LARCENY.—A larceny was committed at Roddin's place, Daniel's Island, of a boat, sail, and two hogs taken from the pen. The bost and sail have been recovered; the hogs were carried off by some one as soon as the bost landed. Officers MYERS and CALDWELL are in pursuit. London Simmons, colored, has been accused of the theft. REGISTRATION IN THE CITY YESTERDAY .-

RENTS. -Some of our exchanges from neighbor ng cities are rejoicing, for the sake of humanity, that some of their offizens are manifesting a right spirit by reducing the prices of rent for the com-ing year. They speak rightly of the medicum of human kindness lingering in the breast of land-lords. We simply speak of this to remind those of our citizens who are landlords, if they should accidentally receive high rents, to be merciful, for season, to those who who are so unfortunate as to be "He that giveth to the poor, lendenth to the Lord.

THE AUGUSTA STREET RAILBOAD .- The Co. stutionalist of yesterday says: "Commendable progress is being made with the street railroad, The cross-ties and stringers have been put down in Lincoln street, between Broad and Ellis, and the track will soon be completed to the cemetery. The line of the road, for the present, within the city limits, will be as follows: On the south side of Broad, from McKinne to Lincoln, down Lincoln to Watkins, up Watkins to Elbert, through that street to the north side of Greene, up Greene to Collock, thence to Fenwick, up Fenwick to Me-Kinne (Carmichael's Mills), thence to Broad street This route, it will be percoived, will accommodate a great number of our citizens, as well as many residing in Woodlawn. We presume the inhabitants of the Sand Hills will not be long in concluding that an extension of the road to their doors will be just what is needed to enhance property there."

Mr. PLEASANT. -- Our renders have already seen a notice of the re-opening of the Congregational Church at Mount Pleasant. We are pleased to refor them to an advertisement in another colone announcing service in that church to-morrow; and, we are informed, that it is the purpose of the officers to hold regular service hereafter.

We are sorry to learn that the building sustained scrious damage while it was used as a hospital and schoolroom. It suffered the loss of all its pows, and there are but a few whole glasses in its sasbes.

The congregation is unable to repair these injuries and supply these losses without assistance. They therefore call upon our community for holp. They do this with the greater confidence inst much as the congregation will be composed of va-rious seets, and be served by the ministers of the

A HANDSOME HAT.-If any of our readers have a curriosity to see the latest agony of style in the hat line-such as makes one wonder as he walks the pace of Broadway, they may be gratified by a visit to the store of Mesers. Honsey & Co., our neighbors in Hayne street. These gentleman have recently received from the North some startling sequisitions to their wholesale stock, and as our ols are fend of imitation, South Carolina is likely to be astonished by the innovations made in the general appearance of head gear, as represented in the above establishment.

The styles are not more outre than they are aitractive; but taste is as much a matter of example as of sentiment, and Messra. H. & Co., will, doubtless, be liberally rewarded for their investment. These remarks apply equally well to the upper story of their house, where there is beauty enough in the collection of bats and feathers to make a handsome woman distracted and r husband an impoverished lunatic in his vair endeavors to supply the domand created by that inevitable "waterfall."

PROFESSOR JAMES H. CARLISLE.-From the Ab beville Banner we learn that, on Friday, the 6th instant, there was a Convention of the Sunday "Ninety-six" Circuit, held at Leban Church. After the preliminary exercises Professor Carlisle, of Wolford College, was introduced. The Banner says: "Of his addresses, even if our space would allow it, we shall offer no extended outline. That would be to mer their beauty, as hose who have heard Professor Carlisle well know. If his words could be transferred to paper, there would yet be wanting the soul which his utterance only can put into them. His opening remarks to the children were to impress upon them the importance of punctual attendance and careful study of lessons. The story of Jesus at the Temple suggested a line of remark, the leading object of which was to present the Saviour as a divine model for imitation by Christian children. The of which was to present the Saviour as a divine model for imitation by Christian children. The speaker narrated the striking incidents in the life and imprisonment for the misfortune of debt, and of the Saviour, occurring when he about the age of yet complain of Radical government. He quoted the words, "But whose shall offend one of these little ones," etc., and proceeded to show what is meant by "offending," and some of the ways by which parents may incur the penalty of this sin-by open violation of God's commandments hving in open violation of the commandments— by neglect of church privileges—by blasphemy, or doubting the providence of God—by intemper-ance—by simply manifesting no care about re-ligious instruction and reading. These throughts were presented in a line of carnest argument that which they cannot escape, and of the positive scriptural promises that a blessing always rests on the households of godly parents. Ronnerus.—Rov. Dr. Tuos. Surrue, of Mosting street, who has been for a long time afflicted with paralysis, was robbed in his dwelling house on the 8th inst. of his gold watch, chain, and ocket-book containing $20, and the key of his safe. The key was taken out by the robber, who sate. The key was taken out by the tonor, who opened the safe and extracted from thence flut in currency. The robbery was committed between two o'clock at night and daylight. It appears that his servant remained up with hoa till two o'clock, when he undressed him and put him to bed. About a quarter-past two the servant locked the lower door himself. He informed the Doctor, about a quarter-past five o'clock, of the robbety. The pocket-book was placed by the Doctor him

THE "GINDER." - Some months ago Gen. Scorr, the Assistant Cernmissioner of the Freedmen's Bureau, in his report to Headquarters, called the attention of the General Government to the fact that a portion of the negroes on the coast indulge in Fetish practices, yield to the most absurd superstitutions, are degenerated, demoralized, and fit subjects for the exercise of the beautiful chari-ties of the American Missionary Society and its kindred associations.

Another evidence of the return of the race to "first principles," is furnished in a private letter from a planter on one of the islands. He says: "Would you believe it, the negrous have taken to the spinning of cotton with the old-fashioned ginder"-(pronounced with a hard "g"). If you have never seen the contrivance, fancy a stick. little longer than a pen-handle, with a bulbous weight attached to its lower third.

This is made to whirl by hand in the base of a tea cup or something of the sort. The carded cotton is then wound spirally around, and drawn off from the upper extremity in the shape of yarn. The operation is simple, effective, clow; and you would be surprised at the rapidity with which they diminish a pile of cotton on one hand, and add to the value of a merchantable article on the other. To our reportorial conception, the shaw the state it is a schear a must are ginder may be a tangulo fact. We should like to see it; and after looking at the coon fluger power, to take the owner thereof into the presence of the improved machinery of the day, and make him disgusted with himself. But there is something more sug gestive than the idea of ignorance in the above perhaps, intuitively, that the value of his cotton is enhanced by manufacture, and commands a price he can never hope to obtain for it in its crude original condition. Thus he has set an example to the capital, in Thus he has see an example to the target, and telligence and enterprise of his superiors, and practically illustrated the importance of a theme that has been wern well nigh thread-hare in its m. In other words, the negro shows by his fingers what he would do, had he power, to grandly develope the resources of the State; and by works demonstrates his faith in the proposition so persistently urged, that when our people begin manufacture, as well as produce, their grea staple, they will realize a degree of prosperity of which we have yet known but the germ.

ARTIFICIAL LEGS FOR CITIZENS OF THE STATE. At the last session of the General Assembly, handsome appropriation was placed at the dis-posal of his Excollency, Gov. One, to provide legafor all citizens of the State who lost their "under pinning" during the war.
In due time, proposals were invited from all the artificial limb manufacturers in the country, and at a commission which assembled at Columbia, and was composed of three of the prominent phyicians of that city, the army and navy leg of Dr. DOUGLASS BLY was chosen as one which o the necessary qualities of cheapness, strength and

A contract was therefore made with Dr. Bey to furnish to the State a supply of walking appara-tus, equal to the number of her disabled citizens. Tax collectors in the several districts have reported about one hundred and eighty of these unfor-tunates, but it is probable that the list will reach two hundred and fifty.

The modus operandi of obtaining a leg is as fol-lows: First, the applicant makes oath that he is entitled to the same, and receives from the Clerk of the Court of his District, a certificate setting forth that fact. He is then measured according to a diagram and directions furnished to Dr. Ber, and the measurement is forwarded to the factory in Charleston. From this city, the order is sent to Rochester, New York, where the legs are turned non-meter, New York, where the legs are turned out in the rough. They are returned to Charles-ton to be fluished and fitted to the stumps of the applicants. The latter are then notified, and per-mitted to come to Charleston free of charge, the railroads having generously extended this courtes to both the State and individual, the safeguard, being the presentation of the certificate of the Clerk of the Court. They are detained in the city perhaps one day, and then, if they choose, return to their homes, to be quickly followed by a handsome looking imitation of the missing

Anderson Interngences, one removal is lamented by the Anderson Internyences, one members, Herand, and the Greenville Enterprise. The last named paper says: "It is a little remarkable that the effort to protect a citizen of his military district from pre sent oppression and ruin has ro-ulted in ousting the general from his command. We are pleased to see, however, that the Order Number 10 remains in force, so far as the State Courts are con cerned, and prevents the present ruin of the State by the multitudinous suits and judgments impending over the people for debts for negroes, and debts contracted during the war, and old debts due upon the faith of property which has been annihilated by the results of the war."

"We see our worthy contemporary of the Charles-ton Courier, is inclined to rejoice in the hope of removing Stay orders, and consequently of opening the floodgates of sheriff sales in the present horrible depression in financial matters. Does the Courier also see with satisfaction the probable restoration of arrest and imprisonment for debt? Is now the time to turn the sharp edges of the law upon the unfortunate debtors of South Caro-lina, and to deprive them utterly of that "morey in their woe," that almost only mercy from rules which the Order of General loose the demons of covetousness and shylockisu lina at this time, would be most a merciless and oppressive thing; in its immediate effects more ruinous to the country than STEPHERS' mild confiscation. It is a little strange that there is so many men anxious to have sheriff sales operating in all cases, under all circumstances, utterly opposed to any relief laws or order, while they At the close of these remarks, another hymn was are crying out against confiscation and disfransung, after which Professor Canlisle addressed chisement. They would instantly pauperize parents on the duty of teaching their children to the great majority of the State, and transfer their land to strangers for a miserable trifle of costs, or little more than costs, of the executions, for debts for the negroes that the State and the United States have taken away from the purchases Omited States have taken away from the perchaser, and call it justice and good government. Their idea of good government is first to so govern as to rob men of the consideration upon which their debts are founded, negroes, bank paper, bank stocks, railroad stocks, &c., &c., and then, if he has a little land left, to take that away for almost literally nothing, and wind up by imprisoning the dobtor.
