THE LONDON TIMES ON THE COTTON QUESTION AND THE FRENCH CRISIS—CHARLES DICKENS POLITICAL CREED-LORD CLARENDON ON THE TENURE OF LAND QUESTION—THE PEACE PROS-PECT IN EUROPE.

LONDON, September 29 .- The London Times. in an article on the cotton question, says: "If cotton is dear with its increased production, pecause of new spinning countries bidding against us, then the Liverpool quotations are unintelligible. If spinners not only carry off the raw material, but curtail their demands for our manufactures, the state of trade is unintelligible also. On these suppositions it is useless to cry for more or cheaper cotton, the evil arising only from the less of the monopoly. The cotton demand is limited, and competitors diminish our share of the manufacture. We cannot discern that cotton at sixpence per pound would bring trade back to England. We fost it by the loss of the raw material; but since then so many events have occurred affecting this great industry, that it is necessary to distribute or apportion their several results in the state of things before us." The Times says: "The coincidence of the Emperor's sickness, and the reconstruction of the government, is a serious misfortune. The energies of the Emperor cannot be well spared at such a crisis. Reforms come unfortunately while the Emperor is incapacitated, and at a time when he is most required. Speculations of the people on uncertainties, and opportunities of the future, are so encouraged as to augment the public disquietude. If the crisis had occurred ten years ago, the Emperor could have brought to work the energies he carried into the Italian campaign. If the experiment had then succeeded, France would now possess a generation of statesmen with some parliamentary experience. The only question is, was the prospect of success to clear then as to natify precipitating instead of postponing the trial? The present peril, serious in any case, is aggravated by the Emperor's enfeebled health. But peril of some kind has been the prospect of the government for the past two

Lord Clarendon has returned from Paris. He delivered an address before Hartfordshire Agricultural Society to-night, in the course of which he acknowledged the subject of the tenure or land in Ireland momentous, and a vital one, but should not be considered as a party question. The evil connected with the land system must be abated. The solution was discuit, but not impossible. Government would not adopt any wild or subversive scheme. The promoters of such a plan were the enemie of an equitable settlement, and no friend of Ireland. He asked if there was language strong enough to condemn landholders who evicted the tenant and reaped the whole benefit of the tenant's labor and expenditure. This course was two often followed, and the evil must be abated. He believed the rights of property should be scrupulously upheld, and its duties rigidly enforced by law. Government, he said, intended to introduce a measure which would command the respect, support and praise of every honest man. In conclusion, he alluded to the present condition of Europe, and expressed the opinion that at no time within the past three years has there been a fairer prospect of continued peace than at present.

Charles Dickens opened the winter session of the Midland Institute at Birmingham last evening with a pleasant speech. After reviewing the history of the institution, and offering advice for its future management, he touched upon other subjects. The present, he said, was a materialistic age. His political creed could be summed up in two artic es: Histal in the people governing was infinitesimal; his fa'th in the people governed illimitable.

Archbishop Cullen, in reply to a deputation bearing an address from citizens of Wexford, Ireland, said: By moderating demands, not by interfering with legitimate rights, any class of industrious tenants would enjoy the results of listor in undisturbed tranquility.

CONDITION OF THINGS IN WALL STREET-AFTER THE GALE.

NEW YORK, September 30 .- The events of yesterday produced comparative calmness on Wall street. Little business was done in the Gold Room or Stock Excharge, and outside the street seemed deserted. Many injunctions were issued restraining the action of brokers and monied corporations, and have had the effect to bring business almost to a standstill. Gold was sold to-day at the Stock Exchange, but under protest. A small knot of gold brokers also transacted business in the Gold Room, but there was no excitement, and the sales were

CHAMPION COTTON PICKING.

A triend at Pomaria furnishes the Newberry Herald with the result of five days' cotton picking last week, by four hands employed on his place, two of whom are over fifty years of age, and one a young Swede, seventeen years old, brought out by the Newberry Immigration Society. The result is as follows: First day 822 pounds; second 881; third 900; fourth 915, and fifth 1055; total amount 4573, being an average of 228 pounds to the hand. Pretty good picking, this.

THE WEATHER IN SUMTER. Sumter has had rain, and the dry and dusty earth has been well watered. On Saturday and Sunday there were several good showers, and on Sunday night a real storm. Since then the weather has been cool, rendering tire and the weather has been cool, renchick clothes quite comfortable.

THE RICE CHOP. The Sumter Watchman says: "The rice crop in this section, we are informed, will be almost an entire failure. The pea and potate crop will also be very light. These, coming in connection with the short corn crop, must pronection with the short corn crop, must proluce much scarcity the coming season. Dr weather hanbeen the cause mainly."

In Clarendon the weather for the past three weeks has been exceedingly warm and dry, no rain until Friday afternoon, when there was a pleasant little shower. Many of the wells have been exhausted of their supply of water, and the want of a sufficiency is becoming distressing. In one neighborhood there has been no rain with the exception of a slight sprinkle since. March last, the wells in the same neighborhood had to be sunk deepr twice, and still water is scarce. The dry weather has shortened the present cotton crop much more than was expected even two weeks since; the hot THE DROUGHT IN CLARENDON. was expected even two weeks since; the hot sun and the want of rain is effecting the unmatured balls seriously, causing them to open before they are fully developed.

THE TRADE OF MANNING. The Clarendon Press says: "Manning is beginning to look up with regard to trade. Our merchants are giving as much for cotton as can be obtained in any neighboring town, and they are selling all kinds of goods at very cheap rates. We understand that one of our merchants within the past six weeks has bought upwards of forty bales of cotton, and merchants within the past all and as others have been equally as active since the season set in, we naturally presume that Manning has grown to be a considerable cotton market. The lands of the district being rich and well adapted to the growth of the article, is a proof of our assertion.

The county commissioners of the different counties in the State met in convention in Columbia on July 28.

On motion of Commissioner McLaughlin, Commissioner F. Arnim, of Edgefield, was nade permanent chairman. Commissioner from Abbaville was appointed

"The General Assembly passed, at the special session of 1868, an act to organize townships, and to define their powers and privileges. The county commissioners in the several counties have had their attention called by the citizens to the provisions of the act, and are invited to confer about the objections that have been urged to it. The opinion entertained is, that the impoverished state of the country at the present time renders it impossible for the people to pay the additional taxes, which the requirements under the act provide for; and, in view of this opinion, it is deemed worthy of the attention and consideration of this conference, in the proper discharge of their duties to the people of the several counties, to represent to the Legislature the necessity of postpoung the organization of townships for a period of ten years at least, at the expiration of which, it is to be hoped, the State will be in a prosperous condition."

the expiration of which, it is to be hoped, the State will be in a prosperous condition."

The chairman also called the attention of the commissioners to the impracticability of forming townships in South Carolina similar to townships in the Northern States, because of the limited population of this State, and the country places being so sparsely settly delarly showing that the parties who got up this "Iownship bill" had in contemplation a State of much larger population. It is, besides, very evident that those who favored and carried the bill had looked to the interest of the State and its improvement, but fulled to consider the impoverished condition of the people.

THE TROUBLE IN WALL STREET.

A Heavy Crash Impending

The financial squall that swept New York at the close of last week is to be followed by specie coming to this country from the banks of France and England, as well as from private treasuries. The dispatches specify large sums without furnishing an aggregate. The early termination of the florry shows that no permanent injury is inflicted by the concerted operations of many great brokers controlling large amounts of specie and foreign exchange. This in itself is calculated to prevent any repetition of the conspiracy for some time. The supply of money for moving the Western crops will be freer, as now unlocked by the fall of the gold combination. An unusually heavy drain to the South is not anticipated, as the credits already extended thither will meet a portion of the current shipments. The Treasury Department has given notice that it will not hoard currency, and will keep down the currency balance to the lowest point. Foreign exchange invites the importation of gold, and two months hence the Treasury has to pay the interest upon registerd bands and coupons not paid before maturity. Cotton is coming in rapidly, and breadstuffs shipments promise to be large. 'The conspiracy that threatened every one has left the "engineers hoist with their own petard," and without other consequences that can injure. The New York an of Tuesday, has the following: Wail street remains in a state of virtual sus pension. The hopes that had been generally entertained by the public, and encouraged by the officers of the Gold Board and the managers of the Gold Exchange Bank, that yesterday would witness the termination of the disastrous deadlock in financial affairs, and the resumption of business by all really solvent stous describes in maneral sharts, and the re-sumption of business by all really solvent touses, were blasted, and at the present wri-ting, despite the renewed assurances given us of a settlement of the difficulty to-day, we have really no more reason to anticipate so ble a result than on Saturday last. the unpleasant and really alarming rumors that were in circulation up town last night give ground for the anticipation that more serious trouble awaits us than has yet been experienced.

THE GRAND CRASH TO COME. The nine firms reported by the Gold Exchange Bank yesterday morning as having failed to meet the requirements of the bank will carry with them a large number of smaller will carry with them a large number of smaller houses. A prominent broker, who carefully watched the dealings of Thursday and Friday, informed us that at least ninety firms would be compelled to succumb, unless the houses yesterday thrown out of the Gold Exchange Bank should resume and meet their obligations.

THE LEADING SPIRITS. Jay Gould, and James Fisk, Jr., the two leaders of the great bull factions, were non sunt yesterday. They could not be got at for love or money, and it is said that large sums of money were offered by various brokers to know money were offered by various brokers to know where Mr. Fisk was. In Smith, Gould, and Martin's office, Mr. Gould's whereabouts could nertin's omce, Mr. Gould's whereabouts could not be ascertained. Mr. Martin, the junior partner of the firm, blandly protested he knew nothing of the matter, and the knights-errant who sought the "Great I Am" left for fresh fields and pastures new.

THE BROKEN BROKERS.

The brokers who have been smashed in the fray are frantic with excitement. The larger firms can creep up the ladder again, but the majority of the unfortunate street specula ors are ruined for life. The greater part of them put every cent into this second South Sea bubble, and are swept away in the general wreck. They meet each other by instinct and shake hards consolingly; but that is all. There are no invitations to taste a bottle of Veuve Cliquot now; oh, dear, no, they have lost all the gaiety oi bon vivants. Their principal way of wiling the hours away is trying to ascertain how much so and so has made, and if they succeed in finding he is a lucky dog, they meet him with a cynical smile, envying him his good fortune. Some, however, with Beranger's "Little Brown Man," think their plan is to lau; h at all that, and are happy and jolly looking. But the majority are differently disposed, and look not the same. It is the way of the world; the rich are always envied. THE BROKEN BROKERS.

The Abdication Rumors-The Emperor's Physical Sufferings-The Government Disorganized-The Empress and the Regency Decree, &c.

A Paris letter of September 14th, to the New York World, says:

The Frenci Emperor is considered cured for the present; but the opinion seems general that his days are numbered. It is believed he may live for two years more; but this is the ex-treme limit. If this be the case the remainder of his days will be devoted to setting his house in order. He may abdicate in order to seat the in order. He may abdicate in order to seat the Imperial Prince on the throne during his (the Imperial Prince on the throne during his (the former's) life, and guard as much as possible against the disturbances it is feared his death may produce. The state of affairs here is grave. Complete anarchy reigns in every portion of the government. I do not believe the Ministry of War would be found capable at this moment of suppressing a formidable insurrection in Paris; for there is not only a general discrepanciation of the ing a formidable insurrection in Paris; for there is not only a general disor anization of the government, but there is a widespread disposition (for the first time since 1852, when the empire seemed secure.) to avoid self-compromise for the Emperor's sake. Nobody can be depended upon. The Emperor is in daily consultation with his usual advisers, Duke de Persigny, General Fleury, M. Rouher. The latter is said to be charged with preparing confidential notes for his Majesty upon the various public mea who seem likely to be designated by public opinion for places in the new Cabinet. Time passes. Radical parties are quiet only because they believe the death of the Emperor and the fate of the empire to be at hand.

Of all the extraordinary incidents we are wit-Of all the extraordinary incidents we are winnessing, none is stronger than the agitation which has begun and is sustained by influential people to repeal the decrae appointing the Empress the regent, and to constitute at once the regency which shall govern the empire during the Imperial Prince's minority. L'Opinion National holds the following language on this subject:

"A government must be organized, for we have no government must be organized."

have no government now, and it is of urgent necessity that one should be formed. It is true, the Emperor is only sixty-one years old; but he bears the weight of a great deal of toil and of a great many cares. His life has been and of a great many cares. His life has been agitated, laborious, auxious. Events have thrown on him the fatigues of office, and he has not always refused the fatigue of pleasure. What would there be astonishing it his robust but tired constitution were no longer equal to the cuties thrown on him by the daily handling and daily detail of business. And it this toreseen, this almost inevitable weakness occurred at the very moment when the nation awoke, when a new life animated all the institutions of government, would it not be wise, prudent, politic to relieve as soon as possible the executive power of all would it not be wise, prudent, points to relieve as soon as possible the executive power of all the duties which are not indispensable, and to summon every class of the country to share a responsibility which has become too heavy and too crushing for a single person? Those who speak of trai and experiment, and especially those who hope the experiment will not succeed, and who talk of "giving the army the floor," in suspect passing events or events in prepara-tion. It is necessary that the experiment shall succeed; the essay must turn out well, other-wise we go on towards a revolution as certain wise we go on towards a revolution as certain as if it had actually begun."

He then goes on to say that the Senatus Consultum of the 17th July, 1856, provided for a regency, meets the contingency of the Emperor's death. But this solution, "whose legality cannot be questioned, has not the virtue of giving confidence to every person." He expresses fears that the Empress may be overincined to yield to the advice of the clergy, and he questions if a woman's hand would prove strong enough to held the helm during the stormy crisis of a change of reign."

Prince Napoleon as regent in the Empress' place. I do not believe that the Empress would consent to this measure. It would, too, be opposed by MM. Rouher, De Lavalette, Baroche, Drouyn de Lhuys and De Pereigny. M. Picard (the deputy) urges the immediate convocation of a Constituent Assembly, and Le Temps supports the proposition. It is believed that the Emperor, personally, is inclined to abdicate and accept the place of regent under his son, and leave the Empress regent at his death, with instructions to her to confide, like the Queen of England, in the ministry selected by the Legislative Chamber.

M. Emile de Girardin, after saying the French Emperor must frequently have asked himself: "Should I die prematurely, how may the sceptre go from my hands into those of my son? Would France, which introduced the Salic law, accept, without resistance, the regency of a woman? Would Trance, which, in less than a century, has victoriously hoisted the flag of three revolutions, and twice preclaimed the republic, admit without opposition that its honor, liberty, power, and prosperity should be confided to a government of a boy? In what form will this resistance, this opposition appear?" adds that the new smendments to the constitution will be the end of the In what form will this resistance, this tion appear?" adds that the new sme to the constitution will be the end of the present Emperor's reign, unless they prove the the beginning of a new reign.

Mr. William Howitt writes to the News that, so far from Mrs. Stowe being the sole repository of this story, Lady Byron had a weakness of inflicting it upon most of her lady friends; but they, more discreet, died without making themselves ridiculous by publishing it. John Robartson confirms this statement, mentioning the Rev. Frederick Robertson as one to whom Lady Byron had related this tale. Her narrations and memoranda, Mr. Robertson says, were given away right and left, but the recipients considered her mind touched.

CHARLES LAFAYETTE VS. HENRY W. KINSMAN et ux.-False imprisonment, $99 103-00 damages. In Tort.—The evidence shows in the first place LAFAYETTE was arrested, by whom is not known. It is true, that the magistrate knew of his own knowledge, and both counsel were aware that the magistrate knew that LAFAYETIE had been arrested on a warrant issued under the hand and seal of L. BUNCH, magistrate, and on a paper rofessing to be an affidavit of Mrs. E. W. KINS-MAN, which paper was not signed by her; the reading of that paper, which was not in evidence, shows that Mrs. KINSMAN, if she did make the undersigned statement, believed, from the position of the said LAFAYETTE towards herself, that he was the only person who could have taken the watch and chain. LAFAYETTE, on a cross exemination, testified that he knew when the chain was bro ken, and that he was Mrs. KINSMAN'S only servant and that he had free access to her bedroom, and that Mrs. KINSMAN had no malice against him at the time of the arrest. If this paper is not taken in evidence, then the said LAFAYETTE himself testified that Mrs. KINSMAN did not arrest him, and, therefore, the suit falls to the ground. If the paper is taken as evidence, it is a question, in my mind, whether Mrs. KINSMAN could be held for the action of the magis trate, inasmuch as she made no affidavit. This question, however, it is not my duty to consider. In cases of this kind, malice and absence of reasons ble and probable cause are necessary to sustain the suit. (Section 1, T. R., p. 544-24 Howard, p. 544-Bill on Torts, vol. 1, p. 416.) Both elements are wanting under the testimony of LAFAYETTE him self; this being my opinion, it is not necessary for me to consider how far the husband is liable for the tort of his wife. AG A CARD-SOUTHERN LIFE INSUR-ANCE COMPANY, ATLANTA DEPARTMENT. To the People of South Carolina: The above Company was organized in 1866, in consequence of the wholesale forfeiture of Southern policies by Northern companies. The unparalleled success of the enterprise has forced several of these companies to restore their Southern policies, from the fact that they could not operate in our midst without the appearance of honesty." We keep all our money at home to build up our impoverished country-every dollar of premium being safely invested in the State from which it is derived. The institution is purely Southern, and hence should appeal with great force to the patriotism and

'Tis not our purpose to make war on other companies, but to exhibit the special advantages offered by this purely Southern Company-founded on patriotism and solid wealth. Its ratio of assets to liabilities-the true test of a company's strength-is second to none on this continent, being nearly $300

Whenever and wherever we have presented the claims of this Company, it has not only enlisted the sympathies of our people, but has also secured their hearty co-operation. We have secured 600 policies in South Carolina since the 10th of February. We number among our Directors General Wade Hampton and Colonel Wm. Johnston, gentlemen well known to every citizen of South Carolina. We appeal personally to the people of South Carolina to assist in pushing forward this deservedly popular J. H. MILLER. THE ATTENTION OF TAXPAYERS IS RESPECT-FULLY invited to the tollowing "Circular," address ed to County Treasurers, which is published by this office for the information of the public. REUBEN TOWLINSON, State Auditor.

> OFFICE OF AUDITOR OF STATE, COLUMBIA, S. C., October 1, 1869. -, County Treasurer.

SIR-In a circular letter, dated August 23, you were instructed not to attach the penalty imposed upon delinquent taxpayers until you received orders from this office to do so. I am aware that the season at which taxes became due this year has made it burdensome for a large number of taxpayers to meet secret of beauty. No lady need complain of her the demands of the government. According with complexion who will invest 75 cents in this delight- the approval of the Governor, extensions of the time for the collection of taxes have been made to the full extent of the authority conferred by law. In order to give ample time to all who wish to pay their taxes, it has been decided to extend the time for the collection of taxes to the 15th of the present month. It is believed that by that time all who depend upon the sale of crops to meet their taxes, will have made satisfactory arrangements.

You are, therefore, instructed to proceed against I am, very respectfully,

Your obedient servant, REUBEN TOMLINSON, State Andstor. Auction Sales.
