Mayon's Court, January 30.—The only case brought before his Honor this morning, was that of two young men who had just been relieved from prison, where they had been confined as witnesses, and who had been colobrating their discharge by dulging in "pine top" and pugilistic exercithe street, for which they were fined $3 cach. Not having the exact change about them, they con-sented to spend three days in one of the cells of he Guard House, so as to enjoy a change of see

The State vs. Susan Bowers—Assault and Resisting an Officer. T. G. Barker, Eaq., for the defence. Not guity.

The State vs. T. J. Kennedy—Assault and Battery. Wm. Rhett, Esq., for the defence. Not guilty.

The State vs. Jacob Green—Larceny. R. W. Seymour for the defence. Discharged on his own recognizance.

The State vs. Hagar Jones—Assault and Battery. Not pros. The State vs. Edward Thompson—Fals: Imprisonment. R. W. Seymour, Esq., for the defence.

This case was one of great peculiarity. It appeared that the plaintiff had been assaulted by the defendant, who forced him to deliver money, and subsequently, subjected him to an imprisonmen on the alleged pretext of owing him a bill.

THE SAVANNAH News, and Herald, of yesterday

THE SAVANNA New. and Herald, of yesterday morning has the following:

Burning of the Gen. Shepley.—We learn that on Monday night last the steamer Gen. Shepley was burned at a dock on Ossabaw, where she was taking in cotton and planters' supplies.

She left here on Saturday morning to take away cotton and material belonging to Captain Fly, a Northern man, planting here.

While off from the landing she was so on fire aft and completely burned. Capt. Rosse, commander of the steamer, and lady, and Capt. Fly and lady, with the ship's crew, barely escaped, being rescued by the steamer H. M. Cool.

The boat was, we understand, not insured. She

The incondiarism, we are assured, is attributed to freedmen, who, misguided by fanatics, had been led to believe that the steamer was designed for kidnapping purposes, with a Cuban or similar destination.

THE LATE COLONEL HAVNE.-The New Orlean Times recently published a very appreciative and complimentary editorial upon the late Col. HAYNE.

Conjimentary advoral upon the lato Col. Hayne. In closing it says:

Col. Hayne, though not first in the front rank, belonged to a class of distinguished men in Carolina, all of whom have passed off the stage; to some of whom marble memorials have been raised, but whose lives are their most illustrious monument, ever present to the memory of the living generation... When or where shall we again behold, in the sunny land of the South, such gifted men, such elegant scholars, such accomplished orators—several of whom were statesmen of the first order—as Lowndes, Calboun, Hamilton, the Haynea, Legare, Preston, Cheves, Butler, Turnbull, Nott, Harper, Huger, Grimke, Elliott, 'hornwell, McDuffle, Petigru and O'Neall, the mention of whose names awakens a thrill of pride within the bosom—a satisfaction that humanity, in its struggles upward, should ever have reached such heights as they attained, mirgled with regret that so much genius, learning, statesmanship, patrictism and virtue should be forever lost to the world, and especially to the times in which we live? Will South Carolina ever, again be able to boast of agree of such ner? Wall south ner? Wall south ner?

The remarkable colerity with which the brother Hanlon perform their flying leaps, catching by the feet, knees, or hands, and recovering themselves just at the nick of time, is such as to strike the beholder with amazement.

The "Leap for Life," which is one of their most difficult performances, is accomplished in the most graceful manner; and, when every breath is suspended, looking for the instantaneous destruction of the daring acrobat, he reaches his goal, and stands in safety, confident of deserving goal, and stands in safety, confident of deserving the applause meeted to him. They are accom-panied by Professor W. TANNER and his wonder-ful troupe of dogs and monkeys, whose per-formances are a prominent attraction in the entertainment. Senorita Roserri, a danseuse and tight-rope performer, Monsieur Henri Agouerr, and Mile Augustine, dancers and pantomimists, constitute the remainder of the trouge.

These artists have a world-wide reputation, and have performed in the largest European theatres with great eclat. Praise, under such circumstance is needless, and a description of their stupendous feats impossible. They will have to be seen in order to be appreciated, and one visit is but the pre lude to many.

In consequence of the withdrawal of the Milton ian Tableaux, the Hanlon Troupe are enabled to commence their performances much scomer than was anticipated. In addition to their evening entertainments they propose giving a Matinee on Saturday afternoon, which is designed exclusively fer schools and children.

A rare opportunity is now afforded our citizens A rare opportunity is now afforded our citizens of seeing this wonderful Troupe, and the only regret is that, in consequence of the absence of a theatre, their movements will be somewhat cramped, but they have availed themselves of avery facility. every facility, and confidently expect that the Charleston public will accord to them the hearty well done, so liberally bestowed in other cities.

THE SAVANNAH STRIKE has apparently reached its climax. The News and Herald, in giving an count of the arrests made, says :

its climax. The News and Berold, in giving an account of the arrests made, says:

The trouble which has existed among the steve-dores in relation to the tax on badges came near ending seriously yeasterday. Some few men had paid the tax, and were engaged in loading and unloading the steamships Virgo and General Barnes. It appears that those refusing to comply with the ordinance had resolved upon extreme measures, and were disposed to prevent by force those wishing to work from doing so; and it was given out publicly that no one would be allowed to go to work ander the bluff after 2 o'clock yesterday.

As the hour approached for resuming labor, the drowd began collecting, and by two o'clock the Bay at the eastern end was througed with freedmen. The malcontents appeared to be acting according to method, and no one was allowed to go down the steps leading to the wharves.

In anticipation, an offective force of police officers were stationed there, and shortly after two o'clock the whole body were marshalled down under command of General Robert Anderson, Chief of Rolice. After disposing his men in different places, the order was given to clear the passage ways leading to the vessels, and some of the man, whose name we do not care to immortalize in type, who had made himself conspicuous in counseling and advising the negroes, was also marched to resist an officers had to be used rather roughly, and it was rumored that a rescue would be attempted on the way to the barracks; but there was really no oundation for the response.

Public Drives. - Charleston stands alone among her sister cities a soli tary instance of a corpora-tion not possessing a suitable place for a public drive. In the days of auld lang syne the Meet-ing street, King street and Butledge street roads were the research of the cay and become the ware fortunate enough to possess a vehicle, or to own a horse. The summer days were then a halcyon period, when the plank road was hourly crowded with a moving throng, who gladly escaped from the heat and dust of the city to breathe the pure country air, and be lulled to forgotfulness by the rustling of the pines. Now this is all changed; it is true the air is the same, and the music of the trees as melodious as ever, but the plank road is a misnomer; its foundations are gone, and its Owing either to the neglect and misusage of oned by the war, or to the raids made upon it for firewood during that period, it suffered extensivey, and would now compare favorably with the far-famed corderoy roads of our accestors. It is true hat it still offers an admirable field for homeopathic practice, and any dyspeptic or nervous individual who will endure a day's jolting over its noqualities, can return home a new man. No one who has any regard for life, limb, or even comfort, presumes to drive upon the so-called plank road in its present d.lapidated condition, but a side cut has been extemporized, and the sand or mad o bling experienced on the other.

It is high time that some steps were taken to improve the condition of these roads. If the city is too poor (which is unfortunately the case), let it be made a public enterprise. It is true that, owing to the location of Charleston, the space is very limited and the drives few in number, but this will only entail less expence and render those few

The Rutledge road was never blessed with the improvement of planks, and now presents a dreary waste of sand that no one would encounter for leasure; the others are several shades better, but drive upon them is far from being the acme of having three thoroughfares, and a little timely at-tention would make these compare favorably with those of any city. The plank road has been tried as the least expensive, and while new, answered the purpose admirably; but it required frequent repairs, and when out of order was excessively disagreeable. In New Orleans and other places, the

although the material is abundant, it would require a vast amount, and be ultimately very expensive. By far the best paving for a road is what is usually known as the Nickerson's. This has been in general use in several of the Western cities, and sents a far more even surface than one formed of cobble stones; besides it has the alvantage of cheapness, especially in this country, where the wood can be procured and prepared at a small

A turnpike road established on these principles would not only soon pay for itself, but ultimately afford a good revenue for its projectors. A good road is essential to the prosperity of any city, and there are few who need one more than Challeston. If we wait until the city authorities are able to undertake this improvement, many years will clapse, and the road become daily the worse for wear. Private enterprise has always succeeded better than that of a corporate body, and if this

The steamers of the Norfolk line, now that the track is opened, can, if it is doesned desirable, come up to the city. Last night, however, was very cold, and if prompt mea-sures are not adopted to keep the track free, the harbor will again be sealed, to avoid which nothing should be left undone.

The Balthmore Gelecte, of Monday, January 23, has the following:

Salling of Strankers—The Track Again Open.
—For some time past the city of Baltimore has suffered very seriously in consequence of all communication with the rest of the world, by water, being cut off. Several efforts were made, and at one time with partial success, cut for the want of a boat of sufficient capacity the track closed, and all hopes of reopening it, until it should be done by the approach of spring, were well nigh gone. The steamer Falcon, of Mordecai's Charleston line, several days ago moved down as far as the Middle Ground, but there she stopped, though it was confidently asserted that she could easily make a track through the ice to the open water of the way. Saturday morning a number of men were put to work and the ice was broken around her, and a track some two hundred feet cut out, so that she might get a start. Early in the afternoon, all things having been got ready, she made a start and went through the ice, fourteen inches thick, with apparent case. The steambest Metropolitan, which had been lying in the ice near Fort McHenry, wanted assistance to get up to the city, and the Falcon made a circle around her and relieved her so that she had no difficulty in getting up to Honderson's Wharf. The Falcon then proceeded on her way, and when last seen was near Fort Carroll, going steadly along. The steamer Patapsce followed in the track of the Falcon, and was going out very easily at four o'clock in the afternoon. The tee being so very thick on each side of the track, it will not be difficult to keep it clear if a sufficient number of vessels can be passed through it to keep the water agitated. The steamer Metapsce followed in the year way from her way for her way from her way from her way for her way from her way for her way from her way four her way from her way for her way from her way from her way for her way from her way for her way from her way for her w SREAFFAN CARES, GRIDDLE CARES, MUSPINS, ROLLS, Sc., a'll made light and wholesome by using the PLONEER YEAST POWDER.
