The fashionable tour this season is over the Pacific Railroad.

Baile Peyton, a famous old politician of thirty years ago, turns up in Tennessee as candidate for State Senator.

Paper collar makers are said to complain when the weather is cool.

It is understood that as soon as the Great Eastern returns to Europe she will take fresh cable on board and start for India to lay a line between Bombay and Suaz.

Wm. H. Jeffers, Esq., of Pawtucket, R. I., fell from a window of the Battle House, in Mobile, on the night of the 11th, and broke his neck.

A Memphis telegram of Sunday says: "Telegrams and letters received here from the entire South state that meetings are being held and delegates appointed to the Chinese Labor Convention to be held on the 15th."

The Yarger murder trial in Jackson, Miss., still continues, but there has been an unusual respite on the part of the telegraph relative to it.

A. T. Stewart and a Mr. Harvey, of Tarleton, are competitors for the purchase of a tract of land, containing about seven thousand five hundred acres, lying north of the town of Hempstead Long Island.

The removal of the capital of the United States is gravely discussed by the Chicago Tribune with as much earnestness as if a bill to that effect had passed Congress.

A Southern correspondent of the New York World, after discussing the aspect of the immigration movement to this section, adds: "The native increase of the South now demands a word."

A Washington telegram, alluding to the Yarger habeas corpus case before Chief Justice Chase, says: "The real point to be determined is, whether so much of the Reconstruction acts as permit military commissions to try persons accused of crime is unconstitutional."

General Canby will probably promulgate the official result of the recent election in Virginia in about fifteen days, though it is not settled as to the time when the installation of the new State officers will take place.

So certain are the Californians that the problem of aerial navigation has been solved by the machine that has just been invented in San Francisco, that one of the papers positively announces: "Within four weeks the first aerial steam carriage, capable of conveying six persons, and propelled at a rate exceeding the minimum speed of thirty miles an hour, will wing its flight over the Sierra Nevada mountains."

The Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Gazette writes: "The disruption of the Radical party is acknowledged at least by all those persons who live upon government pay. This is a very hopeful omen."

W. J. Whipper, a Northern negro, who represented Beaufort in the Reconstruction Convention, and represents the same county in the State House of Representatives, is one of the candidates elected by the General Assembly "to digest, arrange and consolidate" all the statute laws of the State. The pay for this work is $3600 a year, and an idea of the way in which it is to be performed may be gained from the style and phraseology of the following order, which the Georgetown Times says was taken out by Whipper in an assault and battery case:

"The State of South Carolina, Indulgent to Larceny."

The Grand Jury having been discharged and no Bill given out in the above case, on motion of W. J. Whipper attorney for the Defendant it is ordered that the defendant be discharged from custody without day."

The Times also charges Whipper with pocketing twenty-five dollars paid to him for compromising an offense, with the understanding that the Attorney-General should enter a Not Pro, and that twenty dollars would go to pay the costs. Unhappy Whipper forgot to pay the costs and forgot to have the Not Pro entered, so that the unfortunate culprit had to stand his trial even as though no twenty-five dollars had been paid.

This last story can hardly be true. Our Georgetown brother must have been deceived by some enemy of the codifier. Whipper is, we admit, ignorant and utterly unable to do the work for which he is paid; but he is well satisfied, of course, with his emoluments as codifier and member of the General Assembly, and would not dream of filching the dollars of an inoffensive freedman. The King of Dahomey might revise and consolidate our laws as well as it can be done by Whipper; but Whipper would not be so unblushing in his effrontery as to steal twenty-five dollars from a man of his own political and physical complexion. Would he?

THE CONFEDERATE DEBT.

THE POSITION TAKEN BY THE IMPERIALIST IN FAVOR OF PAYMENT OF THE CONFEDERATE DEBT, MERITS MORE THAN A PASSING NOTICE, SO SIGNIFICANT A SIGN IS IT OF THE LENGTHS TO WHICH THE UNITED STATES BONDHOLDERS ARE WILLING TO GO IN ORDER TO AVOID THE ADOPTION BY THE SOUTH OF THE WESTERN POLICY OF GENERAL REPUDIATION. THE IMPERIALIST, AS IS WELL KNOWN, ADVOCATES THE CREATION OF AN IMPERIAL OR AUTOCRATIC FORM OF GOVERNMENT, AS THE ONLY MEANS OF SECURING THE LIBERTIES OF THE PEOPLE, AND OF INSURING A FULFILLMENT OF THE FINANCIAL OBLIGATIONS OF THE UNITED STATES. REPUBLICAN INSTITUTIONS IT DECLARES TO BE A FAILURE; AND WHETHER THE IMPERIALIST HAS FOR ITS SOLE OBJECT THE PROTECTION OF THE PRIVILEGED CLASSES, OR WHETHER IT IS GOVERNED BY A DESIRE TO RELIEVE THE PEOPLE FROM THE CORRUPTION AND CHICANERY WHICH ROT THE COUNTRY TO THE CORE, ITS ARGUMENTS ARE WORTHY OF SERIOUS CONSIDERATION.

In regard to the Southern or Confederate debt, it says: "In an article in a late number of the Imperialist we mentioned as one of the possibilities of imperial action, the assumption of some portion of the Southern war debt. The idea has called forth a wide variety of comments, for the most part, as a matter of course, bitterly unfavorable to ourselves. No epithets seem to be too bitter to hurl at men who dare the utterance of such a suggestion; but we are becoming somewhat accustomed to hatred and abuse, and must decline returning any portion of either. We refuse to abuse anybody, and reserve our hatred for wrong and dishonesty."

"It would be difficult to say in precisely what manner it would be possible to arrive at a just and equitable scale by which to determine exactly what and how much of the Southern war debt, held as it now is, may be considered a debt of honor by those for whose purposes it was originally contracted. A good deal of it is still in the hands of its first holders, and of the equity of at least a graduated payment of this there can be no doubt. We do not propose here and now to offer a fully developed financial scheme or system; but we cannot for a moment recede from our proposition that all debts contracted for and by any people are binding and sacred until equitably liquidated."

"We challenge any man to dispute the correctness of this proposition. If we are told that, when honestly and fairly adjusted, it would be found that it could far more cheaply be paid than repudiated. At all events the payment of that debt would be such an example of shining integrity to all future time that this generation would be well remunerated for the temporary sacrifice by the transcendent glory of their honorable action."

If the payment of the Confederate debt is to be dependent on the exact payment of the Federal debt, the scheme will meet with little favor at the South. The war debt of the Confederacy, held by the Confederates, is looked upon as wholly lost, and the millions who do not hold Confederate bonds, as well as the thousands who invested their paper in solid bricks and mortar, will not willingly tax themselves or be taxed for the benefit of the better men who planned their faith to the cause and whose fortunes with it were lost. One thing, however, is very clear. The South had rather pay the Confederate debt than the Federal debt. For the debt of the United States we are not responsible in honor or in law. For the debt of the Confederate States we are undoubtedly responsible. That debt was contracted for our benefit, to carry on the desperate struggle for freedom. Fortunately the debt is chiefly due to ourselves, and if it be not paid the South, and not Europe, will be the sufferer. As we have said, the South would rather pay the Confederate debt than the Federal debt; and Imperialism cannot expect to make many converts in the South so long as its cardinal principle is the prompt payment of a debt which is the fruit of a war of conquest, the blood money paid for slaying our brethren, the price set upon d-dolated fields and ruined homes, the fruit of eight years of fraud, chicanery and wrong. Of this we will pay all, that we are forced to pay, and not one farthing more.

THE NEW YORK JOURNAL OF COMMERCE SAYS IT IS PROPOSED BY SOME OF THE LEADING RADICALS "TO REFUSE RECOGNITION TO THE LOCALLY ELECTED WALKER GOVERNMENT OF VIRGINIA, AND TO EXCLUDE FROM CONGRESS THE REPRESENTATIVES AND SENATORS FROM THAT STATE." THIS IS NO MORE THAN WHAT WAS EXPECTED. THE GAME OF THE RADICALS IS TO WIN—NO MATTER HOW IT IS DONE. THEY WILL MAKE A LICK IF THEY LOSE THEIR HATRED—AS THEY WILL DO IF THEY STRIKE AT VIRGINIA.

THE EMPEROR NAPOLEON, IF HE CARRIES IN GOOD FAITH THE REFORMS WHICH HE HAS PROPOSED, WILL PRACTICALLY ABOLISH THE SYSTEM OF PERSONAL GOVERNMENT AND ESTABLISH THAT OF MINISTERIAL RESPONSIBILITY. THIS IS A STRIDE FORWARD; AND, AS IT WAS INTENDED TO DO, WILL IMPROVE THE PROSPECTS OF THE PRINCE IMPERIAL.

THE NEW YORK SUN AND THE NEW YORK TIMES HINT THAT THE HARVARD CROW WILL NOT HAVE FAIR PLAY IN THEIR MATCH WITH THE OXFORD CROW ON THE Thames. The Harvards may be beaten, but they need not fear foul play; nor need their champions cry out before their pets are hurt.
