The case was placed in the hands of Officers CHAPMAN and CALDWELL, who soon discovered the thief. He proved to be the colored porter, Frank Bostick alias Vaugn, who had for some time been taking goods from the store, and with the aid of Nathan Treadwell, a notorious Columbia thief, disposing of them to other parties. The greater portion of the goods have peen recovered, and the thieves sent to juil."

THE GEORGIA LOTTERS.—This lottery, which has been located with us but a short time, has already won a favorable opinion from the community. The drawings are conducted with the greatest fairness, and the ticket holders are almost certain of obtaining some return for the money invested. The agency in this city has disposed of numerous tickets, and the holders are anxiously awaiting the grand drawing which will determine their future poverty or wealth. There are yet a few days left. and parties wishing to realize a large amount on a small investment could do no better than to make a deposit in the agency and swait the turning of

FRUITS, TOBACCO AND SEGARS. - The handso store recently opened by John B. Togni, at No. 125 Meeting street, near Market, offere great attractions to buyers. Superior fruits, preserves, canthere to be had at moderate prices. The deservedly increasing patronage of Mr. Toom required a larger store and necessitated a move from his old stand to the present spacious building, which has been fitted up in a tasteful manner and presents a business-like appearance. The gas fixtures were put up by Mr. Guilliams, in Church street, whose nship cannot be surpassed, always giving perfect satisfaction. A new chandelier of recent design, that may be raised or lowered at pleasure, is one of the attractions of the stere, and is worthy

KING STREET ATTRACTIONS .- The large retail establishments on King street have now put on their winter dress, and present an attractive ap-pearance. Among the numerous repertories of dry goods on this street, one of the most attrac-tive, is that occupied by Mr. Jas. B. Barrs. This establishment has been thoroughly fitted up since the war, and is now a light and well ventilated store, tastefully arranged, and containing on its shelves a complete assortment of dry goods. Mr. Berrs has a long experience in the retail business, having been connected with the "Fig Store" since its formation, and understands the art of pleasing

A MOVE IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION.-The 1st of October is generally the moving day in this city, and the furniture carts can be then seen plying in every direction, but this change of location is confined principally to families, as it is seldom that business establishments change their base. The advantages of a better location have induced some of the oldest merchants to fall into line and give up their antiquated establishments for fine, airy, well ventilated buildings with iron fronts. COTTON THAT IS COTTON .- At the office of Mr. I. E. B. SLOAN, Brown & Co.'s Wharves, we had the pleasure of looking at, yesterday, one of the most perfect samples of the great staple of the South we remember to have noticed. Its beauty of color, and admirable cinning, was unsurpassed, and no one, who having seen such elegant specimens of the staple, but that would come to the conclusion that mature has given this part of the globe unequalled advantages for the raising of the article. These specimens were grown in Anderson District, in this State, by Mr. Chas. Wallie FORD, and were sold by Mr. SLOAN for 194 cents per pound. Much of the appearance of these specimens were owing to the excellent gins used in preparing it for market, which we learn is known as the "Gullitt Gin," originally got up in Mississippi, and sold by our fellow-oitizen, C. GRAVELY, Esq., at his hardware store en East

ACCIDENT ON THE STREET RAILWAY.-We have frequently alluded to the practice of jumping on and off the street cars while in motion, and the accidents that have occurred should have proved inflicient to deter any one from these attempts to obtains ride. A number of colored boys have been in the habit of waiting on Rutledge street and endeavoring to obtain a clandestine ride by jumping on some portion of the car while in motion. The most common practice has been to stand on the iron god connecting the trucks, and to hold on by the ledge projecting from the ade of the car. By this method the parties could escape detection and enjoy their stolen ride in compara-

On Wednesday night, while Conductor Comen's car was passing the corner of Bull and Rutledge streets, a negro boy endeavored to jump upon this iron rod, but from some cause failed and his feet iron rod, but from some cause failed and his feet 672 dropping under the car the rear wheel passed over his left leg, near the ankle, cutting and bruising it terribly. The car was instantly stopped and the boy carried into the corner grocery store. Dr. OGIER was called in and every attention bestowed upon the sufferer. Though much bruised and mangled the leg may be saved, but we trust this accident will prove a warning to others of the class who were in the habit of jumping on the cars. No blame can be attached to the conductor or driver, was soon aroused and sent to the lock-up as a as it was not known the boy was on the car unti

Carolina Spartan says: "This occlesiastical body. as was expected, met in Spartanburg on last Thursday, and continued its sessions until Saturday evening. It is one of the four Presbyteries of the Presbyterian Church in this State, and includes all the ministers and churches belonging to that denomination of Christians in the northwestern Districts. There were present, as members of the body, twenty-three ministers and as many ruling elders. The proceedings of the Presbytery brought up no matters of special interest, beyond the usual routine of ecclesiastical business. The reports on the state of religion in the several churches were generally encouraging, and several revivals were mentioned as having occurred during the past year.

"The amendments which have been proposed to the Constitution of the Presbyterian Church in the South, and which has elicited much discussion, came up for consideration, but all action in regard to them was postponed by this Presbytery. Its proceedings throughout were characterized by perfect harmony. During the week frequent reigious services were held in the Presbyterian Church, and able and eloquent discourses deliver-ed by members of the Presbytery. The Rev. Professor Anderson, of Davidson College, was present, and preached a sermon of no ordinary power on Saturday night.

"The Rev. Dr. Plumer, of the Theological Seminary a Columbia, was also present on Sabbath; preaching in the morning at the Presbyterian Church, and at night in the Methodist Church. We need not say that crowded congregations heard him with delight, and we trust with profit.

"We are requested to say that the Presbytery adopted resolutions, returning thanks to the people of Spartanburg for their cordial and generous hospitality to its members, and to the Methodist and Baptist Churches for the kind offer of their houses of worship for the use of the Presbytery And we would say on the part of our citizens, that we have been much gratified with the visit of the Presbytery to our town. It has been a pleasure to us to receive them, and to enjoy, for a few days, their society as christian gerdlemen, and their services as ministers of the Gospel. May bless ings follow them to their nomes, and may they soon again favor us with anether meeting in Spar-

REVIVAL OF BORINESS .- During this week trade has received an impetus that is plainly visible in the presence of the number of purchasers now in the city, and in the loxes turned out before the doors of the wholess's stores on Meeting, Hayne and East Bay stree s. An increased activity in the cotton trade has caused other branches of mercan-tile industry to vevive, and a spirit has been given to business ge erally that we trust will be permaent. Many of the merchants in the interior have only delayed their purchases until their cotton could be sent to the market, and the strange faces now seen in the streets, and the lively appearance of the hotels, are a proof that though long delayed the fall trade will vet be of some importance. As the metropolis of South Carolina, Charleston has always been considered the market for numerous merchants both in this and contiguous States, and though the fire and the sword have made sad havoc with her fairest proportions, vet her ancient prestige remains, and those merchants who still continue their purchases will find that the advantages offered are the same as when she was the Queen City of the South. It is gratitring to see that numbers adhere to their old allegiance, and have not been induced to leave firm friends by the specious arguments of their opponents. The merchants of Charleston have strained every nerve to accommodate their customers, and the stocks now in their establishments are fully equal to the demands of the trade.

On East Bay, among the large grocery and auction stores considerable activity prevails, and the country and city customers vie with each other in signments are received by every steamer, and the old thoroughfare displays more business life than for months past. The business locality of Meeting and Hayne streets, though not so extensive as East Bay, is not without its full share of the pravailing activity. The drummers are in good spirits, and the appearance of the stores denote that the trade has commenced.

Among the changes that have occurred in this EDWIN BATES & Co. have secured the store at the display each branch of their business in a more attractive manner, the large iron front building being devoted to the dry goods department. The pleasant weather and freedom from any sickness, should alone tempt the country buyer to the City by the Sea, and we feel assured that once here a glance at the different stocks and a knowledge of the prices asked, will induce him to go no furthery to our Agent, Mr. T. P. SLIDEL, at the Mills House.

GENTLEMEN: I used, during the past season, one of "Ingersoll's Portable Cotton Presses," purchased of you last september. I have always been prejudiced in favor of the "Screw Press," and nothing but dire necessity induced me to try any other. I take pleasure, however, in adding my festimony in favor of its entire adaptation to the wants of a cotton plantation. It has surpassed my most singuine expectations. I have packed with but two hands, yet I prefer four—two at each lever. My bales all weighed ever 500 lbs. The first lot I sent to market averaged 652-ds. My impression is that 500 lbs. is about the capacity of the Press, and a greater number of pounds subject the follow-block to too-much risk, unless the sides of the cotton box was increased. It won add greatly to the value of the Press if the cotton be was ten inches longer. In haste, t am, very respectful Your obedient servant, &c. B. W. LAWTON. was ten inches longer. The Press I used fit packing my cotton last year worked admirably, packing, with ease from 600 to 525 lbs. With good active hands to work if, I am satisfied that from eighteen to twenty bales might readily be packed in a day.

This Press combines the advantages, of fightness, and consequent portability and simplicity their gasily managed by any one of ordinary intelligence.
