NEWS SUMMARY.

—Gold closed in New York yesterday at 40; Cotton in New York heavy and lower; Middling 16 1/2.

—Forney has lost about $30,000 by the default of one of his chief men in the Senate. Forney says it will nearly ruin him.

—Messrs. Garfield and Bingham, prominent Radicals of Ohio, express the deliberate opinion that the "negro must be thrown overboard."

—It is represented by knowing financiers that the production of cotton in Brazil, India and Egypt, will be larger than ever the coming year.

—Senator Sprague, of Rhode Island, thinks the North has insanely destroyed the cotton monopoly. His firm has lost over a million of dollars on cotton. Hence these tears.

—A secret order has been instituted in New York, known as "The Brotherhood of the Black Crook," the ceremonies of which are described as even more disgusting than were those of the defunct Sons of Malta.

—Some of the Democratic journals advise the victims of Seward's little bell and Stanton's big battles—all Northern men—to abandon their projected meeting, on the 22d of February, at the city of New York.

—The emigration via Hamburg during the eleven months ending November 30, 1867, amounted to forty-seven thousand seven hundred and eighty-five persons, and via Bremen, during the same period, seventy-three thousand two hundred and fifteen—all to the United States.

—Lovers of the sparkling bowl will be pleased to learn that American manufacturers eight hundred thousand baskets of champagne more than the champagne districts of France are able to produce. So with Madeira and with port. New York alone manufactures annually eight hundred thousand dollars worth of wines without a single grape.

—The census of Hamburg, (Germany), contains some curious items of information. It seems they have in that ancient free city 3607 widowers and 13,325 widows; 476 divorced husbands, who have not remarried, and 699 divorced wives, who have not sought comfort in new unions. They have 63,643 young men under 24 years of age, and 40,313 girls under 16.

—The Turf, Field and Farm, published in New York, in a recent article on immigration, says: "All the efforts yet made to turn a steady stream of foreign emigration southward have failed, and lately, General Wagner, in Charleston, South Carolina, the indomitable champion of Southern immigration, a man who has devoted a lifetime to the accomplishment of what he justly conceives to be the great and supreme necessity of his adopted country, confirms in his official report, as commissioner of immigration, these ideas, which we have entertained ever since we gave attention to the subject."

—The New York Commercial Advertiser (Republican) says: "The Senate exhibited more sectionalism and narrow-mindedness in its action relative to the repeal of the cotton tax, than is pleasant to contemplate. The remission of this year's tax, with a clause for its imposition next year, is a half-and-half measure, unworthy of practical legislators. The same reasons that demand the remission of this year's tax are likely to apply next year with still greater force. The culture of cotton is extending in foreign countries, and with this tax hanging over the planters and freedmen, it is certain to diminish in the South."

—The new gold field lately discovered at the mouth of the Amoor river, will probably swell the annual production of gold to a higher figure than it has ever yet reached, and when we consider that, with the improvements constantly being made in mining and reducing processes, the supply of the fields already known becomes every year larger and larger, we must expect a continued increase in the price of exchangeable articles all over the civilized world. That that increase has been here, with our paper money, we all know; but if we were to resume specie payments at once, we should by that means return to the prices of eight years ago.

—The Montgomery Mail of Friday last says: "Laborers were hiring themselves yesterday at the Central Bank corner for fifty dollars, and even as low as twenty-five dollars for the year. These were all able-bodied field hands. Those who go of five dollars per month last year hire themselves for food and clothing. We hear from the country that the best field hands are hiring in some sections for forty dollars per annum. A great many doleful creatures will be just to work by the Government on the public works with overseers over them. Such are some of the first fruits of Radicalism."

—The National Intelligencer, after discussing at length the revolutionary unconstitutional bill introduced into the House Monday, wiping out the Executive and Judicial Departments of the Government, concludes its article in the following significant language: "It can come to nothing without the co-operation of the General of the Army. All it rests on him. Whatever his reticence, this is a matter in which reticence might be misunderstood. At the first overt act, however slight—were it but to orally promise to accept the functions offered in it, after such a bill had been passed over a veto—the General of the Army must be cast into jail to wait his trial for treason to his country, unless the Chief Magistrate of that country is false to the trust of the people and his oath of office."

—A London correspondent gives a list of the occupations of Mr. Thomas Hughes (Tom Brown). He is a Chancery barrister in large practice; a busy member of Parliament, with a numerous and exacting constituency; chairman of the Crystal Palace Company; a royal commissioner on Trade Unions; an active director of the London Workmen's College, an author who still uses his pen (he has published two magazine articles within two months, and is writing a history of King Alfred), and is beside known all over England as a friend of the workingman, who, with all his other occupations, finds time to give unpaid to their interests and needs. He is also colonel of the 19th Middlesex Rifle Volunteers, a crack volunteer corps of the metropolis.

—A gentleman in Charlotte County, Va., thus tested the comparative results of white and black labor. He furnished thirteen negroes with mules and implements and provisions to raise a crop, and at the same time furnished an outfit to two white men. The negroes raised 94 barrels of corn, 7 stacks of oats, and 5000 pounds tobacco. The two white men, with a little negro girl to cook for them, raised 11 1/2 barrels of corn, 10 stacks of oats, and 8000 pounds of tobacco. The negroes returned the mules in a poor, emaciated condition. The white men worked their own land and mules. The negroes turned their own mules and mules were at their service to haul wood, yet they preferred to burn rails.

CHARLESTON.

THURSDAY MORNING, JANUARY 16, 1868.

City Taxation.

The Committee on Ways and Means have made their report, and submitted their scheme of taxation and expenditure for the current year. It is not necessary to review now the grounds upon which they have based their action. The city is agreed that no higher rate of taxation than that of last year could possibly be borne, and the Committee was compelled to make the best of the means it could command. Any payment, in currency, of interest upon the city debt was altogether out of the question, and it is deeply to be regretted that the city did so soon after the war resume payment upon its debt. Had the resumption of payment of city interest been at once deferred until 1868 or 1870, Charleston would have been in a better position than she now is, and bondholders and stockholders would have been as well satisfied as they are at this present moment. It is useless to be over-sensitive, and when it is acknowledged generally that Charleston cannot meet the $300,000 of annual interest on the city debt, it is best to admit the patent fact, in practice, and not to attempt impossibilities for the good of the public creditor. The Committee propose to issue bonds having thirty years to run and bearing six per cent interest, payable quarterly, to liquidate the interest due on December 31, 1867, and this measure it is presumed will be adopted.

The proposed taxes for the current year are, with few exceptions, of the same character and amount as those in force for 1867. On houses, buildings, lots, etc., the tax is two per cent, payable, however, in three periods, March, July and November. On gross sales the tax is undetermined. The tax on express companies is reduced from five per cent to three per cent. Taxes on auction sales, carriages and gross incomes are the same; but the tax on the value of bonds, mortgages, judgments or other securities is increased from fifty cents to two dollars on every hundred dollars. The tax on commissions, gas companies, premiums of insurance companies, dogs, horses and mules, retail dealers, and commercial agencies is unchanged. The capitation tax is reduced from two dollars to one dollar. On hucksters, barber shops, receipts of newspapers, sales by non-residents, sales of horses and mules, and telegraph companies, the tax is the same as before. A tax of seventy-five cents on each hundred dollars of the gross receipts of all tavern keepers and liquor dealers is proposed.

These are the general features of the bill as presented, but there is an indication that some modifications will be made before its final passage. One great question is whether gross sales of merchants or only stock in trade at a fixed date shall be taxed. Each side has its supporters and its strong points. A tax on gross receipts is too often a tax upon losses, and a tax upon profits is the most equitable plan. But a tax upon stock in hand would, in some respects, be as bad as a tax upon gross receipts, for it will be a tax upon goods unsold, which are daily depreciating in value. Moreover, it is difficult to fix a day upon which there will be on hand an amount of stock that will be a fair average for the year. Merchants will not be willing to have their stocks taken when at their highest; the city will not be willing to fix a date when stocks are low and all the choice goods have been sold. It would be difficult to reconcile both views, and, while admitting the hardship of a tax upon gross sales, it is considered best that for this year at least no change should be made in the nature or amount of the tax.
