NEWS SUMMARY.

A man is on trial in Cincinnati for forging street car tickets. Laborers in California are plentiful than work, and destitution is feared the coming winter.

The meanest thing out—counterfeiting nickel cents—which is practiced upon an extensive scale in St. Louis.

Rev. Mr. Panahon, the eloquent English pulpit orator, has been offered $1500 in gold to lecture six times in Boston.

Russia prohibits homeopathic physicians practicing in her dominions, under penalty of a fine and two years in Siberia.

Trade is still reported as very dull and unsatisfactory in England. The expected revival this fall has not taken place.

Dressmakers are now introducing reversible dresses. The idea is borrowed, the tailors having designed reversible overcoats several years since.

The Countess of Castiglione is among the passengers by the Ville de Paris, at New York, from Europe; also Mlle de Grange and the Ravel family.

The North German bark Clara, Captain Robt., from Bremen, arrived at Baltimore on Thursday, having on board some two hundred steerage passengers, all in good health.

There is a lady in Maine, aged eighty-seven, who has twelve children, ninety-two grand-children, one hundred and nineteen great-grand-children, and eight great-great-grand-children.

The Radicals begin to despair of Ohio. "An eminent Republican statesman" writes privately to the Tribune from that State that he is "not without apprehensions that we shall lose some members of Congress, and that our State vote will be diminished."

The Radicals give up Missouri. The registers sweep everybody who take the oath, and the Democrats register more votes this year than ever before.

The Radicals are incensed because the registers do their duty. The Hannibal Courier (Radical) gives up the State "to the Democrats by 20,000."

The impression of a number of persons who have recently visited Utah is that the Mormons will soon break up, and that Brigham Young, who is worth some millions of dollars, will go to some other clime, where he can enjoy his wealth and the society of his favorite wives.

General Gates, an old and well-known United States army officer, died in New York on Wednesday, in the eightieth year of his age. He served in the Florida war, and will be remembered as the captor of the famous Indian chief, Osceola. He also served with distinction in the subsequent war with Mexico.

A correspondent of the New York Sun intimates that Artemus Ward's will, disposing of a large amount of property in England, was a joke, and that he left no such property. If this be so, it is a sufficient vindication of the English executors, who have had to suffer much abuse for not giving an account of their proceedings under the will.

The designs for our new postage stamps are described as very beautiful. The two cent stamp has for a vignette a mail-carrier on horseback; the three cent, a mail train under steam; the five cent retains the miniature of Washington; the ten cent has a copy of the Signing of the Declaration, from Trumbull's painting in the rotunda of the capitol; and the thirty cent a surrender scene from the same artist, familiar to all readers of the history of the Revolution.

The National Unitarian Convention met in New York on Wednesday, and was largely attended, principally by delegates from the New England States, including many ladies, who were allowed to vote upon all questions coming up. Hon. T. D. Elliot, of New Bedford, Mass., presided. He made the opening address, extending to all associations of the Unitarian faith a hearty welcome, and soliciting their cooperation in all measures looking to the promotion of their organization.

The subject of another meeting of Congress on the 16th of this month, in accordance with the resolution adopted in September, is beginning to engage attention in Washington. The general opinion seems to be that a quorum will be had this month, but that a quorum will be here on the 10th prox., and general legislative business transacted. Should this prove correct, there is every probability that Congress will remain together until the regular meeting in December. Senators Trumbull and Fowler take this view of the probabilities.

The reported contemplated marriage of Mr. Seward has excited considerable interest in fashionable and diplomatic circles at Washington, and many inquiries are made as to the name of the lady who is to be honored by the Secretary. Some of the intimate friends of Mr. Seward deny the report, but without authority. Rumor has it that there is some truth in it, and that Miss Olivia Risley, daughter of H. A. Risley, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, will be the future wife of the Secretary, if he should perpetrate matrimony. She is a highly accomplished lady, of about twenty-eight years of age, and the warmest friendship has existed for years between the Risleys and the family of Mr. Seward, which probably gave rise to the project.

The speech of Hon. Reverdy Johnson to the corporation of Leeds is briefly but pointed in its direction. He alluded feelingly to the mutual dependence of America and England, and the ties of consanguinity which bind together the two countries. "Our dispositions," said Mr. Johnson, "are the same, our religion is the same, and above all, as the means by which the others are bound together, our language is the same. That language, wherever spoken, whether spoken by an Englishman to an American or by an American to an Englishman, creates at once feelings of brotherhood; and, speaking from personal experience, from the moment I put my foot on your shores—not for the first time—I felt that, although in one sense a foreigner, I was not a stranger. The shake of the hand reminds me of home; the kindness with "which I am met reminds me of home; the personal similarity I see around me reminds me of home; and, above all, your feelings and sentiments of political liberty, which lie so deeply and so firmly as the foundation upon which your government rests, remind me of home." The few differences now existing he thought to be unimportant, because an amicable adjustment could be effected without tarnishing the honor of either nation.

CHARLESTON.

MONDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 12, 1868.

For President.....HORATIO SEYMOUR.

For Vice-President.....FRANCIS P. BLAIR.

What We Have to Do.

At present it seems probable that at the elections which take place to-morrow, Ohio will be carried by the Radicals and Indiana and Pennsylvania by the Democrats. "As Pennsylvania goes so goes the Union," and an estimate of the probable vote will show what is the work before us. Fourteen New England and Western States, including Ohio and Illinois, which gave Republican majorities at the last elections, will, in all probability, go solidly for GRANT and COLFAX. To them we may add, of the Southern States, Florida, Missouri, South Carolina, Tennessee and West Virginia. On the other side, we give to SEYMOUR and BLAIR the votes of six States which elected the Democratic candidates at the last elections, and add to these the vote of Pennsylvania, Indiana, Nebraska and Kansas, as well as of Maryland, Kentucky, and five other Southern States. The total electoral vote, excluding the States of Virginia, Mississippi and Texas, is 294, and 148 votes are necessary to an election. According to the division we have made, the result will be as follows:

Table with 3 columns: For Seymour, For Grant, Total. Lists various states and their electoral votes.

This is taking the least encouraging estimate, and it shows a majority of sixteen for SEYMOUR—seven votes more than are necessary for an election. But there is some danger of our defeat in Alabama and Louisiana, and the vote of either State against Mr. SEYMOUR would give the election to GRANT. If South Carolina, however, be carried by the Democracy, the position of our candidate will be wonderfully strengthened, and it is certainly within the limits of possibility that this one small State may decide the Presidential election.

Estimates at this time possess, of course, no positive value. Facts are the safest test; but it is not all speculation to say that the vote will be close, and that the action of South Carolina may decide the struggle. This should be enough to encourage our clubs to exert themselves to the utmost in confirming the doubtful and drumming up recruits. The old political adage may be changed, and "as South Carolina goes" so may go the election. Hard work, and hard reasoning, with white men and freedmen, for one month, may enable the Democrats to carry the State, and, if the worst comes to the worst, we shall at least have done our duty.

The Death of Hon. Howell Cobb.

The Hon. HOWELL COBB, whose sudden death in New York has been announced by telegraph, was only second to Mr. STEPHENS in prominence among the eminent men whom Georgia has given to the councils of the nation. Mr. Cobb was born in Jefferson County, Georgia, in 1815, and was educated at Franklin College. He was admitted to the Bar in 1836, and six years later was chosen as a representative in Congress, where he served for four consecutive terms. In 1848 he rose to the Speakership of the House, a dignity which he had won not less by his generous nature and disposition to fairness than by his admitted excellence as a presiding officer. At the close of his term he was elected Governor of Georgia. In 1855 he was again elected to Congress, and on the accession of Mr. BUCHANAN to the Presidency Governor Cobb went into his Cabinet as Secretary of the Treasury. Most of our readers are doubtless familiar with the prominent part borne by Mr. Cobb in the Confederate struggle, as well in its military as in its civil aspects. His whole life was devoted to the service of the State and people from whom he had received so many marks of confidence and approval; and it was while engaged in a mission to promote the welfare of that people that he met his untimely death.

The National Debt.

The Democratic papers of the North are just now making most effective use of a letter written by the Hon. ROBERT J. WALKER on the subject of the public debt. He shows that the annual expenditures of the Federal Government have been increased "over forty-six millions of dollars ($46,056,550)" by an augmentation to that extent of the "yearly interest (in currency) of the public debt since April 30, 1865." He admits that there may have been possibly "a small reduction of the public debt last month; but this reduction, if made, will be in "debts bearing mainly no interest, or in "war claims withheld, whilst the debt bearing 'ing coin interest will be augmented." These statements may seem of little interest to the Southern reader, whose attention is absorbed by problems that more immediately concern the prosperity of the Southern communities; but the conclusions of Mr. WALKER link together with logical
