Caught the Coon.

He arrested him and at once notified the authorities at Anderson, and the following day Mr. Johnston, to whom he was bound by contract, called for him and took him off, leaving with Officer Lanford the reward offered for the coon with a string of alias—Moorman Golden alias John Moore alias Coon alias Charley Blakely.—Woodruff News.

McCormick Vertical Lift Mower.

The McCormick Vertical Lift Mower, a view of which is presented herewith, is especially designed for cutting on rough and stumpy ground, but is also well adapted for general use. This machine combines all the essential features of the most perfect grass-cutting machine. By virtue of its achievements on rough and uneven fields, as well as on smooth and level meadowlands, the Vertical Lift Mower is generally recognized as being the best all-purpose Mowing Machine manufactured. The McCormick is equipped with devices by means of which the cutter-bar can be raised to a vertical position and lowered by the driver, the machine being thrown in and out of gear automatically without stopping the team. This form of construction is found invaluable, as it enables the operator of the McCormick Vertical Lift to cut close up to tree, stump or rock, and save all the hay. The cutter-bar is easily raised for passing any obstruction, and the machine is thrown out of gear automatically, without any loss of time that would otherwise be consumed in operating an ordinary machine under such adverse conditions.
