DISPLAY OF BUSTING. All along King-street vesterday, from the different German establishments, bunting was flying to the breeze. Various flags of different nationalities were hung across the street from Von Santen's, the prize depot, Kenacke's, and at Lindstedt's Hall, corner of Hing and Calhoun streets, which has been decorated with evergreens and wreaths, and collation tables set out for the reception of the visiting riflemen. Over the door at the entrance of the hall is "Welkommen Schuet zens" on a white banner in gilt letters, and the same motto is on a similar banner stretched across the street.

JOHN C. CALHOUN AND T. J. ROBERTSON. The following pointed anecdote comes to us

trom Columbia : A. S. Wallace, collector of internal revenue, was talking a few days ago, at Hope's corner expatiating on the worth, patriotism and abilities of our distinguished senator, Tom Rob ertson. "Yes, gentlemen," sald he-he has done more for the State than any man ever did before; he has done more, in two months than John C. Calboun did in sixteen years. An Irishman passing at the time, hearing the remark, turned and said : "YE ARE RIGHT, BE JABERS-HE HAS GAVE US A NAGER FOR A POST

MAYOR'S COURT-MAYOR PILLSBURY'S FIRST String.-The court-room of the Guardhouse yesterday morning was crowded to its utmost capacity, to see Mr. Pillsbury dispense justice for the first time. At half past nine o'clock the Mayor appeared and took his seat, and the cases, two in number, were called: A colored man for trespassing on Mr. Ben nett's premises and drawing a knife on a workman in the yard, was fined $5, much to his sur-A white woman, who had been drunk and distriberly, tried to get up a "crying scene," but failed and was sent up for ten days to improve her morals.

Phe Views of the New Mayor on Pau perism, Education, Public Uffices, the Fire Department and the Public In-interview yesterday forenoon with Mayor Pillsbury, for the purpose of ascertaining, if possible, what course was to be pursued by the new administration in regard to city affairs, and whether there was any substantial foundation for the sensational rumors which have been circulated during the last two or three days. Mr. Pillsbury answered freely, and with apparent candor, the different questions put to him. The substance of these questions and the replies of Mr. Pillsbury are now given.

The attention of Mr. Pillsbury was called to what he had said in his inaugural address in regard to giving employment to all the poor and distressed. He was reminded that already hundreds of colored péople had been attracted to Charlesten by the prospect of an idle life, and that if it were known that the city authorities would support, or give work to, or find employment for, all persons who had nothing to do, thousands would swarm into the city, causing an expense to the taxpayers which sould not be borne.

difficult question, and he had not yet formed any definite plans. When he was distributing rations for the Freedmen's Bureau he asked the applicant whether he was willing to work. If he said yes, he gave him rations and tried to find him work. If he said no, he received no might say they were willing to work if work were found. But if the city had to support them until that work could be found, it would cause the very expense and embarrassmen which were objected to. Mr. Pillsbury said that he did not desire or intend to do anything that would encourage any class to be idle. What he wanted was to give employment to all who would work. This he thought might be done by notifying planters and farmers that they could obtain laborers here upon certain terms, the city seeing that the laborers were properly paid and protected. Land might be bought or leased by the city, and the laborers employed thereon. He would, however, do nothing in baste, and nothing that would em-

Mr. Pillsbury was then asked what he intended to do in regard to compulsory educa-

He said that he would have all the pres chools, kept full, and would try to encourage the colored people to send their children there. When the State constitution was in full force there would be a poll tax for educational purposes which would form the nucleus of a fund. When a new assessment or tax s was made, a part might be appropriated to school purposes. He said emphatically that nothing would be done at present. The tone of Mr. Pillsbury's remarks did not indicate whether he was in favor of attempting to mix the blacks and whites in the public schools.

THE CITY OFFICERS. The writer then said that it was generally believed that all the present city officers would be turned out neck and crop to make way for the friends of the new administration, it being assumed that it would be the object of the party to give office to as many of its adherents as possible.

Mr. Pillsbury said in reply, that no sweeping and sudden change would be made. Whatever changes were made would be made gradually, so as not to interfere with the working of the municipal machinery. It was his desire, he said, to put in no men who were not well qualified. In this connection he also said. that he had no doubt of the power of Cou cil to elect officers in the place of the present

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT. The writer then said that it was reported that a colored man would be made Chief of the Fire Department, and that such an act would probably break up the whole department, and, cline to take insurances in Charleston. Mr. Pillsbury said distinctly, that no colored man would be put at the head of the Fire Department, because there was not a colored man in the city fit for the place. He said: "My doctrine is, equal rights and equal fitness. He said also that he thought that the Fire Department was too large and would be glad to

THE ORPHAN HOUSE. " The writer asked whether it was true that a olored woman would be made matron of the Orphan House. Mr. Pillsbury said that all these rumors were without foundation. There was not a man in the city, he said, who knew that he would be appointed to any municipal office. No man knew anything about it, for

ALL CLASSES TO BE CARED FOR The writer reminded Mr. Pillsbury that, although he could be elected by colored votes, he could not hope to conduct the city affairs satisfactorily for the next two years unless he was acting in harmony with the taxpayers and

Mr. Pillsbury said that he was aware of that fact, but that he saw no necessity for any antagonism of interest. He would endeavor so to act that the property holders might be protected, and the non-property holders have, at the same time, all the privileges to which they were entitled. The two classes might move side by side, for each depended on the other. GENERAL POLICY.

In regard to the police, the markets, and other city matters, Mr. Pillsbury said that no changes would be hurriedly made. He had made no preparation for taking his seat, and was not familiar with the details of the municipal government. There had been no consult ation between himself and the Aldermen, and he was resolved not to act in any instance without proper deliberation and reflection. These, he said, were his personal views, and would, he believed, be carried out.

At this point the interview between the writer and Mayor Pillsbury came to an end.

A Royal Row Among the Aldermen

The first regular meeting of the new Council took place last evening, at eight o'clock, in the City Hall. Before the members had assembled, the Chamber began to be filled with a motley crowd of persons, who ranged themselves on the sofas, chairs, windows and available sitting M yor Pillsbury took his seat, when the fol lowing Aldermen were found to be present:

MEETING OF CITY COUNCIL.

Geddings, Potter, Collins, Cunningham, Barrow, E. W. M. Mackey, T. J. Mackey, Greene, E. P. Wall, (colored,) L. F. Wall, (colored,) Small, (colored,) Brown, (colored,) Hampton, colored,) McKinlay, (colored,) Howard, (colored,) Holloway, (colored,) and Thorn, (colored.)

The Mayor requested that the Aldermen who had not already qualified would rise in their seats and take the oath.

Aldermen Geddings, and McKinlay (colored) rose. As the Mayor was about to administer the oath to the former, Alderman T. J. Mackey objected to the oath being administered to that Alderman, Geddings. He said that he found that Mr. Geddings had recorded himself, when sitting in the Acting Board, as not having been legally elected, and yet he claimed his place as Alderman of Ward 2. He (Alderman Mackey) moved that his case be referred to the Committee on Elections.

Alderman E. P. Wall (colored) said that such sction was a very strange proceeding. Mr. Geddings was unanimously elected by the citizeus. Mr. Geddings was duly elected to the Council, and it was very strange that any objection should be made to him. He hoped Council would not deviate from law and propriety, and that the discussion on the matter would be stopped, and that it would not be en-

Alderman Collins said he had borne a note from the Mayor requesting Mr. Geddings to be present, and he was convinced that that gentlemen could answer for himself why he was there.

Alderman Wall, colored, said he was not able to debate with the learned engineer and lawver (T. J. Mackey.) but there were some common sense things be did understand. Mr. Geddings had a double right to be present, as he had been elected by twice as many votes as any Alderman present. Further, the courts had determined that he had a right to be there, and he was willing to submit to law, and the learned Alderman had no right to contest the matter.

Alderman T. J. Mackey asked it Alderman Geddings had not declared on oath that he was not elected. Alderman Greene regretted that any such discussion had arisen, and thought that his friend from Ward 7 had not understood the question propounded. The question had been asked, and the gentleman of whom it had been asked could answer it, he was certain.

but Alderman Greene was. Alderman Barrow thought Mr. Geddings eligibility a matter for his conscience. If he was willing to sit, he (Barrow) was willing to welcome him. If he can sit in the face of his past conduct he has a right to do so. Mr. Geddings had been elected by the Democrats as drow his objection, as its object had be filled.

Alderman Geddings, on rising to take the w. Marshall, Esq., W. C. Breese, Esq., J. N. oath, said that he scorned to answer the interrogatory, and hoped that Alderman Mackey, n making assertions, would state the truth. He (Geddings) had not qualified as Alderman ner, D. B. Gilliland, C. H. Johnson. of Ward No. 2.

Alderman T. J. Mackey said that if the Alderman put in that plea, he was welcome to in the City of Charleston for the week ending the deduction he might draw from it. [Alder- May 1, 1869 : man Ged-lings is from Ward 1.]

The Mayor then administered the oath. The Clerk of Council stated the practice of the Council and rules of that body.

Resolved. That the City Treasurer be, and is hereby, requested to furnish this Council, at the next regular meeting, with a summary statement of the indebtedness of the city; setting forth the amount of its funded debt, and the respective pario's at which the interest on the same will fall due; also a statement of the assets of the city, whether in bonds, stocks, mortgages, money, or realties; also, a list of all officers and agents in the employ of the city, together with the amounts of their seve-ral salaries per annum.

Alderman T. J. Mackey: "That Democrat has sold out for cash !" Aldermen Collins said he thought that entirely too much sport had been indulged in for A number of Aldermen popped up and seconded the motion of Alderman Collins.

The question was put viva voce, and Alderman Wall disputed the correctness of the vote, when the Mayor requested all who were on the affirmative side of the question to rise, and those on the negative to remain seated, when it was ascertained that the affirmative side had it by eight to two.

The reading of petitions was next in order, when Alderman Geddings moved that they be deferred, which was carried.
