CHARLESTON.

SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 27, 1869.

The old proverb, "Patient waiting is no loss," may well be pondered by us at the South just now. We need not engage in any rash enterprises. We need not seek for our own with the strong hand. Nor need we, on the other hand, to stoop and truckle to any. Our worth to the country has already been demonstrated. We gave it honor and power by our statesmanship in the past; and our products are needed to restore the balance of trade in the present. What we are worth to the country we may estimate from the thousands of millions it has freely paid to keep us in the Union. The South is its richest investment-worth all the government has expended, and vastly

In their dealings with us, the Republi cans have endeavored to mystify their own record. They wish to abase our self-consciousness. They would fain impress us with the idea that they have no occasion for us, and that we may sink or swim as we please. They have endeavored to create the impression that we are incapable of managing our own local affairs, and have, therefore, assigned to us strangers as rulers, and negroes as equals at the polls. The Republicans are simply playing with the South the game of bluff.

The simple African may not understand the trick, nor the Southern renegade, who for the sake of official position and emolument, has perjured himself; but the true citizens of the South need not fall into the snare "set in their light," nor sell their

The North needs our cotton. And we, for our part, need African subordination to the law of labor and the obligations of contract for its production, and also financial facilities for its transportation. These necessities will be supplied, whether we memorialize Congress or not. We are mercly anticipating the course of events when we pour oil upon Sumuer's broken head, or stuff paper into Drake's capacious pockets. That money and civil order are necessary to restore our industries, is enough to extinguish these baleful meteors. And, as to our local celebrities-Scott and Corbin, Pillsbury and Brisbane-they are doomed, just because they are fighting against latitude and climete, against the laws of Nature and the principles of political economy. with "the stars in their courses." They may alter laws and boundaries, they may villify the State and its peaceful communities, they may intoxicate the ignorant and league together the corrupt; but they cannot blast the air with mildew or the soil with barrenness. They cannot prevent the and heavy snow storms are prevailing there. South from producing or the North from which has so much the air of an autobiography, admits that, under the new system, the cotton culture cannot hold its own. So much the worse for the new system. The City are going to change from the National to disciples of the Tribune contend that the people are happier when there is no exportation, inasmuch as they themselves consume all they produce, as in St. Domingo. But a country which wants exports will prove intolerant to all such humanitarian ideas. It cannot and will not relegate the laboring class to political or industrial sinecures. Whatever else may occur in the future, we may be quite sure that the West India arrangement of Cuffee and his pumpkin vines will not be permitted to stand anywhere in the United States.

Another circumstance deserves to be mentioned as a favorable augury for the future of the South. The government is absolutely committed to the policy of establishing a direct communication between the Atlantic and Pacific States. For this purpose bonds to the amount of over twenty millions of dollars have been given to the Union States, for the purpose of furnishing aid and Pacific Railroad. It now appears that duinformation to Irishmen in regard to the price | ring certain periods of the year, the road cannot be "operated." Notwithstanding the mild winter and the immense snowsheds that have been erected along the route, the road had been, on the 6th inst., closed by the snow for twenty-two days, and for a distance of two hundred miles west of Chevenne. The depth of the snow is from thirty to fifty feet, and in the deep cuttings and in many of the canyons it had drifted to the top and is packed hard. In these places it does not melt until June. Accordingly the Senate Committee on the Pacific Railroad have reported that "the route "is one not to be relied upon by interna-"tional commerce" They accordingly recommend a railroad on the 35th parallel of latitude as a practicable route to San Francisco 365 days in the year. This would mium to five per cent. discount, while the strike Memphis and bring the trans-contiits tide of travel, through the heart of the Southern States. Better still is the El Passo route of which we spoke yesterday. The necessity for a Southern route is manifest and urgent, if, indeed, any route at all is to be maintained. lines of the vast Western wilderness, but the road that pays must follow a balmier

The English Cotton Strikes.

For some time the Lancashire cotton districts have been in a suffering condition, on account of the high price of the raw material, which left the manufacturer little if any profit. As it was supposed that a suspension of work would produce an accumulation of raw cotton that would force down the price, it was proposed that the factories generally should be closed for a few months. This plan could not be adopted, but many of the factories worked short time, and recently the employers at Preston and other places met and agreed to reduce wages from ten to twenty per cent. The result was a strike, that is likely to be general and protracted. It is not necessary for us to consider the effect of the strike upon the English workmen. The question here is, whether the suspension of work and stoppage of consumption will force down the price of the staple and so diminish the profits of the Southern planter.

We believe that the whole course of the English spinners this season is founded upon a misapprehension of two most vital considerations-the condition of the planter and the amount of the crop. At this time, the planters are but little in debt. They have made a crop which has paid them well, and what cotton they hold is held as so much money, and can be held for three months or six months longer, if necessary. The planter, this year, is not at the mercy of the spinner, and can wait until the spinner is obliged to buy. There is but little cotton in the interior of the country, whatever the bears may say. Cotton has been sent forward freely, and there is not a doubt that the crop will fall far short of the estimates of the English manufacturers.

Under these circumstances, we do not think that the suspension of work in England should greatly affect the price of the staple. Cotton is strong, stronger than it has ever been; and it will take more than one strike to knock it down so that it will not rapidly rise again.

WE PRINT this morning a letter from Mr. O. T. Corbin, in reply to a communication signed "J. M. M.," which was published in THE News of yesterday; and in so doing we take the opportunity of saying that we fully agree with Mr. Corbin as to the impuildings in the burnt district. We have had two disastrous conflagrations; but there is no danger of a third while we retain our admirable fire department and adhere to the sound and sensible policy of forbidding the erection of wooden buildings in the very heart of the city.

Schiedam Schnapps.

OFFICE OF UDOLPHO WOLFE,

To the People of the Southern States: WHEN THE PURE MEDICINAL RESTORATIVE now so widely known as WOLFE'S SCHIEDAM SCHNAPPS, was in'reduced into the world under the endorsement of four thousand leading member of the medical profession some twenty years ago, its proprietor was well aware that it could not wholly escape the penalty attached to all new and useful preparations. He, therefore, endeavored to invest it with strongest possible safeguard against counter feiters, and to render all attempts to pirate it difficult and dangerous. It was submitted to distin guished chemists for analysis, and pronounced by them the purest spirit ever manufactured. Its purity and proporties having been thus ascertained, sam ples of the article were forwarded to ten thousand physicians, including all the leading practitioners in the United States, for purposes of experiment. circular, requesting a trial of the preparation and report of the result, accompanied each specimen. our thousand of the most eminent medical men in the Union promptly responded. Their opinions of the article were unanimously favorable. Such a preparation, they said, had long been wanted by the profession, as no reliance could be placed on the ordinary liquors of commerce, all of which were more or less adulterated, and therefore untit fo medical purposes. The peculiar excellence and strength of the oi of juniper, which formed one of the principal ingredients of the Schnapps, together with an unalloyed character of the alcoholic ele ment, give it, in the estimation of the faculty, marked superiority over every other diffusive stimulant as a diuretic, tonic and restorative.

These satisfactory credentials from profession men of the highest rank were published in a condensed form, and enclosed with each bottle of the Schnappe, as one of the guarantees of its genuine ness. Other precautions against fraud were also adopted; a patent was obtained for the article, the label was copyrighted, a fac simile of the proprietor's autograph signature was attached to each label and bossed on the bottles, and the corks were sealed with his private seal. No article had ever been sold in this country under the name of Schnapps prior b the introduction of Wolfe's Schiedam Aromatic Schnapps, in 1851; and the label was deposited, as his trade mark, in the United States District Cour for the Southern District of New York during that

It might be supposed by persons unacqui with the daring character of the ptrates who prey upon the reputation othonorable merchants by vending deleterious trash under their name, that the pro tections so carefully thrown around these Schnappe would have precluded the introductions and sale of counterfeits. They seem, however, only to have stimulated the rapacity of impostors. The trade mark of the proprietor has been stolen; the indorse ment which his Schiedam Aromatic Schnapps alonreceived from the medical profession has been claimed by mendacious humbugs; his labels and bottles have been imitated, his advertisements para propriety and folly of putting up wooden phrased, his circulars copied, and worse than all, dishonorable retailers, after disposing of the genuine contents of his bottles, have filled them up with common gin, the most deleterious of all liquors, and thus made his name and brand a cover for poison.

The public, the medical profession and the sick for whom the Schledam Aromatic Schnapps is pr scribed as a remedy, are equally interested with the proprietor in the detection and suppression of thes netarious practices. The genuine article, manutac tured at the establishment of the undersigned in chiedam, H olland, is distilled from a barley of the finest quality, and flavored with an essential extract of the berry of the Italian jumper, of unequalled purity. By a process unknown in the preparation of any other liquor, it is freed from every acrimonious and corrosive element.

Complaints have been received from the leading physicians and families in the Southern States of he sale of cheap unitations of the Schiedam Aro matic Schnapps in those markets; and travellers who are in the habit of using it as an antidote to the banaful influence of unwholecome river water to tiff that cheap giu, put up in Schiedam bottles, is trequently palmed off upon the array. The agents of the undersigned have been requested to nstitute inquiries on the subject, and to forward to him the names of such parties as they may ascertain to be engaged in the atrocious system of deception. In conclusion, the undersigned would say that he has produced, from under the hands of the most distinguished men of science in America, proofs un answerable of the purity and medicinal excelence of the Schiedam Aromatic Schnapps ; that he has expended many thousand dollars in surrounding it with guarantees and safeguards, which he designed should protect the public and himself B. O'NEILL. gainst fraudulent imitations; that he has shown it J. J. GREGG, of Graniteville, S. C. to be the only liquor in the world that can be uniformly depended upon as unadulterated; that he has challenged investigation, analysis, comparison and experiment in all its forms; and from every ordeal the preparation which bears his name, scal and trade mark, has come off triumphant. He, therefore, feels t a duty he owes to his fellow-citizens generally, to the medical protession and the sick, to denounce and expose the charlatans who counterfeit these evidencies of identity, and he calls upon the press and the public to aid him in his efforts to remedy so great an evil.

The following letters and certificates from the leading physicians and chemists of this city will prove to the reader that all goods sold by the undersigne lare all that they are represented to be. UDOLPHO WOLFE.

I feel bound to say, that I regard your Schnapps as being in every respect pre-eminently pure, and deserving or medical patronage. At all events, it is the purest possible article of Holland Gin, heretolore unobtainable, and as such may be safely prescribed by physicians. DAVID L. MOTT, M. D., Pharmaceutical Chemist, New York

ST. CLOUD HOTEL.

THIS NEW AND COMMODIOUS HOUSE, LOCAT-ED corner of Broadway and Forty-second-street, possesses advantages over all other houses for the accommodation of its cuests. It was built expressly for a first-class family boarding house—the rooms being large and en suite, hented by steam—with hot and cold water, and furnished second to none; while and cold witer, and furnished second to none; while the culinary department is in the most experienced hands, affording guests an unequalisd table.

One of Atwood's Patent Elevators is also among the "modern improvements" and at the service of guests at all hours.

The Broadway and University Place Cars pass the door every four minutes, running from the City Hall to Central Park, while the Sixth and reventh Avenue lines are but a short block on either side, affording ample facilities for communicating with all the depois, steamboat landings, places of amusement and business of the great metropolis.
