-At Liverpool cotton closed quiet, quotations unchanged; sales 10,000 bales. -One of the camels of the New York Central Park is harnessed and compelled to draw a path-roller. -George W. Childs, proprietor of the Phila-

-A few nights since an orchard in St. Jo meph County, Michigan, was entered, and fif-teed hundred fruit trees of various kinds, all in full bloom, were girdled. The whole neigh borhood turned out and with rags and grafting wax set at work to repair the damage. Most of the trees will probably be saved, but many are irreparably injured. A reward of 215 000 was offered for the arrest of the perpetrators of the outrage. The people declare that there are enough trees remaining in that section to hang the authors of it should they ever be caught.

-American Institute of Homeopathy has finally yielded to the claims of the women. One or two female practitioners were on the ground applying for admission. The committee to whom their application was referred would not report; but on the last day of the session the matter was brought up in the shape of an amendment to the con en carried the day-yeas 80, nays 32. The Relectio Medical Society of the State of New York has already admitted women to membership, and they are also allowed to study medicine at the principal colleges of that school.

Clarksville, Kentucky, is governed by a close corporation. There are nine trustees, elected for life, who administer all the affairs of the community, and who fill all vacancies securring in their number. It is said that se once went up to the Supre me Court of the Umited States involving some of the rights of these trustees, and the decision fully confirmed the powers granted in the charter. The State has no power under the charter to compel the village to pay any school tax nor to bear any of the general expenses of the State. It is in fact an independendent confederacy in the midst of the "sovereign State of Kentucky."

-Countless myriads of grasshoppers have lately made their appearance on the north and eastern shore of Salt Lake, and are marching or hopping towards the City of the Desert. und around Promontory Point is -literally black with the young and rapacious insects. They are now about three-fourths of an luch in length, black in color, and more resembling a cricket than a grasshopper. But as they increase in size their color changes to brown. About two weeks since these pests made their first appearance in that section, being then about an eighth of an inch is length, and having the appearance of sand crickets. They grow rapidly and are very vo racious, destroying everything in their way For miles the track of the railroad is black with these destroying insects, the ties and rails being hidden from view by the thousands perched thereon. Salt Lake City has been cleared of vegetation before by these pests. and in each case the countless hosts have made their first appearance to the north and west of the city, devastating their fields and gardens when passing through on their way to the south and westward. -A mutiny, which resulted in the death of one man, occurred on board the steamer Perit while on her recent successful voyage from New York to Cuba with a party-of filibusters. One of these men succeeded in obtaining a bottle of whiskey, which he drank in one day. Under the influence of the liquor he became, as might be expected, almost ungovernable and challenging a number of his comrades to fight, the quarrel soon grew into an actual mutiny. While it was at its height, a non-comsioned officer rushed to the scene, and having mide his way among the combatants so as to divide thom, he exclaimed, "If any man comes beyond this line he dies." Suiting the action to the word, he levelled his revolver. The mutineers, startled by his threat, remained quiet for a moment, and then resumed the disorder. The officer repeated his threat, when one of the volunteers, defying him, rushed past the fatal line; a shot was fired from the peace-makel's revolver, and the mulineer fell dead. Orgas then restored. When General Jordan. nander of the expedition, heard of the of the pistol shot, and of the valer of the soldier who fired it, he promoted him at once to the grade of captain.

-The Printer's Convention which adjourned sine die at Albany, New York on Saturday, adopted the new constitution, sixty-eight to sixteen. The name of the association was changed to the "International Typographical Union." The second section was so amended as to give permission to compositors of fcreign languages to receive charters, provided they obtain permission of the subordina; senion in the city from which their application is presented. Section three reads as 400 we: "The International Typographical Union may also grant charters to seven or more female compositors, but not issue more than one charter to female printers in any one town or city; provided, that such charters shall be granted by and with the advice and consent of the subordinate union in said city or town. And provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to prevent women joining any subordinate union in cities and towns where women's unions do not and cannot exist from local and definite causes; and provided further, that subordinate unions shall not legislate against women compositors. where they conform to the laws and require ments of the International Typographical Union."

-There have been many jokes perpetrated about the fearful chirography of H. G. and the late Rufus Choate, but a worse penman than either is to be found in G. M. D. Bloss, Esq. the editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer. A letter writer says : "There are only four men living, or who ever did live, who could read his manuscript-Allison, Byan, Allen and Young compositors in the Enquirer office. No other man can tell what a single letter of it is. He have suffered most.

THE DAILY NEWS. wrote the life of Hon. George H. Pendleton in 34 hours. We have one page of the manuscript, and we will venture a hat that there is no man that can decipher a word of it in 84 years, except the writer and the four printers already named. Mr. Bloss himself is some times at a loss to know what he has written and we have known him, in some instances, to go to Amos Allison to have a "cold" article, which had lain unfinished, deciphered. One of Mr. Bloss' peculiarities is to write always with a pen, on the most singular bit of paper imaginable, in fact, stray corners that are torn off business letters sent to the Enquirer office. His pen-holder is about ten inches in length, which he grasps carefully by the upper end, and while he writes sings Old Hundred, to the most ungodly tunes that any man ever heard, and refuses to recognize any man that comes into his office while at work."

The Policy of Proscription.

The recent letter of Horace Greeley to the West Virginia Radicals, in which he urged the policy of universal amnesty and enfranchisement, as a measure of absolute necessity to the permanent existence of the Republican party at the South, has exposed the philosopher of the Tribune to some stinging attacks from the less liberal and less sagacious newspaper organs of his party. These attacks are made the subject of a manly and straightforward leader in the Tribune, written in Mr. Greeley's delphia Ledger, is spoken of for Governor of best vein, at the head of which he reprints the letter, (which had not before appeared in the Tribune,) and fortifies its positions by a series of those pointed, forcible and common-sense arguments, which have made him famous as a journalist. He tells his assailants plainly that "had Congress-say "in 1865-6-disfranchised every rebel, and "thus thrown several States completely "into the hands of their ex-slaves, the next "election would have upset us and chosen "a Democratic House of Representatives. "But for the New Orleans massacre and "Johnson's 'swinging 'round the circle,' we should probably have been beaten as it was: but to have disfranchised nearly all "the whites, and thrown the Southern "States completely into the hands of the "blacks, would have insured our over-"whelming defeat." He reminds the Southern Radicals, in conclusion, that it is not likely that they will ever get toleration, much less countenance or support, from the sons of men upon whom they have sought to impose a perpetual disfranchisement. Will they hearken to the warnings of their

The people of the Hub are trying hard to work themselves into the proper degree of enthusiasm over the monstrous sensation which they call the Musical Peace Jubilee. Even the staid and sober Post has become infected with the contagion, and concludes a gushing article on the Great Humbug with the following prodigious flourish:

"Welcome! thrice welcome! says Boston to the people of the whole country. Come and be glad with us in this chosen season of peace. Gather with your President and his Cabinet; come with your Governors and public men; assemble beneath the vaulting roof which we have raised, that music may reverberate and prolong its exulting strains; pour forth from farm and forest, from city and village, from lake and river, into the multitudinous human sea that is to surge beneath the musical temst whose nower no mortal can withstand Welcome to our homes and hearts! Welcome though unknown, yet as brethren! Welcomswelcome to the great Jubilee of Freedom and Peace! The country shall again be whole, and we will live and die one people."

Inquiry has satisfied us that the reported trouble between Chief Justice Chase and the bar of North Carolina, is all a mistake. The difficulty, such as it was, occurred between the lawyers and Judge Pearson, the Radical Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina. It seems that at the time of the fall elections, Judge Pearson and some of his colleagues on the bench, contrary to ancient and praiseworthy usage among the judiciary of the Old North State, sought prominence as partisans in the political conflict. Their conduct gave rise to much dissatisfaction among all the rightthinking citizens of the State, and a respectful protest against the innovation was drawn up and signed by nine-tenths of the North Carolina bar. This was the heinous offence which has provoked the judicial thunders. But Chief Justice Chase, though now in Raleigh, had nothing whatever to do with the matter.

THE New York Evening Post (Repulican) agrees with the New York Times, also Republican, that "war with England," as an electioneering issue, to save the Republican party next fall, will not "pay." The editor characterizes it now as "a des-"perate political trick, designed to put off "the living and important issues of the day, "by creating and stimulating an artificial "ensitement." It does not think the Repubhean party at large, however, will follow Mr. Sumner's lead, nor consent to make our relations with England a party question. No party, it declares, can serve two masters; it cannot obey the behests of the demagogue and at the same time recognize the suggestions of the statesman.

APROPOS of the coming change in the Charleston Postoffice, we notice that Postmaster-General Cresswell has written a sharp letter to "a prominent postmaster in Georgia," admonishing him that the lawmaking power intends to throw around the privity of correspondence the solemn sanction of its protection, and that the highest duty the Department owes to the people is to preserve, by all means in their power, the absolute sanctity of a seal. The letter closes with an injunction to "permit no one "to continue or be employed in your office "whose character for personal integrity "may not command the confidence of the "Postmaster General."

WE ARE GLAD to hear that the reports which lately reached us of the appearance of the caterpillar in the Florida cotton fields are authoritatively contradicted by the very parties whose crops were said to

YOU OUGHT TO INSURE IN THE

CHARLESTON BRANCH LIFE ASSOCIATION

OF AMERICA, FOR THE FOLLOWING REASONS:

1st. Because it is a home institution miniged and ontrolled by your own citizens.

2d. Because it is the only monied institution of he kind that loans its funds in the States from which they are derived.

3d. Recause it is purely mutual; all policy holders share in its profits or carnings. Its large and increasing assets belong exclusively to the policy holders.

4th. Because its rates are I wer than those of most other companies. And its divid-nds will be larger.

5th. Because it invests its funds at rates of interest averaging ten per cent, while Eastern compunies rates average less than seven per cent. This makes the dividends of the Association larger and the rates of premium smaller. One hundred dollars improved at six per cent. for fifty ears will amount to $1,8201 The same amount invested at ten per cent, will pro-tuce $11,739 09. Difference in favor of the ten per
