Mr. HENRY J. FOOTE has been heard of again. He made a speech recently in St. Louis, in which he urges the South to "acquiesce in the situation." A letter is published in the New York Commercial Advertuser, written by Mr. J.A. SOMENE, of Cam-den, Clerk of the Board of Commissioners of the Poor for Kershaw District, S. C., and addressed to JAMES F. SUTHERLAND. Mr. SCHENE gives a sim ple statement of the great demand made upon the Commissioners, and their entire inability to relieve the distress prevalent through the District. During the last year there were thirty-five per sons ordained in the Episcopal Churches in the United States who had seen brought np within the pale of other denominations. Of these, one each was from the Dutch Reformed, German Beformed and Unitarian ; two were from the Universalist; five from the Raprigt; even from the Drocbytorian; eight from the Congregational; ten from the Meth-

The North Carolina Guardian, of the 19th, says: "From our exchanges we see the wheat and other small grain crops are in quite a flourishing condition, and hopes are entertained of a beautiful harvest. COTTON IS KING. With cotton quoted at 10]d. in Liverpool, the narket glutted with cotton goods, a continental var impending, and a great financial crash in ospect, the question may very reason ably be asked-a question that has been pro ounded again and again : Why do our people plant so largely of cotton, to the exclusion of everything else ? Why do they not plant corn and wheat, sufficient at least for home consumption? Why is cattle neglected, bacon brought here from Cincinnati, and hav from New York and the Eastern States? Many reasons may of course be given by way of answer, bu the true reply unquestionably is, that we are too anxious to be rich in haste, and by general consent this consummation so devoully to be wished for can only be attained by the plantng of the largest possible crop of cotton.

This course, in our opinion; was not a wise one, even under our former system of slave labor. It is now ruinous. We should raise abundant grops of all the necessaries of life ich as are adapted to our soil and climate, and then use our surplus only of capital and labor for the production of cotton. We cannot ee how there can be a solid, substantial prosperity for an agricultural country, so largely lependent for its bread and its meat on the ncertainty of a distant market. A Louisiana exchange complains of this sam evil, which in fact prevails all over the South. This paper says: "The scarcity of grain, breadstuffs and other food is now a serious infoes. convenience to our people. It is felt by no class more than by the planters themselves; grain, grain, grain is the want of our planters Crops cannot be made without food for man and beast. The hands must be fed, the teams must be fed; the great mass of our planter have to buy all that is food for either. Is this state of things to be the same another year ? We can never be a prosperous people until change is effected. The whole busines of the parish-agricultural, mechanical and mercantile-is suffering by it. The greater part of the freights from the river are corn, oats, hay, flour and purk. Other freights are detained on account of the pressing necessities of our people for these articles, and until their wants ar supplied this must continue to be the case. We do hope our planters will endeavor to change all this by planting full crops . of corn, potatoes, peas, and raising a large provision crop." .Our argument would gain additional strength if we pursued the subject further, and pointed to the still further declining tendency of 'qui staple; to the fact that the war, and the high prices of cotton prevalent during that period, stimulated India, Egypt, Algiers, and other regions to grow large quantities of cotton, no longer leaving us the monopoly. When cotton shall have come to something like a narroal figure, which, we fear, will be considerably below the present quotation, with a tax of 21 cts. a pound, and the largely increased price of labor, to say nothing of the uncertainty of its character, we confess we cannot see how our planters can promise themselves much profit.

LUXEMBURG.

There must always be a cause of some kind for a quarrel; and when two nations have made up their minds to go to war with each other, they never need be long at a loss to find a casus belli. It appears to be generally conceded that France and Prussia will come to blows bout the Luxemburg question. There is really in this no reason whatever for fighting. But in this respect we have a parallel in the Schleswig Holstein question of last year, which resulted in the war between Austria and Prussia. The real cause of the difficulty lies muc deeper, and we shall liave more to say about it at another time. But as Luxemburg has acquired a great ephemeral interest, we will give a few leading points in its history. Originally county (i. e. governed by a count,) it was made a duchy in 1354, and remained under the dominion of its dukes till Louis XIV. seized the southern part of the duchy and annexed it to France, the remainder being left under Austrian rule until the French Revolution, when the whole of Luxemburg became a French province The Congress of Vienna again restored its separate existence, and the King of the Nether-lands became its Grand Duke. In 1830 it joined the Belgians in their revolution, and the London Conference divided it between Belgium and Holland, the portion falling to the latter State being the territory now known as the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg The right of maintaining a garrison in Luxemburg was conceded to Prussia by the treaties of the 31st of May, 1815, the 8th of November, 1816, and the 12th of March, 1817. The population of the Grand Duchy in 1866 was 206,574. The present King of Holland claims the peronal right of disposing of the Duchy, if he so choose, with reference to the legislative body. In this connection it is not premature to mention clauses 1 and 37 of the constitution under which Luxemburg is held by its sovereign: Clause 1. The Grand Ducky of Luxemburg is an independent, indivisible, and inalienable State. Clause 37. No portion of the Luxemburg terri-tory can be ceded or exchanged for and no portion of foreign territory added to Luxemburg, except by virtue of a law. Hence it follows that the cession of the counercises a humanizing influence upon the recipi ents of its benefits. But "gwine to school" is not necessarily education. We cannot trus ourselves to say more on this point, as admonitions from us are not kindly received. Why we should be accused of other than the purest notives in our strictures, we have been unable to surmise.

We are glad, however, to find that the Con mission feels encouraged, in so far as relates to the behavior of the Southern white. The Post, commenting on the report, says :

"During the past year the disposition of the Southern poople toward these schools has im-proved. The worst class are still bitter, but are less violent as they become more accustomed to the spectacle. The better-clacated and liberalless violent as they become more necestemed to the spectrack. The better-clucated and liberal-dened opposition, and in some cases sympathize with the object. The necessity of clucating the colored people is generally acknowledged, while the foolish fear of Northern influence upon the colored people is inducing the better portion of the whites to favor schools of their own for the ne-grous, so that in the supposed contest for the pos-session of the colored innu, he, if no one else, is benefitted."

There is, as far as we know, no opposition to the education of the freedmen, among the incelligent people of the South; though there may be much difference of opinion as to the best method of accomplishing the purpose. In their disregard of the old maxim, "festina lente," our Northern friends, with the very best intentions may, if not altogether frustrate their design. at least retard its attainment. Thus we brive heards of some of the Freedmen's schools in Arkansas and Texas, under Northern direction, where the entire term is spent in cramming the poor illiterales with a few baubles. in order to have them make a good figure at a public examination. There is time wasted-nothing learned; and the whole proceeding, is so thoroughly disingenuous, that its influence can be only prejudicial upon the minds of the very impressible young freedmen. Wherein does this practice differ from the educating of the young pupils at the canine boarding schools, of which our New York correspondent spoke a few days ago in one of his letters ? To all intents and purposes both are "learning tricks." We do not know that anything like this practice prevails in the schools on this side the Mississippi. We hope not.

Ex-Governor Perry, of South Carolina, has writ ten a letter on the military governments in the South in which he says, "A despotism wisely ad-ministered is the most perfect government on oarth, being the government -stablished by God for the control of the universe." How the chivalry est humble pie. This paragraph we find in the Daily Times, a paper published in Jersey City, in the King-dom of New Jersey. Of course the editor had never seen Mr. PERRY's letter, or he would not have drawn an inference directly antipodal to what Mr. PERRY meant to prove. The sen tence about the despotism above quoted, isolated from the context, goes the round of the papers, and is rolled as a sweet morsel under the Radical tongue. Mr. PERRY appears to have the singular misfortune of disagreeing with his friends, and being misunderstood by his

" EDUCATION IN THE SOUTH."

We find an article in a late number of the Detroit Post, under the above caption. Wondering at first, somewhat, that so Radical a sheet should take any interest in such a subject, we soon found that the title promised more than was warranted by the body of the asticle. It seems the only part of the South they care for; are the colored people ; and education among the freedmen is the theme of this editorial of the Post, based upon the report of the New England Branch of the Freedman's Union Commission. This report, of course, presents the subject in very attractive colors It says : It says: "On schools and teachers have, during the past vear, had, as before, a most important infinence in restoring social order, in cetablishing relations of confidence botween the planters and the labor-ers, and in promoting sobriety, cleanliness, indus-try, thrift and fidelity to contrasts, on the part of the freedmen. They have assisted them in ac-quiring a knowledge of weights and measures, and of the values of money, and have in many ways protected them against frand."
