low pine stump in the field which commanded a full view of the entire patch. He was unable, however, to keep his lonely vigil, and fell fast asleep, so much so that a thief broke into the patch, secured his luscious booty, and making his way to the stump, lay down to sleep. Mr. Todd, sleeping, mistook his head for a sharp edge of the stump and broke the melon squarely over his head. Mr. Todd at last accounts, has not been heard from, but a liberal reward will no doubt be paid for his safe return. This has no connection whatever with the new advertisement which Messrs. Dean & Ratliffe perpetrate upon an already downtrodden and unsuspecting people in another column. They vouch for the truth of the statements in their ad.
