The freedmen, too, have greatly improved in their industrial habits; but we are serry to say that the fate of the crop on many plantations is becoming imperited by the shortness of provisions.

The complaint that provisions will not be sufficient to feed the hands until the crop is made is alarmingly provalent. The Failure of Frager, Trepholm & Co.

The Failure of Fraser, Trenholm & Co.

[From the Botton Advertiser.]

Washington, Thesday, May 28, 1867.—The Secretary of the Treasury deems it proper that a statement should be made as to the situation in which the United States are placed by the failure of Fraser, Trenholm & Co. No one has warrant for saying either that we are leasers thereby, or that we are amply secured. The Government does not admit that anything is owing to it from this firm. We have brought suit against them for certain ships and certain bales of cotton, which were not theirs, but were in their possession as agents of the rebel government, and which we claim, not exclusively under any special law of our country, but were in the law of nations and the common law of England, whereby all meneys or property contributed by persons or corporations, either by gifter by taxation, to carry on the rebellion, became, at the termination of that rebellion, vested in the United States. This matter is in the Chancery Court of England, and is not affected, one way or the other, by the failure of Fraser, Trenholm & Co. The Government has every reason for buleving that at the closs of the rebellion this firm was in possession of other property and was largely indebted to the so-called Confoderate Government. We set up a general claim to all this property and the importance of the successful claim to all this property and the importance of the trends of the successful conforcing the successful claim has never been ascertained. The President pardoned Geo. A. Trenholm, the robel Secretary of the Treasury, without so much as requiring a statement of his business accounts with the rebel Government, and from that day to this we have been unable to got such a statement. The Government might, perhaps, have forced the firm into the howing its books before now, but for the unatherrized and subsequently repudiated, settlement made with it last Fail by Messrs. Dudley & Morso, and still holpes to accomplie this end through the Courts. If the suits for the ships and co

The plan proposed, is to divide each battalion into two registration districts making four in all—with a board of registration in each with no change of the election precincts.
