How Many Will the World Hold

Figuring on the world's future population is both fascinating and facile. In the Cosmopolitan (July) J. Holt Schooling publishes his estimate that by the year 2250 there will be an aggregate population in the world of 52,073,000,000, or 1,000 persons to the square mile-nearly double the density of Belgum, the most populous country in the world. A Japanese child 3 years fold can swim like a fish, and often children who will not learn of their own accord are repeatedly thrown overboard until they become expert swimmers. In the harbor children seem to be perpetually tumbling overboard, but the mothers deliberately pick them out of the water and, cuffing them a little, go on with their work. It is really astonishing at what age these boys and girls will learn to scull a bont. A boat 20 feet long most adroitly managed by three children, all under 7 years of age, is no uncommon sight.

The Striking Part.

Jerrold all his life long bitterly protested against the fashion of translating and adapting, which excluded the work of native writers and gave a reputation to men for work which they had not originated. Talking once with Mr. Planchel a noted adapter of plays, on this question, Planche insisted that some of his characters were original. "Don't you remember," he said. Very truly yours, REV. ER. MORRIS WECHSLER.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE Co.—Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others. I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, N. Y., I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the erst of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease. Yours respectfully.
