The Atlanta Intelligencer, of the 4th, says: For many days past the shipments of mules through this city has been large. They come from the blue-grass fields of Kentucky, and are about as fine as we have ever seen. They are intended, we learn, for the vast cotton regions of Southwestern Georgia, though large numbers of them are retained for this locality. They are shipped in and out by

In connection with the early completion of the Wilmington, Charlotte and Butherfordion, and the Cheraw and Coalfields Road, we had hoped for much benefit to this see tion. We do not despair yet, however, that the State will do something to help this company out of the mire. The Hartford Courant gives a list of fifteen of the accurdest and most wealthy insurance companies in the country, for the purpose of showing how unprofitable the insurance business has been of late. In this list, representing $13,000,000 of capital, only three have their capital unimpaired by losses, and they have only a surplus of about $79,000, on a capital of about $1,000,000. As an office the state of the state o 479,000, on a capital of about $1,000,000. As an offset to this, it must be remembered that the insurance companies have, until recently, been making large gains, and that their present capitals frequently represent earnings declared on stock dividends.

TUESDAY MORNING, JANUARY 8, 1807.

THE VETO MESSAGE.

We take pleasure in laying before our read ers this morning, the message of the President, read yesterday in the United States Senate, giving his reasons for vetoing the District of Columbia Negro Suffrage Bill. Mr. Johnson has now had some experience in the writing of veto messages, and we naturally expected, in an effort of this kind, a powerful and conclusive argument. On reading it over, we found that we had not expected too much. We consider this one of the most important State papers over issued from any department of our Government. Its principal value lies in the in advance, the project for turning that and the lucid definition here given to the rights and other States into territories.

A suit of importance to distillers has been heard.

Of Government. The message shows how great lucid definition here given to the rights and of Government. The message shows how great the power of Congress is, even when confined within its rightful limits. He makes a strong and timely plea for the Judiciary, apropos of Court within the next few weeks.

The President, in his argument, takes the Constitution and its binding force as the supreme law of the land as a postulate. He shows that when the vote was taken in December, 1865, to ascertain the voice of the people of the District, 6556 votes were cast in Wash. ington against Negro Suffrage, and only 35 in In Georgetown the vote was 813 against, and only one for the measure. Mr. JOHNSON cannot see why the people residing in the District of Columbia should not enjoy the same right and privilege as the inhabitants of a State or Territory, of making known their will upon matters affecting their social and political condition. They did this through the ballot box, and Congress has disregarded their wishes, and passed this Bill against their will. The spirit of our Constitution requires that the the several States to the citizens thereof.

The President then shows the inconsistency of representatives from States which deny suffrage to the colored citizens, -in forcing this measure upon the District of Columbia and they compel them to try an experiment which their own constituents have thus far refused to do.

The President next draws a comparison between the respective populations of Massachu-We perceive by our foreign files that an actor setts and Columbia. According to the census spresenting himself as Mr. John Boorn, the of 1860, Massachusetts, amongst its 1,231,666 inhabitants, numbered only 9602 persons of playing at Edinburgh, and drawing large crowds by his impudent assumption. Mr. Joseph Booth is not on the stage, and is at present in New York, nor is any member of the family in Europe. We trust that this imposter, who is represented to be a Mr. HENRY MARKER, of Leavenworth, will find that dearts. very much increased by immigration, rendering The Milwaukee News has an elaborate article on the disproportion much greater; and should the Suffrage Bill become a law, large accessions may be expected from the negroes of the surrounding States.

He next adverts to the entire disqualification of this class of inhabitants for an intelligent discharge of the elective franchise. He says: The people who are daily witnesses of their mode of living, and who have hacomerfamilian the conviction that they are not yet competent to serve as electors, and thus become eligible for office. Yet this Bill extends to them the right of suffrage without discrimination, while in Massachusetts, where they have enjoyed a ntelligence is required." The President still holds the views he expressed a year ago, on several occasions, that in the event of universal suffrage being thrust upon the people, against their expressed wishes, a war of races may inevitably be looked for.

The President then proceeds to define the thorough educational system, a qualification of respective functions and powers of the several Departments of Government, according to the nite a large business in the forwarding line, and power of the Executive, he says, is negative and conservative, to serve as a check upon unconstitutional, hasty and improvident legislation. The Constitutional powers of the Legislative Department are more extensive, and cannot be limited with precision, so that it may, under certain circumstances, encroach upon its co-ordinate departments. Besides it has access to the pockets of the people, in laying taxes and making appropriations, and even exer-cises a prevailing influence over the pecuniary rewards of those who compose the other two departments. He shows from the writings of KENT, STORY, MADISON and JEFFERSON, that the dangers of the usurpation by the Legislative, of the powers of the Executive and Judiciary Departments, was apprehended even in the early period of the Republic, and it was for this reason our fathers separated with such care these respective branches, and provided that no one should exercise the powers of more than one at the same time

He next shows how limited the powers of the Judiciary. They have no patronage. They cannot punish without law; they can do nothing for themselves, etc., etc., and if they administer the laws corruptly, they are subjected to the powerof impeachment, whereas, with few constitutional prohibitions, the powers of the Legislative are unlimited.

We cannot, of course, in the brief space of this column give more than the merest outline of this splendid argument, and hope that all our readers will give it a careful perusal. True, the reasoning is addressed to deaf ears, and the strongest logic is lost upon men who consult only the promptings of their passions; still the President is right in putting his protest on record, and we hope that the sober, second thought will yet gain the ascendancy over blind prejudice and party animosity.

YANKEES IN THE HOLY LAND.

A correspondent of the New York Tribune, writing from Reirat, Syria, November 23, states that a colony of one hundred and fifty-seven Americans—men, women and children—from Maine, had lately arrived at Jaffa, at the foot of Mount Carmel. A arrived at Jaffs, at the foot of Mount Carmel. A Mr. Adams—President Adams he styles himself—is the prime mover of this Yankes emigration. He organized the colony from members of a religious sect called the "Church of the Messiah," who hold, sect called the "Church of the Messiah," who hold, among other points of faith, that they are of the tribe of Erenary, and that as the curse is now taken off from Palestine, the set time has come for the Lost Ten Tribes to return to their land. In a recent sermon he stated that the present colony of
