Secretary Root, in answer to a resolution from the Senate, submits that gives exactly $144,000, the limit. the total cost of the Philippine war to date is $170,326,586. And the end is not yet in sight.

G. Walt Whitman declares that he has filed his pledge as a candidate for Governor, but, being short of cash, committee's expenses if elected.

The two campaign parties are moving over the lower portion of the State very quietly. So far the people are taking very little interest in the meetings and the attendance is small. The farmers especially are too busy attending to their crops now, and are more concerned about them than they are interested in long, dry speeches. Then. too, there are no issues as all of the candidates stand practically on the same platform.

Charles Francis Adams, of Massa chusetts, expresses the belief that in time a national monument will be erected to Gen. R. E. Lee. No. monument can add to the name and fame of the greatest American, but the suggestion of one from such a source goes to show that history will preliminaries—petition, election, &c. -have been carried out and the oblido justice not only to the South's great leader, but will vindicate the high sense of patriotism which actuated the public men and people of the Confederacy.

Hon. Joe Johnson, of the Fourth District, is representing South Carolina in the lower house of Congress all by himself. All the others are at home repairing their fences or doing stunts in the campaign ring. Johnson takes the stand that while congress is in session, it is a Congress. man's duty to be on hand, and will not leave until the end, although he

The Manufacturer's Record compiles for the past week a list of twentyfour enterprises chartered and about to begin business. Among them are to begin business six oil mills, three cotton mills, one flour mill, one wood-extract plant at Dunbar to extract tar, rosin, crossote, etc., from comtar, rosin, creosote, etc., from common pine tree stumps; mercantile, sewerage, lumber and printing plants constituting the remainder. The total ced positively that he will not be a candidate for re-election or for any office. The Governor has made a good record in his office, and in his conduct of it he has done more than any other man in the State in bringing about a political reconciliation be tween the people. For this he deserves great credit, and we doubt not that the State will further honor him, for he retires with the approval and best good wishes of an overwhelming majority of the people.

A prohibitive tariff, levying a bur densome tax on the American people, created the trusts, the more powerful and malign of which are now preying upon the people by virtue of the monopolies which they enjoy through the operation of the tariff. This bald truth of the situation is now being borne in on the popular mind, and the result is a deep-rooted determination for relief. The high protective tariff mis: go. The trusts will go with the tariff, under which alone can they maintain monopolies that compel American consumers to pay more for American products than those same products are sold for in European markets. The tariff and the trusts will be the issue of the Congressional campaign of 1902 and 1904. On this issue the party of the tariff and the trusts will be removed from power in the Government.

The City Finances.

The City of Anderson is just entering upon an era of phenomenal growth and prosperity, and it is thought not inopportune to direct attention to the condition of the finances of the city and point to facts which appear to have been lost sight of by at least the average citizen.

The floating indebtedness of the city is comparatively nothing, if there be comparatively nothing, if there be comparatively nothing, if there be comparatively nothing.

WYATT AIKEN is announced as a candidate for Congress from the Third Congressional District, subject to the action of the Democratic primary election. any at all, but the bonded indebtedness amounts to a sum closely approximating $144,000. The limit beyond which the bonded debt of the city cannot go is fixed by the constitution at one evil that we are absolutely igno- eight per cent of the taxable property of the city. By the returns of last year $1,800,000 was the amount of taxabie property, eight per cent of which Addipromises to contribute $1,000 to the tional bonds cannot be issued, and it is easy to see that citizens composing the City Council will shrink from assum-City Council will shrink from assuming the responsibility of creating a floating debt of any magnitude. If bonds could be issued the prescribed method of petition and election would be gone through with and the approval of the people would be stamped upon the debt created, but for the Council to borrow money and make appropriations simply by virtue of their office entails a little more of responsibility and probable censure than most of them are willing to voluntarily assume. them are willing to volantarily assume. As a result, many improvements and

As a result, many improvements and additions, greatly needed, may be delayed or perhaps never begun.

This much has been said as a premise, principally, to the following facts: Fifty thousand dollars of the $144,000 of bonds for which the city stands obligated to-day, are the Black Diamond Railroad bonds, voted by the people in an election held on the 6th day of January, 1898, to be held in escrow and turned over to the Black Diamond people as soon as the read

Diamond people as soon as the road reached the City of Anderson.

It is true that no part of these bonds has ever been paid, indeed, the bonds have never been printed, but all other —have been carried out and the obligation of the city to issue and turn over these bonds in the event the road is ever built is as binding to-day as any obligation resting upon the city. There was no limit as to the time the road should be completed to Anderson, and in the absence of any steps to relieve the city of this obligation, it remains of force and must be taken into consideration when arriving at the bonded sideration when arriving at the bonded indebtedness of the city as contempla-

Indeptedness of the city as contemplated by the constitution.

In discussing the matter of erecting another building for school purposes, one or more of the present Council and several prominent citizens suggested that if these Black Diamond bonds, or more correctly the obligation for them, was out of the way, previous feet this was out of the way, provision for this and for other matters that must come up soon, could easily be made by bond issue, but the Council would hesitate has an opponent in ex-Congressman Wilson. Such a representative deserves re-election.

So far as we know no effort has yet been made in Anderson County to secure contributions to the fund for the erection of the monument in Columbia to the memory of Gen. Wade

A Suggestion.

Editor Intelligencer: As there seems to be a scarcity of candidates for the flouse of Representatives, the writer would like to suggest the name of one of Anderson's best, truest and most highly respected citizens—a gallant old Confederate veteran—Colonel M. P. Tribble. If he will consent to make the race his many freends believe that he would be elected easily. B.
