THE COOL SPELL .- The cold weather continues, but fortunately not with unabated vigor. Yesterday morning it moderated consideraby and the ice thawed a little for the first time. In the atternoon there was a slight shower and it was quite cold afterwards, but last night was more endurable than any night since Wednesday. We have had some bitter cold weather it is true, but Savannah seems to have suffered even more. Ice there was seven inches thick, and the water pipes burst from being frozen.

STONE & MURBAY'S CIRCUS.—The circus exhibition this evening promises to surpass everything of the kind heretofore witnessed in Charleston. There is a great variety of performances, and each performance is perfect. Messrs. Stone & Murray have spared no pains or expense, and have shown great skill, not only in selecting their troupe, but also in collecting their horses and material, and in arranging the pl n and details of the'r exhibition. Our Southern and Western exchanges say that it is the very best company that has exhibited in the South since the war, and there can be no doubt that Stone & Murray's circus is as good as the best.

COLUMBIA AND AUGUSTA RAILBOAD .- On Wednesday last, for the first time, trains ran over the Columbia and Augusta Railroad in both directions; from Co.un bia to Graniteville, and from Graniteville to Columbia.

Under this ruling of the court the work will, it is understood, be resumed immediately, and the road pushed through to Augusta with all possible speed."

Rev. W. W. Hicks.-This distinguished pulpit orator preached an elequent sermon yesterday morning, at the Lutheran Church (Rev. Dr. Bachman's) to a full and appreciative congregation. His occusion was "Charlty hopoth all things," and for Learly an hour his hearers lost the mselve in following the nevel arguments and beautiful imagery of the speaker as he presented the phases of a subject that has grown almost backneyed in other hands. In the course of the services the Rev. Dr. Bachman offered up a prayer for the restoration of the zealous young paster to health and strength. This is the first time that Mr. Hicks has preached in many weeks, and it is pleasant evidence that his health is so much recuperated by our climate as to promise a continuance of his career. There are hundreds of people in Charleston now attending no

eloquent ministrations of so gifted a preacher.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CELEBRATION. -The Sunday School celebration at the Second Presbyterian Church last evening was somewhat different in its character from what such celebrations have generally been in Charleston, and in many respects it was a great improvement. It was intended to be a religious colobration of the birth of Christ, and the iden was well carried out in every part of the exercises. The chants, hymns, recitations lessons and prayers all hore special reference to that auspicious event, and were united in with a zeal that indicated true and heartfelt rejoicing. The exercises were opened with prayer by the paster of the church, Rev. Thomas Smythe, D. D. and conducted by the superintendent, R. C. Gilchrist, Esq., aided by the assistant superintendent, Mr. C. N. Averill. The singing was by the children, two hundred in number, led by the choir and accompanied by the organ, under the skillful management of Professor Robinson. The church was so crowded that a number of ladies were compelled to find seats in the galleries, and the celebration was in every respect a success.

THE HORN NUISANCE. - Many citizens of Charleston will concur in the opinion expressed by the Philadelphia Bulletin in regard to the horn nuisance, and will envy the good order preserved in the "City of Brotherly Love." The Bulletin says : the "City of Brotherly Love." The Bulletin says:

The police this morning received very strict instruction upon the subject of horn-blowing upon the streets this evening. The lieutenants were directed to put out an extra force of men, and to have arrested every parson—man, woman and child—who is found in the street blowing a horn. The persons are to be taken before a magistrate and held to bail, and the horns are to be confiscated. The blowing of tin horns is a first-class nuisance, and the Mayor's orders are very stringent.

The Lecture of Rev. A. J. Ryan Last RUSSELL'S BOOK STORE. Night at St. Patrick's Church-He Lectures To-night at the Cathedral.

Since the war there has been no name that has so excited and touched the Southern heart as "Mo n t." retirement to wear the honors won by his pen, his verses had become household words. From the Potomac to the Rio Grande "The Conquered Banne: was at once accepted as the requiem of a nation; and every poem that appeared over the same signature was so replete with regretful love and tender memory for the cause which our people had worshipped, and with heartfelt and outspoken pride in the history of with heartfelt and outspoken pride in the history of the her tic deeds which had been done in its behalf, that "Moina" soon became a tal sman to the Southron's inmost feelings. In every production of his pen there was evinced a spirit too honest to deny the past, too wise to neglect the present, too brave to fear the future. It was this nobleness of nature that breathed through all "Moina's" verses that er a ted love and admiration for the unknown auther. It has now been more than a year since Father Ryan has been known to be the author of the worses agreeating over the name of "Moina."

CONTENT WITH verses appearing over the name of " Moina," real name and title are now uni versally respected, as well for his personal as his literary character. A natural desire to see a man to much respected and beloved exists throughout the South, and Charlestonians enjoyed that pleasure last night for the first time. As well as could be judged by the opportunity then aff rded, Father Ryan is a man of about thirty years of age five feet seven inches in height, is spare made, of tragile form and appearance, his shoulders are sligh ly stooped and indicate a habit of leaning over books His movements are rather quiet, but indicate much firmness and decision. His easy manner exhibits a perfect confidence and strength of character. When he appears before his people, the most listles ob server arouses to a sense that an extraordinary man is before him. His face is long and beardless; his hair is brown, and worn east back from his high broad torehead, and hangs in slight and graceful curls over his shoulders; his eyes are a soft blue, and his brows are high and regularly arched. His mouth has a slight curvature at the corners, is small and of pleasing appearance. His general appearance, as he stands in the chancel, is very leminine, yet giving the impression that he is an intellectual and poetical person of noble and good qualities, The lecture last night was on the divine origin and perpetuity of the Church, and was listened to with marked attention by a large audience. Father Ryan will lecture again to-night at the Cathedral, and on Wednesday next will give poetical readings at Hibernian Hall, which will afford to Protestan and the public generally a good opportunity of sec-
