Death of Mrs. C. A. Reed.

There have been many sorrowing hearts in Anderson since 8.40 o'clock Saturday evening. At that hour relentless death entered one of the happiest of Anderson's homes and laid a remorseless hand upon her whose loving heart, thoughtful mind and willing hands had fashioned and kept bright and inviting an ideal home, and whose gentle, noble qualities endeared her to her friends while living and makes her memory an unceasing delight.

Mrs. Fannie Kingsley Reed, wife of Mr. C. A. Reed, has passed from earth to heaven. While clinging tenderly to the ties that bound her to earth—husband, children, grandchildren and loving friends—she was ready for the call which means separation for a season only.

The sad circumstances of her early childhood, the losing of both father and mother and being an only child, served to develop a tender, clinging nature, which in her life as wife, mother and grandmother grew so strong that though the severing of those ties in response to a summons from heaven, those who stood by wept as did also those whose intimate association had acquainted them with her depth of love.

When told by the devoted husband that she must try to get well, she must not leave them, she replied, "Oh, 'Cliff,' I do not want to leave you, you know I have never left you one whole day during our happy married life, but our Saviour has called and I must go, and I am so glad I am ready to go."

Kindness of heart was her chief characteristic and made beautiful her whole nature. There was no selfishness, no envy, no hate, only generosity, charity and good will. This characteristic kindness went out to all who were so fortunate as to know her and made them love her, but it was in her home particularly that it crystallized into greatest beauty, making that home a delight to every member of the family and creating in the hearts of the domestics a devotion which made service a work of love.

The deceased was born June 19th, 1845, at the Kingsley old place, three miles below Belton. Her mother was Miss Francis Emiline Broyles, daughter of Maj. Cain Broyles. Her father was Chester Kingsley, a prominent planter, originally from the State of Virginia. She was an only child. Her mother and father both died while she was an infant and Maj. Cain Broyles and wife, the maternal grandparents, took her to their home in Greenville, Tennessee, where she was reared and sent to school until about fifteen years old. The grandmother having died at this time the grandfather moved with the young girl to Dalton, Ga., where his son, A. R. Broyles, was living, and there the deceased completed her education.

In 1863, when the federal troops were occupying those portions of Tennessee they had overrun, and the matters of war indicated that North Georgia, embracing Dalton, was soon to be the theatre of bloody conflict, it was determined by the Broyles family to refuge to this State. In the fall of 1863 Mr. A. R. Broyles, accompanied by his wife and the deceased, reached Anderson. A home was bought at Sloan's Ferry, on Seneca River, and there shortly afterward the family, including Maj. Cain Broyles and the deceased, took up their abode.

It was while en route to Anderson that Mr. C. A. Reed, then a young Confederate soldier, met the deceased. The introduction was secured at Belton, and the refugee party were invited by the gallant young soldier to the home of his father, Judge Reed, in this city, where they spent a week. The soldier was ordered to Virginia but the impressions made upon him by the young girl were lasting. In 1864 he was wounded and sent home. His right arm had been given in defence of his country. Cupid had made deeper wounds meanwhile on the hearts of both soldier and maiden, and when he made known his love and gave her the opportunity, she declared she would be his right arm through life, and never were truer words spoken. They were married October 25th, 1864, at the Sloan Ferry home of the bride. One child was the fruit of this marriage, Mrs. Hellen Ligon, wife of R. S. Ligon, of this city.

Not only in the home and among friends did the noble character of this good woman show itself, but in the church and all the societies of the church and wherever there was an opportunity to relieve suffering humanity and to contribute to lift the humble and lowly to manhood and its opportunities. She identified herself with the church at an early age in Tennessee and became a member of the Anderson Baptist Church shortly after her marriage, where she has been honored and loved for her good works.

The death of the deceased was the result of heart trouble, which reached an alarming stage about three weeks ago. She suffered greatly at times, but for some time before the end came she was free from pain and to the very last remained perfectly conscious. Her death was as if she had only fallen asleep, so peacefully did she go. And, after all, it is but sleep, preceding a glorious resurrection.

Court Proceedings.

The case against Singleton A. McIntosh, indicted for the killing of George McKinney, was begun Tuesday just before noon last week and occupied the Court until Thursday afternoon. Much interest was manifested in its case by the people generally, and the Court room was well filled during the entire progress. Many ladies were present to hear the arguments of the trial. Arguments in behalf of the defendant were delivered by Messrs. Greene, W. N. Graydon and G. E. Prince, and in behalf of the State by Ellis W. Graydon and Solicitor Boggs. The verdict of the jury was "guilty of manslaughter, with a recommendation to the mercy of the Court."

A motion for a new trial was argued Friday morning but not sustained, and McIntosh was given a sentence of five years in the penitentiary. Pending an appeal to the Supreme Court, bond was fixed at $2,000, and was promptly signed by Guilford W. Cade, of Abbeville, and Guy McIntosh, son of Singleton A. McIntosh. The convicted man is apparently 65 years old, with hair and beard snow white. Years ago he was convicted of a similar offence and served a part of the sentence then imposed, but was pardoned by Hon. B. R. Tillman, then Governor of the State.

During the progress of the McIntosh case Wednesday morning the following "true bills" were handed in by the Grand Jury: Thomas McKeller, disposing of property under lien. Robert McAdams, bastardy. Nelson Emmerson, forcible entry and detainer. John Churchwell, housebreaking and larceny.

Thomas Hatton entered a plea of guilty to breaking into railway car in night time with felonious intent and larceny. The Court imposed a sentence of three years upon the public works of Anderson or like period in the penitentiary.

At this stage the Grand Jury made its presentation, (published elsewhere in this edition) and was discharged. Premier Watson plead guilty to gambling and was sentenced to pay $20 or labor two months on the public works of Anderson.

Thursday afternoon the case of Robert Bailey Pool, charged with murder, was taken up. Only two witnesses were put up and they were put up by the State. After argument, the case was given to the jury, who, after deliberating an hour, brought in a verdict of not guilty and Mr. Pool was discharged.

Friday morning brought the end of the McIntosh case, and three cases charging gambling were one after another taken up. No less than twenty-five negroes were indicted in these cases, and of that number eleven entered a plea of guilty and were sentenced to pay a fine of $20 or two months labor on the public works. Nine have paid and the other two will pay. The cases as to remainder of the twenty-five continued.

The next case taken up was John Simpson, charged with arson. Five witnesses were put up by the State, none by the defendant. The verdict was "guilty with recommendation to the mercy of the Court," and Simpson was given ten years at hard labor in the penitentiary.

In the afternoon the case of John Churchwell, indicted for housebreaking and larceny, went to the jury. There were no arguments before the jury. The verdict was "guilty" and the sentence one year on the public works or like period in the penitentiary.

The case against Henry Fuller, Nick Williams and Clarence Jenkins, housebreaking and larceny, came next. As to Henry Fuller the case was continued; the others were tried and convicted and sentenced, Nick Williams to six months labor on the public works and Clarence Jenkins, because of his youth, to two months in the county jail.

After this case the Petit Jurors were discharged. A motion for a new trial in the case of W. L. and B. B. Davis was at this point argued but not sustained, and the Judge pronounced sentence. B. B. is to pay a fine of fifty dollars or labor on the public works two months. W. L. Davis is to pay a fine of $25 or be confined in county jail for one month. This, in consideration of the age of W. L. Davis, who is 81. Sentence in this case was suspended for 30 days to afford the parties time to pay the amounts imposed.

A. D. Patterson, indicted for violation of dispensary law, plead guilty and received sentence, which was suspended until first day of next term of Court, to enable him to pay the $100 fine.

The case of Tom Rutledge and Pink W. W. Delaney, was continued and bond for Pink Delaney, who has remained in jail since arrest, was fixed at $500.

Appeal cases from Magistrates Courts were then taken up and disposed of, orders signed and at 4.30 o'clock Court adjourned.

Seventeen cases were disposed of, sixty-six were continued and six were sent back to magistrates. Judge Gary is holding Court at Abbeville this week. He returns here Monday, the 30th of this month, to preside at the Court of Common Pleas, which convenes on that day.

Like all other McCormick Machines, McCormick Hay Rakes are built on honor. It is by far the biggest and most perfectly constructed rake on the market. You should certainly not buy a Rake until you have examined the McCormick, for it is the Rake of all Rakes, and the acknowledged leader in the grass field. Sullivan Hardware Co. will be pleased to demonstrate to you the points of superiority of the McCormick Hay Rake.

If you think that your grain is too small and too thin to be saved by Count's Seven-Finger Cradle and prefer a Fourteen-Finger Jobb Berry Sullivan Hdw. Co. have three styles Cradles, fitted with as good blades as can be bought.

Many farmers are careful in the selection of a Mower, but careless in selecting a Rake. There is as much difference between a good and a sorry Rake as there is between good and sorry Mowers. You can suffer as much annoyance by slighting the one as the other. The McCormick Hay Rake sold by Sullivan Hdw. Co. is so much better than any others that its superiority is apparent at the first glance of anyone who has any knowledge of mechanical construction. Kindly compare them and be convinced of the truth of this assertion.

Are you uncertain or doubtful as to the best Grain Cradle to buy? Ask your neighbor who has one of the Seven-Finger Count's Cradles if he would exchange it for one of any other style? In all probability he would tell you that he would not, and in doing so he displays his wisdom. Experience has demonstrated that they are the best grain-savers manufactured. They are sold by Sullivan Hdw. Co.

Ten Years in Bed. R. A. Gray, J.P., Oakville, Ind., writes, "For ten years I was confined to my bed with disease of my kidneys. It was so severe that I could not get out of bed at all. I consulted the very best medical skill available, but could get no relief until Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended to me. It has been a godsend to me. Evans Pharmacy."

A good Mower and Rake will save enough grain to pay cost of same. The best machines to buy are those most simple in construction and those that will require the fewest repairs. If you will ask the owner of a McCormick, which machine to buy he will tell you that his investment in a McCormick could not have been more wisely made. Act on his experience and accept his endorsement and buy a McCormick from Sullivan Hdw. Co.
