WEDNESDAY MORNING, JANUARY 16, 1867.

The following touching lines were written during the war by the Rev. J. L. Reynolds, of South Carolina Uersity, in commemoration of a beautiful instance of woman's devotion that occurred while the University buildings, Columbia, South Carolina, were used as a loss

But a daughter of earth, in her womanly meetness, Drew near him her vigils to keep. And the charm of her voice, in its sisterly sweetness. Beguiled the sad soldier to skeep.

As her delicate hand bathed his pain-furrowed brow, And her tan plied its oilled of blossing, Be dreamed of the clime where the Heavens endow The good with an angel's caressing.

His hard bed of straw seemed as light as the nir,
An angel's wings rustled above,
On his pale, sunken cheek fell a tremulous tear,
And a voice whispered accents of love.

Bewildered and charmed by the beautiful vision, Unconscious of place and of time, He deemed himself now in the regions elysian, And now in his childhood's fair clime. Thus calming the weeper, and soothing the anguished,
The visitant watched at his side,
And the soldier boy turned from the bod where he la

With a smile to the angel—and died.

LETTER NUMBER XXVII. WATERLOO, BELGIUM, 1866,-After Navoleon's trons Russian campaign, in which he sacri-the finest army ever raised in France, a sixth and grand coalition was formed, with the determiof crushing the man who had made himself and disturber of the peace of Europe. s of France, whose friendship had been The allies of France, whose friendship had been obtained by conquest and held at the point of the bayonet, were glad of an opportunity of throwing off the French yoke, and readily united with the allies in making war upon Naroleon. Even the great Emparator of Austria, on whom Naroleon repaired by the constitution. In a short time the allies had in the field more than a million of men, and were marching on the French metropolis from all quarters. Naroleon exerted almost superhuman power in the defence of his cherished capital, but he was finally crushed by overwhelming numbers. On the Site March, 1814, the Emperor Alexander of Bussia and the King of Prussia entered Paris in triumph. Two hundred and fifty thousand meninfantry, cavalry, and at Lawtonville," be repeated.

X. In civil causes the defendant shall be entitled of the Court.

XI. The Superior Court of Equity and the District Court shall have concurrent juried the constitution, the said District Courts thall the constitution, the said District Courts fare jurisdiction.

XII. That in all cases now commenced in the District Courts for services where the amount due is over one bundred dollars, the case shall be transferred to the Court of Common Pleas.

XIII. Matters of Equity pending in the District Court shall be heard by the District Judge, at a Quarterly Sossion, or at such other time as, with his concurrence, the parties may fix, with an appeal as from a Chancellor on Circuit. With respect to these matters, the Lougher of the District Courts as he does a Chancellor with respect to matters in the Superior Court of Equity and the District Courts for the country and the District Courts shall be heard by the District Courts for a such other time as, with an appeal as from a Chancellor on Circuit. With respect to these matters, the Court of Equity and the District Courts as he does a Chancellor with respect to these matters, the Court of Equity and the District Courts as he does a Chancellor with respect to these matters, the Court of Equity and the District On the 11th April, 1814, Napoleon voy reluctantly signed the Act of Abdication, renunning for himself and his family the thrones of France and Italy. Louis XVIII, who had been residing in England, was recalled and declared King. Thus were the old Bourbons again restored to power, and Napoleon banished to Elba, a small island in the Mediterranean Sea. What a spectacle! Behold this man of a giant intellect, who so recently ruled the powerful nations of Europe with an iron rod, now consigned, in humiliation and disgrace, to a barron island not ten miles square. Napoleon deserved this severe punishment for his wrongs to Josephine. The allied sovereigns who had dotherned Napoleon were assembled at Vienna, arranging for a glorious peace, and to settle the affairs of Europe. Vienna became the scene of gaiety and brilliant fetes. It was at one of these splendid entertainments that the astounding intolligence was received that Napoleon had escaped from Elbs, and effected a landing in France. The announcement lead almost instantly to a seventh coalition of the great powers to destroy the man they regarded as the enemy of mankind—he was thought a fit subject for public vengeance. Napoleon marched, from the south of France to Paris in twenty days, without opposition. Marshal Ney, who was sent to intercept him, promised to "bring hack to Paris the dangerous Corsican in an iron cage." The sight of his old companion in arms was too much for old Ney—he no longer remembered his oaths and promises to Louis XVIII, but joined Napoleon, and marched with him in triumph to the Tulleries, where they arrived on the 20th March, 1815, ten months from the date of his banishment. On the night of the 18th June Wellington was attending a brilliant ball, given by the Duchess of Richmond at Brussels; a courier entered and informed the Britiah General that Napoleon, with his same, was within ton miles of Livissels! It is said the Lron Duke turned pale, and instantly left, accompanied by his officers, to prepare for the great conflict. The bells were rang, war trumpets sounded, drums best to arms. In an hour the immense English army was marching. Wellington halted on the spacious field of Waterloo. In this strong position he carefully selected his ground, stationed his troops, and dispatched a messanger for Blucher, who had under his command 65,000 splendid Prussian soldiers. No spot in Europe has interested me more that the world-renowned battle-field of Waterloo. It was here, half a century ago, the most important battle recorded in history was fought. My guide pointed out the position selected by the great English cunottain, which he so heroically defended against the desperate assaults of the French. Also the old oak tree under which Napoleon assembled his cinicration in history was fought. My guide pointed out the position selected by the great English cunottain, which he so heroically defended against the desperate assaults of the French. Also the old oak tree under which N and was about making a final charge with the Old Guard, which, it was said, never charged in vain. At this critical moment heavy cannonading was heard and an army was seen in the distance advancing rapidly to the scene of action. Napoleon thought it was Marshal Grouchy, and was giving orders for a simultaneous attack by his whole force. Alas! it was not Grouchy, but Bulow and Blucher with 60,000 fresh troops. A shout of excitation ran through the allied lines. Napoleon saw that all was lost unless he could break the English lines before the mino of the allied armies, which had stood like a stone wall against the dreadl assaults of the Fronch, he now ordered his reserved guard, which had not contain the same of the reserved guard, which had never failed him in battle. As these world-renowned old soldiers, under Marshal Ney, defiant of each, presses on, piercing the British line; it is said both armies gazed with awe upon the scene. Marshal Ney, in a few moments, had six horses shot from under him. With sabre in hand, he man had on foot, leading his men into the very jaws of death. Blueher, with his legions of infantry, cavalry and artillery, like an avalanche, swept over this little band of brave men, until almost to a man, they were weltering in blood. General Cambronne, who was bleeding from a docken wounds, was surrounded by a mall remnant of his men. A flag of truce was sent demanding a capitulation; Cambronne replied. "The Guard deep, buth ever surrenders!" Thus heroically perished the Imperial Guard, and Napoleon's star set to rise no more. Napoleon escaped to Paris, carrying the tidings of the terrible catastrophe at Waterloc, which threw the city into containing an appetuality of the British nation, claiming the prosection of their Court. The English having the French lon in their possession, determined to place him where he could do no more mischief. The Government sent him a prisoner for life to St. Helena, a small island in the Atlantic Six years of humanation, swarping and as against that over lived.

Let us but cast our eyes over the pages of intory and we find Ambition is the rock on which history and we find Ambition is the rock on which most of the great military heroes perish. Alexander, after having elimbed the Alpine heights of ambition, looked down upon the conquered nations and wept because there was not another world to conquer. He died among strangers in a fit of debauch. Hannibal crossed the elicates of the World. After having stained his hand in the blood of his fellow creatures, he put an end to his miserable existence by committing suicide. Cassar, and the conquering a thousand cities, and murdering and of his fellow creatures, he put an end to his miser-able existence by committing suicide. Cæsar, after conquering a thousand cities, and murdoring a million of his foss, was assassinated by his friends. Bonaparte, who had filled the earth with the terror of his name, became a lonely exile. Such was the sad fate of four of the greatest military men in ancient or modern times.

LIVER COMPLAINT AND DYSPIPSIA.

It is estimated that seven-teaths of all adult allmosts proceed from a deceased and brighd liver. The billary secretions of the liver overflowing into the stormach poison the entire system and exhibit the above symptoms. After long research, we are able to present the most remarkable cure for these horted hightimar diseases, the world has ever produced. Within one year over six hundred and forty thousand persons have takes the Flankard of Surrains and not an instance of complaint hundred and tory thousand persons have takes the Flankard of Mirrians, and not an instance of complaint hundred and agreeable stimulated sections. CHICKERING & SONS sumbred and ovry inouchid persons have taken the Plankarion Birteius, and not an inntance of complaint has come to our knowledge!

It is a most effective tonic and agreeable stimulant, suited to all conditions of life.

The reports that it redies upon mineral substances for its active properties, are wholly fasse. For the satisfaction of the public, and that natients may consult their physicians, we append a list of the components.

Calisar Larke.—Gelebrated for over two hundred years in the treatment of Yever and Ague, Dvapeusla Weckness, etc. It was introduced into Europe by the Countries, wife of the Viceroy of Peru, in 1646, and afterwards sold by the Jesuits for the coronass price of the own resight in silver, under the name of Jesuit's Products, and was finally made public by Louis XVI. King of France.—Humboldt makes especial reference to its fabrilings qualities aftering his South American travels.

Middle Sin: I have great pleasure in swing youto convey to Measure. Chickering the expression of my highest approval of their instrument. It is, I con-ider, not excely the best instrument of American manufacture that I have teled, but one of the figest Grand Planofortes that has ever come under my observation; and the Measure. Chickering may well be proud of having turned out from their manufactory an instrument which, for touch, quality, power and workmanship, it would be very difficult to surpass in any part of the wideworld.

They are unrivalled for their singing qualities and for the hamonions roundness of their tone. There is a perfect homogeneity throughout all the registers. The apper notes are remarkable for a clearness and purity which I do not find in any other instrument, while the base is distinguished for power without harshness, and for a magnificant sonority.

Your Planes are superior to any I have ever seen in this country or in Europe.

I have never heard a tone so perfect: it yields every expression that is needed in music, and its quality is capable of charge to meet every seattment. This is a rare power, and is derived from the perfect purity of its tone, together with its sympathetic, classic and well balancel touch. POZNANSKI.
