WAR STORIES.

Squire Tom's Long Prayer and its Answer.

H. M. Wiltse, in Sunr / South.

a Tennessee man, who was born in Virginia, and a Cherokee woman. When the civil war began he was a mere boy, but he promptly joined the Confederate army, and became a scout, first for General Joe Wheeler and then for General N. B. Forrest.

Upon one occasion his little party sible approach to Nashville, take carethe commanding general.

surprised by a force of federal cavalry, fences. and in Squire Tom's own words, "did the only thing that was left for us to do, and ran like the devil."

shot and killed.

valuable burden.

The party was now in a forest, and for the time being comparatively safe. when he found it. But it was imperative that those who as possible during daylight.

bless you. Good-by."

"All that I ask of you," replied Tom, "is that you will throw a green Trace was so called because in those days the way through the forest was had been after a doctor. indicated by cutting notches in the the road was not plain.

"I will do that, you may be sure," good will that do you? We shall his desperate ride. travel at least 25 miles before we go Leaving the level of unseemly name fore daylight in the morning."

"I will be with you when you break camp," said Tom.

The lieutenant pressed his hand warmly, the boys all bade him a reluctant, and, as they believed, a last good-by, and away they went at a swift gallop. Tom proceeded along the road that they had taken until he came to a large corn field. Into the midst of and could plainly see where a party of this he plunged, and there kneeled horsemen had crossed, and then put upon the ground, in obedience to a up the gap. promise made to his Indian mother, who was a devout Christian, and whose implicit faith would put to many people of greater pretentions that he would always appeal to God for help in cases of emergency.

"I went at it in mighty earnest." said Squire Tom, "but with the most implicit faith that God would hear and answer my prayer. It may seem ridiculous to you that I should have prayed so long and so earnestly while intending, all the time, to steal the first party. horse that I laid eyes upon; but I was praying for a horse, and I believed that God would send me one, to take as a gift from Him or to steal as a necessity of war."

It was 11 o'clock in the forenoon when his companions left him. It was ed up in his blanket and called attensundown when he heard sounds as of a body of men and a train of wagons in enthusiasm, which military discipbrought his long prayer to a close. ain't that darned Injun." He crept to a point where he could

Hungry and thirsty to the point of faintness, Tom was rejoiced beyond number of fine watermelons in the part of the corn field where he was now standing. Eating as much of the delicious fruit as he wished, he crept along, concealed by the friendly corn, until he saw the federal force going into camp near a barn and some cribs.

He remained concealed until after darkness had fallen, and fortunately ing story about one of his old comfor him pale moonlight soon succeeded. When everything became still he reconnoitered and discovered that a number of horses were grazing not must be taken.

My friend Squire Tom is the son of ; and ran away from him. He made several attempts with similar results, but finally came to a large animal which showed no fear.

Quickly placing his saddle and bridle securely for a desperate ride, he mounted, and avoiding the road, where he knew sentries were sure to be posted, he made off into fields and over was ordered to make the nearest pos- fences, until he felt fairly secure from successful pursuit. Then, having a ful observations of the strength and fine knowledge of stars and woodcraft situation of the enemy and report to in general, he took observations, and proceeded in the general direction of As they were proceeding rather the spot where he thought his comleisurely through a fertile section of rades were likely to have left the middle Tennessee to give the horses a road, avoiding it, and still proceedlittle rest toward noontide they were ing through fields, forests, and over

Even in this emergency the lessons which his mother had taught him were not for a moment forgotten. The Duck river was somewhat swollen, wrongs suffered by her race had not but under the inspiration of a sharp embittered her, but had impressed her fire from their pursuers they forced strongly with the duty of observing their horses into the stream and all strictly the rights of others. When a emerged on the opposite bank without fence was too high for safe jumping His happy disposition made him a casualty save Tom, whose horse was he would dismount and let it down. If it merely separated field and forest Being an expert swimmer he suc- or two barren fields, he left it open; ceeded in securing the bridle and sad- but if it separated fields in which dle and getting safely ashore with his crops were growing, or in either of which was a crop, he conscientiously replaced it in as good condition as

All of the knowledge that he had of were mounted should push on as far the country was that a settlement called Lousy Level lay to the left of The lieutenant in command said to the road, and that his comrades would the unfortunate boy: "Tom, you are be encamped to the right of it. Where in a desperate predicament, but I the road was he had but little idea. know of no other way than for us to He wanted to know where Lousy Level leave you to your fate, and may God was in order that he might go in the other direction.

Toward midnight he came to a farm house, and with that one bit of inforbranch upon the right-hand side of mation as a pretext to arouse the the road, whenever you leave Notchey farmer and ask the direction to that Trace," for he knew that they would locality. In reply to a question, leave that highway at night when they which was natural in those troublous were ready to go into camp. Notchey times, he replied that his mother was sick over on the Level, and that he

As soon as the farmer had returned trees to tell the miles as well as per- to the house Tom went to the spring form the functions of guide posts when house, where he had discovered some pans of milk, and stopped long enough to drink the contents of one, which said the lieutenant, "but what earthly was a mighty source of strength for

into camp, and you have no horse. far to the left he kept the course as the stream, when the dog barked and Point, in front of the town of Beau-We must break camp and push on be- his judgment and the stars dictated, alarmed the guard, who at once ran and after a long ride, after many struggles with briars and brambles, after passing through many strips of forest and crossing many a rail fence, his hear' ounded for joy as they emerged into the highway and he discovered a freshly broken laurel branch, lying upon the right side.

Getting down he soon found a fence,

A mile or two further on he found his friends, all wrapped in soundest | such work. The information he gath- | Cape Lookout, which the government slumber-not even a sentry out to give shame the feebler quantity given to the alarm in case of the approach of foe or friend. They did Lot expect a visitation from either, they felt so sure of their hiding place. They all needed a full night's rest, too, in order to be ready for the great ride of the morrow.

Tom picketed his horse, rolled himself in his blanket, and was soon as sound asleep as the happiest of the Abou daybreak he was awakened by an exclamation, "Why, boys, look! There is a strange horse!

The presence of the animal caused a good deal of consternation; but when one of the scouts discovered Tom rolltion to him, the lieutenant exclaimed. moving up the road, and thereupon line did not check, "Well, if there

In turn every man in the party gave see, and sure chough a body of federal | their companion, so unexpectedly retroops and a wagon train were passing turned to them, a sound hug and a "God bless you, Tom, my boy!"

It proved that the horse which Tomhad stolen as an answer to his haif expression when he discovered a large day long prayer was the property of the wagon master, and the best traveler in the federal command.

A Soldier of the Legion.

Mr. S. E. Welch, himself one of the best soldiers who fought under Hampton, tells the following very interestrades who has fought his last fight:

"William H. Duva, a Confederate veteran, who deserves more than a passing notice and who served the very far from the barn. The position Confederacy with conspicuous ability, Henry C. Easler, living near Cheroof the sentries he could not make out, passed away on February 5, 1903. He kee Springs, belonged to the regular but ___ risk of challenge was one that was born July 9, 1841, in Christ army. In 1846 a recruiting officer often to be a jungle, threaded by Church Parish, where his early life named Welsh came to Spartanburg to thousands of narrow paths, through Lying down and dregging his saddle | was passed, and volunteered in Capt. and bridle as best he could, he crept L. C. McCord's company for service army for five years. Several volun- salt keep down much of the vegetation, the Confederate army and expected to John Richardson, a printer in the be sent to Virginia it was ordered by Spartan office. Governor Pickens to the coast of South dangerous or trying, those high sol- 3d regiment, under Col. Gates. dier qualities which he maintained to the end.

Richmond occurred the company was hurriedly sent to Virginia and particiminated at Fredericksburg. Our com- finest looking man he ever saw in uni rade took part in these and was sev- form. eral times slightly wounded. About the close of 1862 Jenkins's brigade, to which the Hampton Legion had been cansferred from Hood's Texaus, was ordered to the Blackwater River, Mexico. where picketing and skirmishing were of almost daily occurrence. Mr. Duva was constantly on the 'firing line,' and here learned much of the art of scouthow exhausting the march, wet to the skin, famished and foot-sore, his merry laughter could be heard and was contagious.

"No one in the entire command contributed as much as he when the bivouac was reached to reconcile his wearied, hungry comrades to make the best of the most wretched conditions. famous swimmer, a fine horseman and rier. excelled in all athletic sports. His knowledge of woodcraft was remarkable-under no circumstances was he ever lost in the woods or mountains.

"At the bloody engagement at Dandridge, East Tennessee, he was taken prisoner and sent to Knoxville. Soon after, with twelve or fifteen comrades, under a mounted guard, he was started off for Cumberland Gap. On the road bis buoyant spirits kept the crowd in a merry mood. At nightfall of the first day out he persuaded his guard to climb a fence with him to get some drinking water. The weather was bitterly cold and the stream frozen. Stooping down he broke the ice with a stone and slaked his thirst. Upon getting up he held the stone in his hand and his guard stooped to drink, when Duva struck him with the rock and ran into the woods. The entire guard fired, but missed him. For two days he hid in the brush and travelled only at night. At the Holston River Ferry he found a Federal picket playing cards by the firelight. Quietly he jumped into it and pushed out into let, terminating at Shackleford's to river and kept firing till our comhe escaped harm and, though the to a height of, say, thirty or forty country was full of Federal scouting feet, tree-covered, the trees laced with parties and Union bushwhackers, he vines, and in this mass of nearly subreturned to camp, after an absence of tropical vegetation, most of it ever-back to Virginia as mounted infantry scrub palmetto. There are homes Mr. Duva was detailed for special duty as a scout, and in this he rendered conspicuous service, as his natural there is also a light house, and near it qualifications eminently fitted him for a great natural harbor of refuge, at ered and dangers he experienced were is also planning to utilize. more like a romance than the monotonous life of a soldier. For nearly four years he served his country, and when Lee surrendered at Appomatton he laid down his arms with the consciousness of duty well done. After hostilities ceased he returned to the city, and was for many years in the employ of the South Carolina Railway ern Railway.

"An enthusiastic Confederate, a sincere friend, a brave man and Christian gentleman has gone to his re-

Three Mexican War Veterans.

Spartanburg, February 28 .- Veterans of the various wars are too common to attract much attention, even in these "piping times of peace." When a call is made for pensioners the woods seem to be full of Confederate veterans and they appear to come out of old wells, red gullies and other hiding places, as the Kuklux did years ago.

Then the boys now pose as veterans, for some of them volunteered for the Cuban war and, although there is not the smell of gunpowder on their

But it is a pretty rare sight to see a genuine veteran of the Mexican war. So far as this correspondent knows there are only three in this county. Very few persons remember the public meetings and the call for volunteers in 1846. A few may remember the ovation given to the returning soldiers in 1848. Of these three

There were others whose names can-Carolina, and was stationed for months not be secured. They were sent to on the Stone River, where Mr. Duva Fort Moultrie, where they were orproved by obedience to orders and ganized as an artillery company, unreadiness for any duty, no matter how | der Capt. Steptoe, and attached to the

They were sent from Fort Moultrie to the mouth of the Rio Grande, "When the seven days' fight around | thence up the river to Tampico and thence to Vera Cruz and Cerro Gordo. At the latter place they came under pated in all of the battles which led the command of Gen. Winfield Scott. up to the Maryland campaign and ter- Mr. Easler thought that he was the

> His company lost Capt. Steptoe in some way and Capt. Burke was in command when they assisted in battering down the walls and gates of

The company remained in Mexico until peace was declared, when they returned to New Orleans. They were then sent to Fortress Monroe and then ing, in which he was afterwards so to Fort Independence, near Boston. successful. He was a man of untiring There Mr. Easler saw the Constituenergy, unfailing good humor, re- tion, which was perforated with shot. sourceful and courageous. No matter The company was stationed at Eastport, Maine, a short time.

He saw Col. Butler fall at the gate of the City of Mexico. He also saw Gen. Taylor, Jefferson Davis and many of the other distinguished officers, He was mustered out of service at the expiration of his time. He had saved his pay and had about $400 when he returned home in 1851. He was 78 years old a few days ago. He bears great favorite, and there was scarcely his age well and is able to do a fair a man in the brigade who did not day's work on his farm. The two know 'Bill Duva' and greet him most other veterans in this county were in cordially on all occasions. He was a the volunteer service.-News and Con-

North Carolina Ponies.

There is really no more historical as well as interesting and curious territory in the United States than the long sand banks which mark the eastern boundary of North Carolina, and which form a vast breakwater within which are the sounds through which the government now proposes to provide an inland waterway which will end the terrors of Cape Hatteras. The writer has told for the Sunny South the story of the part of the banks of which Cape Hatters forms a vast promonotory, and this is to be a story about the part further to the southward, where the little ponice are, the only wild horses east of the Mississippi; ponies which have over three centuries of history behind them.

The part of the banks in question is known as "Shackleford's Banks, taking its same from the chief owner. Beginning at Ocracoke Inlet, this slipping the chain from a small boat, stretch of sand reaches to Bogue Infort. Shackleford's Banks are forty miles long, low-lying, with here rade crossed the stream. Fortunately and there dunes, or sand hills, rising green, the Spanish bayonet, prickly "When the Legion was ordered pear, or small cactus, and the fan or here and there along the irregular stretch of Shackleford's Banks, and

On Shackleford's Banks alone are the little ponies referred to. It is strange, but true, that these are found in their wild state nowhere else. There are said to be about 1,200 of them on the banks. Inquiry made of observant residents as to whether the number of the ponies had decreased during the past afty years brought Company and its successor, the South- the response that they had, and that until about 1850 the ponies increased. The ponies weigh about 800 pounds and their height is about thirteen or fourteen hands-that is, 41 to 41 feet. Their life is mainly on the banks, though in very stormy weather they sometimes swim over to the mainland, a distance of two to five miles away, Their food is marsh grass, leaves of scrubby trees, and shrubs and berries, particularly the berries of the holly, The woods give them usually a good shelter, and hence it is but seldom that they seek the shelter of the mainland. They live to quite an age, but the average is about 22 years. Some reach the age of 40.

These ponies have owners. The 'banks' are owned by grants sold by the State. These people make pens out of drift wood and rough logs and clothes, they, too, are on the veteeran poles and into these the ponies and their colts are driven and branded. A colt following a branded mare is considered the property of the owner of the mare, and he holds it. In cases where there are colts which do not follow the mares, then the "penners," that is, the men who make and own the pens, take them. Such is the unwritten law. The popies are driven out of the scrub by drivers or herders, and this is a work of no small difficulty, as the scrub is so thick as to get young men to join the regular the shining sand. The wind and the to the nerrest horse and tried to secure in the Hampton Legion infantry. teered. Among them was H. C. East so that there one may see hickory it, but the animal gave a slight snort When the company was mustered into ler, John Wyard, Mark Clanton and trees not over three feet in height, yet loaded with nuts, and horse chestnut trees equally as dwarfed.

The colts are covered with hair several imphes in leugth, nature's protection against the weather. This is called colt hair and looks life felt. It falls off in large flakes. Most of the colts are of a faded brown color, but when their hair falls off they come out in their true color, which is sometimes black. They are termed colts until they are branded, though they may be three years old or more before they are penned and the brand put on.

The ponies are always known, in all parts of the State, as "banker" ponies. They do not appear to be sold much outside of North Carolina, as the people in other States do not know anything about them. They cross well with horses. When taken upcountry and fed upon hay, corn and oats they fill out and darken in color somewhat. Their instinct is remarkable. They know by means of it the way to get to the mainland or to the islands with the minimum amount of swimming, and the writer has seen them wade great distances without getting out of their depth, making various changes and turns in direction to conform to the shoals. Yet they are fearless swimmers. They paw holes in the sand at low-lying places and thus get drinking water.

Though an inlet only about two miles in width separates Shackelford's Banks from Bogus Banks, yet the ponies never go on the latter banks. Nor do they cross Ocracoke Inlet.

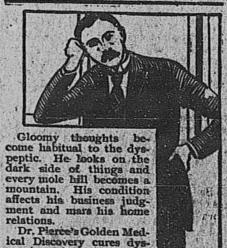

The ancestors of these hardy and valuable little horses were the Barbara horses which Sir Walter sent over with his colonists to Roanoke Island. They have bred and multiplied and for at least two centuries have been utilized by the people of that section. Sir Walter's colonists, when the relief from England was so long delayed in reaching them, went with the Indians to the mainland, but must have left their ponies. The Indians were unused to horses. These Indians were the Haterasks, who gave their name to the dreaded cape. When Raleigh's colonists first landed there they found that the Haterasks were distinguished by their blue eyes, and that they had a tradition that their 'fathers could talk out of 's book." Hence the inference that at some former period a crew of white men had been cast away thereabout and had amalgamated with the Indians.

These sturdy little ponies are, therefore, a part of the romance which hangs about this quaint part of North Carolina. There are persons who hold that Raleigh's colonists first landed on Shackelford's banks and later went to the isle of Roanoke, where they built their fort, because it was a more defensible place, and that they left the. "little Barbary horses" on these banks, until better times should come.

to the southward were even within many's memory far more heavily wooded than they are now, the overwhelming sand dunes, or moving mountains of sand, having swallowed up large stretches of forest. As the dunes pass on, moved by the winds. they leave only stumps of trees, or at most mere snags, polished to a remarkable whiteness .- Fred A. Olds, in the Sunny South.

- A woman's brain is said to decline in weight after the age of 30. Naturally, for it is then, generally, that she has to think for a husband and a half dozen children as well as herself.

- The jury brought in a verdict of "Not guilty." The judge said, admouishingly to the prisoner: "After this you ought to keep away from bad company." "Yes, your honor. You will not see me here again in a hur-ment and mars his home relations.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures dyspepsia and other diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It gives buoyancy of mind as well as health of body because it removes the physicial cause of mental depression.

It enalles the perfect digestion and assimilation of food, and the body is strengthened by nutrition which is the only source of physical strength.

"I was afflicted with what the doctors called only source of physical strength.

"I was afflicted with what the doctor nervous indigestics. Took medicine fr family physician 2.5 no avail," writes Mr G. Lever, of Lever, Richland Co., S. C n'yht would have cold or hot feet and alternately. I was getting very nervo suffered a great deal mentally, thinking death would soon claim me. Always ex something unusual to take pince; was it and impatient, and greatly reduced in flacould scarcely eat any thing that would need to try a few bettles. Perfect of the could scarcely eat any thing that would need to try a few bettles. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and "P After taxing several bottles of each, found improving. I continued for six months or off and on. I have to be careful yet, at tim what I eat, in order that I may feel goo strong. I willy believe if any one suffering indigestion or torpid liver or chronic cold take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discover 'Pleasant Pellets' and observe a few simpjencie rules, they would soon be greatly lited, and with a little.

$\mathbf{W}$ ho Puts up Your Prescriptions?

WE invite the privilege. We use the best quality of every drug; exercise the most exacting care with every part of the work. We prod medicine that brings the best possible results. We charge only a living profit above the cost of materials.

Let Us Fill Your Prescriptions.

EVANS PHARMACY,

CENERAL MERCHANTS

ANDERSON, S. C., October 8, 1902. We propose pulling trade our way this Fall, and have made prices of We have the strongest line of Men's, Women's and Children's SHOES we have ever shown, and have them marked down so low that every pair is a great value. We have another big lot of Sample Shoes that we throw of the market at factory prices: Come quick while we have your size.

We are money-savers on GROCERIES. Best Patent Flour $4.50 pm barrel. Best Half Patent Flour $4.00. Extra Good Flour $3.75.

COFFEE, SUGAR, HARD, BACON, BRAN, CORN and OAT always in stock, just a little cheaper than the market prices.

We are strictly in for business and want your trade. Try us and you

VANDIVER BROS. JUST RECEIVED,

TWO CARS OF BUGGIES

ALL PRICES, from a $35.00 Top Buggy up to the finest Rubber Tired jo - ALSO. -

A LOT OF WAGONS, That we want to sell at once. We keep a lane stock of-

Georgia Home Made Harness Cheap The finest, lig' ; draft-

Mower In the world. Come and see it.

Yours in earnest.

VANDIVER BROS. & MAJOR.

Have Just Received

Two Cars Fine Tennessee Valley

PERFECTLY ROUND.

You run no risk in feeding this to your stoca.

Will also make the very finest meal. Come quick before it is all gone.

O. O. ANDERSON

A man thinks it is when the matter of ces of late have shown how life hangs thread when war, flood, hurricane and suddenly overtakes you, and the only to be sure that your family is protecte ease of calamity overtaking you is to sure in a solid Company like

The Mutual Benefit Life Ins. Drop in and see us about it,

> M. M. MATTISON. STATE AGENT.