Boys and Cigarettes.

The Georgia Legislature has taken passed "by an overwhelming vote" a bill prohibiting the sale of cigarettes and eigarette papers in the State, and that body.

There is no ground, we think, to doubt the wisdom of such legislation, so far as it applies to minors, and in the absence of information to the contrary we assume that the Georgia alone in the company of a dog, three bill applies only to that class of per- cats and a parrot. sons. It is well known to all medical men that smoking tobacco is injurious to boys, when carried to excess, and a very moderate indulgence for a man a matter of duty. is excess in their case. The effect of the practice is to weaken the heart and disturb its functions, and how very many young constitutions in every community are so impaired is sufficiently shown whenever physical tests are required in examinations for competitive places. Ruled out for a story in the country.

The eigarette is responsible for most of the harm done, as it is the mode of smoking most in favor with boys. Comparatively few men indulge in it. It is, therefore, well to strike at the practice, either generally, or specifiinterest. The objection is urged that the sale of cigarettes "cannot be prevented." If so, then smoking in pubsharp penalty. Boys do most of their smoking away from their homes and places of employment. If they cannot smoke elsewhere except in fear of police attentions, the evil will be News and Courier.

All a Matter of Habit.

A good "dope" story was told the other night, by a well-known railroad man, and it is well worth repeating. It is on a certain prominent Georgian now gathered to his fathers. He became a large and habitual user of morphine. He used it for years, his wife finally being employed to do the dosing for the fiend.

The good woman allowanced out the drug for quite a while; but finally thought she would gradually substi the major of his disgusting habit. So well did the plan work, she doing the substitution so deftly, that he was soon eating nothing but flour, yet under the imagination that it was morphine.

on, the major swallowing the flour regularly, until one day at a dinner party given by the major, his habit of eating morphine was brought up by relatives present, and he was severely criticised for it. The major protested that he could not help himself, that the labit was so securely fastened on him that it would mean death to quit. had tried and failed.

"Major," said the good wife, ashamed of her deception and determined to keep the secret no longer, 'you can quit, for you haven't eaten any morphine for 18 months."

Congratulations followed; but the major was mad. He never allowed his wife to again measure out the morphine, and again began its use. When he died, he was buying it by the wholesale, a dozen bottles at the time.

In the Western Cemetery, Dusdee Scotland, last month there was unveiled a monument to the memory of Janes Bowman Lindsay, a selfmade philosopher and scientist, who lived before his time. In 1834 he wrote the following prophetic sen-tence: 'Houses and towns will in a short time be lighted by electricity instead of gas, and heated by it instead of coal, and machinery will be worked by it instead of steam.
