To show the wenderful rapidity with which Texas is settling, we quote from one of our exchanges the following description of Sherman, a town, judging from its name, which has evidently sprung up since the war: "Sherman can boast of as good a site as any town in Northern Texas. It is situated near the centre of Grayson County, and in the richest portion of the State. It contains as many arms and progress homes than any town of many or more business houses than any town of its size in the State; ten dry goods houses, one large church, one hotel, one boarding house, one restaurant, three groceries, four blacksmith shops, four wood shops and the draw backsmith shops, four wood shops, and the finest brick buildings in

The Louisville Courier of the 8th says : "Yes-The Louisville Courier of the 8th says: "Yesterday afternoon a young lady, whose name we are requested to withhold, being out visiting, happened to pass the residence of Mrs. M. C. CROCKET, on First street, near College street, when Mrs. C., seeing her pass, called her and invited her into her residence. The young lady having been acquainted with her almost from infancy, accepted her invitation and went in. It would be well for us to state here that Mrs. CROCKET, since her husband's death, has lived secluded, occupying her residence by her herself, and has become a victim to a monomanta, in which she thinks the victim to a monomania, in which she thinks that everybody is seeking her life, and that her noighbors, especially, have threatened to kill neighbors, especially, have threatened to kill her. After the young lady had entered the house and had taken a seat, Mrs. C., apparently perfectly sane and right, got down the Bible and requested her to read a few chapters. She did so; but after reading for neariy an hour, expressed that she was tired, and prepared to go home. At this time the old lady became excited, and attacked the girl. THE LIFE AND CHARACTER OF BISHOP ELLIOTI.

We take pleasure in announcing to our read rs that the next issue of our WEEKLY will contain an able and elaborate biographical semoir of the above-named late lamented preate, written by the hand of affection. Those desirous of procuring extra copies should sen n their names in time.

"THE COMMISSIONER FROM SOUTH CARO

Not a single day has passed, during the pass four weeks, in which we did not find something bout Col. WEATHERLY'S "mission" to Washington in almost every exchange that comes to ou The name of South Carolina is fast b oming odious in the South, and an object of derision in the North .- and all because what? Because the Courier, in its over-anxiety o obtain a sensational paragraph, published what it was pleased to call an authentic state ment of his visit to Washington, given to it from the lips of Col. WEATHERLY himself. have refrained from saying anything on the subject, because we thought we knew something of the gentlemen who compose the Senate of South Carolina, and more especially because we have enjoyed a personal acquaintance with Col. WEATHEBLY; and we did not believ that the Senate would send to Washington for the purpose alleged, nor that Col. W. would have consented to go on such an embassy. We were satisfied to wait until we should hear from Col. W. himself, and we are pleased to have it in our power this morning to furnish a full and complete contradiction to the many false rumors and so-called authentic statement that have gone forth in reference to this whole matter. The following from Col. W. will explain itself:

To the Editor of the Charleston Daily News : In the Courier of the 25th December there appeared an editorial statement headed, in capitals, "The Reported Commission from the State of South Carolina to Washington," and on the 5th January another editorial headed, "Col. Weather-ly's Statement," it which it is said, "We sought an interview with him" (myself), "and from his lips obtained the important information which we had the pleasure of laying before our readers the fol-

To all this I have simply and briefly to say that I never authorized the publication of any state-ment concerning my visit to Washington. I was applied to for such authority, and expressly an positively refused it.

I have further to say, that the statement are, in some essential particulars, inaccurate. For instance—it is not correct to say—and I have never said—that my visit to Washington was "to confer with the President on th probability of the State being restored to her place n the Union should she adopt the Constitutional

State of South Carolina," or of her Legislature, to confer with any one upon the subject of the Corstitutional Amendment.

own mind, and to give them the benefit of such in-formation as I might be able to obtain concerning the condition of public affairs. It seems to me that this was a very proper purpose, which ough not to have attracted any public attention, and which certainly has been greatly misunderstood and misrepresented in every direction

TTSVILLE, MARLEOBOUGH DISTRICT, Janua гу 1, 1867.

THE REPORT OF THE REVENUE COM MISSIONER. Outside of the settlement of the affairs of the outh, there is no measure which so urgently demands the consideration of the Government at Washington as the adjustment, on a fair and equitable basis, of the system of taxation which systems will exact more carnest thought, and require a higher statesmanship than the present Congress appears to possess,—which will be only noted in the future for its promotion of sectional strife and partizan bitterness Under any system of revenue, the payment of the interests, and a provision for the gradual extinction of a debt of $2,500,900,000 will eriously embarrass many branches of national industry; but when marked, as are some features of the present system, by great inequality and unfairness, it will be a wonder if many pursuits do not decline and die under its vithering operation. The people of the North are already giving their attention to the diminished prosperity which at present attend the pursuit of great branches of frade which were formerly very successful and growing, but which have since, and during the war, ceased to be the wealth-creating machines which they were previously. The Commissioner of the revenue, Mr. WELLS, has lately made a report on the financial system of the Government which is attracting considerable attention, and its views and opinions are being noticed at length in many of the public journals. He states that, while the cost of subsistence has advanced ninety per cent, the wages of labor have only increased sixty. This fact exhibits a heavy system of taxation has in diminishing most strikingly the impoverishing effect which the limited means of the laboring classes Massachusetts has suffered—the decrease in the number of hands employed in many branches of the cotton manufacture in that State having reached thirty-one per cent., and in the consumption of raw cotton fifty-six per cent. One of the most striking features of the decline has been in the shipping interest, which, before the war, was the pride and boast of the country—the registered tonnage engaged in the foreign trade having, in five years, fallen off over fifty per cent., and formerly exceeded that of Great Britain, but is now thirtythree per cent. less. In November last there was but a single vessel in course of constructica at the ship-yards of New York, and only one or two at Boston; and the report says that, in the opinion of experienced New York shipowners, "that no voyage with an American vessel can be planned at the present time from the United States to any foreign port with a reasonable expectation of profit." "In many branches of manufacture" (the report states) "the internal rates of taxation, superadded to the high prices paid for raw materials and for labor, sweep nearly all the profits into the

says:

The condition of our currency is dwelt upon by Mr. Wells as one of the most prolific sources of the evils from which we suffer. Gold and eliver, are properly a measure of value, because they are the product of labor, and, as each, the supply of tham is regulated by natural laws. But the supply of our legal-tender paper mone? has depended exclusively on the wants of the Government and the operation of our present currency, commercial values are arbitrary and capricious, and prices vary continually, in defiance of known laws or precedents. The spirit of speculation has taken the place of the spirit of production; distrust and un-certainty are accompanied with extravagance and reckleseness. "These things," the report re-minds use-"have borne heavily on the laboring classes, and on most of the regular industries; ters remaining in the Postofice at the end of each week, agreeably to the following section of the New Postofice Law, as the newspaper having the largest circulation in the City of Charleston:

Sucrios 6 and bo it further enacted, That lists of lettors remaining uncalled for in any Postofice in any city, town or village, where a newspaper shall be printed, shall be reafter be published once only in the newspaper which, being published weekly or otherer, shall have the largest circulation within range of delivery of the said office.
