STATE NEWS.

—The Columbus library has just received two boxes of fine books from a wealthy lady living in Boston.

—A little son and daughter of James Davis, near Johnson, were killed by a falling tree while on their return from school.

—The salubrious at Easley was burned down Monday night. No one was in it at the time and there is no clue to the incendiary.

—Gov. Aycock, of North Carolina, has accepted the invitation to deliver the literary address at Erskine college commencement in June.

—Stephen Watts, a prominent farmer of the Red Hill section of Edgefield county, committed suicide on Wednesday by shooting himself in the temple.

—Mrs. M. A. Koon got a verdict of $10,000 in Spartanburg on Wednesday against the Southern railroad for the death of her husband, who was killed in 1900 while in the employ of the road.

—N. G. Heape, of Branchville, an engineer on the Southern road, was shot and killed on Tuesday by his step-son F. W. Fairley. Heape was drunk and threatening his wife, when Fairley tried to quiet him. Heape drew his gun on Fairley, who then shot in self-defense.

—The governor of North Carolina has honored the requisition of Governor Heyward, for Sam White now in jail at Wilmington and wanted in Marlboro county for murder committed eleven years ago. White was recognized by an officer while testifying in the federal court.

—The State constabulary force are making it hot for the blind tigers in Charleston. Raids are made daily, rain or shine, by Chief Constable Howie's men, and while they do not always succeed in making large seizures, they generally manage to capture something in the way of contraband goods.

—Adjutant General Frost will go to Washington some time this week to arrange with the war department for the securing of the new uniforms and magazine rifles for the State militia. The department has just finished dividing out each State's share and this State will secure enough to equip all of the companies.

—Gov. Heyward has received a check for $39,137, being the amount of the claim, with interest which the State gets in the settlement with the United States government. He has also received a receipt for $248,000 canceled bonds of the State, a part of the debt which was settled in adjusting the accounts.

—State Dispensary Inspector McCarthy has closed the Laurens dispensary pending a thorough investigation of the affairs of the establishment. An alleged shortage of about $1,500 exists in the accounts. The inspector is in charge of the dispensary. A. H. Sullivan, the dispenser, has been dismissed. The loss is fully covered by a bond in a security company.

—Constable May of Charleston ordered a negro driver to halt his team. His horse failed to do so and the constable pulled his pistol and shot. This is the second time within a month that State constables in Charleston have fired their pistols at fugitive teams in the streets in Charleston.

—Dr. Evans, of the State Board of Health, reports that there are sporadic cases of smallpox all over the State, but the only serious situation is in Laurens. There are twenty cases in the factory village in that city besides two or three in the business portion of the town. Dr. Evans and the local authorities are doing everything to stamp out the disease.

—Governor Heyward is to have a special form printed for sheriffs and magistrates in connection with the payment of rewards for captured criminals. Rewards are often claimed on the slightest pretext and it causes much trouble sometimes whether a reward should be paid to a particular person. By having officers comply with the terms of the circular which will be sent them, it is expected that the whole matter will be simplified.

—President Roosevelt has sent to the Senate of the Fifty-Eighth Congress, which is now convened in extraordinary session, the nomination of W. D. Cram to be collector of customs at Charleston, thus carrying out his threat to insist on the colored man's preference in the Senate if the last Congress should fail to act upon the nomination submitted to it and reported adversely by the committee on commerce.

—Capt. William A. Courtaux, of Newry, Oconee County, has written a timely letter to Governor Heyward in reference to the statue of Washington which stands in the State House grounds. The statue is by Houdin, a celebrated sculptor, and being made after an intimate personal association with Washington. It is considered a fine work of art. Captain Courtaux thinks it ought to be better preserved and placed back in the State House where it formerly was.

—Last Thursday morning near Holly Hill in Berkeley county, Fred Martin, a young white farmer who lives eighteen miles away, rode up to the field where his brother was ploughing and without a word of warning fired a shot of buckshot into the shoulder of his brother, Joel Martin, killing him instantly. He then quickly rode off, remarking that his brother had "only gotten what he deserved long ago." Fred Martin claims that his brother had wronged his (Fred's) wife.

—A bloody fight between two families in Alabama resulted in one death and the injury of three others.

—When the recent act of congress becomes effective the navy will have almost 30,000 officers and men.

—Owing to the French laws against religious bodies, hundreds of priests and nuns will come to the United States.

—The five new battleships are to be named after the States of Kansas, Vermont, Minnesota, Mississippi and Idaho.

—At Cordova, Ala., a man named Dickerson and his wife were beaten into insensibility while asleep Thursday morning.

—The severe blizzard that has raged in Texas for some time has proved disastrous to stock, the loss being estimated at $500,000.

—Nathan Ballinger, of Newcastle, Ind., 80 years old, is cutting a new set of teeth, the third he has had in the course of his life.

—Mrs. Jane Hendrickson, a millionaire widow of 58, of Brooklyn, has eloped with her coachman and gone to Europe on a bridal tour.

—Frequent encounters have been reported between the Imperial troops and the revolutionists in Macedonia and losses on both sides are heavy.

—Pedro Alvarado, a Mexican citizen, has written to President Diaz offering to contribute $50,000,000 to paying the foreign debt of his country.

—Dr. James Mitchell died at Mount Zion, Ga., March 1st. He was President Lincoln's private secretary during the war and was 85 years of age.

—A number of preachers in Maine are urging from their pulpits that the State follow the example of New Hampshire and adopt local option for the control of the liquor traffic.

—As the result of heavy rains the rivers of the Mississippi valley and throughout the southwest are unusually high and reports of damage from the floods come from many quarters.

—A boy in New Jersey was killed by the wind blowing a barn door against him, while the same day a man in New Jersey was run over by a train of cars and only sustained slight injuries.

—Charles M. Bidwell, who died in East Hartford, Conn., last week at the age of 73 years, lived on an old homestead which had been in the possession of his family for seven generations, ever since 1666.

—The pentateuch written in Samaritan characters on gazelle parchment and dated in the year of 116 of Mohamet or A. D. 735, was lately discovered in Syria. It is the oldest of biblical manuscripts known.

—The tanned skin of the diamond-back rattlesnake is used as a barometer in Florida. On the approach of a storm it becomes moist and finally shows beads of moisture, often many hours before the storm arrives.

—Mr. Rockefeller's fortune is glibly set down at a billion of dollars. But the fortune is really known to be $1,250,000,000 and the investments mostly draw compound interest. His annual income is known to be $37,000,000.

—A bill has been introduced in the Virginia legislature to erect a monument to Gen. R. E. Lee and his leading generals and Matthew F. Maury, to stand in the capitol square in Richmond, and appropriated $50,000 for the purpose.

—Reports of loss of cattle from starvation continues to come from the plains of western Kansas and eastern Colorado where the ranchmen had not provided their herds with shelter and food. Whole herds perished from cold and lack of food.

—A woman giving her name as Mrs. Charlotte G. Wellington committed suicide in a fashionable boarding house in Haddonfield, N. J. She left a note saying she was tired of life, was the last of a distinguished family and asked to be decently buried, enclosing $75 for the purpose.

—The committee of the North Carolina general assembly which have been investigating the official conduct of Judge Campbell have recommended that he be deprived of office. Judge Campbell is the man who horsewhipped Rev. Dr. Crawford of the Anti-Saloon league a few months ago.

—The wire mills have just advanced the price of all wire, including wire nails by two dollars a ton the advance taking effect immediately. This follows an advance of a dollar a ton announced January 2nd last and brings the price nearly to the level existing before the cut of last October.

—Ten masked robbers went to the residence of Christian Joehlin, two miles from Toledo, O., on Thursday night, battered down the doors and bound and gagged the inmates, Mr. and Mrs. Christian Joehlin, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Joehlin, John Anderson, Joseph Joehlin, a three year old boy and an 18 months old infant. They secured $300 in cash and a large quantity of jewelry.

Brushy Creek Items.

We are still having plenty of rain and more than plenty of mud.

The people of our community are being troubled with the mumps. There is scarcely a family that has not got a case or more.

Prospects of another crop are somewhat gloomy, although most of the farmers are hauling in their fertilizers. T. L. Hicks and C. A. Rector visited the family of Wm. Cooper, near Greenville, the first Sunday.

William Cely has been quite ill for some time past but is now able to be out.

It is reported that there are several cases of smallpox at Piedmont, and there is some fear of its being scattered in our direction.

W. E. Major, our mail carrier, is having a very tough time now pulling through the mud, but we hope him better roads soon, if not sooner. March 9. T. F.

The Gonzales Monument.

Secretary McMahan on behalf of the Gonzales monument committee has handed the press the following statement for publication:

The committee on the Gonzales monument fund met Saturday at one o'clock and canvassed the situation. The amount realized thus far is gratifying, considering that no systematic canvass has been made. Committees will now be appointed to canvass for subscriptions in all the towns and communities in the State and it is expected within the next month to have in hand a very large sum.

The chairman of the committee, Mr. W. A. Clark, is now appointing local committees, but desires it to be particularly understood that every body is invited to constitute himself or herself a committee of one to obtain such subscriptions as each community may wish to make. The newspapers will be relied upon to make this known to all of their readers.

To set at rest a question that has arisen in the minds of some as to the form which the memorial should take, the committee decided unanimously, in accordance with the original purpose of all who have been moving in the matter in Columbia to erect a monument in a public place in the city.

Union Meeting.

Program for 3rd District Union Meeting to be held with the First Baptist Church, Anderson, S. C., Saturday, March 28, 1903.

Organization immediately after sermon. Recess to 2 o'clock, after which the following query will be discussed:

"What effort is satan making to destroy Christ's Church, and his three witnesses mentioned in 1 John 5:8, and what are his most powerful agencies?" Speakers: Rev. J. B. Herron, J. W. Quattlebaum, Esq., 30 minutes each. General discussion of not more than ten minutes to any one speaker. The regular program to be interspersed with music at the call of the Moderator.

SUNDAY, 11:00 a. m.—Missionary sermon, by Rev. H. M. Allen; alternate Rev. W. B. Hawkins. J. Belton Watson, J. A. Hall, for Committee. March 9, 1903.

Roosevelt "Cussed" Carmack.

Washington, March 3.—President Roosevelt in talking with a delegation of Tennesseans who called on him took occasion to declare he would see Senator Carmack "in hell" before he would give him any patronage. He subsequently modified the declaration by saying he presumed he should have used the word "hades" instead of "hell."

This declaration was entirely gratuitous on the part of the President. Senator Carmack has asked him for no patronage. He has consistently kept away from the white house. Some of his criticism of the administration and of the president have been so severe, that the president feels deep resentment toward him.

The way the President's remark happened to be made was this: A delegation of Tennesseans went to the white house in behalf of Mr. Morgan, of that State, who aspires to be upon the canal commission. President Roosevelt listened to what these gentlemen had to say in behalf of Mr. Morgan, and then said he would be glad to consider their wishes.

"But," he went on to say, "there is one member of your delegation whom I would see in hell before I would give him any patronage."

That Tennessean, he made clear, was the senator who loses no opportunity to criticize the action of the President and his party. Senator Carmack would not discuss the episode today, further than to say that gentlemen in the party had reported to him what had occurred.

"It was an entirely uncalculated declaration on the president's part," said Senator Carmack. "Since I have asked him for nothing and do not intend to ever ask anything at his hands. I had so expressed myself to my friend, Mr. Morgan, before the party went to the white house in his behalf. I have not asked anything from the President, nor would I, and I do not care to criticize any statement he may have made. I find sufficient opportunity and sufficient occasion to do that in the senate."
