NEWS SUMMARY.

Go'd at New York, closed steady at 44. -The New York cotton market closed dull, heavy and lower; sales 650 bales at 25c. -At Liverpool the article continued to decline; uplands 9fa10d, Orleans 10fa10fd. -Letters from Florida say that a number of farmers are preparing to plant tobacco crops next year, instead of cotton. -One cattle ranche in Texas is fitty miles i extent the number of head is 100,000, and 20,000 are sent to market every year-enough to supply the New York market six weeks.

-Chicago has been inculging in another census, and solemnly declares its population to number 240,044 an increase in two years of about 30,000.

-The case of Enoch Arden has been in Holyoke, Massachus tts. William E. Marsh, of that town, has been missing and unheard of since 1862. He suddenly appeared, without warning, last week, to find that his brother William, having been divorced from his former wife, had married William's supposed widow a vear or more ago.

-There are six hundred immense trees in the Mariposa region of California, of which the largest is one hundred and two feet in circumference. The average height of these trees is short two hundred and fifty feet, and many of them approaching (but only three or four ex ceed) one hundred feet in circumference, Their age is calculated to be about one thousand years.

The Chinese Embassy thought Bunker Hill monument a big thing. On being told that Fanny Ellsler put on the top stone they were anxious to learn how she got it up. Joe Cose, Esq., a member of the Association, said she whirted it up on a pirouette. Ting, Fum and Oolong looked unutterable surprise, and upon getting to a quiet corner simultaneously put their thumbs to their respective noses in a ignificant manner.

-The New York Financial Chronicle, of Saturday, says: "Trade generally shows an improving tendency, though remarkably devoid of speculative spirit, and prices in many particulars showing a declining tendency. Holders having been looking forward to the present period as one affording an opportunity to reduce stocks, they have been able to effect liberal sales, and where, in order to stimulate business, they have found it necessary to drop prices a little, they have not hesitated to do

-A new coupling of railroad cars has been invented which dispenses entirely with the accessity of a hand between the cars to fasten it. The mere pressure of the cars together is sufficient to fasten it securely. But the greatest advantage of the new coupler is that it unfastens itself if the engine or any car should be turned or thrown off the track. A deviation from the track of fifteen degrees instantly uncouples it and prevents the possibility of the whole train being thrown off at the

-A destructive whirlwind, partaking of a meteoric character, is stated to have occurred in Italy on August 17th. It overturned houses, nd covered the road, at the place where it was observed, to an extent of one thousand tree hundred feet, with the trunks of uprooted trees. The cloud was in the form of an immense cone of a dark gray color, with a luminous base. From its upper part issued a smoke similar to that of a locomotive. The whole was about thirty-three feet in width, and moved at about ten feet from the ground, making a sharp noise. It revolved in various directions and advanced spirally.

A letter-writer, who has had a talk with U. S. G. at his home in Illinois, writes: "Of his relection General Grant entertains no doubt. We gathered from his conversation that his ons are as much the result of his fine inthe popular mind—as of what he hears from "his political friends. "Yes,' said he, 'if I thought I could serve the country as well in my present station as in the Presidential chair, I should care nothing for an election. To give up the place as general is a sacrifice. It suits me; I am grateful that it was given to me; it is gratifying to one's ambition. But it seemed to be necessary for me to run as the candidate of those who put down the rebellion, and so I am in the field. I suppose that no man can do I ust what he wants to, and there stop. Being a candidate, I want to win of course."

-Among the considerable number of scientific foreigners attending the British association for the advancement of science, is Professor Zenger, of Prague, who has come over purposely to exhibit a new automatical telegraphic apparatus, which is likely to excite a great deal of attention. The object of the instrument is to secure correctness in the telegraph signs by mechanical means, the signs Being made quite independent of the hand of the telegraphist. No change in the management of the Morse apparatus is required beyoud the removal of the key and the substitution of the automatical apparatus. There is only a uniform movement of three levers, which will produce three distinct signs (and can produce no others), whose relations to one, two, three, will give thirty-eight combinations, a number greater than is required to telegraph all letters and reulies. The dispatches will be come one-third shorter than usual, and nearly half the time in transmission will be saved, as the uniform and simultaneous movement of the levers will secure a more rapid manipula-

-The Macon Telegraph, of the 12th, says. "The extraordinary and rapid decline in the price of cotton is having a most depressing effect upon business in this city. As an instance, we mention the fact that a prominent dealer in groceries and Western produce stated to us yesterday that he had lost trade to the amount of fully five thousand dollars the past week, owing to the fact that planters were storing their cotton instead of selling it as. readily as they expected to do when they got here. The few bales thrown upon the market thus far was for the purpose of realizing a little ready money on the part of planters, without having to pay a heavy interest on the amount required by borrowing and bonding their cotton. They prefer to sell at a sacrifice a few bales to put money in their hands, rather than borrow and take the chances of getting n nine cases out of ten those was pursue such a course save money by it. Storage, commission, interest, loss in the exent that prices do not rally, all strengthen the argument that if a planter must have a little ready money it is it, and relieve himself of all further trouble, than to bond it. This is an important question to planters, and one which we know is now receiving much attention from them. Their failure to realize the price which it was confidently and generally believed they would get for cotton, is greatly depressing business and but few planters are buying anything which they can possibly do without. To what point the price of cotton will decline this season we do not know; but it does seem to us that it cannot go much lower than present figures. When the reaction does come, as come it must (if planters who are able to hold their cotton will do so), we shall see such a reaction as will brighten the eve of every planer in the South, and cause such an increase and activity in business circles as has not been witnessed for years. Only be patient and abide your time, planters and merchants. The good time is coming, sure as you are born."

CHARLESTON.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 16, 1886 For Prendent HORATIO SEYMOUR For Vice-President FRANCIS P. BLAIR.

The Result in Maine.

The Radical triumph in Maine, for reasons that have already been explained in these columns, was not unexpected. But while it affords no good ground for discouragement to our friends, it undoubtedly eaches a lesson which it were well that many amongst us, who have been animated of late with somewhat too rash a confidence. should learn in time. The contest before us in November will be no child's play. We believe that SEYMOUR and BLAIR will win; but it will be only by dint of the earnest, combined and persistent efforts of individual Democrats throughout the land. The interests at stake are those which most nearly concern a people, and let no man for a moment lose sight of the fact that the great struggle may be lost or won by a sin-

And now a word to the people of our own State. In every Northern estimate (whether Radical or Democratic) of the result of the approaching Presidential contest, we find that, while most of the Southern States are set down as more or less doubtful, it is invariably assumed that the electoral votes of South Carolina will be cast for GRANT. Will the Democracy of this State, white and colored, suffer the fact to verify this impudent assumption? A result so mortifying can be prevented; and if every Democrat within our borders does his whole duty boldly and well, it will be prevented. The party organization is now, we believe, pretty thorough and complete. But work will be required-hard, constant and unflinching WORK. The State must be saved. It may be that the six votes of South Carolina will turn the scale of victory. What say you, friends? Is there a man among you who will shrink from duty in the heat of this great conflict?

The South American Earthquake.

The recent earthquake in Peru is the most disastrous that has happened since the destruction of Caraccas in 1812. The figures are startling. A score of cities destroyed; six hundred persons drowned in one place by a tidal wave; fifty thousand lives lost; and half a million persons without homes or shelter! The thing would seem almost incredible, were it not for the well authenticated fact that earthquakes have occurred in various parts of the world which have been attended with far greater disaster. The City of Antioch in Syria, on the east coast of the Mediterranean, was destroyed by an earthquake May 30, A. D. 205; and two hundred and fifty thousand of its inhabitants perished. In 1692, an earthquake occurred in Sicily, by which Cateria and one hundred and forty other towns and villages were destroyed, with a loss of one hundred thousand lives. In 1755, Lisbon was almost entirely destroyed by an earthquake which lasted only six minutes, and sixty thousand persons were drowned by the inundation of the sea, crushed by the falling walls, or swallowed up in the great chasms which opened in the arth. In 1759, an earthquake convulsed ten thousand square leagues of land in Syria, destroying the cities of Damascus. Sidon, Tripoli, Balbec, Acon and Gaphat, and occasioning immense loss of life, including twenty thousand persons swallowed up in a single valley. In 1812, the City of Caraccas, the capital of Venezuela, and one of the handsomest and most flourishing cities of South America, was visited by an earthquake, which laid the greater part of the city in ruins and destroyed twelve thousand people.

The earthquake seems to have extended north and south over a larger territory than any of those previously recorded, reaching from New Grenada to the Straits of Magellan, or from the equator to 50° south latitude. From east to west the extent was comparatively small, averaging about one hundred miles. It covered the whole region known as the Pacific slope of South America, including the mountain range of the Andes and the narrow strip of territory lying between them and the Pacific Ocean. Quito, the largest and most generally known of the cities which have suffered, is the capital of Ecuador, situated in a mountain ravine ninety-five hundred feet above the level of the sea. Its population was variously estimated at from fifty to seventy thousand. It was well built, and contained many handsome edifices, among which were the cathedral, the town hall, the palaces of the archbishop and president, and the Jesuit's college. It also contained some large manufactories, and carried on a considerable trade in breadstuffs. It has often suffered from earthquakes, but never before to so great an extent. Arequips, the city which seems to have suffered most by this dreadful calamity, is the capital of the province of the same name. It is said to have been the most beautifully situated and best built city in THEADAILY NEWS, better prices for their cotton. We honestly South America: On a high table land believe such is the wisest and best policy, and on the river Chili, forty miles from the Pacific, and elevated seven thousand eight hundred and fifty feet above the sea, it possessed a delightful climate. The population was estimated at thirty-five thousand. best to sell a portion of his cotton to get It had been destroyed in whole or in great part by earthquakes, on four previous occasions, and, indeed, the whole region affected by the late earthquake has suffered in the same way many times before. On one occasion, the seashore was permanently elevated five or six feet above its former level. Arica, another of the places mentioned by the telegraph, is situated in the province of Moquegua, two hundred miles south of Arequipa. It is one of the principal maritime towns of Peru, and the port through which most of the trade of Bolivia is carried on. It was once a very flourishing place, numbering over thirty thousand inhabitants; but it is now reduced to three thousand five hundred. The Chincha Islands, which are also mentioned as being visited by this earthquake, are the celebrated guano islands of Peru, about as far northwest of Arequipa as Arica is south of it. They are three small islands, neither extending more than a mile in any direction, and having no inhabitants except the laborers employed in digging the guano and loading the vessels.

The entire region devastated by this terrific convulsion is traversed by lofty mountain ranges, its rivers are huge mountain torrents, headlong and angry, its valleys often only the narrow bottoms of huge chasms in the mountains, and its high table lands, with their productive soil and glorious climate, would be the most attractive spots on earth, if it were not for these same direful visitations to which they are subject at irregular periods. The people are principally descendants of the Spaniards and nearly all Catholics. Their educational facilities for the commonalty are limited; but they possess colleges at which the wealthy can obtain a good classical education. The silver mines and the manfactures of wool and silk, are the chief sources of employment; but the masses of the people are not very industrious, their character being sensibly affected by the peculiarities of the country in which they live.

It is a consolation, in reading of this heartrending calamity, to reflect that our country is almost entirely exempt from such catastrophes. It is pleasant to know, that although scarcely a month passes without an earthquake occurring in some part of the world, yet during the three centuries since the discovery of America, no earthquake resulting in serious loss of life has occurred in any part of the territory covered by the United States.

A good newspaper should be in every household. No family should be without the means of knowing and understanding the events that are daily occurring in the world. Especially now, when political issues involving the peace and order of communities, and affecting to a very great degree our social and material future. are before the country, it is a duty which every man owes his family to give them the means of a thorough education in concurrent history. THE TRI-WEEKLY NEWS is the best paper for country readers that is published in the Southern States. It contains a full summary of all the news, its editorial columns are filled with the most instructive matter, and in all its departments it is fresh, sprightly and attractive. The terms of subscription are so low as to out it within the reach of all. It is the cheapest as well as the best paper in the Sows currous statistician has ascertained the fact that the whole expenditures of the government, from the day GEORGE WASH-INGTON took his seat down to the time LIN-COLN was inaugurated as President, amounted to less than fourteen hundred million dollars; while the expenditures since the Radicals have been in power amount to the enormous sum of nineteen hundred millions. The taxpayers will not forget this.

QUACKENBOS' GRAMMARS:

50 cents. Clear, well condensed, and consistent throughout; brief in its rules and definitions; happy in its illustrations; practical in its application of principles; aductive and philosophical in its arrangement; original in its views; bold in its reforms; every way adapted to the schoolroom; interesting to the pupil; labor-saving to the teacher; full and ingenious in its explanations of perplexing constructions; makes the learning of Grammar easy; makes the teaching of learning of Grammar easy; makes the teaching of Grammar a POSITITE PLEASURE. Such is the verdict pronounced on Quackenbos' Grammar by our best educators. Hosts of recommendations published in D. APPLETON & CO...

THE KEOWEE COURIER, PUBLISHED IN WALHALLA, S. C., BY ROBERT

YOUNG & CO.
WHITNER SYMMES, Editor; ROBERT YOUNG, WHITNER SYMMES, Editor; ROBERT YOUNG, Publisher.

THE COURIER, published at the terminus of the Blue Ridge Railroad, and surrounded by the abundant and fertile counties of North Carolina and Georgia, affords a superior advertising medium for the merchants of Charleston and Columbia. The fall trade before us promises immense shipments from this depot of every kind of produce. The proprietors devote their time and energy to promote the enterprise and resources of the State, and to maintain the supremacy of the white race.

Manor's Droclamation.

PROCLAMATION. By GEORGE W. CLARK, Mayor of Charleston.

CHARLESTON, S. C., August 18, 1868. Believing it the sincere desire of every individua in this community to assist in preserving the public peace, and maintaining the dignity of the laws; feeling, in the political excitement now pervading all classes of our people, that through a single act of violence, ccident or otherwise, we may be over whelmed in a deplorab e breach of law and order-I, GEORGE W. CLARK, Mayor of the city afore said, do call upon all good citizens to abstain as far as possible from all public demonstrations of a noisy or riotous nature. Let each one regard himself as answerable to the public for the good conduct of all. Let no one, in the exercise of liberty, do that against the law which will by law deprive him of his liberty. The public peace must and shall be preserved.

Given under my hand, and the seal of the cit-[L. s.] the date and year above mentioned. GEORGE W. CLARK, Mayor. August 20
