THE IMPEACHMENT TRIAL.

A HOT TIME IN THE HIGH COURT-THE EXAMI-NATION OF GENERAL SHERMAN-HIS JUSTIFI-CATION OF THE PRESIDENT—REVERDY JOHNSON REBUKES BUTLER-A GOOD DAY'S WORK FOR MR.

Washington, April 13 .- In the House, no quorum was present, and the members having gone into committee of the whole, proceeded to the impeachment court. Washburne gave notice that he would make a call of the House on Thursday for business. An objection was made to printing the speeches of Butler and Curtis in the same pamphlet. The impeachment managers are urging an amendment to the rule so as to allow unlimited speeches.

The defence in the impeachment are prepared to prove, had the testimony been admitted, that Sherman advised the formation and indicated the limits of the Department of the Atlantic. In the Senate, a motion was made to amend the rules so as to allow additional speeches, which was tabled. Stevens, Williams, Boutwell and Logan were disappointed. Stevens and Williams made special appeals for a hearing. General Sherman was recalled. Stanbery then asked if he thought that, after Stanton's restoration, the good of the service required another man at the head of the War Depart-

Evarts said they desired to show that the President's action was for the good of the service, based on the opinions of honest, intelligent officers. The Senate refused to hear the answer-yeas only 15. Davis voted nay; Sprague and Saulsbury were absent; Fowler, Grimes, Ross, Trumbull and Van Winkle voted

The Clerk of the District Supreme Court was called. After a contest, the proceedings attending Thomas' arrest were admitted. Sherman was recalled at the instance of Senator Johnson, who asked: When the President tendered you the office of Secretary of War on the 20th or 30th of January, did he state what his purpose was in so doing? Objected to; but the Senate heard the answer by a vote of twenty-six to twenty-two. Answer-Yes. Senator Johnson asked: Will you state what he said his purpose was? Objected to. Chase decided that the question was admissible, as it tended to show the import of the President's action: Chase was sustained by a vote of twenty-six to twenty-five. Sherman commenced, when Butler interrupted, but Sherman thought best to proceed in his own way. The President told Sherman that, under the relations of Stanton toward the other members of the Cabinet and the President, the War Department could not be properly administered in the interests of the army and the whole country while Stanton ren the President tendered Sherman the position ident why he did not have the case made up by his lawyers, so as to bring about a change dull. without involving an officer of the army in the question. Appeal was taken. Debate ensued, pending which Butler asked whether the question put by the Senator from Maryland was as counsel for the President. Mr. Johnson rose from his seat and administered Butler a sharp rebuke. Butler was abashed, and Sherman finally proceeded: At the first interview nothing very definite was said by either. During the second, the President expressed a desire to have the constitutionality of the Tenureof-office bill tested, and told Sherman that Stanton would offer no resistance. Sherman did not know Stanton as well as the President knew him; Stanton is a coward. Sherman gave no positive answer-answered in writing. Senator Henderson asked, Did the President, on either occasion, express a firm determination to remove Stanton from office? Sherman answered that the President never expressed an intention to use force, but seemed determined that their relations should cease. Senator Howard asked, What did the President say about force? Sherman repeated the President's belief that Stanton would not resist. Henderson asked whether Sherman gave the President advice. The Senate refused to hear the answer. The managers summoned Sherman for to-morrow, and he left the stand. The evidence regarding Thomas' arrest was resumed, and the court then adjourned.

At the close of the reading, in response to loud applause, Mr.

Dickens said: Ladies and Gentlemen-My precious and generous welcome in America, which can never be obliterated from my remembrance, began here. My departure begins here, too; for I assure you that I have never, until this moment really felt that I am going away. In this brief life of ours, it is sad to do almost anything for the last time; and I cannot correal it from you that although my face will soon be turned toward my native land and to all that makes it dear, it is a sad consideration with me that in a few moments from the time the bylliant a few moments from this time this brilliant hall, and all that it contains, will fade from my view for ever more. But it is my consolation that the spirit of the bright faces, the quick perception, the ready replies, the generous allowance, and the cheering sounds that have allowance, and the entering sounds that have made this place joyful to me, will remain, and you may rely upon it that that spirit will abide with me as long as I have the sense and senti-ment of life. I do not say this with any reference to the private friendships that have for years and years made Boston a memorable and beloved spot to me; for such private references have no business in this public place. I say it purely in remembrance of, and in homage to, the great public heart before me. Ladie- and gentlemen, I beg most earnestly, most gratefully and most affectionately, to bid you each

A Republican mass meeting was to have been held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The following is a specimen of one of the Republican posters:

Come all and every one-leave your wivas, your children, your ploughs, your business, and come to hear what Hon. A. G. Mackey, of Charleston, Col. Thomas J. Robertson, of Columbia, and others, have to say about free speech, free press, free schools, equality and reconstruction in general.

PICKENS.

The Democrats of Walhalla are moving merrily. Clrbs have been formed throughout the neighborhood, and the best men elected to represent the sentiments of the community. In one day during registration, twenty-five whites registered, and but two negroes. A general meeting was called for yesterday, to assemble at Walhalla. The following ticket is circulating through the district:

For the Senate-John M. Hutson. Has no politics, but wants money. Will not serve if elected, but will send an intelligent freedman, whom he deems as fully competent to legislate for the people of South Carolina as some of his conventions.

BEAUFORT.

We learn from private sources that General A. H. Brisbane, of the United States Tax Commission, has been nominated for Congress in Beaufort by both races, irrespective of color or previous condition, the object being to defeat C. C. Bowen. It is stated that large numbers in Charleston will also "scratch" Bowen's name and insert that of Brisbane.

The Billiard Championship.

The great billiard contest which took place at Chicago on Wednesday was looked forward to with great interest as one of the most important which has yet occurred in the annals of the game. Both McDevitt and Foster played the most remarkable practice games of which any account has been given, and this tion to the event than to any similar occurrence since the Phelan and Secrieter match of 1859. We take the following summary from a dispatch to the New York World:

At 8.30 o'clock the match began, with the choice of A. Lebruan as referee, Foster's umpire being James Fulong, while Thomas Foley performed that office for McDevitt. McDevitt won the lead and Foster at once went to the front. Safe play characterized both of the front. Sate ping characterized both players for the first lew innings, and no count of importance was made until the eleventh inning, when Foster ran 107 on the white and red and turned his second hundred, 180 ahead. McDevitt had no leave from which he could make anything, and on his sixteenth inning melting as unjudy miss. Foster drove the making an unlucky miss, Foster drove the three balls together, and working them into the lower right-hand corner he ran 263, making 512 to McDevitt's 34. McDevitt ran 11, left the balls together, and Foster getting the two reds against the side rail ran 126 and froze. He was now 563 ahead. The innings were now world the party with safe play by both. He was now 563 ahead. The innings were now small on both sides, with safe play by both, until McDevitt, in his 43d inning, brought the three balls together and ran 244. This decreased Foster's lead, 372, and McDevitt began to feel more confident. There was a succession of unimportant innings, and Foster on his 49th had the balls in a heap by AcDevitt's unlucky run. Foster ran 453 and froze; he banked and counted, but separated the balls and ended with 68; runs of 45 and 35 placed him 1019—481 ahead. Three innings later McDevitt, off a bad run by Foster, brought the three balls together, and by a beautiful display of running ran up his count to 293. display of running ran up his count to 293. On his fity-sixth inning Foster worked the balls into a heap against the upper rail and ran 173, which put him three hundred and forty-six ahead. McDevitt in his turn brought three balls into a heap, and after sending the white to pocket brought the two reds together and ran two hundred and forty-two, being now one hundred and fourteen belind.

On the 59th inning the balls were nearly together in the lower left-hand corner. Mcion, and the ball apparently passed between claim, and the referee was called upon for a the room. "Rome" were promised by Madame Rumor. The congregation was very full, but I am afraid curiosity, rather than piety, was the predominant feeling. The chapel was literally robed in black, even to the chandeliers, the railings of the chancel, and the windows. The officiating clergy, Rev. Meesrs. Morrill and Noyes, were dressed in a voluminous black chasuble, gorgeously fringed with silver. The first service companyed at 9 o'clock, and last. first service commenced at 9 o'clock, and last-ed till noon. This was called the "Three Hours' Agony." THE PRESIDENT'S TRIAL.

MASTERLY SPEECH OF MR. CURTIS-EXAMINA-TION OF ADJUTANT-GENERAL THOMAS--HIS STRAIGHTFORWARD TESTIMONY-HIS REPORT OF HIS INTERVIEW WITH STANTON AT THE WAR DEPARTMENT-STANTON SENDS OUT FOR A BOTTLE OF WHISREY-THEY CLOSE PRO-CEEDINGS WITH A DRINKING BOUT.

Trustworthy accounts from Washington represent that the impeachment trial is a blight upon all matters, social, political and commercial, in that community, and in the departments the utmost dullness prevails. It is evinated to represent the parish in the Legisla- dent that the trial will last about three weeks ture. Committees were also appointed to look longer. Every day of delay is beneficial to the after political affairs, bring every man to the defence, because public sentiment hourly bepolls, and exercise proper vigilance. The comes more in favor of the acquittal of the central club of the whole district was to meet | President, and evidence of that healthful change is brought directly to the notice of senators. Already prominent Republicans and terest is manifested in the election, it is to be leading Republican journals are advising acquittal as a politic measure in the interests of their party. The Cincinnati Commercial has a significant editorial on the subject.

There was again a crowded Senate on Friday in spite of the inauspicious weather-even the ladies not hesitating to turn out, so great was the interest manifested to hear the conclusion of Judge Curtis' great speech. A large number of eminent gentlemen were again noticed among the spectators. General Sherman and his father-in-law, Mr. Ewing, occupied the same seats they did on Thursday. Several justices of the Supreme Court were to be seen in the lobby. We quote from the correspondence of the Baltimore Gazette:

Judge Curtis resumed his argument, and spoke for two hours, during which Ben Butler attempted several times to interrupt him, but the speaker declined noticing him or his inthe ruptions, except in the line of his argument. He literally cleaned up the whole case, and when he reached the Butler's pet article, when he reached the Butler's pet article, charging an improper use of language on the part of the President during his Western speeches, Judge Curtis left for the first time the dry path of legal argument, and indulged in an eloquent denunciation of the attempt to abridge the freedom of speech. Senators, with a few exceptions, leaned forward to catch every word which fell from his lips, and the closing sentence was as beautiful as it was solemn and truthful.

During the delivery of this magnificent argument solemn and truthful.

During the delivery of this magnificent argument Senator Sumner exhibited his Radical vulgarity and vindictiveness by continuing to write and despatch letters. Howard and Chandler were several times in conversation, and Senator Wilson attempted to get up a smile of derision. These were about all the variations from the strictest order and closest attention, and yet it is questioned by many whether this effort of Judge Curtis will have any effect upon Senators who had previously determined to convict. Only last evening Senator Van Winkle declared in conversation that he could see no reason why the President should not be removed, as it could now be done without danger of violence from the President himself or from the Ku-Klux-Klan. This Mr. Pickwick of the Senate had on a previous occasion expressed his apprehensions in this particular, but no one supposed he was favorable to this con-spiracy against the President, and his vote had been counted among those opposed to

It is impossible for any one to understand and realize the difference between the mana-gers on the part of the House, headed by Ben. Butler, and the counsel for the President, who Butler, and the counsel for the President, who does not witness the proceedings in the Senate. The speech of Curtis having closed, General Lorenzo Thomas was called as the first witness on the part of the defence; and let it be remarked just here, that the general is not only a gentleman of the old school, but is a splendid looking officer. He appeared in full uniform, and a lady near us exclaimed, "Isn't he handsome!" All eves in the ladies' gallery were upon him. Rarely has a witness been placed upon the staud under more trying circumstances, and never has one conducted himself with more coolness and self-possession. self with more coolness and self-possession.
He spoke rapidly, too much so for the reporters, but in clear, ringing tones, and his answers were direct and to the point. Butler cross-exvulgarity he could bring to bear, he utterly failed to confuse or embirrass him in the least During the examination of General Thomas the managers objected to allowing the witness to explain how far he had been instructed by the President to use force, threats or intimida-tion towards Stanton. This, it will be remem-bered, is one of the leading charges against the President, which the managers have attempted to prove by giving in evidence General Thomas' declarations, and yet they were un-willing for General Thomas to explain his own declarations and say how far they had been authorized by the President. The question was referred to the Senate, and ten senators, whose names must become by-words of scorn, voted to sustain the infamous proposition. Hand them around: Cameron, Chandler, Conness, Cragin, Drake, Harlan, Howard, Nye, Ramsey and Thayer, have openly deciared that they stand ready to convict the President without allowing him to be heard. When Sumner's name was called, and he refused to record it on such a roll of infamy, there was a decided sensation throughout the charber. How must these ten senators regard themselves, when even Charles Sumner declines sinking to their declarations and say how far they had been even Charles Samner declines sinking to their level! The vote was a stunner to the managers, who had elaborately argued the ques-

The gravity of the proceedings was broken by that portion of General Thomas' testimon referring to his inserview with Stanton in the War Department on the twenty-second February, when the Congressional Directory had as-sembled to witness the forcible ousting of the War Minister. The testimony here brought the farcical proceedings of these honorable Congressmen to a very proper climax. They had testified to the gathering of their clan at an early hour in support of Stanton—that they had watched for the enemy's approach—that with pencil in hand they had carefully noted his every word, even to his 'good morning Mr. Stanton'—and now the after, or by-play is given us by General Thomas. While in is given us by General Indians. While in General Shriver's room, and after his Congressional guard had left him, Stanton threw his arm around the General, run his fingers through his hair in the most familiar manner, and called upon Gen. Shriver to set out his decenter that he and Thomas might take a drink together. Finding that Shriver had but "a spoonful of whiskey, which was fairly divided." spoonful of whiskey, which was larry inviced, Stanton sends out for a bottle, which was un-corked, with drinks all round—members of Congress excepted. Base ingratitude! But what will the civilized world say?

THE FATE OF GRENFEL.-It now appears THE FATE OF GRENFEL.—It now appears that the escape of St. Leg:r Grenfel from the Dry Tortugas took place on the night between the 6th and 7th of March last. The Colonel managed to take along with him three other prisoners and one of the soldiers who were on guard at the time, being the one who was the sentinel in charge of the boat connected with the post, whilst he was on guard. It is supposed that the Colonel in some way managed to bribe the guard to desert, and to aid him to bribe the quard to desert, and to aid him and the other three prisoners to escape. As soon as the escape was discovered, the United States steamer Bibb was sent out in search of the fugitives, but she failed to find any trace of them. On the night of the escape blowing a gale, and as the boat which they took was but small and in ba andition, it is probable that they all perished.

No. 20 Hayne-street, Charle thstu 3mos WOUNRIVALIED .- NOTHING THAT HAS ever been known or heard of as a tonic adds so much to the resistant power of the human system, under circumstances unfavorable to health, as HOS TETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. If you would es cape the intermitt-ut fevers, fits of indigestion, bilious attacks and bewel complaints, or which cold and damp are the frequent causes, use the BITTERS as a PROTECTIVE MEDICINE. This is the wisest course; but, if already an invalid, try the preparation as a RESTORATIVE. In either case tull re-

There is no mystery about the causes of its suc cess. It is the only stomachic and alterative in which are combined the grand requisites of a mild, pure and unvitiated vegetable stimulant, with the finest selection of tonic, anti-bilious, anti-scorbutic apericut and depurative herbs, plants, roots and barks that have ever been intermixed in a medicinal p. -paration.

hance may be placed upon its efficacy.

The Bitters have this distinctive quality, which is not shared, it is believed, by any tonic, tincture or extract in the world. It does not excite the pulse. though it infuses a wonderful degree of vigor into the nervous system, and strengthens and sustains the whole physical organization.

California and Australia have emphatically endors ed it as the MINERS'S MEDICINE par excellence and in Spanish A , erica and all the tropical cilmates, it is considered the only reliable antidote to epidemic of charge. Address Dr. J. SKILLIN HOUGHTON,
