SOUND VIBRATIONS.

An Interesting Little Experiment With a Glass of Water. Here is a simple and interesting little experiment, enabling one to trace sound vibrations in a glass of water. Take a fine, thin glass, such as will give forth a musical sound if rubbed with wet fingers around the rim. Fill it nearly full of water, and, having wiped the edges dry and smooth, place upon the rim a cross made of two equal strips of thin cardboard (an old postal card will do for the material), with the four ends bent down at right angles so as to prevent its slipping off.

A GHOST STORY.

The Black Lady of the Royal Castle of Darmstadt. The most distinguished ghost of all royal specters appears to be the Black Lady of the castle of Darmstadt. In deep mourning she comes to announce the death of some member of the families of the grand dukes of Hesse or of the Bavarian royal family. The apparition of this lady has from time immemorial produced a sort of panic among the troops of the garrison. The boldest sentinels are afraid of her. One day a young officer of the grenadiers solicited from the Grand Duke Louis I the favor of acting as sentinel at the door of the chapel through which the mysterious visitor was expected to pass. "If it is not a genuine ghost," he said, "I will cure the practical joker of his nonsense."

It was agreed that the officer should order the phantom to halt and if it did not obey him upon it. The grand duke and a few courtiers posted themselves in the vestry of the chapel, from which they could see the path that, according to the legend, the Black Lady always followed. As midnight approached the gayety of the royal group decreased. The clock struck 12. Before the sound of the last stroke had died away they heard in the distance "Halt! Who goes there?" Then there was a shot.

The grand duke and the people of his suit came out from their hiding place and ran into the courtyard. The brave young officer was stretched on the ground dead. Beside him lay his gun, the barrel of which was torn from the stock and twisted like a corkscrew. There was no wound of any sort on the body. Shortly afterward Louis I died suddenly in the ducal palace.

Naval Officers of the Port. The title of naval officer as applied to one of the officials of the custom house has always been an enigma to most people, and very few have any idea of how it was created. The office dates back to the colonial days when Charles II was king of England, and his brother, after James II, was duke of York. James received a percentage of all customs receipts in America, and was also the lord high admiral of the English navy.

Mining Paralysis. There is a right way to do this as well as in doing everything else. If the parsley is wet, dry it thoroughly in a towel; then pick the leaves from the stems; gather the leaves closely between the thumb and two fingers, press tightly and hold on a board with the fingers slanting in such manner that the nails will project the ends of the fingers from the knife. With a sharp, pointed vegetable knife cut through the parsley as close to the fingers as possible. In this way each stroke of the knife does the work completely, the parsley is minced fine and evenly and does not have to be gone over again. So many minutes are saved and perfect results obtained. This is what "knowing just how" means to the busy housewife. Twelve times five minutes saved makes an hour to rest from the busy routine of household cares, and surely that is worth the striving for.

Looks Are Deceptive. Visitor—'I've been in many asylums, but I've never seen such a dangerous, wild eyed lot of lunatics as that group over there, and they're without guards too! Attendant—Why, man, those ain't lunatics. Visitor—They ain't? Attendant—I should say not; they're visitors. Visitor—Visitors! Attendant—Yes, sir; they're some of the leading members of the chess congress which is holding its convention down town.—Detroit Today.

Tests For Precious Stones. Very little reliance can be placed on color as a test for precious stones. All red stones are not rubies nor white stones diamonds. There are yellow sapphires, green diamonds and blue spinels. In the diagnosis of precious stones it is always advisable to apply as many different tests as possible and to be guided by the result of them all, as almost any single test may mislead.—Exchange.

Up in a Balloon.

"Yes, this parachute jumping is dangerous," said the old aeronaut, thoughtfully. "But it may surprise you to learn that it is not nearly so dangerous as the old form of ballooning. With a parachute you can pick your landing place, and while coming down it can be guided, more or less, and thus clear obstructions that you are apt to meet with. But with a balloon you are absolutely helpless, and you have to come down wherever the big bag may choose to land you. I remember a humorous incident that happened to me a good many years ago, when this parachute business was never dreamed of. I had made an ascension, and had been carried out into the country. There was a strong wind blowing, and I scented danger when I came down. As I neared the earth I threw out my grappling hook, but I was passing over ploughed fields, and the hook merely dragged on the ground, and did not stay the progress of the balloon. Peering over the side of the basket, I noticed a wagon loaded with seed potatoes standing in a field, and a moment later my grappling hook caught hold of it. But the wagon was not heavy enough to stay the progress of the balloon, the result being that I dragged it along with me. Then I saw an old man, who had been taking a nap under the wagon, jump up, look dazed for a moment, and then start in pursuit, yelling wildly: "Goddern your ugly picture, what do you mean by stealing my potatoes?"

"The wagon ran into a stump at last, and as the hook held, I managed to make a landing. "I spent an exciting fifteen minutes trying to convince him that I had no designs on his potatoes. I succeeded, in a way, at last, but I think to this day, if the man is still alive, that he is under the impression that it was only a new scheme to rob the honest old farmer."—Detroit Free Press.

English Joke Murders. The remarkable ease with which an Englishman can murder a good American joke was illustrated a few days ago in a railroad station in Washington.

A big, good natured farmer was awaiting the suburban train for Rockville, accompanied by a handsome Gordon setter. Two sons of Briton, evidently sightseers who had been visiting the capital, stood near him. The dog strayed away from his owner, and with canine curiosity was poking his nose into an old negro woman's basket, much to her annoyance. "Hey!" called the farmer, on noticing the setter's actions, "come here, Locksmith," and the dog immediately ran to his feet. One of the Englishmen left his companion and approached the farmer.

"May I ask," he said, "what you called that dog?" "Locksmith," said the farmer. "And why, pray?" "Because every time I kick him he makes a bolt for the door." There was a general laugh, in which the Englishman good naturedly joined. When he returned to his companion, he remarked: "Most extraordinary name that man over there calls his dog." "What?" asked his friend. "Locksmith," replied the first Briton. "Because, he says, every time he kicks 'im he bolts for the door!"—Exchange.

Stricken With Paralysis. Henderson Grimeth of this place, was stricken with partial paralysis and completely lost the use of one arm and side. After being treated by an eminent physician for quite a while without relief, my wife recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and after using two bottles of it he is almost entirely cured.—Geo. R. McDonald, Man, Logan county, W. Va. Several other very remarkable cures of partial paralysis have been effected by the use of this liniment. It is most widely known, however, as a cure for rheumatism, sprains and bruises. Sold by Orr-Gray & Co.

A New Jersey woman dislocated her jaw saying "goo-goo" to her baby. This is a terrible warning to people who let the baby-talk habit run away with them.

Kansas wheat crop, if sold at the average price of sixty cents a bushel, would give to every man, woman and child in the United States no less than $1 per capita. If placed in box cars on a single track it would fill enough cars to reach from Wichita to New York City. —Wilson Lippincott, the heaviest man in Bucks county, Pa., weighs 479 pounds but offers to outdance any man who will try conclusions with him on the waxed floor. No Guards for Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, September 20.—The fact that President Roosevelt walked from the White House to the residence of Secretary Hay and back at lunch time, and also to the Cowles residence at the close of his work to-day, alone and apparently unwatched by policemen or secret service agents, has caused widespread comment. The act serves as an object lesson touching the President's attitude on the much-discussed question of the wisdom and efficacy of guards about the person of the President. Plainly President Roosevelt does not feel in need of any further protection than Citizen Theodore Roosevelt had and does not mean to have it.

The President is not led to this determination by a spirit of bravado, but because he knows that guards never have succeeded and never will succeed in staying the hand of an Anarchist assassin. President Roosevelt will take all precautions suggested by prudence and a proper regard for the importance and dignity of his office, but he will not be surrounded by guards. Neither will he be reckless. To put it in a nutshell, President Roosevelt is evidently prepared to defend himself from threatened danger when going about his ordinary pursuits, but he will not be surrounded by guards. In assuming that if a man would attack him the assailant will be the man to be pitied rather than his intended victim.

The Inroquois Legend of Creation. The Inroquois have a legend of their own describing the creation. In the past deep water covered the earth. The air was filled with birds and monsters were in possession of the waters when a beautiful woman was seen falling from the sky. Then huge ducks gathered in council and resolved to meet this wonderful creature and break the force of her fall. So they rose and, with pinion overlapping pinion, unitedly received the burden. Then the monsters of the deep also gathered in council to decide which one should hold this celestial being and protect her from the terrors of the waters, but none was able except a giant tortoise, who volunteered to endure this weight upon his back. There she was gently placed, while he, constantly increasing in size, soon became a large island.

Encouragement. A young probationer was preaching his trial sermon in the church in one of the inland villages of Scotland. After finishing the "discourse" he leaned over the pulpit and engaged in silent prayer, an act which surprised the congregation, which was unaccustomed to such procedure. Suddenly the young preacher felt some one slapping him gently on the shoulder, and on turning around he beheld a grave and sympathetic elder, who remarked, "Hoot, man, dinna t. 't see muckle to hert; ye'll maybe dae better next time."—London Outlook.

Sure Way of Drawing a Stopper. One of the small annoyances of life occasionally is the attempt to draw an obstinate glass stopper. Immersion in hot water for some minutes is sometimes efficacious, but far from always. A sure method is to lock a bureau drawer, tie a cord to handle or key, holding the other end firmly, and over this taut cord run rapidly the neck of the obstinate bottle. In less than two minutes the glass will be too hot to touch and will have expanded all around the refractory stopper, which will fairly fall out.

Great Atlanta Fair Opens October 9th. Atlanta's great Fair will open on October 9th. With its near approach the Fair grounds in Atlanta are in better shape than at any other time so close to the opening in the history of Fairs in Atlanta. Special efforts are being made by Secretary Martin to have all exhibits ready for the opening, and it looks as if he will succeed, as he has received assurances from nearly all exhibitors that they will be ready when the main gate opens at 10 o'clock on Wednesday, October 9th.

The work of the Fair Association in increasing the grounds and buildings has been practically finished and now it only remains to put on the finishing touches. This will take only a short while. Meanwhile the various buildings in which exhibits will be shown have been opened to exhibitors and already work has been begun by some of those who will have the most elaborate displays.

The one fare round trip to Atlanta during the Fair will, it is expected, draw many thousands to Atlanta from Georgia and states immediately adjacent, while exhibits will come from as far north as Boston and as far west as Chicago and St. Louis.

Rock-a-Bye Baby

These are sweet words, but how much pain and suffering they used to mean. It's different now. Since Mother's Friend has become known, expectant mothers have been spared much of the anguish of childbirth. Mother's Friend is a liniment to be applied externally. It is rubbed thoroughly into the muscles of the abdomen. It gives elasticity and strength, and when the final great strain comes they respond quickly and easily without pain. Mother's Friend is never taken internally. Internal remedies at this time do more harm than good. If a woman is supplied with this splendid liniment she need never fear rising or swelling breasts, morning sickness, or any of the discomforts which usually accompany pregnancy. The proprietor of a large hotel in Tampa, Fla., writes: "My wife had an awful time with her first child. During her second pregnancy, Mother's Friend was used and the baby was born easily before the doctor arrived. It certainly gave."

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT. To the Public. Please note our change in business from credit to Cash, and read the following below: Our reasons for doing so are as follows: First, our accounts being necessarily small, and an endless amount of confusion and expense entailed to an injurious degree, and the loss in bad accounts, and the time and attention it requires to collect same. Second, our current expenses, such as labor, fuel, gas, water and other supplies are cash. The stand we have taken is one we have been forced into. With a great many of our customers we regret to be obliged to pursue this course, but as we positively cannot discriminate, we trust that you will appreciate our position and not ask for credit. All bundles delivered after June 1st and not paid for will be returned to laundry. For convenience of our customers we will issue Coupon Books sold for cash.
