TURNAY HORNING, MAY 2, 1607 LOCAL MATTERS. Ton Wonk. We have now completed our office ALL KINDS OF JOB WORK, and we most respectfully ask the patronage of our friends.

CHARLESTON, S. C., May 6, 1867. Horoafter, until further notice, the Northeastern Mails will close at 1.15 P. M., and 'arriving at the Dopot at 9.45 A. M. will be ready for delivery at 11 ock. On Sundays the Post Office will open at 12.30 P. M. for one hour.

The Mails for South Carolina Railroad will con-tinue to close daily at 6 o'clock A. M., and for the Savannah and Charleston Railroad at 6 A. M. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. STANLEY G. TROTT, P. M.

DEATH OF MR. JOHDAY .- Mr. ROBERT JOHDAN

Sr., whose accident was noticed in yesterday's issue, died from his injuries about 2 P. M., yes RECONSTRUCTION. On our first page this morn ing will be found the opinion of Attorney-General Stansbury on the Reconstruction Acts. It is an Important document, and ought to be read by overy one.

BATHING NOTICE.-It will be seen from the advertisement that a liberal deduction has been made in the price of bathing tickets, which places them in the reach of families and others who are the regular habitues of the house. The popularity of the Bathing House under its present management is well known, and this recent action will tend to increase the patronage bestowed upon it.

HILLSBORO' MILITARY SCHOOL -We take pleasur n referring to the advertisement of this sterling adomy in another column. The second session the school commenced on the 1st o July, and a rare opportunity is offered to students who may desire to connect themselves with the institution.
The Hillsboro' Academy is an offshoot of our own Citadel, having been founded by the late at Col. C. C. TEW, whose widow, we learn, still the proprietress of the establishment.

REGISTRAS IN BANKBUPTOY. - The Cincinnati Com mercial says:

"We learn that Colonel R. B. Carpenter, of Covington, Ky., who was appointed District Judge of une of the corritories a few weeks ago, has declined that office and accepted the appointment of Registrat in Bankruptoy for the Charleston (South Carolina) District."

this appointment, but Col. CARPENTER was in this city a few weeks since, and we have every reason to consider the statement correct.

SINGULAR OCCURRENCE, THE BODY OF A CHILA COUND IN A FIRE WELL.—The workmen employed in cleaning the fire well at the corner of Charlotte and Alexander streets were surprised at finding coffin, containing the remains of a child, in the well. From appearances, it had evidently been in that condition for some time, as the remains we too far decomposed to be recognized. The coffin was of mahogany, and was securely bound with a a rope, to which several bricks had been attached. Coroner Warring was promptly notified, and a jury being summoned, they returned a verdict of deati

A CREAM PURY.-Perhaps the best antidote t the heat of the summer is the cooling sound of Ico Cream, which is now the most popular of all street crice, and the Ico Cream merchants receive a large portion of the public patronage. There are fe persons who are not familiar with the sound of a, which is fearfully true when uttored by a shrill female voice, and the cooling panaces is barely adequate to tranquillize the excited nerves. It has long been the study of the trade to present their wares to the public without this shock to their nervous system, but few have succeeded their narvous system, but few have succeeded.
Foremest among them, however, stands the name of Henry Larcombe, who now annames to the public that he is again prepared to cater to their tastes, and his wagon and bells will be daily heard in every part of the city. This is welcome news to the community, who have been accustomed to consider Larcombe a good Samaritan. The merry tinkle of his bells will prove acceptable music to our cars, and will reconcile us in some measure to our late Walrussian purchase as an indispensable necessity NORTHWARD, Ho!-In the present hot season when everybody who can is trying to get away, and when steam with its multifarious appliances has rendered ravelling both cheap and easy, and within the reach of almost everybody, it becomes a matter of seme importance to decide what route to chouse. Better and more reliable than any guide book is the experience of other travellers who "have gone before." It has long been a set-ted principle (if we can call that a principle which in its very nature betrays a want of principle) that travolers are fair game. But as the said travolers do not generally appreciate such attention, it becomes a matter of some importance to avoid sharks and harpies along the route, and this they can usually accomplish by keeping an eye upon their own interests, and watching the "cervants of an go North either by land or water. If, like the doctors, we are accustomed to sea sick ness, and conclude to entrust ourselves to the toil-ers of the sea, we have still a choice of three lines all offering ample accommodations. If, on the other hand, we prefer terra firma, there is an equal, if not greater choice of routes. There is this, however, to be said in connection-with the last-named alternative; that the expense is much greater; that there is considerable delay all along the route; that "thore is considerable delay all along a reason of the route; that "connections" are as offer released. the route; that "connections" are as often missed as made; that extras for "sleeping cars," hotel bills, and other contingents, cometimes swell the amount expended to nearly double the price paid for the "through ticket." Taking, therefore, all see things into consideration, our advice to our friends and readers is to go down to the sea in ships, rather than ride on the rail.

THE FASHIONS FOR JUNE. - These are so strange startling and striking, that we have been tompton to devote a few lines to the subject, and to held the nirror up to nature, or in other words, to give the fair sex an opportunity of seeing themse others see them.

Having never been any further in a millinery shop than the outside, and knowing but little of the paraphernalia necessary to create a first-class belle, our criticisms will be somewhat original, as our opinions are formed only from a casual obse vation of the ladies' magazines, and of the angels themselves. King street is decidedly the best point for a critic to visit, and a glance at the swee oes seen on that promenade would make the ost inveterate bachelor sigh over his wretched lot, and he would forget milliners' bills and similar

To describe the fair creatures is a difficult task, s ney wield a magician's wand and can make ... emselves appear attractive in spite of the fashion The imperious Queen, whose headquarters are supposed to be at Paris, is despotic in her sway and changeable in her whims, rushing often from one extreme to another. Crincilne has now received its death blow, and in the place of full akirts that once kept the beaux within halling distance, we now see churn-like forms, the latest fashion being an approach to the style worn by our foremothers.

The walking dresses are decidedly unique, and are only sensible in one respect, that there is a small saving in the cloth. They are ugly imitations of a Swiss peasant's dress, and afford an abundant opportunity for the display—of pretty gates. But these are designed only for the atreet; the full expenses designed only for the atreet;

and the hair has risen in such abundance around it, that is obtain a full view of the curiosity it is cessary to be above it, or it is invisible. Of all the freaks of fashion, the wildest has been the invention of the modern bonnet, which bears no resemblance to those worn but a few years back. They are of all shapes, from a soup plate and door mat to a side saddle, and are, notwithstanding their diminutive size, the dearest things we over saw. The latest thing in this line is styled the "mermaid's joy," and consists of a straw concern of the size and shape of a good cyster shell, allow-ing a waterfall almost as high as Niagara to fall from behind, while little cascades wend their way ab ut the cars and neck in delightful confusion.

It would be a heroulean effort to continue the subject as the powers of rhetoric would be exhaust-ed before the task was completed; and we advise all who wish to fill up the histus to visit King. street or the Battery, and they will find abundant food for reflection.

They have been well tried servants of a fastidious public, and to their untiring industry and perse-verance the College is indebted for the high stand it has taken among the institutions of learning in the United States. Among the darliest founded, it has passed through a long se-ries of successful struggles, and now is at-knowledged as second to none in the high tone of its faculty, in its associated array of talent, and in its vesfulness. Up to the commencement of the war its classes averaged sunnally considerably over two hundred students; and as the Diploma of the College is highly valued throughout the South and West, this institution has always had an unuweet, this institution has always had an uni-sually large per contage, of edvapoed students ap-plying for graduation.
