of Houston.

A negro made his appearance in East Machias village, Me., the other day, and was quite a curiosity to the young people, many of whom never saw a colored man and brother before. A cave of considerable extent has been disco-chosen Vice Commodore, and Mr. D. Seass, Jr., of Boston, was chosen Rear Commodore. The annual regatta will take place June 19th. Mr. J. E. EMERSON, the inventor of the greates improvement in saws yet discovered, by inserting the teeth, has just completed one of mammoth size at Trouton for the World's Fair. It is 88

s in diameter, making seven feet four inches and is the largest saw in the world.

There is a post at Sharon, N. J., placed to mark a corner, that has been there 118 years. It is of red cedar, and stands in black soil. A scratch will show it to be sound wood, as firm as when placed there, and looks as if it might last, 100 years longer. There is an old deed which shows it was placed there in 1749.

It is reported that a panther made its appearance par Bricksburg, Monmouth county, a few days ago, and attempted to carry off a child, but being closely pursued, dropped it and made its escape. It is supposed that the recent heavy snows have, cut off its ardinary supplies, which accounts for its appearance so near a human dwelling.

On the right of January 23d, a handsome young Prussian officer was sitting in a stall at the Pagli and Theatre, Florence. A Prussian soldier stood near him in attendance. A native of Frankfort on the Maine, who stood near them, sudden fairned on the officer and addressed him with son grossly insulting remarks. Both Prussians re-mained motionless, although the eyes of the au-diance were attracted to them. At the close of the performance, the soldier hastened to his master and carried him cut in his arms. The President of the Senate Isid before that body, on Saturday night, a communication from the Secretary of the Treasdry, from which it appears that the total amount received from the va-rious sources of property enumerated under the general head of captured and abandoned property was $34,600,000, of which amount nearly $25,000,000 remain as net proceeds. The Memphis Post says that notwithstanding the ill success of cotton planters last year, the country around that city is alive with preparations for the coming season. In some districts there may be less land under cultivation this year than last that the property of the whole, in West Tannessee Artennessee. but, on the whole, in West Tennessee, Arkansas North Mississippi, and North Alabama, there will b sounderably more planted. The same scarcity of hands and the difficulty in obtaining them is complained of. Numbers are visiting or sending agent to Georgia and North and South Carolina to pro cure them. Not more than half of the planters will have as many as they wish. The colored people have been so much better treated in Tennessee than any of the surrounding States, that they will hire to Tennesseeans at less wages than to others. Their enfranchigeme r enfranchisement will now add fargely to the ring population of Tennessee at the expense isooring populants of Asimosses as the expense of the adjoining States.

It appears from a recent response by the State Anditor of Louisians, to a resolution of the Legis-lature, saking for information in relation to the matter, that Gov. James Manison Weils, of Louisians, is a defaulter to the State as Tax Collector of iana, is a defaulter to the State as Tax Collector of the Farish of Rapides '7 the year 1840. The Virginia Legislature finally passed, be he close of its late session, at least one of its rail-ead consolidation bills—that is, the bill to complete the "Covington and Ohio Railroad," by co solidating the Central Virginia, the Norfolk and Petersburg, and the Southside Railroads, under the name of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company. Should the scheme succeed, it will be the means of absorbing some $7,000,000 of State lebt and of diminishing the taxation of the State to the amount of $320,000 per annum. There is a contract with Pern & Co., however, for the con pletion of the Covington and Ohio road, and, if they carry it out, the consolidation falls, but it is not believed they will succeed in their negotia to the Senate, and was by them accepted and passed, by a vote of twenty-four to twenty, signed by the President, and sent in before the adjournnent of Congress. It is, therefore, now part of the law of the country. We have not yet seen the text of the Bill as it passed, and are therefore un-prepared to examine its several provisions, but have long felt satisfied that such a law was dehave long felt satisfied that such a law was do-manded, especially at this time, in the interests of humanity. We have never seen any arguments against it that we considered worth serious refuta-tion. ome move. The personal honor of a New York merchant, a Wall street broker, a Westchester farmer, or an Albany legislator may be, doubtless is, above all represent. No breath of foul asper sion could ever reach it. But this, unfortunately s not the case everywhere. The law has still strong hold upon men in other parts of this mu ses of the country occupy a consider ble degree of attention at pr there seemed to be a shadow of a probability that anything we could utter could in the least degree ruptoy, pursued by the last Congress, and which eceived such gigantic illustration, as is the ca mediately in mediative thoughtfulness, as it ner mind and heart were filled with thoughts and emotions far different from the giddy throng passing by. LO. Us.

What is most surprising is that the United States bonds should, under this reckless system of legislation, still maintain their figures in Frantfort and in London. In the case of a private indiidual, or a close corporation even, such a course could be construed to forebode certain and early would be construed to forebode certain and early bankruptcy, and the moment such fact would be brought home to the cautious heads of the money kings an instant and fromentous, tumble of secu-rities would be the ineritable consequence.

Unfortunately for the country, the legislation in Congress during the past six years his been governed exclusively by considerations of a sectional and party character. The war was cond sed enand party character. The war was cond eed entirely regardless of expense; just as when a man goes to law, determined at all hazards to gain the cuit, in the heat of passion and resentment never stopping to consider whether the end in view is worth the means expended in the effort to attain it. The war is closed; but passion and misrule still reign suprame. The gigantic scale of expenditure, introduced into every department of the Government by the war, is still in course of progress. "The heroes of the war must be rewardreas. "The heroes of the war must be rewar ed." Nowhere in modern times has the world seen such "rewards." Such a system may have been consonant with the times of Synta or or which the national monetary obligations are accumulated resembles the financial policy of the cumulated resembles the financial policy of the last confrench Bevolutionary Government of the last con-tury, in the wildest days of their misrule; but neither the "rewards" nor the extravagance seem to us consistent with the degree of enlighten refessed by our legislators; to say nothing of the nany examples offered by history, showing the in-stitude consequences of such a course.

eritable consequences of such a course.

The question of reconstruction, which more properly shilld be entitled the destruction of the South, has jaundiced the eyes of Congress and of their constituents. Every question of finance, of tax, revenue, protection, appropriations of all kinds, etc., was invariably complicated with the reconstruction incubus; and, as passion will always carry the day over judgment, when the two come into collision, the material interests of the country have almost in every instance been disregarded. have almost in every instance been disregarde and the views of a few of the leaders of the dor nant faction been rammed down the throats of the Now, however, that the National Bankrupt Law has passed, we suppose Uncle Sam, if hard pressed will take the benefit of the Act, make an assign ment, or go into liquidation.

But, cut bono? We have allowed ourselves in-
