THE WRONG Box .- The number of "vacant boxes at the Charleston postoffice, is a fair indication of foul times, more especially as years ago nearly every box was filled. Men are now so hard up that the cost of a box at the postoffice is beyond their means; and so many during the last few months, have got into the "wrong box" that they have got out of the "right box" at the postoffice, and have nothing left.

A GERMAN SETTLEMENT NEAR COLUMBIA .-A colony of Germans, numbering about one hundred, have settled on the Middleton place, in Richland District, between Wateree River and Colonel's Creek, and about twenty-four miles from Columbia. THE COLORED HIGH SCHOOL.—The report of this school for December has been received from the principal. It was opened in July last, and has thirteen teachers, all of whom are white. The number of pupils enrolled is boys 370, girls 448, and adults one. The number of new pupils was fifty-six, and all the pupils but forty-four are between the ages of six and sixteen. Four hundred and twelve pupils can write on slates, and one hundred and thirty in books. This report is a very satisfactory one, and is, in itself, the best compliment that can be paid the principal and teachers.

BURNT TO DEATH .- A colored girl named Catherine, a servant of Mr. B. F. Moise, was accidentally burned to death, on Saturda at his residence in Bull-street, near Pitt. She was employed as a child's nurse, and had just placed the infant on his bed and moved to the fire, when her apron caught and was soon in a blaze. Her screams soon brought Mr. DeLeon from a lower room, and he succeeded in throwing his coat and a blanket upon her and thus smothering the flames, but she had inhaled the fire, and notwithstanding every resource that medical assistance could supply was tried, death soon ensued.

A CARD .- To the Editors of the Daity News: Having seen by to-day's issue of your paper that a correspondent, signing himself "R. B. E.," has used my name among others as a candidate for a position in the Convention of the Radical party about to assemble, I hereby disclaim any connection with the party, nor could I be induced to hold any position in their Convention. Your obedient servant,

WILLIAM M. MOLEN.

THE CONVENTION AGAIN .- To the Editors of the Daily News: I see that my name is men- | Hendricks, and stated that during the Christmessenger or in any other capacity.

JOSEPH QUASH Respectfully,

DEDICATION OF ST. PETER'S ROMAN CATHOLIC tween Meeting and Anson, and has been fitted up with pews, and otherwise altered, so as to adapt it to its new use. The sanctuary and altar have been constructed with much taste, and, altogether, the church is one of which the colored Catholics may be deservedly proud. Similar Catholic Churches for the use of the colored population were long ago established in New Orleans, and others, of more recent origin, exist in New York, St. Louis, Baltimore and Washington. The pastor appointed for St. Peter's Church is the Rev. Aloysius Folchi, Rome, of which place he is a native.

The dedication ceremonies commenced at half-past 8 o'clock in the morning, and were conducted in accordance with the prescribed forms of the Roman ritual. The procession, consisting of the Right Rev. Bishop Lynch, with deacon, sub-deacon and the clergy, attended by acolytes, was formed before the door, where all remained standing while the proper prayers were chanted. The procession ther moved slowly around the exterior of the building, the clergy solemnly intoning the Miserere, and the Bishop sprinkling the walls with holy water. Again pausing awhile before the door, the procession moved up the main aisle while the Litany was recited. Three other psalms were chanted, during which the clergy moved around the interior of the church, sprinkling the walls as before. The concluding prayers of the dedication proper were then said at the foot of the altar.

The celebration of High Mass followed, the pastor, Father Folchi, officiating as celebrant, with the Revs. John Schacte and D. J. Quigley acting respectively as deacon and sub-deacon and the Rev. C. B. Northrop as master of the ceremonies. We noticed also that the Rev. J. F. O'Neill and the Rev. Dr. Bermingham occupied | the Unity of the Human Race was written in places within the sanctuary.

The sacred music was furnished for the occasion by the combined choirs of the Cathedral Chapel and St. Patrick's Church, and Peter's Mass was sung in excellent style. At the close of the service, the dedication sermon was preached by the Right Rev. Bishop Lynch. He opened by alluding to the satisfaction that it gave him to see to-day accomplished a design that had been formed no less than seventeen years ago by Bishop Reynolds and been prevented till now by various circumstances. He then expounded the doctrine of public worship as taught by the Catholic Church. It was fitting that man who was made of a body and soul should pay homage to God with each. But, left to himself, he could know nothing of how he was to serve God effectually. Therefore, of old, the practice of religion had been revealed to the Patriarchs in various ways-by angels, visions and prophets. Last of all, God had spoken in the person of His divine Son, who came with authority to complete the fulness of revelation. He selected the Apostles who, with their successors, were to teach man till the end of time, instructing him in the things which Christ himself had taught to them. The public worship which they had established required an altar and a clean oblation—an altar whereof the heathen should not partake, an altar before which the followers of Christ should kneel and worship as He has commanded them. The Bishop then alluded to the church which had just been dedicated, and which was henceforth "a holy place" belonging to God and not to man. Whose entered it should remember that he was in the House of the Lord, and his demeanor should be humble and reverent accordingly. God hears our prayers everywhere, but with special readiness when offered before His altar. The Bishop exhorted his hearers to love, venerate, and be assiduous in frequenting their church that where his family reside. Mr. Cuthbert has God, so that, by fidelity in His service here, after. The church was densely thronged throughout the ceremony, chiefly by colored people, and we cannot but hope that the dedication of St. Peter's will be the commencement of a new era of religious interest.

THEFT OF A DIAMOND RING-QUICK WORK .-On Saturday a gentleman called on Lieutenant tioned by an anonymous correspondent of the | mas holidays a valuable good ring had been DAILY NEWS as one of the persons likely to be stolen from his wife, and he wished to recover chosen as messengers for the approaching it if psosible. Officers Coates and Caldwell State Convention. Both the United States Court for the District of South would decline to serve the convention either as thief and the receiver are colored, and the Carolina. These gentlemen afterwards prering, which cost $100 in gold, was traded off sented the petition of Mr. A. K. Parham, of twenty-five cents.

A VENERABLE DIVINE .- Rev. John Bachman, (COLORED) CHURCH—STRMON BY BISHOP LYNCH. D.D., pastor of the English Lutheran Church Roman Catholic Church, intended for the espe- his ministry in that church yesterday, and de-NEWS BEING THE NEWSPAPER OFFICIALLY cial accommodation of the colored people pro-cial accommodation of the colored people pro-fessing that faith, tool: place yesterday morn-"Let us call to mind the days of the past." ing. The edifice, which was formerly known The sermon was a historical retrospect, referas the Wentworth-street Synagogue, is situating chiefly to the past ministerial services of ed on the north side of Wentworth-street, be- the preacher. The church was crowded both morning and evening with an attentive audience, many of whom had grown up under the teachings of "- venerable pastor. Notwithstanding has weight of years, Dr. Bachman is an active minister of the gospel, and his anniversary sermon evinced the same clearness and ability that has always distinguished his discourses. Dr. Bachman was born at Rhinebeck, in the State of New York, in 1790, of an old colonial family. His paternal ancester, a Swiss gentleman, came to America as private Secretary to William Penn. He was ordained to the ministry in 1812, and called to the church in Charleston in 1815. For a time preached in wooden building in the rear of the present church, which was not erected until 1817. He was then in the habit of preaching a sermon in the German language once every month, but this practice has been discontinued for some

We have heard Dr. Bachman sav. that the Dutch or Hollandish, then much spoken in the State of New York, was the language of his early youth, and that he had arrived at the years of manhood before he commenced the study of German. We cannot withhold our admiration therefore at the thorough mastery he so soon obtained over this difficult language, enabling him to speak it with facility, and to preach even to an intelligent audience.

Of Dr. Bachman's scientific attainments this is not the proper place to speak. For years he has been known throughout the world of letters as a distinguished naturalist, and his pen has been diligent in the cultivation of this vast and interesting field. His co-operation with the lamented Audubon in the preparation of the Quadrupeds of North America, secured him a multiplicity of learned titles from every civilized country on the globe. His monograph on the interest of science and revelation, and is worth reproduction in these days of Ariel

Among the male members of Dr. Bachman's congregation who had the pleasure of listening to his anniversary discourse, was one who was the first that had received the rite of confirmation at his hands, and with the exception of an aged female member now absent from the city. is the oldest member of his flock. There are few ministers of the Gospel who have arrived himself, but the consummation of which had at a riper age than Dr. Bachman. He has continued in the service of one church longer than any other, and with the exception of Rev. Dr. Hanckel, has been connected with the ministry a greater number of years than any other in

THAT DRUMMING OUT .- Our venerable contemporary, the Courier, is not always so prompt and vigilant as on Saturday, when, with a vigor and activity hardly consistent with its age, it undertook to drum out of the service Private Michael Kearney, of Company A, 6th United States Infantry, with the lucid remark, that "the process is too familiar to our (its) readers to need recital." It then proceeds to ornament the back of the unfortunate man, before his time, with the placard, "thief," and to otherwise vindicate offended military justice. The fact is that the interesting ceremony chronicled in the Courier of Saturday did not take place until last evening, at the dress parade of the garrison on Citadel Green. The culprit had been convicted before a court martial of stealing sundry articles of clothing and $16.90 in currency, and had been sentenced to forfeit all pay and allowances and to be ticipative reporter of the Courier. After the parade had been formed, Kearney was marched by a guard in front of the troops and through the open ranks, the drum beating time during the process. He was bareheaded and upon his "thief." He did not appear to be at all affected, and bore his equivocal honors with a smile he was remanded to the guardhouse and will be reduced from a soldier to a citizen. There was a larger and more miscellaneous crowd present than we have seen on the Green at any time since the days of the circus.

THE NEOROES IN THE INTERIOR .- A gentleman from the vicinity of Fort Motte yesterday, gave us some interesting particulars about the state of affairs in that section. He said that very few of the freedmen were disposed to enter into contracts; some few are willing "to hire," but have an aversion to the term "contract." They say the league forbids them to make any contract. They are willing, however, to rent land, expecting that upon the meeting of the convention they would get their "forty acres." One gentleman proposed to contract with his laborers for another year. They told him they would not work for him. "Then you must leave here, as I want these houses for such hands as I may engage." One of the freedmen then stepped forward, and said: "We ain't gwine to leave, and no odder niggers comin' here." "Who told you that you could stay here?" "A white man tole us we must stay here, and must not let any odders cum here." The negroes are vagabondizing all around the country, some with shot guns, but mostly with muskets, which they buy of the merchants at three dollars a piece. Hogs, pigs and swine of every description have disappeared from the face of that part of the earth-as much as the mammoth and the megalonyx. Milch cows, even, are in daily danger of their lives, and ere many months, our informant predicts, cattle will be as scarce up there as hogs. The farmers in that part of the State, he says, have barely corn enough to last them till April, and where they are to get the means to purchase the necessary supplies after that period, he could not see. Such planfers as have engaged labor, have generally hired at a stipulated price, the laborer to find his own subsistence. This, indeed, seems necessary, as the farmer, in many cases, cannot command the means to procure these supplies.

NORTHERN CAPITALISTS COMING SOUTH .- The depreciation in the price of lands throughout the South has induced a number of Northern capitalists to invest in this species of property, and much of the planting during the coming season will be conducted by Northern men. The sea islands on the coast present an alluring field for such investments, and companies have already been formed to cultivate these rich lands. Among other companies that are spoken of is one to be headed by James Gordon Bennett, Jr. Mr. Bonnett is associated with some capitalists from Philadelphia, and designs to plant on some of the islands near the city. The company are prepared to try the planting experiment, and will purchase most of their stock and farming materials in this city, presuming that the prices will be lower than at LECTURES BEFORE THE CATHOLIC INSTITUTE A large congregation filled the Cathedra The ceremony of the dedication of St. Peter's of this city, completed the fifty-third year of Chapel last evening to hear the first of a course of lectures to be delivered before the Catholic Institute. Vespers were first sung, after which Bishop Lynch gave an interesting discourse, chosing for his subject: The Centennial Anni versary of the Martyrdom of St. Peter and St. Paul at Rome, in which pageant the Bishor was a participant. The lecture was substant tially the same which Bishop Lynch has de livered in Boston and elsewhere.

The prices, which are a great consideration in these times, are lower than the same quality of goods can be found elsewhere. Don't fail to examine this stock before purchasing.

A LOTTERY OFFICE .- Our readers who are disposed to take a chance at securing an easy focture will learn something to their advant age by reading the advertisement which appears in our columns from Mr. H. T. Peters, who has opened an office at No. 90 Hasel-stree for the disposal of tickets in some of the fairest and most equitable lottery schemes in the country. This gentleman, who believes that there are large numbers in every community who will, under every disadvantage, encourage this form of securing a competency, has la bored zealously to get our State to place the business on a footing which would relieve the public of a certain amount of taxation by yielding a State revenue, and at the same time place the business in a position of much fairness; and the agencies which he has now secured he flatters himself will give the people the best opportunity of drawing a prize. The principles on which the drawing will take place are set forth in the advertisement, and such of the public as are auxious to try their fortune will undoubtedly be placed in the best position to secure a prize by applying to Mr. Peters at his office as above.

J. REEVE GIBBES' COMMERCIAL SCHOOL .- The ordinary mauner of imparting instruction in the art of book-keeping by double entry, is by a number and variety of rules which, to a be ginner, appear to be arbitrary and illogical. because the teacher is too often deficient in that demonstrative ability which easily refers conclusions to their premises, and can impress drummed out of the service with the placard, the sequence on the minds of their pupils. "thief," upon his back, as narrated by the anprocess by which a complicated system is derived from a few simple principles of common sense, is the cause of much confusion and ignorance respecting an art which is capable of being rendered as clear as light to the most ordinary capacities. We take pleasure in recommending Mr. Gibbes as eminently qualified After being counter-marched before the troops thoroughly practical mind and long familiarity to perform this important service. His with commercial affairs, enable him to make proficients in book-keeping in a remarkably short space of time, as numerous instances can testify, while his charges are graduated with more reference to the present depressed condition of pecuniary affairs, than to the grea value and utility of his instruction. All who are in search of those practica branches of education, writing, arithmetic and book-keeping, should avail themselves of this opportunity to acquire them with certainty in a short time, and at an exceedingly small outlay. We call attention to Mr. Gibbes' card in this paper.
