The medicine chest of Dr. Livingstone was stolen by the natives. Hence, skeptics as to the benefits to be derived from the materia medica, assert that this seeming misfortune was the cause of the African explorer's exemption from disease during his protracted wanderings. The circumstance that preserved Livingstone's health may prove fatal to the African thieves.

-Our foreign advices indicate what the effect of the acquittal of the President will be upon the world at large. A London telegram dated this A. -A gentleman who had a somewhat extended interview with Chief Justice Chase Saturday night states that he feels very much wounded by the denunciations which he is receiving but does not complain. The Chief Justice said he had not believed in imperchment from the start, and had made no improper concealment of his views. He scouts the idea that money has been used or will be used, maintaining that all the senators will act on their be effected among its members.

-The whippers-in of impeachment who had the free run of the Senate Chamber were altogether a notable set. There was Theodore Tilton, with his "Grecian-cut face" and empty head; Greeley, with a face of a singularly different "cut" and a tongue tipped with the coarsest abuse; George Wilkes, with his betting book and a huge roll of greenbacks bulging his vest pocket; Sickles, got up as the theatrical wounded soldier, making himself uncomfortable on crutches while his excellent cork leg was left in a committee room for the sake of appearances. These are the men who undertook to force the Senate against the example of such as Fessonden and Trumbull.

The most disappointed men in Washington, says a correspondent, "are George Wilkes, of the Sprit of the Times, and Theodore Tilton, of the Independent. The former has done nearly all the betting for the convictionists hereabouts; while the latter has worked among senators with great energy for the success of impeachment. They both agreed that the eleventh was by all odds the strongest article, and up to the moment when the question of guilty or not guilty was put to Senator Ross, they were confident that the vote would result in conviction. marks about the part taken by the Hebrew race in modern politics, in the countries of Europe, as well as in this country. Beside such well-known names as Mr. Disraeli, of England; M. The Messenger says, however, that Mr. Disraeli, Mr. Benjamin and Mr. Belmont having renounced Judaism in reference to the Hebrew vote in this country, the Messenger thinks it "cannot be concentrated for or against a particular candidate, except for grave That the recollection of Grant's general order of December, 1862, is likely to deter many Israelites from voting in his favor, we cannot deny." "This much," it adds, "we well know-that the Hebrew citizens of this republic are not to be dragooned or made tools of for political uses. They are not a compact body for political purposes. Their commercial, social and political affairs are thoroughly distinct from their religious interests. There is no national Hebrew vote. In the coming campaign Hebrews will work, and talk, and vote precisely according to their convictions as citizens, and in no respect will their political action be dependent upon their religious character as a body." This is thoroughly sensible and intelligent ground for Hebrews, as well as for others.

CHARLESTON.

FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 22, 1868.

The Nominations for Aldermen.

It is folly to put up men as candidates for municipal office who cannot take the iron-clad oath. This is not the hour when a man should strive for empty honors, and any person who allows himself to be used as a candidate when he cannot qualify if elected, is doing a grievous injury to his city and people.

There is no doubt that the "iron-clad" oath must be taken by all persons elected to office in the beginning of June. The oath is prescribed by the Reconstruction acts, and General CANBY himself has no power to dispense with it. Where, then, is the use of hominating gentlemen who cannot serve, and who, if they run, will only be a drag upon the voting strength of the Conservatives. Every vote is of consequence, not one should be thrown away, and it is earnestly hoped that if any gentleman has been nominated, or should be nominated, who cannot take the iron-clad oath, he will at once do his duty and withdraw his name. The Conservative ticket should be invulnerable, and it cannot withstand the first blow if it is made up in any degree of men who are not eligible. No man-not a declared Union man-who remained in South Carolina during the war, can take the ironclad oath and retain the respect of his fellow-citizens. Every man should see to it that no rats creep in, and that the Conservative ticket is composed of none but those who are respectable, moderate and eligible.

The Elections both Certain and Permanent.

There is now little doubt that the elections for county and municipal officers will ake place on the second and third of June. The time is so close that it would not be asy to disseminate throughout the State, tions for county and municipal officers will The time is so close that it would not be easy to disseminate throughout the State, information of a postponement, before the time originally appointed, and it is not likely that the order would be rescinded without an application being made by the Commissioners of Elections appointed by the late convention, at whose urgent soliciraised, but it is probable that it will be dealt tation the order is understood to have been issued. This application is not probable, as delay would weaken the Radicals and strengthen the Conservatives. Minds must be made up that the elections will come off as now ordered, and the fight must be made once for all.

Nor is there any ground for the common belief that the elections held in June will be from his old political trionds and associates, but temporary in their character, and require a new election as soon as the civil government is restored. General CANBY ordered the elections, not under the old State constitution, or the new State constitution, but under the paramount authority of the Reconsciences. He thinks it an insult to the construction acts. The elections being American Senate to suggest that bribery could held according to the requirements of these acts, will be legal in their character, and cannot be set aside by the new civil power which springs from the same source,-the authority of Congress. This is the view taken by the military authorities, and it may be assumed to be correct. But whether the coming elections be permanent and legal or not, there is no hope that they will be annulled if the Radical ticket is elected. and it is only in the event of a Conservative victory that there will be any danger of a new election.

For all practical purposes, it may be assumed that the elections will be held as ordered, and that they will be permanent in their character. Founding our action upon this assumption, is it not our only wise NEW YORK HOTEL, and sensible plan to direct all our strength to securing the election of the respectable Conservative candidates?

THE PHILADELPHIA LEDGER alludes to some of the unpleasantnesses of the impeachment trial, and says that the constant betting has degraded the most important trial in the history of the United States to the level of a horse race, or a fight between two bruisers for a champion's belt. This -The Camarade, of Vienna, the Austrian is bad enough for Americans, but it is not Englishmen who, a hundred years ago, betted on the recapture and execution of NITHISDALE, and upon the day when his head and those of his companions should drop off the books at Temple Bar.

FORNEY SAYS that if the President in-National Garde Mobile, 550,000; total, 1.350,- do any other honest and patriotic act by which he might have atoned for his past crimes, he would have done it before acprovince, 122,000; total, 480,000. From these and Mr. Johnson would not buy him!

IN NEW YORK State there is no love for anything that looks like miscegenation. The "eternal negro" is now kicked and abused on all sides, and what is allowed by the Reconstruction Constitution of Carolina is decided to be illegal by the Supreme Court at Buffalo. A colored girl, it seems, entered one of the white schools in that city, and was permitted by the teacher to remain. Complaint was made to the superintendent, who decided that the girl must leave the school. This brought the matter before the Supreme Court, which ruled against the right of colored children to attend any school except those designed for them exclusively.

THE WHITE population of Virginia is exsected to be increased by immigration from this State. This will not do. Carolina is the, best place for Carolinians. There is room for every man and work for every man. No man should desert his colors and leave his State because the heel of the oppressor is upon her breast. Leave her, if you will, when she prospers, but cling to her like men when she suffers.

This is the last day. Have you regis tered? If not, why not?

Your vore MIGHT turn the scale between good man PATTEN and bad man PILLSBURY. Will you not register?
