Bestows that Health and Vigor that Makes Living a Pleasure.

Compound

If you are sick and out-of-sorts, it is in your ower to make yourself healthy, strong, and happy.

There is not the slightest reason why you should go through life feeling sickly, miserable, languid, and melancholit. To be well and strong, means happiness and true joy.

If you are sleepless, rheumatic, neuralgic, dyspeptic, or have the shadows of disease hovering over you; if you are not as bright, energetic, and strong as you were some weeks ago, the use of Paine's Celety Compound will tone up and fortify your whole system, cleanse the blood, correct digestion, sharpen the appetite, and conduce to restful sleep. Thousands once in a half-dead condition owe their present good health to the use of Paine's present good health to the use of Paine's Celery Compound. Mr. Wm. S. Gibsen, of Pleasureville, Ky., who, through sickness and suffering, was brought near the dark grave, writes as follows, regarding his marvelous

"I have been broken down in health and strength, nervous system shattered, kidneys out of order, had nervous and trembling spells out of order, had nervous and trembling spells off and on for the last ten years. I have taken three bottles of your Paine's Celery Compound and all of the above-mentioned troubles have left me, and I can now do a good day's work, I go about my business all day long and it don't worry me, and I now feel better than I have in ten years. I have a good appetite, and car eat and get around on foot as active as when I was a boy. My age is 65 years."

Sarcastic Advice.

It chanced that one of those injudicious persons whose name is egion on some occasion pressed through the circle gathered around Mr. Browning and incontinently asked him to explain there and then a difficult passage in one of his own poems—a passage where probably the masterful thoughts elbowed each other for precedence. Nothing to Crow About.

Little Arthur was visiting his grandmother, who owned a large rooster that was possessed of fighting qualities. Arthur went out to feed the chickens, when the rooster flew at him, pecking him severely.

Arthur beat him off as well as he could and finally got away and ran to the house. Some time later he was playing on the porch, when all at once the rooster flew upon an ad-joining fence and crowed lustily. Arthur looked up and exclaimed: "You lie! You lie! You didn't lick me! I runned!"

Gainesville, Ga., June 3.-Mirecles played an important part in Monday's cyclone, which journeyed through the southern part of Gaingaville and the upper portion of Hall county, for, while death was hurled to mores and injuries to thrice that number, there are thousands alive and well to-day who owe their escape from death to the freake and whims of the giant wind demon. Cyclone stories, like tales of fishing, sometimes create doubt in the minds of those who stayed at home, but unlike the fish stories, the absurdities of the Gainesville cy-

Making Paper From Cornstalks.

Wonders will seemingly never cease especially when the core plant is soncerned. One would think that with such an anomaly as that of a big grass plant furnishing both sugar and vinegar, ship-side packing and silk the limit had been reached, but now comes word from Washington that the department of agriculture has discovered a way to make from the corn plant the paper on which to write its marvelous history for the benefit of posterity. Dead 25 Years-Now is Alive.

Rochester, May 9 .- A strange romance was narrated to Chief of Police Cleary today by a man who was supposed to have been dead for years. It was told by a man who had come from Mount Hope Cemetery, where he had read his epitaph on a tombstone and then razed the stone to the ground. And it was told to a man who had acted as pallbearer for the man supposed to have been dead.

Twenty-eight years ago this month the body of a man was found floating in a mill race here and identified as that of William H. Stone. The identification was made positive by Mra. Stone, the supposed widow. The 105th New York infantry, of which he had been a member, adopted a memorial and attended the funeral in a Body. Cheif of Police Cleary, then a policeman, was one of the pallbearers. The burial was in the Stone family plot in Mount Hope. To-day Stone suddenly appeared and fully identified himself'to his family and police. He has been a wanderer.

"Mogul" Traffic Movers."

Under the great shed of Union Staion panting monsters of steel and iron glide in almost every hour from "runs" of hundreds of miles.

A little oil is poured on their bearings, a wiper goes over the shining shaft, a nut is tightened, a screw adjusted, and they are ready once more for another trip.

Locomotives of the present day typify the essence of human ingen-

Economy is the factor which has had much to do with their existence. Saving in coal, saving in time, saving in repairs, and a capacity to do Lore work at less expense are the guiding stars of the men who make these great traffic movers.

Slowly it has been realized that though it may require twice as much coal to give the Morgul, the Pacific or the Atlantic locomotive power to go a given distance as a cheap or old-time engine, still they can make the distance half again as fast, carry a train twice as heavy and at the end of the run need no repairs.

Because of the knowledge that mistake will cost many human lives, the improvement in locomotives has been comparatively slow.

Theories were of but little use in railway engines. Practical improvements were need-

Less than fifty years ago an engine weighing fifty tons was regarded with

Its wonderful speed of twenty miles fang their prey once only. The poison an hour was commented upon, and its does not kill at once. The victim trains of ten or twelve freight cars flutters to a branch, it may be, or runs were regarded as the acme of traffic possibilities. Driving wheels from forty to fifty nches high carried these trains.

The smokestacks were often five feet high, and terminated in bulges from which the smoke poured in impressive volume.

Since that day of these "iron monsters" locomotive building has undergone a complete change.

Almost all things which were regarded as imperatively necessary have been found not only unnecessary, but in the way.

The small boiler has given place to huge boilers, often extending far back into the cab of the engineer.

The high smokestack has been cut down from 60 to 20 inches, and is almost completely lost to view behind the huge headlight. Driving wheels are now from 80 to

34 inches diameter and the fire box has been raised from the center of gravity to a degree which would have caused the old-timer to predict rertain

The speed attained is from fifty to sixty miles an hour for hours at a time, and the trains hauled may be fifty heavy freight cars or a line of from twelve to fourteen heavy passenger cars, one of which would have up a bill of good size. What with talled the engine of fifty years ago.

The weight of these engines is from 100 to 150 tons.

The Pacific locomotives of the Chipago and Alton weigh 219,000 pounds and have driving wheels 80 inches in

The new Burlington engines weigh 300,000 pounds andare what is known as the "Atlantic" type. Their driving wheels are 84 inches in diameter. Speed is the chief essential with them.

It is generally believed that the new engines of the Illinois Central are unequaled in their class. Especially is this said to be true of the twelvewheel freight locomotives recently put into use by the company.

These locomotives weigh 232,000 pounds and are built for power.

One of the sights of Union Station is the great B'g Four engine. No. 399. which weighs more than 100 tons and has a speed of seventy miles an hour.

The Wabash and the Iron Mountain also have several very large locomotives .- St. Louis Republic.

Graham Pock, a well-known authority on snakes, was asked his opinion regarding a snake's hypnotic powers. His reply was as follows:

"There is a certain power to fascinate in anake's eyes and movements. I saw only the other day a typical illustration of the power of a snake to fascinate. "Over in the pine woods I saw !

ground squirrel fascinated by a black gopher snake. The forked tongue darted out of the snake's mouth almost as regularly and rapidly as the needle of a sewing machine rises and falls. The squirrel seemed to watch it spellbound. The snake crept slowly nearer. When the gopher snake was within two or three inches of the squirrel it gave a leap and threw three coils about the squirrel. Instantly the spell was gone. The fascination or charm there had been over the little animal was no doubt broken the very moment the serpent's coils were about the squirrel, for the animal gave three convaisive, terrified chirps and realized that its death moment had "I believe implicity that all snakes have a certain degree of power to fascinate their victims to death. Blacksnakes, gopher snakes and racers have the power of a large degree. Rattlesnakes have the most fascinating power among all the poisonous serpents in the southwest. The indications of charming among poisonous snakes are deceiving sometimes. Poisonous snakes a short distance and stop. The snake watches it. The poison does its deadly work, and the bird falls. The physician was overtaken by a storm on a cold winter night, and rather than drive ten miles home, he put up at the tavern keeper's house. He and his host sat for an hour or two before they went to bed at a table on which a bottle of whiskey stood. They talked pleasantly, but neither took anything to drink. What, therefore, was the physician's surprise in the morning to find on his bill a charge of 50 cents for whiskey.

"Why, man, I drank none of your whiskey," he said to the tavern keep-

"Maybe you did'nt," the other replied, "bue you might as well. It was there on the table for you."

The physician paid the 50 cents, and a week or two later he put up at the tavern again. This time he ran the things he ate and drank and ed seated with the landlord at the table, his medicine case before him, his account came to something like

In the morning when he got his bill -it was $5 exactly-he gave the landlord, instead of cash, a receipted bill of his own for a like amount. At this bill the landlord started.

"Medicine, $5.00!" he exclaimed. "What does this mean? I have nt taken any of your medicine!"

"But, my friend, why did'nt you?" said the physician. "It lay before you on the table all last evening."

WHEN BABY IS COMING Mother's Friend.

Woman's greatest dream of beauty and glory is when nature has chosen her to become a mother. Every faculty is keenly sleet and her nature the finest as she foresees the joy, the ambition, the success and the life-long satisfaction coming, coming nearer, day by day, in the dear and innocent being so soon to see light, and the very uncertainty whether she shall see a sweet girl face or a brave boy face beside her on the pillow, adds seat to her expectancy. Then, if ever, she should take care of her physical, mental and moral health.

MOTHER'S FRIEND applied externally throughout pregnancy will relieve the pain of parturition, and no mother and child can fail to be healthy, hearty, atrong, clear comple shoned, pure blooded, calm nerved and cheerful in disposition, who are mutually influenced for months by the continued use of Mother's Friend.
