PRESONAL .- Mr. J. E. Brittou, of the Charisite Bulletin, is now at the Pavilion Hotel, and will represent the advertising claims of that jouraal to this community.

The Rev. F. L. Brantley, travelling agent and correspondent of the Augusta Chronicle and Sentinel, is now in this city, and will visit our merchants in behalf of that journal.

SOUTH CAROLINA RAILEDAD STOCK IN NEW Yenk .- We have seen a letter from a large bankng house in New York, to a gentleman in this city, in regard to South Carolina Railroad stock. The writer says that there is much inquiry for the stock, but no sellers. The holders have made up their minds that the stock will advance, and some believe that by July 1st, it will sell as high as 75. Verily ! the eyes of Gothum are wide open.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE.-Mr. Hutson Lee sold, yesterday, at the old Postoffice, a rice, cotton, and provision plantation in St. Thomas' Parish, known as Northampton, and containing 972 acres, for $1575.

A plantation in the same parish, on the French Quarter Creek, and known as Spring Hill, containing 735 acres, for $2200. The terms, in each instance, were one-fourth cash and the balance in

THE MAPES' PHOSPATE seems to be not only holding its own, but is confessed to be superior to many of the fertilizers now thrown upon the market. In another column we present to our readers statements from experienced planters, showing the results accruing from a careful comparison of the effects of the different fertilizers on the crops. Figures have a remarkable character for veracity, and the statements furnished are worthy of a present careful study and future application of Mapes' Phosphate.

GERMAN FIRE COMPANY .- At the anniversary meeting of this company, the following mempers were elected officers for the ensuing year: J. H. Albers, president; J. Bruning, first vice-president; H. H. Von Eitzen, second vice-president; Gerhard Riccke, secretary; Wm. Brunjes, treasurer; F. J. Lilienthal, first director; H. Wohlken, 8:35nd director; J. Wittpen, third director; J. HHAVY COCK FIGHT. - SOUTH CAROLINA AGAINST ALABAMA.-We learn from the Augusta Constitutionalist that Colonel Thomas G. Bacon, of Edgefield, S. C., and Dr. Gee, of Selma, Ala., have arranged for the array of twenty-one cocks each, on the 22d instant, at the Lafayette race course, near Augusta, Ga., to test the fighting qualities of the game fowls of the respective States. Of the number shown, all matches made will be fought for a stake of $100, with a stake of $1.00 laid upon the main. A large attendance of the patrons of the pit is expected to witness this contest for the belt.

AN EXCELLENT STOCK COMPANY .- It is the unanimons verdict of all who attend the Academy of Music that the stock company new supporting Mr. Warner is not only the best that has been gathered together in any Southern theatre for years, but that it will compare most favorably with the strongest companies to be found on the Metropolitan stage. The writer of this paragraph, a fortnight ago, saw the tragedy of Hamlet, as produced at Booth's splendid theatre in New York; and though the scenery and costumes were of that superb character that only a run of a single play through many weeks could justify, the conviction forced itself upon his mind, that the support given to Mr. Booth by the other characters in the east was in no respect better, and in some particulars decidedly more weak, than that received by Mr. Warner, in the same play, from the company we now have with us. The company goes to Savannah at the close of the present week, so that there will be but RAILROAD MATTERS IN GEORGIA.-The Augusta Constitutionalist says: "Meetings of the directors of the Augusta and Hartwell and Barnwell Railroad Companies were held in this city on Monday. From the reports made to the severa boards, the early completion of these roads can be safely expected. The Chronicle states that the Georgia Railroad Company have decided to postpone action upon the proposal to lease the Port Royal Railroad until next May, when it will be placed before the stockholders of the company, who will meet there in convention during that month.

LOSS OF THE SCHOONER ELIZA PIKE .- The schooner Eliza Pike, Captain Larkin, which was cleared from this port on the 3d instant, for Philadelphia, by Messrs. J. & T. The vessel remained at anchor a part of the night, when the water gained so rapidly, increasing from four feet to six in the hold, that she was got under way and run on the southern end of Long Island beach to keep her from sinking. The pilot boat Mystery went to her aid in the morning, and took part of her canvas, rope and other movables, and brought them and the officers and crew to the city yesterday afternoon. The Eliza Pike is a new vessel built last year at Eastport, Me., and is about 250 tons. It is thought that if a steam pump and estatance could be immediately secured. that she might be got off.

It seems that some trifling complaint was lodged with the black lowing circumstances : On the evening of the 25th ult., a negro constable named Ball, who is in Logan's employ, appeared on Mr. Ferabec's place, and, exhibiting a writ, arrested him in the name of the State. Mr. Perabee urged that he had been quire sick for two days, and was not in a fit conition to venture out that evening, and he asked that the matter might be delayed until morning. This being refused, he ordered his horse, when the black constable informed him that he would have to walk unless he would furnish transportation so that both could ride. Mr. Ferabee's buggy was accordingly got ready, and they started The night was dark and rainy, and the mud in many places was up to the axles. On their way they were obliged to cross a canal, which was so swollen that the horse was forced to swim, and both constable and prisoner, leaping from their converance, kept themselves affoat by holding on to the buggy. They finally arrived at Logan's about 11 o'clock at night, when the prisoner was coolly informed by that functionary that he could go home, as he would not be wanted nutil another time. Mr. Perabee remonstrated against the treatment he had received, and asked for quar ters until morning, as he was utterly unable again to face the in dement night. Holmes & Calder, about three months since, and put in operation for the first time yesterday. The works are located in Cumberland street opposite the coal yard of Messrs. H. F. Baker & Co., and are in a large building formerly used as a cooper's workshop. The increasing demand for white leads, paints and colors, induced Messrs. Holmes & Calder to establish a factory of their own where better material could be furnished and at better prices than that obtained from the North. SOUTH CAROLINA INSTITUTE. IMPORTANT MEETING OF MEMBERS AND

Contemplating this laudable object, and desiring to in-pure a generous emulation among our people, the co-operation and sympathy in behalf of the efforts of the Institute is solicited from all quarters.
Your counsel and cheerful encouragement will infuse energy and spirit among those who are striving and giving their time to promote the wel-fare of all classes. The chairman then proceeded to show how suc cessful a fair had been held in Columbia without any mone; to commence with, and how before the war the institute had always been enabled to pay its expenses by the proceeds of the fairs, and he thought the same thing could be done again. The chairman then stated that it had been re solved by the board of directors to invite the cooperation of the Josky Club and the Charleston County Agricultural and Horticultural Society, in the movement for holding a fair, and said that, If any delegation was present from these bodies.

he would be happy to hear from them. Major Vardell, on behalf of the Charleston County Agricultural and Horticultural Society pledged their hearty co-operation. The chairman stated for the information of persons, not members of the institute who might be present, that before the war the society numbered about 200 life members and 1000 annual members, but that all the papers had been lest when the hall was burnt, but all life members could still claim the privilege, and others could become life members on payment of $10, or annual members on pay-

Colonel B. F. Evans stated that he had visited both the South Carolina State Fair at Columbia and the Georgia State Fair at Macon, in Novemher last, and said that he was satisfied that if the merchants and other business men of Charleston would realize the practical benefit a large fair would be to the city, they would at once set to work with all their energy to promote that object. He said that at the fair in Macon, there were sometimes as many as 20,000 people on the fair grounds at one time, and that not only was every vehicle of every description pressed into service to convey the people to and from the fair grounds, but that two trains of cars, of twenty cars each, were run every half hour, and they were always so packed as to endanger life and limb. The benefits to be derived from such an assemblage of citizens, not only to the city, but to the State, would suggest themselves at once to every thinking man.

General W. G. DeSaussure then offered the fol lowing resolution:

Resolved. That the members of the South Carolina Institute approve of the determination of the board of directors to hold a fair in Charleston on the 15th of November next, and will concur with and sid the board in all the steps necessary for the accomplishment of such purpose.

In support of the resolution General DeSaus sure made a lengthy and effective speech, setting forth the resources of the society and the motives that induced the board to come to the deter mination, in which they now asked the concur rence of the society at large. The board had labored earnestly for two years to resuscitate the society, and are now determined to make one grand effort, which, if it failed, it would be because there was not life enough in the community to sustain them. after in planning a great fair. 1st. A large area where ploughing matches, and other trials of skill requiring much room, could take place. 2d. Stables to shelter horses and cattle. 3d. Large and substantial buildings to hold articles put on exhibition. The two first had been kindly put within the reach of the Institute by the Jockey Club, who had consented to allow them the use of the Washington Race Course, and stables thereon, and the third he thought was within the means of the society, which, he believed, could raise $8000 on its property, quite enough to put up good buildings. For premiums and other transient expenses, he thought it was safe to depend on the liberality of the community and the proceeds of the fair. He estimated that the whole expenses of the fair, first and last, on a liberal scale, would be about $15,000, and the experience of other fairs showed that more than that sam would be realized from it. The South Carolina Agricultural and Mechanical Society had a surplus from their last fair of about $ :000, and the Georgia society had a surplus of over $20,000. This society aimed at no surplus, but merely wished to pay expenses. laying out all the money is received for the benefit of the people at large.

The resolution was then put and unanimously carried. Hou. W. D. Porter congratulated the society on the adoption of the resolution, as it rendered the holding of a fair on Washington Race Course, next November, a fixed fact. It was a pleasant thing to contemplate. His heart thrilled with emotion on every occasion like the present, when he was called on to meet again the old familiar faces he had all his life been accustomed to see when engaged in any effort for the good of his native city and State, and the fair which they contemplated was but another such reunion, only on a larger scale. The Columbia and Macon fairs were successful, because men were glad to seize an onnortunity of meeting their old friends once more and discussing with them the great events which had occurred since they had met before, and to shake hands with those who carried their hearts in their hands. Our fair would be successful for the same reason. Our people are anxious to see each other. In conclusion, Mr. Porter said that he had been irresistibly impelled to make these remarks, which had no direct bearing on the re solution which he had to offer, but would nevertheless indirectly illustrate the motive which led him to make it. He then introduced the following esolution :

Resolved, That the president of the South Caro-Hua Institute be requested to invite delegations from the various county agricultural and me-chanical societies, and immigration societies throughout the State, to assemble in Charleston on the first Tuesday in May next, to take into consideration the questions of labor and immigra-tion, and means for the further development of the agricultural interests of the State.

The object of appointing the first Tuesday in May for the convention is to make it convenient and cheap for the delegates, as an adjourned meeting of the stockholders of the South Carolina Railroad Company will be held on that day, and the fare will be reduced.

Colonel J. D. Aiken spoke in support of the resolution, and said that if any doubts had hitherto been felt about the success of the fair, they must now vanish. For himself, he could never think of it except as a great success. He thought that, without any exaggeration, at least thirty thousand strangers might be expected to attend. In the immediate neighborhood of the great City of New York, where not one man in a thousand knew of a fair going on, he had seen a large one that was crowded for thirty days, and that hundreds of the exhibitors had asked him whether there was any opportunity for them to show and sell their wares at the South. The benefits, direct and indirect, to be derived from a great fair, not
