-The president of the Administrative Council of Western Siberia has just published the report which he forwards every year to St. Petersburg. It estimates at 12,000 the number of convicts banished every year to Siberia. During the last few years the average has risen to 14,000, of whom more Than a sixth are women and children. Quite recently the journey was still performed on foot. A fifth of the exiles die on the way or in the hospitals. That mortality is explained by the fatigue of traveling apart from all other circumstances. The mean distance is about two thousand miles, which represents about two hundred and eighty days' walking. The time necessary to reach the more distant governments is one year two onths and a half. -Judge Blatchford, of the United States District Court in New York has just made an emphatic decision upon the question whether a bankrupt is entitled to take out of the estate the money to pay his counsel for drawing the petition, and for other services rendered. In the case before the Judge, the counsel had paid money out of his own pocket, but even he allowance of this sum was refused. Judge Blatchford says : "The fees, costs and expenses named in the first of the five subdivisions in ection twenty-eight of the Bankrupt act, are those incurred by and due to the registrar, clerk, assignee and marshal, and not those incurred by the bankrupt or due to his attorney in the proceedings, for services or disburse ments in connection with such proceedings."

-The latest instance of a "red tape" policy has occurred in France, and resulted in the destruction of thirty-nine persons. The story, as told by a foreign correspondent, is as follows "An English vessel, the Queen of the South, s few days ago was driven ashore at St. Gildas, which is a bar at the mouth of the Loire. There were forty-two persons on board. Signals of distress were made, were seen on shore, but were not understood. It was evident the vessel would soon perish and some humane souls begged the pilots to go off to her. Their reply was, 'We cannot, we have no orders. Whereupon a dispatch was sent to the Sub-Commissioner of the Marine at St. Nazaire to ask if assistance should be given to the ship. He answered, he should telegraph to the Commissioners at Nantes. Unfortunately the telegraph does not work after sunset. He tele graphed the next morning and then replied, ordering assistance to be rendered. This was just fourteen hours after the demand had been made, thirteen hours and a half after thirtynine of the forty-two souls had perished under the eyes of pilots who were 'waiting orders.'

The End of Military Rule

The Omnibus bill, now a law, is at least inelligible, and will not require a supplement o make it easy of interpretation. When the Legislature of South Carolina has ratified the ourteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States, and when the President has made proclamation of the fact, Congressional reconstruction will be completed, the representatives of the State will take their seats in the midst of the virtuous and patriotic men who adorn the capitol at Washington, and, last but not least, military rule in South Carolina will legally be at an end.

Upon this point the Reconstruction acts are perfectly clear. The act of March 2, 1867, provides that when the "State shall "be declared to be entitled to representaion and reopen the doors and reor- "tion in Congress, and senators and repre- was whether they were entitled to pay from "sentatives shall be admitted therefrom, on the date of their election or that of their "and then and thereafter the preceding what these beauties are after, and in its sections of this act shall be inoperative in "said State." The governments then in existence will cease to be "provisional," are no longer subject to the "paramount author-"ity" of the United States, and nominally will be free from any other mischief and discord than is provided for in their own constitutions. The military commanders will fall from their high estate when Bowen & Co. take their seats in Congress, and South Carolina will be left to test the relative merits of universal soldier and univer> sal suffrage. It need not be imagined that every man in this State is praying for the advent of the new dispensation. Opinions are divided as to whether the ills we have are easier to be borne than those we know not of. But there is a spark of hope dan down in the breast of every man, however long his face, and the glory and comfort of being back in the Union may, in some mysterious manner, rob the ceming day of its sting, and turn to our ultimate advantage our every apparent danger. Certain it is that the North will be more inclined to trust South Carolina, "the State," than South Carolina, "the Military District," and money, if it will not heal our wounded pride, will so strengthen our pocket-nerve that we may await calmly the coming of the second deluge. The philosophy of necessity will be our best friend, and if we are to be the shuttlecooks of fortune we will rise and fall as gracefully as we may. Naught shall kill our confidence in ourselves and in our race. Naught can rob us of the glories and honors of bygone years. Naught shall make us doubt that there is yet in store for us a happy and prosperous future.

HOW SHALL WE PAINT OUR HOUSES. A Popular Treatise on the Art of House Painting, Plain and Decorative. By John W. Masury. New York: D. Appleton & Co. Charleston: John

This little work treats of the whole mys tery of house decoration by painting, leading the reader from an explanation of the nature, composition and mode of producing paints and colors, to a consideration of the laws of their harmonious combination and arrangement. It cannot fail to be valuable to painters themselves, and it is of equal interest to those who desire to speak understandingly in ordering work to be done. The book contains many practical and judicious suggestions, and will be of particular use to persons living at a distance from degree dependent, in these matters of painting, on their own taste and ingenuity.

HOLIDAYS AT ROSELANDS. A Sequel to Elsi Dinamore, by Martha Farquharson, Author of Mysie's Work, Allan's Fault, &c. Now York: M. W. Dodd, 506 Broadway. 1868. Charleston: Holmes' Book House.

This is intended for the edification young girls and boys, and will be peculiarly attractive to all persons who believe that children seven years old love moral tales better than candy, and obedience to their parents better than dolls and pretty pictures. The book is not well written. The "darkey" talk is astonishing. The heroine,-the precocious Elsie,-is stuffy and priggish in all that she says, and mulishly bstinate in the belief that she knows "what's what" better than her father or any other man. Such are not to our taste. CHARLES DICKENS.

D. APPLETON & Co. have published the first volume of their library edition of the works of Charles Dickens, which will be completed in six volumes. The first volume contains Pickwick Papers, Barnaby Rudge and Sketches by Boz, and is illustrated with designs by GEORGE CRUIKSHANK, JOHN LEECH and H. K. BROWNE. It is clearly printed and handsomely bound, and is sold at $1.75 per volume or $10.50 for the complete set. For sale in Charleston by John Russell.

THE SPANISH CONQUEST IN AMERICA, AND ITS RELATION TO THE HEROTO OF SLAVERY AND TO THE GOVERNMENT OF THE COLONIES. By Ar-thur Helps. Volume IV. New York: Har-per & Bros. Charleston: Holmes' Book House.

This is the concluding volume of Mr HELPS' well known history, and is not wanting in the characteristics which have attracted attention to its predecessors. 'In closing what has evidently been a labor of love, Mr. HELPS says:

love, Mr. Helps says:

He who has attempted to write a history of the Spanish conquest may well look back with astorishment at the temerity which led him to undertake such a task, and with thankfulness at having been permitted in any way to bring his work to a completion—a privilege which literature laments to have been demed to so many of her worthiest sons. The subject of the history is, in its main outlines, unique. The triumphant march of Alexander, the rise and fall of Rome, the unintended conquest of British India, afford narratives to which the world will ever listen. But these have their parallels, and something like them may occur again. That one half of the globe should remain for ages ignorant of the existence of the other; that it should then be led by the insight and indomitable perseverance of one man to discover this long concealed hemisphere; and that, in the short period of fifty or sixty years, the larger part of this New World should be subdued by a handful of men from the Old World, form a narrative of vast ends accomplished by the most scanty means, the like of which is not to be found in other annals. It is a tale which tells of deeds that no longer admit of imitation; which describes warfar resembling some strange, unequal comflict in fable or mythology, rather than the ordinary encounters of mortal men; and which, in the unrivalled nature of its picturesque and romantic incidents, lives only in the marvellous records of Spanish discovery, conquest and colonization.

WE PRINT this morning a full abstract of two letters which have been received by General HARRISON, containing a graphic but faithful account, of the vast wealth of the border counties of South Carolina and the line of the Blue Ridge Railroad. The facts stated may seem incredible to those who do not know the region which they describe, and they will be surprising to many who have believed that they were well acquainted with our mineral and agricultural resources. Every word may, however, be relied on as the simple, straightforward truth. There is every reason to believe that the Blue Ridge Railroad will be completed during General Scorr's term of office, and we are glad to see indications that the State is once more alive to the importance of that vast undertaking.

IT is a characteristic circumstance that the first point raised by the Arkansas delegation after their admission to Congress, taking their seats. The eternal dollar i chase they never faint or tire.

Special attention is asked to the Practical. Its rules and analyses are free from unnecessary words:
its methods are the shortest possible. Above all, it is adapted to the present state of things. During is adapted to the present state of things. During the last five years, specie payments have been suppended, prices have doubled, the tariff has been altered, a national tax levied, &c. Our book recognizes all these changes, AND IT IS THE ONLY ONE THAT DOES—the only Arithmetic that describes the different classes of United States Securities, and shows how to find the comparative results of investments in them. Used in the Public Schools of New York, Brooklyn, Albany, Jersey City, &c., and giving the highest satisfaction. No progressive teacher can afford to use any other.

Clear, well condensed, and consistent throughout; brief in its rules and definitions; happy in its illustrations; practical in its application of principles; inductive and philosophical in its arrangement; original in its views; bold in its reforms; every way adapted to the schoolroom; interesting to the pupil; labor-saving to the teacher; full and ingenious in its explanations of perplexing constructions; makes the learning of Grammar casy; makes the teaching of Grammar a rositter pleasure. Such is the verdict pronounced on Quackenhoe' Grammar by our best educators. Hosts of recommendations published in our Circular.

SHCROFT'S LOW WATER DETECTOR PREVENTS THE EXPLOSION OR BURNING OUT OF STEAM BOILERS.

THE PRIME CAUSE OF STEAM BOILER EX PLOSIONS ARISES FROM A DEFICIENCY OF WATER IN THE BOILER WHILE IN ACTION.

EXPLOSIONS FROM DEFICIENCY OF WATER.

Low water in steam boilers is no unusual occurrence. Imminent danger frequently arises from this cause, and it cannot be too forcibly improssed upon the minds of engineers, that there is no part of the apparatus constituting the mountings of a boiler which requires greater attention than that which supplies it with water. In a properly constructed boiler every part of the metal exposed to the action of the fire should be in immediate contact with the water, and when proppy provision is made to maintain the water at a sufficient height above the parts so exposed, accidents can never occur from this cause. Should the water, however, get low from defects in the pump, and the surface over the fire become overheated, then, even at the ordinary working pressure, there is great danger of an explosion. There is no occasion, under such circumstances, to search further for the cause of explosion, from the fact that the material, when overheated to a certain degree loses about five-sixths of its strength, and is, therefore, unable to resist the internal pressure. When a boiler becomes short of water, the first thing usually done is to put the feed pump in action; this certain remedies the deficiency, but increases the EXPLOSIONS FROM DEFICIENCY OF WATER. y done is to put the feed pump in action; this cor zinly remedies the deficiency, but increases the langer, and may lead to the explosion of the boiler Ashcroft's Low Water Detector

Is eminently fitted to guard against accidents caused by low water. It needs not the care or attention of the engineer or fireman to keep it in order. Operating by the force of natural laws, it takes care of itself, and is only called into action by the fall of the water below any fixed level, and then it gives the alarm to all within sound of the whistle of a deficient supply of water. clent apply of water.

It stands as a watchful monitor over the magazine of power on which it is placed, and not only guards it, but notifies the attendant, If he is forgetful or egligent of his duty. JOHN F. TAYLOR & CO., Agents.
