Death of Capt. B. C. Martin.

One by one the old Veterans fall asleep. A few more years and not one, even among the youngest of those to shoulder arms in defense of the fair Southland during the struggle of 61-65, will be left to resist the rising generations those unwritten incidents of the war which give so clear an insight into Southern character and Southern chivalry. Capt. B. C. Martin is dead.

Anderson County was always his home and he has been a prominent, useful citizen. When the war clouds of 61-65 were gathering he was prompt in volunteering his services and aided in raising a company of 109 gallant men with J. W. Brantley as Captain. This was Company D, Eighteenth Regiment, S. C. V., and the deceased was First Lieutenant. This company did gallant service and Lieutenant Martin was promoted to the Captaincy. The war being over, the devotion of the deceased to his County showed itself in the reconstruction period in the firm stands always taken by him; and when in 1878 the opportunity to redeem the State under the leadership of the gallant Hampton presented itself, none gave evidence of more energy and promptness than B. C. Martin.

Under the old Constitution the deceased served several terms as member of the County Board of Commissioners, serving acceptably and with honor. Of late years the infirmities of age prevented his taking a leading part in political affairs, but his interest never waned, and to the last that uncomplaining firmness which characterized him through life, was plainly noticeable.

The wife, formerly Miss Cornelia Breznan, and three children survive him. The children are Thomas J. Martin, of Hickory, N. C., and Mrs. R. Tucker and Mrs. Victoria Gooden, of this County. He also leaves a twin brother, Mr. Thomas C. Martin, of Greenville, and two sisters, Mrs. A. E. Martin and Mrs. C. E. Sawright, of this County.

The deceased was a devout member of the Baptist Church, and was for many years a deacon. He was respected and honored and his well-spent life is a bright heritage to his children. His illness immediately preceding his death was only such as results from old age, and his sudden death was altogether unexpected. The interment was at Williamston Wednesday afternoon, the 24th inst.

Enjoyable Occasions.

During the last week, in honor of the beloved Christmas season, Time has once more turned backward and endowed its older members with the delights of childhood.

Tuesday evening 23rd inst., the Presbyterian congregation, to a large audience, displayed by its unusually bright and happy children the pleasures of a Santa Claus season. Dr. T. G. Crymes represented the ancient saint, and won laurels for himself as an impersonator and continued regards for the venerable visitor of centuries. The occasion was planned and carried out with the success unfailingly attending these entertainments of the Presbyterian congregation where its conscientious and talented young members interest themselves.

On Friday (30th) p. m., at Mountain Springs Santa Claus descended among the pine trees upon the little frame building where between forty and sixty children usually congregate for education during the year. Lafayette Lawson was chosen by the saint as high priest, and Mrs. A. R. Gentry as chief Oracle, and a Mrs. A. R. Gentry, who was the delight and merriment of the gathering, accompanied, as well as two minor officials, whose garb could only be planned in regions far from actual civilization. A tree of the forest represented the gifts of the Christmas saint; for thereon, in profuse, succulent and attractive abundance, gifts from all quarters, and from all concepts of desire, hung and dazzled and attracted during the candle-lighted glamour. E. A. Gentry is to be duly complimented on the ability carried through all designs toward a crowning effect of satisfaction. He labored hard for this effect, and was efficiently assisted in his program by the Misses Rhoda King, Alma Wigington, and Misses Mattie Tripp, Minnie Merritt, Lillie Murphy, Mourning Moore, Madam Smith, May Wigington, Messrs. Edward King, L. Moore and Laboon. Prof. Gentry is a Purman University student, a clear thinker and an able instructor among his appreciative patrons. His second term at this school but manifests the reciprocal regard evidenced between himself and his pupils. Many thanks are tendered to him by those who received special invitations.

At Shiloh, at the residence of Mrs. and Mrs. G. W. Browning, the Misses Cora and Nell Browning, on the evening of 27th inst., gave a delightful soiree to their young friends, wherein older ones were permitted to look on and grow young. A house-full of young friends in music, singing, etc., revivified old Father Time that, though the year was drawing to a close, it had not added a perceptible care to the happy boys assembled, while the feasting season still proclaimed itself in evidence among the guests of the evening. All who knew the Misses Browning know their ability to make a social entertainment decidedly worthy the name. We extend thanks. R. R. L. Piedmont, Dec. 29.

A Beautiful Wedding.

On Tuesday afternoon, December 23rd, as the sun was lowering in the western horizon, shedding its soft rays of light and rendering everything yet more and more beautiful, the hearts and lives of Mr. James Holcombe and Miss Tynie Cox were united in marriage. Mendelssohn's wedding march was very sweetly played by Mrs. A. R. Cox as the maids of honor. Miss Flora Cox and Miss Lizzie Lollace, followed by the bride and groom, entered the parlor. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. E. Sprull.

After congratulations were extended all were invited to the dining room, where a sumptuous supper was served. Although the winter was greatly missed, Mr. Holcombe is to be congratulated on winning so fair a bride. We wish for the happy couple every happiness this life affords. Blue Bird. Belton, S. C., Dec. 27.

Things Without Cost.

The Fortune-Rhody Wedding.

This took place at Midway Presbyterian Church, Hopewell Township, Tuesday evening, December 23rd, at 6 o'clock.

About 1 o'clock p. m. friends from far and near began to gather at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Rhody, the occasion being to enjoy the last single hours with their charming daughter, Miss Gertrude, who was soon to be joined in life to another. Before the guests had near all gathered, the large table in the parlor was laden with beautiful and costly presents, which reminded them of the high esteem in which they are held and to cheer them for their future life.

Promptly at 3 p. m. the guests were ushered into the spacious dining room, where the long table groaned under its weight of meats, salads, pickles and pies. After this course, delicious cakes and desserts were served. The room was beautifully decorated, which gave a very pleasing effect. The sky was clear and the winds blew sharply, and as the golden sun sank behind the western hills, the anxious friends and guests began to prepare for the coming and most happy event, and soon all were assembled with the waiting and anxious congregation at the church to behold the holy union of heart and hand, a scene which never grows old. After all were quietly seated first entered Miss Ethel Wilson, of Belton, who took her seat at the organ and rendered the wedding bells march. Next came the little flower girl, down the left aisle, while Master Willie Alexander of Buffalo, N. Y., came down the right. Then the attendants in the following order: Mr. Arthur Rhody with Miss Gertrude Keys, who took their stand on the left; Mr. John Erskine with Miss Nora McConnell, who took their stand on the right; Mr. J. Kay with Miss Lovie McDevoy, of Belton, who took their stand by the first couple; Mr. Jas. Dobbins, of Anderson, with Miss Ruby Hammond, who took their stand by the second couple. Then came the ushers, Messrs. Frank Rhody and Allen Martin, who stood facing each other. Slowly down the left aisle came the lovely bride in a gown of white organdie with trimmings of Liberty satin applique and chiffon, carrying in her hand a beautiful bouquet of ferns and white carnations. Miss Gretchen Rhody, sister of the bride, gracefully acted as maid of honor. Then down the other aisle came the groom, with Berry Wilson, of Anderson, acting as best man.

The ceremony, which was impressively performed by Rev. J. L. Melvin, of Anderson, the bridal couple stood under an arch of ivory, from which was suspended two large hearts pierced with Cupid's arrow, which symbolized that the two were made one. The wedding march was played throughout the ceremony, which made it more impressive.

This was in every respect a lovely marriage. The bride is one of our sweetest girls and we regret very much to give her up. The groom is a popular young man of Anderson, and is to be congratulated in his success in winning the heart and hand of such a charming young lady. The popular young couple have best wishes and congratulations of all over life's rugged sea. F. V. R.

Information for Pensioners.

The following named parties in the various townships have been elected as the representatives of the old soldiers, viz: J. J. Gilmer, Anderson; John T. Green, Belton; P. G. Acker, Broadway; J. R. Tripp, Brushy Creek; Robert Stevenson, Corner; J. H. McConnell, Centerville; J. C. Gant, Fork; D. R. Melton, Garvin; J. M. Dunlap, Honea Path; J. O. McAdams, Hall; Wm. Bolt, Hopewell; Y. Martin, Martin; A. J. Sifton, Pendleton; R. F. Shirley, Rock Mills; R. P. Clinkscales, Savannah; S. H. Stone, Varennes; W. C. Meredith, Williamston.

Now the soldiers and widows who are on the pension roll will not have to make application in writing, but must report to the representatives in the townships in which they live on or before the 17th of January, 1903, and the representatives will report to the pension commissioners by the 20th of January next. The representatives will also report all who have died, removed from the State or County within the last year; also report any whose income exceeds seventy-five dollars, or property sufficient to make that amount—in his own or his wife's name—from labor, rent and other sources.

In accordance with the law all soldiers and sailors applying for pensions, whose names are not already on the roll, should call on the pension commissioner, J. J. Gilmer, at the auditor's office on the 1st, 2nd, 3rd or 4th Saturday in January, 1903, where proper blanks will be furnished by the commissioner. In case you fail to report to the representative of your township and are left off the roll no one will be to blame but yourself.

Any soldier or widow desiring to remove to another county in South Carolina will make application to J. J. Gilmer, pension commissioner for Anderson County, and get a transfer. John T. Green, Chairman County Pension Board, J. J. Gilmer, Sec. December 27, 1902.

"Fewer Gallons; Wear Longer."

The secret is out and Anderson can go on living just as the riddle had never been asked. No it can't either. Anderson is not going to be what it was before. The houses are going to be brighter; its people a little more prosperous—they are going to have some of their money left to buy other things with.

The answer to the riddle is this: You can paint a building with fewer gallons of Devco Lead and Zinc Paint than with mixed paints, and it will wear several times as long as a building painted with lead and oil mixed by hand. There's proof abundant of it all over the United States. There will soon be proof abundant of it in Anderson. What will people do with the rest of their money?

Don't be imposed upon by taking substitutes offered for Foley's Honey and Tar. Evans Pharmacy.

The satisfaction of shaving with a good Razor will be greatly enjoyed by your husband or brother. If you are puzzled to know what to get them for Christmas, select a Razor and Strop from Sullivan Hardware Co. and be assured that they will be pleased with such a gift.
