Our New York Letter.

[FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

NEW YORK, February 2 .- Wall street was a scene of unusual excitement yesterday, caused by the rumor that a crisis is at hand, threatening a grand smash up among some of the largest insurance corporations here. In the past year seven of the first in urance companies of this city, and ten in the New England States, have come to grief, and, from present indications, it appears that many more will follow soon. The unprecedented losses in the past sixteen months by marine disasters have given such a shock to many of the insurance corporations that it is feared that a large number of them will not be able to arise and be themselves again. The Sun Company has cancelled all the capital represented by its scrip, which amounts to one million two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, and the scrip holders are extremely indignant, contending that honesty should be the best policy in an insurance office, as well as elsewhere, and that it is not honest to reduce the scrip more than sixty per cent, when the trustees had at least given a verbal promise that such reduction should nover be exceeded. In the past twelve months the Atlantic Marine

Insurance Company has paid out for losses nearly six millions of dollars, the Sun nearly three mil-lions, the Commercial over thre hundred and fifty thousand, the Mercantile about eight hundred thousand, and others almost in like proportion thousand, and others almost in like proportion.
The Atlantic has declared a dividend of twenty per cent., payable in April, but it is hinted that in so it doing it will encroach on its capital to the amount of ten per cent. The Washington is said to stand firmly on its legs, with a surplus of ten thousand, made clear in the last year. The excitement is to a certain extent kept up to-day, and large capitalists who cwn an immense amount of stock in some of the most "shaky" companies, wear long faces in anticipation of soon having shorter purses—the shrewdest of them, however, will make fortunes by taking advantage of the panie and buying largely instead of selling at an immense sacrifice. The Stock Board yesterday and to-day gave one about as good an idea of Pandemonium as can well be imagined; every member seemed to endeavor to show the superior power of his lungs, and there was such a bawling and uproar as made the day hideous, and surprised us poor fools of nature who own no shares of stock and need induige in no own no shares of stock and need induige in no such yellings.

Yesterday, the first of February, being "notice day," landlords and tenants came together to discuss the important subject of rents, to begin from the first of May. The ien nts for the most part held their heads higher and demanded that their rents should be lowered, wherefore the la dlords remonstrated and contended that as times are hard they will be compelled at least to keep rei next they will be compened at least to keep refits up to last year's figures, but the tenants replied that times are equally hard for them, and that they will not be soft enough to pay the same as heretofore. The battle was well fought on either side; many houses have been leased at the old prices, whilst a large number of tenants have given notice that they will move if their rents are not cut down.

At last it has been positively ascertained who is the fortunate individual that won the ten thousand dollar prize in the Union Home Presentation sand dollar prize in the Union Home Presentation Festival. It appears that his name is not Remmington, nor is he a "good man who can (and does) keep a hotel." The man is named McLoughlin, and was extremely poor; he had been a saddler, but a stroke of paralysis and subsequent ill leath incapacitated him from pursuing his labor for daily bread. His wife advised him to invest a dollar in the drawing, and the result is that he is worth to-day ten thousand dollars in the best of greenbacks. The twenty-five hundred dollar prize was won by an honest, hard-working servant girl, who has been working out for the past twenty years for about six dollars per month.

The annual report of the Commissioners of Charties just handed in, shows that, notwithstanding the vast amount expended in the good work, there are still upwards of thirty thousand poor children in this city who receive no education. The remedy will soon by applied, and the school system ere long rendered perfects.

The pickpockets have been so successful in their operations of late that many of them have aborged their style of down business, and now in-their operations of late that many of them have their operations of late that many of them have changed their style of doing business, and now instead of gently straining their fingers in a man's pocket, they attack him with clubs, or knives or fists, and eave him plus a stab or a balf dozen ugly bruises, and minus his money and his watch. It is really growing to be quite dangerous to walk the street at night, and a man must, like his watch, ever be well on his guard.

Some of the banks hers have a curious method of transacting business. Sight drafts are sometimes presented about a half hour before the time for the bank for close, and though the party upon tim's presented about a half hour belove the time for the bank to close, and though the party upon whom the draft is drawn may be out at the time, and not get a sight at all, the bank claims, and editen exercises, the right to protest it.

Business looked up a little yesterday, but looked down again—the passage of the Tariff Bill caused importers to hold foreign goods firmly, but buyers showed no anxiety to purchase, and so prices did not rise. I doubt if there ever was such a dull lustiness season in New York city, and there is no ness season in New York city, and there is no telling when trade will revive.

three o'clock yesterday morning it was discovered that one of the offices at the Charlotte Bailroad Depot was on fire, the floor having become ig-nited from some cause. There had been no fire, it is stated, in this particular office for several days. and it was used merely as an ante-room. A colo man kept the key, and the office was locked up about 6 o'clock P. M. The inmates of the adjoining rooms were aroused by the dense smoke, which had penetrated through greviers, and which timely warning, no doubt, saved the building (which was formerly used as a boarding-house) and all was formerly used as a boarding-house, and all the papers of the company, as the offices of the Superintendent, Secretary and Treasurer, Agents. &c., were all in the same frame building. None of the office of the company think that it was the act of an incendiary, but that it was the result of the company think that it was the act of an incendiary, but that it was the result of negligence. After an examination of the locality and the flooring and rafters, charred and burned, we cannot see how it was the result of an accident in a room in which there was no fire. There were four or five feet square burned in the flooring, just adjoining a stove, in which it is stated there had peen no fire for some time.—Columbia Phanix.

The sales by Sheriff and Commissioner in Equity, on saleday, were confined to lands. From prices which we quote it will be seen that only a small portion of its value was obtained for this kind of property. At Sheriff's sales one tract of 133 acres, lying within two miles of Greenwood, sold at $345. property. At Sheriff's sales one tract of 133 acres, lying within two miles of Greenwood, sold at $345; lot in Fort Pickens, 17 acres, $215. Sales by Commissioner were as follows: One tract of 475 acres, $1505; tract of 640 acres, $1020; tract of 400 acres, on which there is a valuable tanyard, $505. A great portion of these lands is very valuable, and ought to have sold at much higher figures. That the execution of the law requires such sarrifices is a fact deplorable in itself, and its necessity at the same time shows the effect which political agitation at the North, combined with our want of sufficient reliable labor, has upon the South.—Ibid.

We chronicle with sincere regret the recent death of two old and highly respected citizens, Andrew Giles, Esq., and Wm. Lesley, Esq. Both had long been identified with, and devoted to, all the interests of Abbeville. At a green old ago they are gathered to their rest, leaving to families and friends the happy memories that cluster round lives usefully and honorably spent.

THE CHARLESTON MARKET.

FOR THE WEEK ENDING THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1857. COTTON.-The week just expired has been one of remarkable dullness in the staple, buyers generally offering lower prices, and a flers placing but a scanty supply of Cotton on the mark t. This firmness on the part of factors has had the tendency to sustain the price of the staple, and has been the means of preventing a more decided falling off in price, the decline during the week having been from % to 1 cont B ib, the quotations at the opening of the week being for Ordinary 30, Low Middling 31, Middling 32, and S.rict Middling 3214 cents, and closing at Ordinary 29, Low Middling 30, Middling 31@3114, and Strict Middling 32 cents T b. The receipts at the ports up to this time point to a crop of near 2,000,000 bales, an amount much larger than many have been anticipating, and which is producing a feeling of uncertainty in reference to the amount yet to be received, which is anything but satisfactory. There has been received here during the week 794 bales of Sea Island and 4827 bales of Upland Cotton, against 937 bales of Sea Island and 4735 bales of Upland Cotton the week previous. We submit the following statement of the daily transactions in the staple for the week:

On Friday, the 1st instant, the market was dull, and buyers were generally purchasing at rates showing a alf cent B lt. decline—the transactions being 440 bales 104 of which were repacked cotton-Middling Cotton closing at 31% cents & 15. On Saturday the market was quiet, buyers generally purchasing at previous quotations. Sales 420 bales, and Middling Cotton being quoted at 31 1/4c. On Monday, while former prices were generally obained, the market was, in many instances, weaker, and closing flat at the rates of the day before-sales 277

On Tuesday the market continued in favor of the buyer, with only a light demand-sales 243 bale .- Middling Cotton being quoted at 31%c. 78 lb. On Wednesday prices were weaker and lower, to the extent, in some cases, of a kalf cent $ lb. decline-Midlling Cotton being quoted at 31@31 1/2c.—sales 357 bales. Yesterday the market was firm—sales 312 bales, say—2 at 20; 2 at 25; 13 at 27; 98 at 39; 20 at 303/4; 27 at 30%; 64 at 31; 5 at 31%; 21 at 31%; and 62 bales at 32 cents % 15. We quote :

NEW Orleans Market.

NEW RLEANS, February 2.—Corron—The market opened this morning with a continuance of the previous depression, and has continued dull and drooping throughout the day. The offerings were ample to meet the demand, and factors generally evinced increased willingness to sell, and were evidently disposed to submit to concessions, but the majority of buyers, in view of the unfavorable tenor of the advices from Liverpool and New York, evidenced little desire to operate—awaiting the effect of further developments. Hence, the sales were restricted; comprising at the close barely 3900 bales, taken by ten brokers at prices ½c per ib lower, and within the range of the subjoined queations: Ordinary 29a23½c; Good Ordinary 29a29½c; Low Middling 30a30½e and Middling 30a31½c.
