CHARLESTON.

FRIDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 4, 1868.

The Daily News-The Cash System.

When the price of THE DAILY NEWS Was reduced to six dollars a year, we resolved to insist upon the payment of subscriptions in advance. This rule was immediately applied to our mail subscribers, and at this time we have not a subscriber, outside of Charleston, who has not paid in advance the price of his subscription. We gave no credit, and the paper was invariably stopped when the term for which payment had been made expired. The experience of the past year has confirmed our belief that the cash system is the only plan ur n which a paper can be conducted with safety and success, and we have therefore determined to apply that system uniformly to our subscribers in Charleston.

On the 15th instant, all papers for which the subscription price has not been paid will be stopped without further notice, and from that date no paper will be delivered after the expiration of the time for which payment has been

In order to accommodate persons who may be unprepared to pay the subscription in advance, we have made arrangements to deliver Tue News within the city limits at fifteen cents a week, instead of eighteen cents as heretofore, payment to be made weekly. This reduction of the weekly rates will go into effect on the 15th inst. Orders from weekly subscribers will be received at this office, or at the bookstore of Mr. C. C. Bighter, No. 161 King-street.

The Removal of Political Disabilities.

We print this morning a concurrent reso lution introduced in the House of Representatives on Tuesday, memorializing Congress for the removal of political disabilities from all the citizens of South Carolina now laboring under them. This resolution was referred to the Committee on Political Disabilities, with instructions to report as quickly as possible. The passage of such a resolution could not fail to have a happy effect both in and out of the State. It would go far to convince the Democracy that the present Legislature does not intend to pursue a proscriptive and vindictive policy; it would promote good will and harmony, and it would be a proof that faith has been reposed in the declaration of General Hampton and his colleagues that the white people of the State will yield a willing obedience to the constitution and the laws, relying on the peaceful exercise of their right of suffrage to change such features of the present government as are objectionable to them. And outside of the State it would be an evidence that, although there may be sporadic instances of disorder and lawlessness, the from turmoil and dauger as any State in wisely recommends that Congress be petibilities in this State, and every thinking member of either branch of the General Assembly must concur with him in believing such a measure to be just, expedient and necessary. We have not in this State more brain, more purity, more official knowledge than we need, and the whole people would be the gainers if that ban were removed which new excludes so many of our best and ablest citizens from holding public

The reconstruction constitution of South Carolina is more liberal in regard to the suffrage question than that of any other Southern State. Let South Carolina be the first State of the South to appeal to the Congress of the United States for the removal of the political disabilities of all her

Hard Money.

It is rather difficult to tell, perhaps, where "loyalty" leaves off and "rebellion" begins: tricts, he may be sure that he will receive but we may, at least, be permitted to make a handsome return from his investment. public our love of "hard money" without awakening the suspicion that we are insufficiently reconstructed.

Our good friends in the Northern States, who sometimes seem disposed to kill us with kindness, and a moment later are willing to encompass us about with another hedge of iron, can endure the pictorial greenback with a cool equanimity which in these parts is unknown. They miss the chink of coin and the solid charms of very mother returned home at night it was dead. hard cash; but the departed dollars have The girl was arrested, and the coroner's jury left many a limp representative, and the fortunes of ante-bellum days have been doubled and trobled and quadrupled. The men of Gotham who possess ten dollars in paper for their one dollar in coin, may smile at the ups and downs of specie; but we poor Southern people, who find the greenback infinitely less plentiful than the hard money used to be, are very urgent in our desire to make the most of our little portable prop-

> And in saying this, we must not be under stood to mean that the South is ence more attempting to rule this glorious Union. The Union must rule itself for the present, as far as we are concerned; and if we raise our small voice in support of the thunder of the North, it is only because the resumption of specie payments is necessary to the prosperity of those Southern States, without whose help-and modestly we say itthe great West and North cannot prevent such a drain of specie to Europe as would soon end in bankruptcy or the extinction of foreign trade.

We do not flatter ourselves with the belief that the resumption of specie payments

THE DAILY NEWS. will not go to the upper house, as yet at least, prices of ten years ago; nor do we presume the ready money we need. Chickens might never again be sold at ten cents, nor Havana digars at twenty dollars a thousand, yet there would be a reduction in the cost of living and in the expense of conducting every branch of business. And there would be a greater advantage than this in the economy which is taught by the use of solid realities in the place of flimsy abstractions. As Confederate money went down, prices went up. It was of no use to save the money and of little use to spend it, and in nearly every walk of life a dollar was only made to do the work of the ante-bellum dime. This had become a confirmed habit, when there was no hope of the fulfilment of the promises to pay "three months after the ratifi-"cation of a treaty of peace between the "Confederate States and the United States;" and, whatever our poverty, it clings to us still. We pay in the South, in fees and gratuities of all kinds, four or five times as much as is paid on like occasions in the neighborhood of Plymouth Rock. This is because one piece of paper seems as good as another, and because twenty-five cents in fractional currency looks infinitely less than two fifths of that sum in specie. We are not in the habit of looking after the pennies-miserable sinners that we are We have but little faith in the nimble paper sixpence-to our shame be it said! We pay away five cents as an eleemosynary contribution where one cent would suffice-and think no worse of ourselves for doing it!

This is a sad condition of things; but we bare our breasts and confess all our wrongdoing, confident always that the Magnificoes of the States to the North of us will, for their own sweet sakes, help us to do viclence to ourselves. Hard money is what we want. That will make us eager to earn and loth to spend; that will make us value what we have and desire what we have not; that will make us see to it that one dollar does the work of a dozen instead of a dozen dollars doing the work of one. That will make the South grow rapidly rich, and if the North-does determine to gobble us up and absorb our little all, it will at least be more worthy of acceptance. At one moment it seemed that our neighbors were determined to kill the goose that laid three million bales of cotton yearly; but the spirit is changed now, and the South is once in a while patted on the head, instead of being eternally pricked in the back with a bayonet. By sending our cotton to Europe we can obtain gold for it, but we want hard money to be the general circulating medium; and philanthropy should teach Congress, when it touches the question of finance, to give to the country that solid cash which is essential to the general safety, and is truly indispensable to the economical prosperity of the Southern States.

Looking Up.

The prices of all kinds of stocks and bonds in this city are tending upward; and we refer to this circumstance, not so much on account of the extent of the business which has been done during the past few days, as because the rise indicates that the belief is gaining ground that the darkest days are over, and we are on the threshold, at last, of brighter and better times. In State securities, the advance has been singularly rapid. Old State bonds, which sold on November 5 at about 57, and a week instances of disorder and lawlessness, the State at large is as quiet and secure, as free from turmoil and dauger as any State in from 52 to 57, and State stock from 50 to 60. State Bills Receivable, issued by the new tioned for the removal of all political disamonths ago, but now they sell at the same price as those which were issued under the old regime. These Bills Receivable were offered at 70 and 72 four weeks ago, and they were sold yesterday at 90. This advance in State securities and bills is, we presume, based upon the confidence which is felt that our public credit will be sustained, and that South Carolina will soon be in a position to meet all her obligations.

City stock, at about the time of the late Municipal election, was extremely difficult of sale. On November 5 it was nominally about 40. This stock was sold yesterday at 50, and is now called 50@51.

These are encouraging signs, and they will soon be followed by a further improvement in general trade and by a perceptible advance in the value of real estate. No country in the world offers greater advantages to the capitalist than South Carolina, and whether he places his money in the city or in the planting and farming dis-

Our Cotton Exports.

The Agricultural Circular fer November, to be published this week, will contain some facts of considerable interest with respect to cotton. The commissioner has received the trade and navigation returns of Great Britain for the nine months of this year ending with the first of October, and they show that of the whole amount of cotton imported during this period, the United States are credited with fifty-five per cent , while all other countries furnished but forty-five per cent. Schiedam Schnapps.

OFFICE OF UDOLPHO WOLFE, Sole Importer of the Schiedam Aromatic School
No 23 Benver-street. NEW YORK, November 3, 1868.

To the People of the Southern States WHEN THE PURE MEDICINAL RESTORATIVE, now so widely known as WOLFE'S SCHIEDAM SCHNAPPS, was in roduced into the world under the endorsement of four thousand leading member of the medical protession some twenty years ago, it proprietor was well aware that it could not wholly scape the penalty attached to all new and useful preparations. He, therefore, endeavored to invest i with strongest possible safeguard against counter feiters, and to sender all attempts to pirate it difficult and dengerous. It was submitted to distinguished chemists for analysis, and pronounced b them the purest spirit ever manufactured. Its puri ty and properties having been thus ascertained, sar ples of the article were forwarded to ten thousand physicians, including all the leading practitioners in the United States, for purposes of experiment. . circular, requesting a trial of the preparation and a report of the result, accompanied each specimen Four thousand of the most eminent medical men it the Union promptly responded. Their opinions of the article were unanimously favorable. Such preparation, they said, had long been wanted by the profession, as no reliance could be placed on the ordinary liquors of commerce, all of which were more or less adulterated, and therefore unfit for medical purposes. The peculiar excellence and strength of the oi of juniper, which formed one o the 1 rincipal ingredients of the Schnapps, together with an unalloyed character of the alcoholic ele ment, give it, in the estimation of the faculty, a marked superiority over every other diffusive stimu lant as a diure:ic, tonic and restorative. These satisfactory credentials from profession men of the highest rank were published in a con densed form, and enclosed with each bottle of the schnipps, as one of the guarantees of its genuine nees. Other precautions against fraud were als adopted; a patent was obtained for the article, the label was copyrighted, a fac simile of the proprietor's autograph signature was attached to each label and cover, his name and that of the preparation were em cossed on the bottles, and the corks were sealed with his private seal. No article had ever been sold in this country under the name of Schnapps prior t the introduction of Wolfe's Schiedam Aromatic Schnapps, in 1851; and the label was deposited, as his trade mark, in the United States District Cour for the Southern District of New York during tha

It might be supposed by persons unacquainte with the during character of the pirates who prey upon the reputation of honorable merchants by vend ing deleterious trash under their name, that the proections so carefully thrown around these Schnappe would have precluded the introductions and sale of counterfeits. They seem, however, only to have stimulated the rapacity of impostors. The trade mark of the proprietor has been stolen; the indorse ment which his Schiedam Aromatic Schnapps alon received from the medical profession has been claimed by mendacious humbugs; his labels and bottles have been imitated, his advertisements para phrased, his circulars copied, and worse than all, shonorable retailers, after disposing of the genuine contents of his bottles, have filled them up with common gin, the most deleterious of all liquors, and hus made his name and brand a cover for poison.

The public, the medical profession and the sick for whom the Schiedam Aromatic Schnapps is pre scribed as a remedy, are equally intereste! with the proprietor in the detection and suppression of these nefarious practices. The genuine article, manufac Schiedam, Holland, is distilled from a barley of the finest quality, and flavored with an essential extract of the berry of the Italian juriper, of unequalled pu rity. By a process unknown in the preparation of any other liquor, it is treed from every acrimonious physicians and families in the Southern States of the sale of cheap imitations of the Schiedam Aro matic Schnipps in those marke's; and travellers who are in the habit of using it as an antidote to the baneful influence of unwholesome river water, testify that cheap gin, put up in Schiedam bottles, is trequently paimed off upon the unwary. The agents of the undersigned have been requested to institute inquiries on the subject, and to forward to him the names of such parties as they may ascer tain to be engaged in the atrocious system of deception. In conclusion, the undersigned would say that he has produced, from under the hands of the mos distinguished men of science in America, proofs un answerable of the purity and medicinal excellence of the Schiedam Aromatic Schnapps; that against fraudulent imitations: that he has shown it to be the only liquor in the world that can be uni formly depended upon as unadulterated; that he has challenged investigation, analysis, comparison and experiment in all its forms; and from every orden the preparation which bears his name, seal and trade mark, has come off triumphant. He, therefore, feels it a duty he owes to his fellow-cit'z-ns generally, to the medical profession and the sick, to denounce and expose the charlatans who counterfeit these evidencies of identity, and he calls upon the press and the public to aid him in his efforts to remedy so great

I feel bound to say, that I regard your Schnapps as being in every respect pre-eminently pure, and deserving of medical patronage. At all events, it is the purest possible article of Holland Gin, heretotore unobtainable, and as such may be safely prescribed by physicians.

Upolipho Wolffe, Esq., Present:
Dear Sir—I have made a chemical examination of a sample of your Schiedam Schnapps, with the intent of determining if any foreign or injurious substance had been added to the simple distilled spirits. The examination has resulted in the conclusion that the sample contained no poisonous or harmful admixture. I have toen unable to discover any trace of the deleterious substances wich are employed in the additeration of liquors. I would not hesitate to use myself or to recommend to others, for medicinal purposes, the Schiedam Schnapps as an excellent and unobjectionable variety of gin.
