Official information from Florida regarding the condition of the State finances has been received, contradicting the statements recently published that the State is bankrupt. The following extract from a private letter on the subject confirms the contradiction: "In the first place the Gleason-Osborn dynasty, whatever that was, never issued any bonds, and consequently there was no interest on them to repudiate; in the second place, the State Treasury, so far from being bankrupt, is in a better condition than it has been for years, and is promptly paying the interest on all State bonds. The interest on the State bonds falling due on the 1st ult. 1s now being paid in New York by the financial agent of the State."

-A Boston paper of Saturday, speaking of the new molasses brig "Novel y," says : "Yesterday morning the steam-pumping apparatus for discharging the cargo of the brig Noveliy was put in operation and worked finely. The hose by which the molasses is forced from the tanks of the brig to the reservoir on shore is about six inches in diameter, and was kept full, a steady stream all the time. The hose was long enough provided the brig made no unusual motion, but a steamer passing near the brig caused it to rock so as to displace the hose, and before the engine could be stopped nearly two hundred galions of molasses were lost. The hose was soon readjusted and the pumping resumed, but the hose gave away once more during the afternoon. -Edward B. Ketchum, the forger, who a few days since was brought from Sing Sing to New York city on a writ of habeas corpus, and his discharge demanded on the ground of alleged informalities in the sentence, has been remanded to prison by Judge Barnard, and the writ dismissed, for the reason that the prisoner himself was opposed to the proceeding, and believed his punishment just and merited, and that he has no wish to cheat justice by oscaping through a technical defect. He preferred to pay the full penalty of his crime, already nearly expiated, unless his prison door be unlocked through executive clemency. The effort for release had been made by the friends of the prisoner, and the question was whether a pure, naked confession, without complaint or indictment, is sufficient to send a man to State prison, and keep him there for a term of years. The prisoner, it will be remembered. was sentenced by Recorder (now Governor) Hoffman, on the 30th of December, 1865, for a term of four years and six months, he having pleaded guilty to one indictment. - Several other indiciments were found by the grand jury, and, of course, are still hanging over him. -A correspondent of the San Francisco Bulletin gives a long and interesting account of the lepers' settlement on a peninsular of the Island of Molokai. The place is very difficult of access, and when a leper has once been conducted thither he never returns. The settlement was established a little more than three years ago, and during that time three hundred and seventy lepers have been cared for, of whom eighty-four have died. Of the two hundred and eighty-six remaining cases are persons ranging in age from six to eighty years, and the term of the raffliction varies from less than one year to fifteen years. The husb nds and wives of those stricken with leprosy frequently hve with them and often for a long time without contracting the disease. The sick are generally quite cheerful, for, although they are aware that their cases are hopeless, leprosy is a painless disease and all then senses become so benumbed that they lose the feeling of self-loathing which one would suppose they must have in their borrible-condi-

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JULY 7, 1869.

At the meeting of the State Agricultura Convention, held in April last, it was resolved that the various counties of the State be recommended to form immigration societies auxiliary to the central association in Newberry. This was a highly proper recommendation; but we are not aware that the different counties have done anything to give it effect. Some stimulus, some ex citing force is necessary, and it is hoped that the Executive Committee of the State Agricultural Society, who meet in Columbis on Wednesday, will give this subject of immigration their earnest attention. At this time, the immigration question divides itself into two branches: 1. The adoption of the necessary measures for seouring Chinamen to work in the rice fields and on the sea island plantations, where ed from St. Luke's Hospital in New York for the European laborer cannot live. 2. To having read the burial service over the re- devise a plan for obtaining European immigrants for the middle and upper sections; The State. Passing by, for the moment, quest of a brother clergyman who had been enremains a problem which is not easy to be solved, vis: How to overcome the induce- ASHER AYRES, Pertilizer, Macon, Ga. ments which the Northwestern States offer to white immigrants, and how to remove the prejudice which, other things being equal, causes the European to avoid with sedulous care the fertile fields and rich savannahs of the South. The unreasoning distrust of the Southern people which exists on the continent of Europe, the effect of a decade of calumny and falsehood, will gradually die out; but it is not wise to choose the rugged road when there is a Harris & Howell, Wilmington, N choose the rugged road when there is a broad and even path leading to the same goal. We should direct our efforts in relation to immigration to those points where the feeling against us is the weakest, and where we can obtain the industrious and hardy men, without whom we cannot quick ly prosper. In Scotland and Ireland and ly prosper. In Scotland and Ireland and England, for example, the prejudice is not nearly as strong as it is in Germany; and, if we offer greater advantages than are offered by the Northwest, we can go into the labor market in those countries and obtain just as many immigrants as can be obtained by

Illinois, or Minnesota, or any Western

But can we offer to the Scotchman, the Irishman and Englishman greate: advantages than are effered by the Northwest? We think that we can. There are hundreds of thousands of scres of good land in South Carolina which have hardly a market value. The fences are rotting, the fields are choking up with weeds, scrub oaks or pines are taking the place of the fleecy cotton or golden corn. There is no demand for these lands, and they cannot be worked because we have not the laborers, or, perhaps, the ready money for wages and supplies. Land is the one thing that we have in abundance. Labor is the only thing that will make our land valuable. Land, then, of which we have too much, must be made to procure labor, of which we have not enough. The value of land is in proportion to the population. As popu lation increases the land rises in price, and it is not too much to say that to double the white laboring population of South Carolina would be to treble or quadruple the value of the land. This will hardly be denied, and the whole proposition resolves itself into this: Are the people willing to give away to actual white settlers a por-whole tract is worth now? Chinamen Coming.

We learn, with much pleasure, that the Hon. John Townsend, of Edisto, is making arrangements to hire a number of Chinamen to work on his plantations. Mr. lownsend is convinced, as we are, that in the low-country the Chinaman will be the The " Lmpire" Idea.

The New York papers tell us that s secret society has been formed, having branches in the principal cities of the Union, for carrying the country over to Imperialism. Its members are sworn to promote and support what is termed a 'Free Empire." It is proposed to establish an aristocracy, with executive powers in the hands of a council, with one man at the head, who shall hold the position for life and be designated Consul of the Free Empire of the United States, the title of Consul to be thrown away for that of Emperor, as soon as the public sentiment will bear the change. The man for this position has, it is said, already been selected by the leaders of the movement.

STRETION. A Novel, by Henry Kingsley. New York: Leypoldt & Holt. Charleston: Holmes' Book House.

The style of Mr. Kingsley is rugged and rough without being strong, and we fail to find in his spasmodic and jerky literary method an evidence of a nervous force which only permits itself to be uncouth and rude. The plot of Stretton is patchy and queer; the five heroes are a mixture of nuscular Christian, Apollo Belvidere and sountry bumpkin; and the grammar reminds one occasionally of the famous response-"Her ain't calling we; us don't belong to she." But one page leads to another, and one chapter to the next; the lurid brightness of the Indian mutiny follows the squalid horrors of London and the sweets of English country life; and the book is worried through to learn what comes next. It has no apparent object, unless it be to show the frankness, honesty, vigor and strength of "a team" of men who, in spirit, are boys all their lives. In this Mr. Kingsley has failed. The "team" is not well in hand, and the constant sky larking and squabbling of these men-boys is anything but amusing. Stretton, nevertheless, can be travelled through without any great weariness or excessive mental

ST. CLOUD HOTEL. THIS NEW AND COMMOLIOUS HOUSE, LOCAT.

THIS NEW AND COMMOLIOUS HOUSE, LOCATED corner of Broadway and Forty-second-street, possesses advantages over all other houses for the accommodation of its guests. It was built expressly for a first-class family boarding house—the rooms being large and en suite, heated by steam—with hot and cold witer, and furnished second to none; while the culinary department is in the most experienced hands, affording guests an unequalised table.

One of Atwood's Patent Elevators is also among the "modern improvements" and at the service of guests at all hours.

The Broadway and University Place Cars pass the door every four minutes, running from the City door every four minutes, running from the Cit Hall to Central Park, while the Sixth and revent Avenue lines are but a short block on either side affording ample facilities for communicating withe depote, stermboat landings, olaces of a and business of the great metropolis.
