Preston B. Mitchell committed suicide near his home, two miles west of Belion, on Monday afternoon, 15th inst., by shooting himself with a double-barrelled shot gun. For a number of years the deceased 1.2d been afflicted with spells of insanity, and had three times spent several months in the insane asylum in Columbia, but would recover sufficiently to be adjudged safe and sent home. For the past several weeks he had been gradually growing worse again, but it was not deemed necessary to confine him and he has been enjoying the liberty of walking around over his farm. On Monday afternoon he walked out and remarked to his wife that he was going to the bottom lands to see his crop of corn. Later in the afternoon Mrs. Mitchell noticed that his gun had been removed from its accustomed place and she began to suspect that her husband had taken it with him. The afternoon passed away and she began to grow alarmed at his absence. She notified the hands on the farm who began a search for him, and, falling to find him, the neighbors were notified and a more thorough search was instituted and kept up until early Wednesday morning when his body was found in a piece of woods about three hundred yards from his home. He was lying on his back with his gun tied to a small tree. A string about ten feet long had been fastened to the trigger and in this manner he had managed to shoot himself. On examination it was found that the entire lond from the gun had entered the unfortunate man's left breast near the heart, and, no doubt, caused instant death. The body was in a badly decomposed state, but it was neatly dreased by k'ud neighbors and interred in the Lelzon cemetery that afternoon. The deceased is the youngest son of the late Marion Mitchell and about 40 years of age. He was an upright, worthy citizen, and highly esteemed by a wide circle of friends, who deeply sympathize with the sorely bereaved widow who is left to mourn his sad fate.
